Little Benny's Note Book

le and pop were in the living om waiting for ma to tell us pper was reddy, and pop said m fermly convinced that prac- al jokes are the lowest form humor, and I am even more mly convinced that a man uld never act contrary to his nvictions. And yet at this very ment some imp of perversity tempting me to tie a knott in ur mother's hankerchiff there the table, and I feel myself akening. It just goes to show t we are all playthings of Fate d our actions are dictated by some higher power, or in this case some lower power, he said.

And he tied a knott in the corner of ma's handkerchiff, and in a minute ma came in saying, Supper is served, gentlemen.

Meening me and pop, and she picked up her handkerchiff, saying, Now what did I tie this knott to remind me of? Oh yes, Maud and Yewstace Hews are coming tonite instead of tomorrow, William, so I'm afraid you'll have to forgo your Wensday evening bowling for this once, she said.

The dooce you say, pop said. Call them up and tell them the truth, that you forgot to tell me that will teetch you a lesson. I'll teetch you to rely on your own naturel memory instead of on unnaturel knotts, he said, and ma said, No. I'd rather teetch you a lesson. You cant fool all of the people all of the time, especially me. I knew very well I'd never of tied a knott in my freshly laundered hankerchiff. So prepare to injoy your supper, William, the Hewses aren't coming, and you can bowl yourself stiff, as usual, she said.

And she laffed like anything to prove the joke was on pop, and she laffed about 3 more times during supper to keep on proving it.

Churchill Confirms Speculation On Eden's Position as No. 2 Man

London, June 22 — (CP) — Winston Churchill has confirmed what most people thought — that Anthony Eden is the Conservative party's No. 2 man.

It has always been taken more or less for granted that Eden placed second in the Tory line of succession. Now, for the first time, Churchill has gone on record as saying so.

In a speech to Conservative women at Albert Hall, Churchill defined his relations with Eden in these words:

"If we have any differences, we thrash them out. I should not take any important step in public life, nor do I, without consulting this most able and distinguished man, who will carry on the torch of Progressive Conservatism when other and older hands have let it fall."

For some reason — he is not so spectacular as some of his colleagues — Eden is one of the handful of politicians whose names are known around the world. People instinctively trust him. He comes from the upper classes, but of the type defined by one biographer as that which has made Britain the country of political change and political stability.

In the last few months his prestige has gradually risen. It is probably as high today as it has ever been. Many among the correspondents in the parliamentary press gallery consider that a Conservative party headed by Eden might do better at the polls than one headed by the commanding, but more controversial, Churchill.

A different twist on the same argument has it that there are deep differences between Winston Churchill and Eden on how the Conservative party should be run. But in his Albert Hall speech Churchill said:

"Don't you believe the nonsense of some writers in the newspapers about confusion and differences between Mr. Eden and myself."

Woman Member Of House Critical Of Liberal M.P.'s

Ottawa, June 22—(CP)—Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West) says that some Liberals in the Commons indulge in schoolboy tactics and act "like 10-year-olds."

The recently-elected only woman member in the House last night told the annual meeting of the Carleton county Progressive Conservative Association:

"It is an alarming situation to find that men who have assumed a seat in the House of Commons should soon forget their responsibility to the people who sent them there."

Mrs. Fairclough attended the meeting with George Drew, national Progressive Conservative leader.

She said she came to Ottawa expecting to see many unusual things.. What she actually witnessed "hit me with some force."

Liberal members, who filled the majority of the Commons seats, either were absent from the House or "indulging in schoolboy tactics, acting like 10-year-olds."

Mr. Drew said the distribution of seats in the Commons had no relationship to the proportionate support shown by the voters in last year's election.

Despite the huge majority of the Liberals, that party had received "just less than half the votes."

"If anything was needed to give evidence of the strength and vitality of our party, it was given in the results of the last six by-elections in the last few months—four of them won by Conservatives."

Premier Will Hear Civil Servants' Wage Request

Chatham, June 22 (CP) —Representatives of the Ontario Civil Service Association will be given a hearing by Premier Frost in Toronto Tuesday on their request for wage increases, cost-of-living bonus and a five-day 40-hour week.

This information was given to 120 civil service delegates from Windsor, London, Stratford, St. Thomas, Woodstock and Chatham at a meeting here last night.

Publicity to the effect that the government pays the worst wages in the province brought about the conference last night, said P. G. Gunning, vice-president.

Mr. Gunning said the association has a membership of 10,000 and there had been phenominal growth in the last few days.

"Mr. Frost will not be able to ignore us this time," he said.

THROATS BURNED

Newark, N.J., June 22 (AP) — "Mommy, we ate some candy and our throats are burning," said Sharon Pierce, 4, and her sister Linda 3. In hospital, they were reported in fair condition today. Their "candy' was pill sized fireworks known variously as snakes, sooners' eggs and pharaoh's serpents. When ignited they resemble small, wriggling snakes.

Iraqi Jews Leave Great Wealth Behind to Seek Entry into Israel

Tel Aviv, Israel, June 22 (AP) —Some of the wealthiest Jews in the world, straight out of the legendary site of the Garden of Eden, are flocking into Israel, practically "dead broke".

Jews from Iraq are arriving in Israel at the rate of 8,000 to 10,000 monthly. A total of 120,000 may come within the next 16 or 18 months. They are forced to leave behind homes and business holdings valued at hundreds of millions of dollars.

Almost Penniless

These people from the Biblical cradle of the human race arrive in Israel with about 60 pounds of personal baggage and the equivalent of about $15.

These Jews are abandoning outright or selling for virtually nothing properties built up in one of the oldest (2,600 years) and richest communities in the world. Immigration agencies have estimated the value of properties in Iraq of 30,000 Jewish families alone at 16,000,000 dinars. A dinar is worth $3.10.

There are 100 families with fortunes of 150,000 dinars each; 50 families are registered with properties worth 300,000 dinars each. Much of their wealth is in homes, schools, synagogues and business properties.

Leaving this wealth behind doesn't seem to disturb the incoming Iraqi immigrant. He beams happily upon reaching Ledda airport. Some kiss the soil of Israel. Others kneel in prayer on the airfield.

All seem anxious to get here in a hurry for the Iraqi government has set a time limit on the registration for those who want to come to Israel.

It is an unusual operation, for Israel still is technically at war with Iraq.

400-Mile Detour

The Iraqis require planes loaded with Jews to clear for Nicosia, Cyprus. Then the aircraft have to turn around and fly over to Israel. It is an expensive operation, for by going first to Cyprus the planes fly a 400-mile detour.

The flow of the Iraqi Jews increases still further the tremendous job of the Israeli government in finding places for immigrants to live and provide them jobs.

ROSSMORE

Rossmore—Mrs. A. Breach was entertained at a stork shower Monday night. Several of her friends assembled at the home of Mrs. J. Kropinak and spent a pleasant evening at cards.

She was then presented with a beautifully decorated basket which contained many pretty and useful gifts. Mrs. Breach thanked each one; and a social hour was spent. Delightful refreshments were served by the hostess. Friends of Violet are glad to welcome her as a resident in the community.

W. A.

Tuesday afternoon the ladies of Rossmore W.A. met at the home of Mrs. C. Reddick. A good attendance made the meeting interesting. Mrs. B. Clapp won the prizes offered. The lucky ticket on the hooked rug, made and donated by Mrs. Featherstone was drawn and claimed by Mrs. W. Ross.

The hostess assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Kropinak and Mrs. Yome of Belleville, served bountiful refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

The regular euchre was held at the home of Mrs. Root on Wednesday night.

Beyond The Law

Mary Imlay Taylor

O'Hara writhed. "Hush! Don't speak of her in that loud a tone—she—listen, I must speak to you alone—" His tone was passionate, his eyes glazed with fever; even his lips were parched.

Gayle saw it and began to think the man out of his head, so humored him, bending nearer. "What is it, old chap? Don't worry, I'll take her back with me, I'm only waiting for the doctor. She says he's coming back about your head. I can't leave you alone here, see?"

O'Hara caught at that. "No, you can't leave me alone. Stay until I'm better, Gayle, for God's sake. As soon as I can go I'll get to the post. I must see the inspector—" He choked, catching his breath and seizing his comrade's arm with a shaking left hand. "Gayle, I've made a terrible mistake, I've accused an innocent woman!"

Gayle laid a kindly hand on his shoulder. "Be quiet, old chap! You'll injure yourself. It's all right. You'll only have to prove it. I'll stay right here. She's making broth for you now, isn't she?" He glanced through the open door into the outer room, where Laure had busied herself. "It'll be all right. The chief thinks a lot of you. Let it go at that until you're better."

O'Hara uttered cryptic and incoherent things below his breath. "You think I'm out of my head, Gayle. I can see that. I'm not! I'm that devilish thing, a manhunter. I had no mercy— you know the game? We all play it, proud of our score, proud because we've run down some poor wretch and sent him to his death! I went to work and wove a web, I caught her in it. I've written it all down for the inspector. Of course he believed it, as I've done good work before, but it's all a lie, a damnable bunch of lies. I swear she's innocent. I'd stake my immortal soul on it!'

Gayle looked at the raving man with something like an ironic smile upon his lips.

O'Hara caught the look and gasped, "you don't believe me?"

Gayle smiled, this time broadly. "She's mighty pretty, O'Hara.

O'Hara groaned. "Oh God, this is my just punishment! I'm caught in my own web. I tell you, Gayle she's innocent. You can't touch her. She goes free! Go back and tell the chief I'm a liar and a fool; I've laid a snare for the helpless and the innocent. She's not Gharian's slayer."

Gayle tried to stop him, touching his shoulder warningly. The woman was busy over the stove, the red glow of the fire shining upon the pale perfect oval of her face. She did not look up. No wonder O'Hara had lost his head, thought Gayle; she was a lovely creature, and surely she did not look the part of a murderess!

He leaned toward his comrade and whispered. "If she's innocent, O'Hara, who is guilty? You checked up on young Creuse and found he was in Churchill the day of the killing."

O'Hara seemed to brush the haze of fever from his eyes, he was straining every nerve to be calm. "I may have been wrong in that. I've been a fool all through! I want time to check up on Creuse again. That's why I want to see the inspector— to beg for time! I believe it must have been Creuse, he had the motive, he'd made threats, he may have shot his sister in sheer rage because she had been here to nurse Gharian. If I have time enough—"

Gayle interjected good naturedly. "The chief will give you all the time you want, but you'll have to wipe out your own work, old chap. He was mightily taken with your report. Thinks its a fine bit of work. Besides, he got Johnson to admit he saw this woman in full flight that day. The chief thinks Johnson shot up his own arm rather than run down a woman. You remember Johnson made a mistake about that woman at Fort Smith, and ever since then he—"

O'Hara broke in harshly. "I tell you it's all a lie, a damnable lie! She's innocent. If you attempt to arrest her, I—by God, I'll shoot you!"

Gayle looked at him with consuming pity. "His head's bad," he thought, "and this woman's been kind and patient. She looks it." But aloud. "It's all right, O'Hara. I'm not going to butt in on your case, but stay here until you can go. That'll keep this lady under surveillance, you see without hurting her feelings. My orders were to bring her in, but the chief'll understand that your injury caused delay, and you're still on the job. That let's me out easy see?"

O'Hara nodded; he was spent and weak with the struggle to undo his own work, and his head ached. He knew too, that Gayle was at heart, unconvinced. "You you don't believe Creuse did it?" he said slowly.

Gayle smiled. "You cleared him pretty well, old chap."

O'Hara's eyes narrowed. "Suppose there's another suspect, a man who might well have done it in wild rage and who was here that day?"

The other started. He knew O'Hara was the keenest manhunter in the service, he had the highest record, never before had he shown doubt or pity.

"That is a horse of another color! Something new, then? What man?"

"Jacques Duval, the halfbreed. He adores the ground Mrs. Gharian walks on because she saved his young wife. It was his dog train that brought her here. He was her companion. If he found Gharian infatuated with this young nurse, knew he'd been a brute to his wife—well, he shot them both!"

"If? Then you're not clear on that?"

"She won't incriminate Duval; she's too tender-hearted."

"But if he killed her husband."

"Gharian richly deserved killing. She'd left him years ago, and only came here to visit the grave of her child."

Gayle laughed. "It gets around to making her a material witness anyway."

"They were shot outside the cabin; she didn't know until it was too late."

"She's told you this?"

"I tell you she won't incriminate the halfbreed—"

"Oh, see here, O'Hara, you're making yourself ill; you're in a fever again. Let this thing rest, I'll get Duval. We'll hold him anyway. I—"

"Pardon, m'sieur, but you make my patient ill indeed. You've talked too long, and I must feed him now. He must sleep."

At the sound of her soft voice both men turned startled. Laure stood there, silhouetted against the light, a tray of food in her hands. Gayle made way for her, his face reddening under her calm eyes, but he saw her bend over O'Hara, holding his bowl of broth and talking to him softly, her very presence an influence for peace.

Gayle turned his back a strange tightening in his throat. "It's a darned rotten job to run down a woman anyway," he muttered to himself, going into the outer room to stare out of the window.

It grew late now, the wind was singing overhead as the gale rose and clouds were piling up in the north.

"More snow," Gayle prophesied. Then, hearing a soft movement in the room, he turned sharply and found the woman standing there, looking gravely at him. "M'sieur Police," she said quietly. "I heard what you said just now—I couldn't help it — about Jacques Duval. My patient here is half delirious, m'sieur, has been so ever since he struck his head in a fall. If he accused Duval of—of killing Ninon Creuse and my husband, it is a mistake. Duvals innocent. I'll prove that when the time comes."

"You're sure, madame?"

"I swear it, m'sieur, by all I hold most sacred."

Gayle stood looking at her; she lifted fearless eyes to his. "I know why you came, M'sieur Police," she went on in her low even voice. "You came for me."

Gayle nodded. "O'Hara wants to clear you. He accuses Creuse and this man Duval. If you clear the halfbreed—"

THEFT OF MILK INTENSIFIES HUNT FOR SLAYER

Fraser R. Smashes Dike at Port Mann, 200 Leave Homes

Elsewhere in Flood Area Situation is Not Serious

Vancouver, June 23—(CP)—The Fraser River, swollen by a night of rain, smashed its way through a small dike at Port Mann today, forcing 150 to 200 persons to evacuate their homes.

Port Mann is a Canadian National Railways divisional point, 20 miles east of here on the south bank of the river. The village has a population of about 300.

The district is outside the main network of dikes on the Fraser River, but a small dike, one-quarter of a mile long, protects low-lying land on its outkirts.

The evacuation order and the call for volunteers to bolster the dike came shortly after 4 a.m.

The swollen Fraser broke through a rain-weakened spot, cutting a 35 to 40 feet passageway for the flood waters.

Not Too Serious

"The situation is not too serious," said a police spokesman directing the evacuation. "Most of the houses in the district are on high ground."

Elsewhere in the 100-mile long Fraser Valley dikes were holding and the situation was reported as "unchanged".

Most serious flood threat was at Trail. The industrial city's main street and low-lying residential areas are in the path of Columbia River flood waters.

The death toll in the eighth day of the floods stood at three today. The victims were two boys and a man, drowned in turbulent waters.

Trail, 250 miles east of Vancouver and home of the consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, Ltd., has a population of nearly 13,000.

Elsewhere in British Columbia the flood situation was under control, but the 1950 flood death toll has climbed to three.

At Trail, a dike front will be extended today along one side of Bay Avenue, in an attempt to keep the street open. It is part of the southern trans - provincial highway and leads to the east Trail bridge which connects East Trail and Trail proper.

The Columbia climbed 1.17 feet in 24 hours and was still going up. The Kootenay River, which joins the Columbia at Castlegar, 20 miles north of Trail, also was rising.

At Lower Riverside, a threatened residential section, homes were anchored by cables to prevent them from being torn away.

CONVICTED OF POISONING

Covington, Ind. June 23—(AP)—Mrs. Ellen Osborn was convicted of first-degree murder last night in the arsenic death of her husband.

A jury found the 39-year-old farm woman guilty of giving the poison to her husband, Amandus Osborn, 49, last Christmas Day. He died the next day.

Sentencing was set for Saturday.

The state said Mrs. Osborn had fallen in love with a 30-year-old apple picker.

CITIZENSHIP ACT WILL BE CHANGED SAYS MINISTER

Ottawa, June 23 (CP) — A series of changes to Canada's Citizenship Act were proposed last night in the Commons by Citizenship Minister Harris.

The changes, already passed by the senate,. would:

1. Make clear that a child born on a Canadian airplane, as is the case with ships, is a Canadian by birth.

2. Exclude from the status of natural-born Canadian citizens the children born in Canada of parents in the diplomatic or consular service of foreign governments.

3. Enable Canadian women who lost their citizenship through marriage to an alien prior to Jan. 1, 1947, to regain Canadian citizenship.

4. Enable Canadians who became naturalized in a foreign country and who returned to Canada to spend the rest of their lives to regain their citizenship after one year.

5. Permit the granting of Canadian citizenship to adopted or legitimate children if the adopter, or the legally-recognized father, is a Canadian citizen.

6. Bring the act into line with constitutional developments in India and Pakistan and give the term "commonwealth citizen" the same meaning as "British subject."

7. Give citizens of the Republic of Ireland the same status as that enjoyed by British subjects in Canada.

8. Permit, in the case of a Canadian who deliberately acquires nationality in an enemy country, a discretion that either he be held to his responsibilities as a Canadian citizen, or that he be deprived of such citizenship.

Mr. Harris said that a number of other changes, mainly of a technical and administrative nature, are planned to clarify the act in the light of experience since it came into force Jan. 1, 1947.

The bill was quickly given second reading.

Howard Green (PC — Vancouver-Quadra) asked if a section of the bill gave the minister the power to revoke the Canadian citizenship of Canadians of Japanese origin who fought with Japan against the Allies in the Second World War. He said there is a concerted move to get some of these men back to Canada.

Mr. Harris said he did not have the power to revoke the citizenship of those Canadians "who fought against us" in the Second World War. But he adjourned debate to study Mr. Green's suggestion.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, June 23 (CP)—Synopsis: Showers and thundershowers are occurring over Northern Ontario this morning but skies are clear over the remainder of the province. An intense storm moving eastward over Manitoba, associated with a broad pressure trough extending southward to Texas, is resulting in a brisk flow of very warm and humid air across the central United States into Ontario. Scattered showers and thunderstorms will occur over most of the province today and Saturday.

Cooler air, moving eastward from the prairies, will spread into Northern Ontario on Saturday but little change in temperature is expected over southern regions before Sunday.

$300,000 FIRE DESTROYS STEEL PLANT AT TILBURY

Factory Owned By Hudson Car Co.

Tilbury, June 23 — (CP) Fire today destroyed plant no 1 of Chatco Steel Products Ltd., Canadian manufacturer for the Hudson Motor Car Company.

Harold Shannon, Chatco president, said in Toronto the damage amounted to $300,000. Firemen's estimates ranged up to $500,000. Mr. Shannon said the loss was insured.

Plant No. 1, a woodworking plant, was the oldest and smallest of Chatco's five Tilbury units.

The fire will have no effect on any but woodworking operations, Mr. Shannon said. A "great deal" of raw material was saved and immediate arrangements were made to transfer the woodworking operation to another plant.

The fire broke out about 3:25 a.m. Two hours later only the outside walls remained standing.

Tilbury is about 18 miles southwest of Chatham, a city in southwestern Ontario.

The fire was first noticed near the boiler room close to the central part of the one-storey plant, the company's woodworking shop. Witnesses said that within five minutes the entire structure was ablaze.

The cause of the fire had not been established several hours later, a member of the staff of the Ontario Fire Mashal's office said the blaze apparently started near a large generator in a mill room.

Roy Wilton, night watchman at the plant, said later that he smelled smoke, and, investigating, discovered a small fire in the mill room. Within a few moments the building was filled with flames, he said.

Calls For Help

Tilbury Fire Department sent out a call for help. The Chatham brigade, led by Fire Chief George Kennedy, and the neighboring departments from Tillbury West and Comber under Chief Raymond Markham responded.

The Comber firefighters were credited with saving the March-and Furnace Company's plants No. 1 and No. 2 across the New York Central Railway tracks from Chatco and less than 200 feet away from the razed factory.

One of the spectators was F. C. Anderson, Guelph representative of the Ontario Fire Marshal. He has been in Chatham for a week, training new firemen.

Cause Not Known

The damage estimate was made by firefighters at the scene. There was no immediate announcement concerning the loss from company officials, nor was the cause established at once.

Herman Robert, one of the first persons to reach the scene, said he heard a blast on the plant's whistle after the blaze was discovered by night watchman Roy Wilton.

Two Ontario Hydro Commission workmen suffered burned hands while assisting firemen. Dutch Cushman of Appin and Bill Marks of Orillia grasped a red hot iron fence for support when one of the boilers blew up. Cushman and Marks have been working on a hydro project in this district.

Many Divorces, Crimes May be Due To Mental Effects of Sleeping Sickness

London, June 23 — (Reuters) — Many divorces and crimes of violence may be due to the mental effects of sleeping sickness, a leading British psychiatrist suggested today.

Dr. Geoffrey Tooth, who spent two years in the African Gold Coast investigating the disease, advised doctors to look first for mental symptoms of the disease.

In many cases, Tooth's report to the Colonial Office suggested, first evidence of sleeping sickness is a change in mental pattern. There may be depression, weeping, talkativeness, mischieveousness, impulsive acts of aggression or gross lunacy.

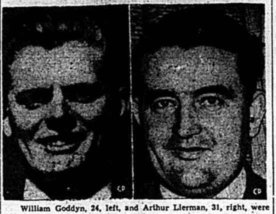
In nine months' work devoted to the subject — part of a wider investigation of mental illness in the Gold Coast — Tooth examined 282 patients and made a check for comparison with 59 patients suffering from another disease.

He reported that the majority of advanced cases "show a simple dementia, they are happy, talkative and inclined to be mischievous, for the most part dirty and careless in their habits; they take their place in village society as professional beggars and nuisances."

Tooth cited the case of a staid farmer, member of the Presbyterian Church, who specialized in telling "funny stories" after claiming he had been told by God on the telephone to make haste and have a good time as the world was soon going to end.

More than 83 per cent of the patients Tooth examined showed mental abnormalities. Bad temper, dullness and forgetfulness were the most common symptoms.

Gunman's Victims



William Goddyn, 24, left, and Arthur Lierman, 31, right, were felled Wednesday by bullets from a Sten gun in the hands of a bank robber as they pursued him along a road near Langton, Ont., in the heart of Norfolk County's rich tobacco region. The two men, prominent Langton residents who were in the bank when the $23,000 holdup took place, gave chase as the bandit fled. A burst from a Sten gun, fired through the back window of the getaway car, killed both men. — (CP Photo.)

PURSUER'S CAR

Eleven bullets from a Sten gun punctured the windshield of this car Wednesday killing both occupants as they chased a bank bandit who had just held up the Imperial Bank of Canada's branch at Langton, Ont., in the heart of the Norfolk County tobacco region. Dead are Arthur Lierman, 31, prominent Belgian tobacco grower and real estate operator in the tobacco area, and William Goddyn, 24, sharecropper on Lierman's farm. In the bank at the time of the $23,000 robbery, the pair gave chase in Lierman's car as the bandit fled only to meet death as he riddled the car when the vehicle plunged into a ditch. — (CP Photo.)

Newspaper Guild Withdraws Application to Prosecute CP

Toronto, June 23 — (CP)—The American Newspaper Guild (C. I. O.) announced today it has agreed to withdraw its applications to Labor Minister Mitchell for consent to prosecute The Canadian Press and Press News Limited, CP's radio subsidiary, and that in return the companies had agreed to "certain actions and undertakings."

In a statement, the Guild said the settlement was reached at discussions before James H. Stitt of Ottawa, appointed by the labor minister to investigate the Guild's charges of unfair labor practices.

The Guild, certified April 5 as collective bargaining agent for CP editorial employees, said the national news - gathering agency and its subsidiary had agreed to reinstate a number of dismissed employees and that others are placed in a preferential re-hiring pool. They had recognized the Guild's status as collective bargaining agent for editorial employees and had stated their readiness to negotiate a contract.

"Of 27 employees given dismissal notices simultaneously May 5, the agreement provides for reinstatement of 13 in press news. The other 12, all in CP, are placed in a preferential re-hiring pool, with some taken on immediately as temporary summer employees. In addition, Guild member Dent Hodgson, discharged May 4 after refusing a transfer out of Ottawa, is reinstated immediately with full rights."

The statement said Gillis Purcell, CP general manager, had recognized the right of any staff member in Ottawa to belong to the Guild and had "repudiated his ban on Guild members working on the Parliamentary staff in Ottawa as "a personal expression" and not an expression of policy by the 91 member publishers who operate CP co-operatively."

The Guild quoted manager C. B. Edwards of Press News as stating most of the PN dismissal notices were given "because of the uncertainty of the future" of the company. He had agreed that the notices be ignored and that no similar notices would be given at least until Sept. 1.

Pending an official statement of the settlement from the Minister of Labor, Mr. Purcell made the following comment:

"The Guild charges were unfounded.

"It charged April 15 that CP imposed a condition that no Guild member may serve on CP's parliamentary staff.

"This was in reference to my personal statement that there would be no Guild card-holders on the parliamentary staff. It has been made clear that this was not a statement of CP newspaper-member policy and that it recognizes the right of CP employees to belong to the Guild.

"It also has been made clear that no action was taken as a result of my expressed opinion which was based on my view that under any circumstances CP news must not be exposed to criticism.

"The Guild also charged that CP refused to bargain collectively by stipulating that the Guild committee must consist solely of CP employees, excluding specifically an international representative.

"CP did so refuse unless the Department of Labor stated that the international representative was entitled to be present. Upon receiving the department's ruling to that effect, CP immediately opened negotiations May 3.

"The Guild charged May 5 that certain dismissals from CP staff constituted illegal interference with formation and administration of a trade union.

"At that time, because of budgetary limitations, CP dismissed 12 short-service men, all unmarried. CP will hire back any of these men if he is qualified, should a vacancy occur through resignation, or for temporary work. All left the service in good standing.

"It was made clear that budgetary limitations resulting in the closing of these positions was reasonable and that the members of the CP have the right to decide what services they require."

ANTI-SPY LAWS STRENGTHENED BY PARLIAMENT

Double Penalty For Espionage

Ottawa, June 23 (CP)—The Commons moved yesterday to strengthen Canada's anti-spy laws.

With opposition members urging the government to take even wider powers, the Chamber adopted a bill amending the official Secrets Act to double the penalty for espionage, boosting it from seven to 14 years imprisonment, and empower firm steps against Canadians who commit treason.

It gives the government power to prosecute anyone owing allegiance to Canada—including an alien in this country for a short period—and to deal with Canadians who disclose official secrets even when beyond this country's boundaries.

Five members suggested that the legislation did not go far enough. They were John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre), Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton), E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops), Alister Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North) and Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf).

Salesman Hanged For Slaying Of Former Friend

Montreal, June 23—(CP)—Marcel Marcotte, 40-year-old haberdashery salesman, was hanged early today or the slaying of his former friend and business associate, Marcel Boileau. He was pronounced dead at 1.16 a.m. EDT

The tall, one-eyed Marcotte had been in jail since his first conviction in 1946.

Marcotte had been twice convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of 41-year-old Boilleau April 13, 1946.

The murder charge was laid against Marcotte after Boileau's body was found half-buried in muddy wasteland in the north-end of the city. A bullet in the head was the cause of death.

$175,000 FIRE LOSS

Fullerton, Calif., June 23 — (AP)—Fire which for a time threatened much of this citrus town's business district was brought under control today after gutting a hotel, an automobile agency and a fruit products plant.

Fire Chief L. W. Eckels said no one was injured. He estimated the damage at $175,000.

37 HEAT PROSTRATIONS

Hull, Que., June 23 (CP) — About 37 cases of heat prostration were reported as Hull's week-long 150th anniversary celebration today launched children's day activities with a gigantic mass held in Jacques Cartier Park. Some 3,000 youngsters attended, although the temperature soared into the 80's.

If You're Tiring of Pork and Beans How About Eel Cake for Supper

Copenhagen, June 23 (Reuters)—Housewives visiting Copenhagen this fall for an International Housewives' Congress will be able to study recipes of various "national" dishes still prepared in Danish country homes.

One of the most remarkable is eel cake. The recipe for this is:

Make sufficient dough, for a normal sized rye loaf. Deeply line the bottom of the tin. Salt and prepare four large, raw eels. Place them evenly in the tin. Cover with the remainder of the dough. Bake for 3 minutes, slice and serve.

Eel cake is easten without butter, but with beer and a glass of the national drink—snaps. The dish is a favorite in the north of Jutland.

Another dish is plorris, an "egg cake", eaten with little squares of bacon, seasoned with sugar and cinnamon.

On the island of Lolland, the favorite dish is a fruit soup, made with eels (according to taste) cherries, strawberries or other berries.

More conventional dishes which will be demonstrated at the congress will include curd cheese, roast perch with cabbage, buttermilk soup, the Danish tongue twister "roegroed med Floede"—a sort of jelly and cream—white cabbage stuffed with blood-sausage, multi-tiered sandwiches black soup, sweet soup and the Copenhagen "smoerrebrod," open sandwiches.

Police-Led Posse Scour Area After Theft is Reported

Investigators Have 'Hunch' About Fugitives Identity

Langton, Ont., June 23 — (CP) — Theft of some milk, apparently by an elusive man later spotted by a telephone company employee, spurred the search today for a bank bandit who Wednesday shot and killed two pursuers.

A police-led posse, guns drawn, converged on the town line of Middleton and Houghton townships, near the village of Glen Meyer, about five miles west of this community.

The milk was stolen during the night from a well on the farm of Ream Hall. A telephone lineman, Walter Stanson, reported today that he saw a man in white shirt and khaki trousers leap a fence and disappear into the bush.

Earlier, police intimated they have a particular man in mind as they press the grim hunt.

Police Have 'Hunch'

Inspector A. R. Knight, one of several senior Ontario Policemen directing a posse here, said investigators have "a good hunch" about the fugitive's identity.

"The way the bank robbery was handled gave us a good idea who the man is," he told reporters. He declined to elaborate.

Detective Sgt. Oliver Borland, Toronto police fingerprint expert found a clear set of prints on the windshield of the killer's car. These were to be checked as soon as possible at RCMP headquarters in Ottawa and F.B.I. headquarters in Washington.

Stanson, who saw the man leap over the fence, said he appeared to be carrying something in his arms. Police believe their quarry is armed with the sten sub-machine gun he used to kill the two men who overtook him minutes after the holdup.

Hall's farm is half a mile from the farm of Alex McKenzie who yesterday reported seeing a stranger lurking on the outskirts of his property.

Someone Slept in Car

Ken Hill, a young farmer who lives about three miles from Langton, told police today that someone slept last night in his automobile, which he had left in his garage. The floor in the car's rear seat was covered with mud and there also was mud around the pedals in the front seat.

"It certainly wasn't like that when I put it away last night. Just before sundown," said Hill. His farm is about 14 miles from the swamp in which the killer disappeared Wednesday.

Police disbanded posses and stepped up highway patrols, apparently in the belief that hunger, mosquitoes and perhaps an impression that searchers had lost interest in the area may lead the bandit to try to escape from the swampland.

Earlier hopes that a posse could flush the man from his hideout appeared to have faded.

Bank-robber, whose sten gun wiped out two pursuers as he made his getaway, apparently had outwitted 100 policemen, backed by gun-totting farmers and aided by airplanes, a bloodhound and walkie-talkie equipment.

He had gained little from the bloody foray that followed Wednesday's armed robbery of the Imperial Bank of Canada branch in this town 20 miles southwest of St. Thomas. Most of his $23,000 loot was recovered in the abandoned automobile from which he slunk into the bush after cutting down the two men who attempted to stop him.

And beyond the search which still combed this tobacco-growing area, law-enforcement agencies in Canada and the United States sharpened their lookout for the unknown, sallow-faced thug in the dirty green shirt whose gunfire had riddled Art Lierman and Willam Goddyn as they sped from the bank in pursuit of his stolen car.

CANADIAN-BORN BRITISH MP HEARD IN MAIDEN SPEECH

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 23 — (CP) — Canadian-born William Aitken is going to keep on promoting his idea for increasing British exports to North America, despite a preliminary parliamentary defeat.

Aitken, Conservative Member of Parliament, proposes that a proportion of any extra dollar receipts earned in Canada and the United States should be exempt from profits tax. Exemption would be based on any increase in exports compared with the base year of 1949.

"British industry, faced with the highest taxation in the world, cannot afford to tackle the immense cost of embarking on a sales campaign in this high-competitive market" Aitken told the House of Commons last night in a maiden speech.

It isn't a case of British salesmen being unable to master the "American technique," he continued. His contention was that it isn't a question of inferior craftsmanship; it is just a matter of not enough money, caused by high taxation.

A clause embodying Aitken's idea was rejected during debates on tax proposals. Hugh Gaitskell, Minister of Economic Affairs, congratulated Aitken on his first speech in the House of Commons, but said that to remove the present tax would increase company dividends and precipitate wage demands.

WILL BUILD NEW CARRIER

Washington, June 23 (AP) — The United States Navy plans to build a flush-deck aircraft carrier in 1951 only a little smaller than the huge vessel which became a centre of controversy last year after construction on it was halted.

A high navy official confirmed last night that the joint chiefs of staff and defence secretary Louis Johnson had given a go-ahead on the new vessel.

The projected "super carrier" which Johnson junked last year after the keel had been laid would have been 1,090 feet long and would have cost an estimated $125,000,000.

Pipeline to be Built to Dump Is Urgent, Fire Chief States As Brigade Fights Blaze 10 Hrs.

Delay on the part of municipal officials in carrying out a council recommendation that a water line be run to the city dump as fire protection, drew criticism from Fire Chief Gerald Vance today following another dump fire which Wednesday night and Thursday took firemen ten hours to extinguish.

Some weeks ago following a recurrence of fires on the city dump city council recommended that a water line be run to the dump and that the caretaker of the dump be made responsible for extinguishing blazes.

That was several weeks ago and the water line still has not been run to the city dump.

Wednesday night a dump fire again got underway and when it threatened to get out of hand and endanger property firemen were called. Four firemen fought the blaze all night and had to return for three hours in the morning before the blaze was under control. At one time the blaze threatened to spread to the Houston Company property.

The Fire Chief is "burned up" about the frequent calls to extinguish blazes at the dump with resultant tying up of department men and equipment, and asserts it is unfair to repeatedly ask firemen to do this disagreeable task.

And the feeling is general.

Approves Efforts To Boost Sale Of Milk Products

Toronto, June 23—"Any sound program aimed at increasing the sale of dairy products in Canada, and which can be maintained at a low cost to each producer, should certainly receive the utmost support and co-operation from all dairy farmers," said Chas. Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers Marketing Board. Mr. Heath was discussing the June advertising set-aside, sponsored by the Dairy Farmers of Canada. The set-aside is to raise a fund with which to finance a sales promotion and advertising program aimed at expanding the markets for dairy products. (The simplicity of the set-aside has been emphasized. One cent per pound of butterfat sold in the month of June is all that is asked. It does not matter whether the butterfat is sold in cream or in milk, the application of the one-cent principle remains the same.)

"We, as cheese producers, need the program this money can buy" continued Mr. Heath. "While our market is set for the present, no one can say what may happen in another six months or a year. If in the future through the dairy farmers' advertising program, consumption of cheese can be increased a small fraction of an ounce for each person per week, it would be good insurance against a depressing milk surplus. We would be less dependent upon export markets, and we could expand our own industry with more confidence."

Lightning Plays Strange Tricks In Florida

Miami, Fla., June 23 (AP) — Lightning in Florida yesterday destroyed a church, killed an escaping convict and knocked down eight baseball players and an umpire.

Convict Angelo Massina, 30 was hit by a bolt while fleeing across a field near Winter Haven.

An eyewitness gave this account: He saw Massina running. Lightning darted about him but he threw up his hands and kept going. Lightning again flitted around him and this time he fell. The bolt ripped off the soles of his shoes.

Massina, with a companion had jumped off a prison truck when it stopped at a traffic light. The other convict, Robert W. McKay, 28, was critically wounded by gun shot.

Another bolt during a navy baseball game near Jacksonville knocked the umpire and eight players to the ground. None was seriously hurt.

Charles Webb was winding up to pitch when lightning struck just off the mound between second and third base. He was lifted off the ground. The game was called right there, in the eighth inning.

In Winter Haven, lightning hit a power pole, travelled under the street by underground cable to the Christian Science Church and started a fire. The church, built in 1928 at a cost of $75,000, was destroyed.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 23 — (CP) — Western oils continued advancing despite a slight decline on the remainder of the market on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Key oil stocks jumped strongly ahead while market leaders in other groups tended lower following two successive sessions of advance.

Volume for the first three hours was 2,311,000 shares.

Gains ranged up to 25 cents in leading western oils. The list has been moving in a comparatively narrow price path in the last few sessions following strong gains into new high price ground last week. Atlantic Oil, Anglo-Canadian, National Petroleum and Federated Petroleum were among the leading gains.

Industrials were under pressure of heavy profit - taking following yesterday's advance into new high price ground. Several leaders showed signs of resuming the advance in mid-session today.

Early losses were reduced and gains began to appear. Constructions continued a bright spot and several papers and steels firmed. Refining oils and utilities tended lower.

Base metals sagged over a wide front. Anacon Lead and Ascot Corp., features of previous sessions, dipped steadily. Consolidated Smelters and Waite Amulet were also lower. International Nickel bucked the trend for a fractional advance.

Low-priced gold stocks traded briskly in an otherwise dull gold board.

KEPT UNDER SEDATIVES

Hollywood, June 23 — (AP) — Judy Garland, who slashed her throat with a broken glass earlier this week, is being kept under sedatives for hysteria, her agent said today.

Carlton Alsop disclosed that the 29-year-old singer has been informed that there's no chance she'll get back her latest movie part — with Fred Astaire in "Royal Wedding."

"That's the reason she's still so upset," Alsop said.

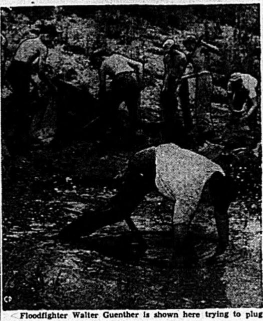
FLOOD PHENOMENOM



Floodfighter Walter Guenther is shown here trying to plug a "boil" beside a Fraser River dike. Boils occur when water seeps beneath the dike and up to the surface. The cure is to ring them with sandbags and hope they will choke themselves off. Workers in the background are filling bags to ring the boil. — (CP Photo.)

Questions Wisdom Of Statements Regarding Russia

Ottawa, June 23 — (CP) — J. M. Macdonell (PC — Toronto Greenwood) expressed doubts in the commons today about the wisdom of senior government officials making public statements about Russia's intention to make war.

He expressed them to External Affairs Minister Pearson in connection with a speech by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the joint Canada-United States defence board, in Winnipeg. He quoted the general as saying Russia will turn to war as a means to gain her ends.

Mr. Macdonnell asked Mr. Pearson if he considered it wise to have senior officials making such statements.

Mr. Pearson said he wouldn't like to comment until he has seen the speech.

LETTERS

Who wrote the first letter in the world is lost in the dimness of time. As well ask who discovered how to make and use the wheel or who tamed the wild horse and domesticated him as well as the dog and the cat.

The letter has become a part of the life of every person in the world. Whether it is written on stone, wood or skin, with the edge of a sharp flint, a burnt stick or a goose-quill or on the modern electric typewriter, it's all the same in its purpose.

The letter has become a part of the life of everyone on this planet. In the past letters have moulded the life of individuals and races, provoking wars, cementing friendships, closing big business deals and influencing the course of history in many ways.

The subject of the letter and the writing of it is the matter of the June monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada, which deals with the letter not merely as a social grace or a lasting piece of literature but with the business letter, "which often seems to be the stepchild of the art of writing." Its potentialities are immense. Time is short and the business letters reach millions.

The aim of the business letter, is to act as a message that attempts to influence its reader to take some action or attitude desired by the writer. The reader must first believe and then he must feel. If he believes and feels strongly enough then he will take the desired action.

WEATHER'S CHANGES

Last winter was not severe. Spring came with mildness and remained mild almost throughout. Followed the opening of summer, not as usual but with a cold spell quite out of the ordinary.

What this all means the weather man may soon be able to tell. While there are many scientists who think that there has been a marked trend towards more moderate weather with the Arctic ice caps melting as has been reported yet there is a continuation of the lateness shown by spring.

Man is always hopeful even of a weather condition which may prove contrary. And generally he does look for seasonable weather. Instead he finds the temperature at midday on Thursday little above sixty. Today is warmer.

He has to wait and take the weather as it comes.

If there is a tendency as some scientists have claimed towards warmer weather in the northern hemisphere causing melting of glacial ice, people wonder why spring and summer are so slow or late. Is the temperate zone going to pay up for mild weather in the past winter? Whatever the cause man cannot change it. He depends upon the weather and nature brings in the crops which never fail in the northern world at any rate and somehow nature averages up the score.

PETS

Everyone will agree with the sentiments of an editorial in the Hamilton Spectator in reference to care of pets, which some people are inclined to forget in the season to which we are now heading. The Spectator writer places the moral obligation upon owners of pets to take good care of these creatures when he says:

"When we see one of those blasts from anti-vivisectionists, bitterly denouncing medical experiments on animals, we wonder about a more refined type of cruelty that is rarely mentioned.

"At least in the field of medicine there can be no cavilling about the vast benefits to humanity in relief of suffering and control of formerly fatal diseases, due to use of animals in research.

But, particularly at this time of year, we are reminded of the callous way many people discard their pets, throw them on the community, uncared for and unwanted. Pups and kittens, bought irresponsibly, are let out as strays, a worry to the community and a rebuke to human selfishness.

"An animal taken into a home is a major commitment—one putting a stern obligation on the possessor. It is not a plaything, to be dumped on the street when the charm is frayed and affection dulled, or to be left behind when the household moves. To animal lovers, this inconsiderateness must stand out as a distressing black mark."

It may be that the Chickahominy braves and the soil of Virginia have been calling to Pocahontas these many years since she died on a distant shore at Gravesend in 1617, says Hamilton Spectator. But there she has slept, her immortal story a link between the New World and the England from which the first settlers of Jamestown came.

A man's nature runs either to herbs or weeds; therefore let him seasonably water the one and destroy the other. — Bacon.

Should you ask me, what is the first thing in religion? I should reply, the first, second and third thing therein—nay all, is humility. — St. Augustine.

LIFE'S RESPONSIBILITY

To say that we live our own lives, isn't so,
For many are hurt when we suffer a blow,
And all who believe in us when we're assailed
Are saddened and shocked to be told we have failed.

We carry about, from our birth to life's close,
Each day for our loved ones
    their joys and their woes,

Whenever good fortune is ours
    they are glad,
And whenever we're troubled or grieved they are sad.

There's nothing can happen,
    when everything's bared,
Of good or of ill, but by many it's shared.
On all that we are and we do here depends
The smile or the sigh of our loved ones and friends.

"Boy! Talk about a heavy rain."

Top Officials Agree on Necessity Of Prompt Help

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

A reversal of the current American policy of withholding aid from the communist-menaced Chinese island of Formosa may be presaged in word from Tokyo that Gen. MacArthur and John Foster Dulles, United States State Department adviser, are agreed on the necessity of prompt help.

As a matter of fact Washington already has been giving the hands off policy a going over. Up to this juncture military aid and advice to the forces of Chiang Kai-Shek on Formosa have been ruled out.

Whether their will be any striking change in American policy presumably will depend on the report which Defence Secretary Louis Johnson makes on his return from conferences with MacArthur in Tokyo.

Those who urge aid for Formosa hold that its possession by the communists would create a threat to American defences.

Two Interesting Facts

Two interesting facts mark the situation since the Chinese communists completed their conquest of the mainland. One is that the red's haven't followed up by a quick assault on Formosa. The other is that Chiang Kai-Shek has taken advantage of this respite to withdraw 150,000 troops from the island of Chusan to the north and incorporate them in his Formosa army.

Thus we find the nationalist leader supported by about 400,000 soldiers. Of course this force is under-equipped, but it is said to be sufficiently provided with small arms to give a good account of itself in defensive combat.

And why haven't the communists attacked Formosa?

British House Concludes 14-Hour Session

London, June 23 (AP) — The House of Commons ended a marathon 14-hour session early today during which the Labor government beat off all attempts by the Conservative opposition to amend tax proposals.

During the debate, Brendan Bracken, wartime information minister charged that the government has been acting as "a post-office for Gen. MacArthur."

His criticism came in discussion of a complaint made by MacArthur, Supreme Allied Occupation Commander in Japan, against the Tokyo correspondent of The Times of London.

The government sent the complaint on to The Times.

At Least Three Killed in Plane

"There might have been more . . .there were quite a few arms and legs which didn't match," said Dr. E. L. Johnson, Bedford coroner.

The plane, an AJ-1 with two reciprocating engines and one jet engine, was on its way from California to Patuxent, Md.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

HEAVENLY HIJINKS

As I've mentioned before, whenever I come down with a case of brain-blank I smash crystal on a cheap wrist watch and mosey down to see an old watchmaker on West 11th Street. While he's tinkering with the timepiece, I gab with him about this and that, and by the time I leave my watch has a new crystal and I generally have the material for a column.

The other afternoon I noticed an unusual looking clock on his repair bench—one with symbols on the dial instead of numerals.

"It's a Bavarian miracle clock" said the watchmaker, "and each symbol stands for a different miracle. For instance, the little fish represents the miracle of the loaves and fishes."

"Do you believe in that sort of thing?" I asked.

"Whether you think so or not" smiled the old man, "miracles happen all the time. For instance take the fire in Canada a couple of months ago—the one that wiped out almost the entire town but didn't touch the church."

"It could have been air currents," I said.

"Maybe' said the watchmaker, "but how would you explain away the cross in the sky that two thousand Englishmen swore they saw during an air raid in 1944? Or how would you rationalize the white horsemen who are credited with winning two battles in the First World War?"

"Take your time with the watch and details," I said.

"Well," said the old bent, "the first time the horsemen appeared was in August 1914, when the Germans were advancing through a big hole in the Allied line at Mons. One night when it looked as if there was no stopping them, the sky suddenly turned yellow and across it—heading straight for the Jerries—rode three white figures mounted on white horses, the centre rider waving a gold-tipped sword. The enemy took one look and that was the end of the advance."

"Sounds like somebody was seeing things," I said.

"Thousands of people were seeing things— and they ranged from privates to generals. And later that night when several hundred of the Germans were captured, to a man they reported having seen the figures, too.

"The white horsemen didn't show up again until four years later," the watchmaker went on, "and this time they brought along a lot of their friends. It was during the last German push along the Bethune line, and when a Portuguese regiment cracked up under the artillery fire a handful of British machine-gunners were rushed in to plug up the hole. The gunners knew they didn't have a chance of getting out alive—all they could hope for was to keep the enemy busy until reinforcements arrived.

"Then came the miracle. Suddenly the German guns switched their range and direction, and began blasting a patch of ground several hundred yards to the right of the machine gunners — an area that was completely deserted. And then half an hour later for no discernible reason, the Germans turned tail and began to run.

"At first the British couldn't believe their eyes; then they figured it was some sort of trick—although under the circumstances it didn't make military sense to bother with a trick. Finally the English sent out a reconnaissance squad, and it brought back fifty prisoners from various parts of the line.

"Each prisoner was examined separately and, according to Capt. C. W. Haywood of British Intelligence, each one told exactly the same story.

"When the Portuguese regiment retreated, the Germans began to chase after it and only stopped when they saw a detachment of cavalry riding forward from the Allied line to outflank them. This confused them because, for one, thing, cavalry had long been obsolete on the Western Front and, for another, every member of the detachment was dressed in white and riding a white horse.

"The artillery was immediately ordered to bombard the horsemen, but when the men in white continued charging across the open field despite the curtain of shells, the Germans got panicky and fled."

"How about the English gunners ?" I said.

"That's the strangest part of it," said the watchmaker. "Capt Haywood made careful inquiry among his men but he couldn't find a single British soldier who had seen anything in the empty space to the right— except space."

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A newspaper colleague of mine, when the day's work is done, believes in just sitting. That is his hobby: just sitting. He indulges, of course, whilst sitting, in a good deal of reflection, thoughtful speculation and, if there is anybody within hearing, plenty of discourse. But as for bodily activity, such as golf, motoring, fishing, or even walking over to the corner drug store—he sees no profit in it or any future.

He informs me that the ideal home is one that has a beautiful garden next door. The absolute perfection in home sites is, of course, one with a beautiful garden on either side of it, and a beautiful garden abutting the foot of the yard from the house on the next street.

At this particularly lovely season of the year to be able to sit in the midst of all the beauty, knowing that it cost the observer not one cent of expense nor one calory of energy, imparts a sense of satisfaction that is hard to beat. If the neighbors on either side and the neighbor at the back happen to be out in their gardens weeding, pruning, tying-up or, best of all, running the law mower, while my colleague sits at his ease in his own neglected yard, he assures me the impression of beauty he gets from the flowers around him is literally poigant.

Nobody who gardens for a hobby have the appreciation of floral beauty that I enjoy. Their feelings for the flowers are those of a craftsman or an artist. They are like the bakers of a cake. I am the eater of it. Gardening must be a very nice hobby. But the satisfactions of gardening are not one, two, three with the satisfaction of being the neighbor of good gardeners."

My colleague is the perfect journalist. His task is to note, appreciate and comment upon the activity of others. He is also a lazy so-and-so.

ONE GOOD USE FOR CASTOR OIL

On Chapel Street in Canandaigua in the days of horse cars, and firemen's conventions the per capita consumption of castor oil was, I'd give odds, at least three or four times greater than it is now. I don't believe parents love their children more today than parents did when I was a peaked, pasty-faced Chapel Street kid complete with bare feet, patched pants and worms. Yes, indeed, I really had 'em—unlike most youngsters with pasty face, white lines around the gills etc. I'll never forget—I'm not sure I really remember but I remember hearing the incident described—how embarrassed the teacher was to find that my trailing garter was not a garter but...

If Chapel Street kids, or children anywhere else, are subjected to occasional doses of castor oil in any circumstances today it must be because their parents, uncles, aunts and grandparents do not subscribe for the right paper and therefore do not read my column.

So far as children are concerned there is only one reasonable use for castor oil internally and even that is more theoretical than practical. I refer to a single tablespoonful, no less, for acute diarrhea—the purpose of the physic in this instance being to sweep out the bad food or other irritant which causes the diarrhea and then bind or lock the bowel, the after-effect for which castor oil is famous. This is theoretically good treatment, but it has never seemed so good in practice.

Some old timers still regard castor oil as safe or non-irritating merely because it is so soft and oily. So is croton oil. yet no one in his right mind would regard it as non-irritating or safe.

Castor oil is just as dangerous as any other physic or cathartic for a child with acute bellyache. Dangerous because its effect would be to spread and aggravate inflammation in the event that the bellyache is from acute appendicitis or other acute inflammation in the abdomen. (Belly is the front wall of the great body cavity, the abdomen. It is in the belly that the pain of any acute inflammation in the abdomen is felt.)

Fresh castor oil, and the odor tells whether it is rancid, provided no preservative or adulterant is mixed with the castor oil, is an excellent cosmeticemollient. A few drops of it added to an alcoholic lotion or to a solution of a teapsoonful of salicylic acid and/or a teaspoonful of resorcin in one-half pint of dilute alcohol or your favorite toilet water makes a satisfactory dandruff remedy—part the hair and apply it sparingly to scalp or fingertips every day.

In the booklet Cosmetic Blemishes (for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope) the first of half a dozen remedies I suggest for warts is castor oil.

Apply fresh castor oil to the wart or warts each night. Leave a drop or two in excess on the wart over night, by using a wisp of cotton soaked in the oil, held in place under a bit of adhesive plaster.

A great many readers have reported that this clears the wart or warts from the skin in a week or two. At any rate it can do no harm to try it.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Argument in the San

In one of your articles you stated that it is possible to catch tuberculosis from any person who has the disease. This is true, of course, but some of our patients did not notice the "has" and insist you say one may catch it from any person who has ever had the disease, even though the person may be now negative and pronounced an arrested case. (K. L. R.)

Answer—To the best of my knowledge and belief there is practically no danger of catching tuberculosis from a person whose formerly active tuberculosis is now arrested.

Colitis Bugaboo

Please define colitis, its causes, symptoms and treatment. (Mrs. D. L.)

Answer—No, no. This is a health column. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope, for booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene. The less you think you know about "colitis," Ma'am, the better for your health.

CREEDS

There are a lot of people in the world who love creeds too much and a lot more people who hate creeds unreasonably. Creeds have their place in the religious life. They are a faltering attempt on men's part to explain the unexplainable. They are never infallible. Every creed in Christendom has truth in it, yet every one is an imperfect expression of truth. Creeds are man-made, and because of this they are no more perfect than the men who made them.

We may say that the Holy Spirit has led certain people to a perfect knowledge of truth. But the Bible does not picture the Holy Spirit as operating in that way. The Holy Spirit leads people to the best use of the capacities they have but the Holy Spirit never violates personality and makes imperfect people suddenly become perfect in some situation or in some area of life. Creeds are museum pieces, to be examined and admired. Some are very helpful to men in arriving at a knowledge of the truth and some are not so helpful. All are imperfect.

The word of God is our only true standard. Creeds are an attempt by men to interpret to their fellows and to themselves the meaning of Biblical truth.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE NEGLECTED GREAT

I recently looked upon, and took into my hands, the original letter that Percy Bysshe Shelley wrote to a friend, John Williams, from Dublin, March 12, 1813. It said in part:

"I write to tell you that we have safely arrived in Dublin. Our passage was very tedious and stormy. It made us all so ill that we are scarcely yet recovered.

"Well, we are arrived in Dublin, but so poor, that unless we find some friend, I know not what we shall do. I do not think that we can manage to live until the arrival of Mr. Caldecott's expected loan. We are in a foreign country where our name is scarcely known, and where no one will give us credit for a farthing. You are surrounded by your friends, and tho' poor have some hope of refuge in neccessity.

"You would oblige me by asking your brother to lend me 255 lbs. I know that if you wish to do this, that you can do it. Your brother is a man worth 5,000 lbs. and surely it would be an act of common friendship only to accommodate me with this small sum until the arrival of Caldecott's loan. I shall know by your compliance with this request whether the adsence of friends is a cooler for friendship or not."

I have no idea as to whether the poet Shelley got his loan, but I am wondering [illegible] would be [illegible] his comment if he were to come to life and look upon that letter and know that it was offered by a rare book dealer for $2,500 — some 20 times the loan that the letter asked?

What a long time it often takes for worth to mature, and be appreciated. How few are the names of those, who now number among the great of this earth, who knew affluence in life. Read the story of scores of poets, artists, scientists and writers who died in poverty, friendless, and neglected. Rembrandt, Burns, Poe, Gissing, Meryon, Ernest Dawson, Stephen Crane, just to mention a few familiar names.

It took a long time for the world to awake to the fact that old Walt Whitman uttered a voice that was inspired, marking him among the immortals, and most of the writings of Thoreau were not published until his death, and few were those who read his first two great books until long years had passed. And many a one today awaits the morrow for full appreciation.

Workers Pause to Watch As Crippled Woman Tries Vainly to Climb Steep Slope

Trenton — She was a frail little lady and looked as though she must be at least in her mid-eighties. With a small crutch tucked under her left arm, she was hobbling slowly along King Street just across the railway tracks about four-thirty Friday afternoon.

It was obviously a great effort for her to even put one foot ahead of the other and, hoping to save a few precious steps, she decided to take a short cut through the play ground of St. Peter's School.

There is a fairly steep incline at the northeast corner of the playground where she decided to cut through and it is quite a feat for anyone to climb the slope and not lose their footing.

Halfway up the bank, the little lady's waning strength failed her. Teetering precariously on her unhandy crutch, she was just about to plunge over backwards when a passing motorist, seeing her plight, stopped his car and crossed the street to assist her.

Reporter on Scene

This reporter arrived on the scene at the same time and between they they managed to pilot her up the steep slope and saw her safely on her way.

The point of the story is that several construction workers right across the street paused to watch as the badly-crippled woman floundered helplessly on the smooth slope. One workman sat on the curb, absently tapping his hammer against a telephone pole. A group of husky boys were playing ball inside the playground. Two or three cars went by, the drivers slowed down, then stepped on the gas.

Could Have Helped

There must have been at least a dozen people who took time to size up the situation and it would only have taken any of these a few seconds to help the woman up the bank. Had she fallen, bones brittle with age would certainly have been broken and an entry would have been made on a hospital admittance card.

As the tiny lady continued haltingly across the playground, two thoughts came to mind. First that it was almost an act of criminal negligence on somebody's part to permit anyone so old and crippled to be out on the street alone, and secondly, the callousness and glaring indifference of those who saw what was about to happen and yet refused to go a few steps out of their way to save a helpless old lady from a serious fall.

Weese Motors Easily Defeats Ramsay Paints

Trenton (Special) —Joe Scott, hard-hitting catcher of Trenton's entry in the Trent Valley Softball League is making a specialty out of breaking up ball games in the ninth inning. Last night, Joe came through with another game winning drive as Weese Motors downed Ramsay Paints of the Belleville Commercial City League 6 to 5 in an exhibition tilt at Bayshore Park.

For Trenton it was a parade of pitchers as Norm McCue gave four members of his hurling staff a chance to show their stuff. Between them they gave up only six hits, struck out 12 and walked eight.

Don Forbes stayed on the mound for the first three innings and held the blue and orange to three hits, two singles and a double and walked three. Lefty Grove took over Trenton pitching duties for the next four innings and his slingshot pitching from a whirlwind wind-up stopped the Friendly City crew cold. Lefty held the visitors to one single and struck out six. Bill Mitts handled the mound duties for Trenton in the eighth and gave up another single. Trenton's Joe Page fireman Harry Farr finished off the evening by allowing one safe hit in the ninth.

Went the Route

Jack Reid went the route for Belleville, allowing 10 hits, three free trips to first and striking out eight Trenton hitters.

Half the Trenton safeties were good for extra bases. Lou Carswell was the big man at the plate for the garagemen with a round tripper, a double and a triple in four times at bat, Joe Scott and Lefty Reid rapped out one double each. Belleville collected only one extra base hit, a triple off the bat of Frank Baldwin.

Trenton, 10 hits, six runs and four errors, Belleville six hits, five runs and two errors.

The teams: Trenton: Ron Mitts, lf; B. Miller, cf; Jeffery, rf; Joe Scott, c; Lou Carswell, 1b; Frank Miron, 3b; Gord Flyn, 2b; John Jordan, ss; Don Forbes, p; Ivan Istead; Ernie Curtis; Lefty Reid, Bill Mitts, Harry Farr.

ANTI-SPY

The House also gave second reading to a bill ironing kinks out of the Canadian Citizenship Act, adopted several years ago, and opened clause-by-clause study of a measure inserting a number of international safety regulations into the Canada Shipping Act.

Citizenship Minister Harris announced at House opening that he was withdrawing a bill making wide changes in the Indian Act pending further consideration by the Indians themselves. Opposition members had urged that the legislation be withheld.

Offence to Disclose Secrets

In the espionage debate, Justice Minister Garson said the government was making it an offense to disclose secret information outside of Canada.

It would be considered an offence if the disclosing was made by a Canadian citizen or by a person who obtained the secret while he owed allegiance to Cananda. Under the law, an alien owes allegiance while he is within the realm of Canada unless he is protected by diplomatic immunity.

Mr. Diefenbaker urged the government to take action against "some" Canadians who had gone to Moscow to study at the International Lenin school. Which had "world disruption" as its main object. While protected by a Canadian passport, they were preparing themselves to "commit revolution" in Canada.

Mr. Garson the government can and will prosecute persons who go to Moscow and disclose secret information, whether or not they are Canadians. But it could do this only if it had evidence against them.

Too Little, Too Late

Mr. Fleming termed the legislation "too little and too late."

Dr. Gauthier felt ther should be a crusade against the red doctrine in which all like-minded persons could take part.

Mr. Fulton and Mr. Stewart suggested that the government appoint a board to which civil servants dismissed because their loyalty was questioned could appeal.

Introducing the citizenship changes, Mr. Harris promised to study a suggestion by Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) that Canadians of Japanese origin who fought with Japan against the allies in the second world war be stripped of their Canadian citizenship.

Among other things the bill enables Canadian women who lost their citizenship because of marriage to an alien prior to Jan. 1, 1947, to regain it. Canadians who became naturalized in a foreign land and later returned to Canada for good will be able to regain the citizenship after one year.

Soup Man's Bell Loudest of All

Antwerp, Belgium, June 23—(AP)— The bells tolled today for an Antwerp soup vendor.

Charged with disturbing the peace because his bell was too loud, he came before a judge. The judge lined up an ambulance, a fire truck and a police car outside the court and ordered them to ring their bells for a comparison with the vendor's bell.

The judge ruled the vendor's bell was the loudest. He fined the soup man 10 francs (20 cents.)

V.O.N. in Canada Made One Million Calls During 1949

The regular monthly board meeting of the Belleville branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held at the Y.M.C.A. this week. Mr. D. Burr, 1st vice president, acted as chairman in the absence of Mr. T. Ruston. The secretary, Mrs. Gilroy, and the treasurer, Mr. Thornbury, presented their regular reports.

Miss McGeary, nurse in charge for Belleville, gave a report on the nurses' activities for the month of May. These activities included 521 visits—115 of which were made to babies under the age of one month. Two student nurses from the public health course of the University of Toronto were given field instruction work by the local nurses during the last month. These students attended 230 of the local visits. Besides the regular work during the month two baby conferences were held and one toxoid clinic. Sixteen visits were made to local schools.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the presentation by Miss McGeary of a report compiled by Miss Ross, the nurse in charge of the V.O.N. at Peterborough, who attended the National Convention in Winnipeg last month. Miss Ross' report indicated a most successful convention at which 178 delegates representing all provinces, were in attendance. The Victorian Order of Nurses across Canada answered almost a million calls during 1949 and brought help to 140,000 patients. The national organization has now grown to 110 branches served by 508 nurses.

An invitation was received from the Oshawa branch to attend a regional conference to be held in that city during the latter part of October. These regional conferences have proved in the past to be most beneficial as a medium for the exchange of ideas and the Belleville Board was happy to accept the invitation to send representatives at that time.

Mr. L. Crabbe, 2nd vice president, has been transferred from Belleville by his company and Mr. E. Follwell was the unanimous choice of the Board to fill this post. The next regular meeting of the Board is scheduled for September.

WILLING HELPERS

On Friday evening the girls of the Willing Helpers' Club of Centre Street United Church, R.R. No. 8, Belleville, held a concert at the church which was followed by a sale of articles which the girls had made and a home baking sale.

The chairman was the Rev. Oscar Wagar. The leader of the club is Mrs. R. J. Ferguson and the president, Miss Mary Belch.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to $20.08 of which $10 was sent to the Manitoba Relief Fund.

The members wish to thank all who helped to make the evening a success.

Playgrounds For Children Essential in the Planning Of New Neighborhoods

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 23 (CP) — Playgrounds — where the very young ones are out from under mother's feet and at the same time safe from passing traffic — are becoming accepted as essential in the planning of new neighborhoods.

In the meantime there are many ways of turning the vacant lot in the older district into a children's paradise.

Officials of the Health Department's physical fitness division say the properly-equipped and well-supervised playgrounds contribute greatly to the fun, safety, health and character of children. Behavior and skills learned on the playground determine the leisure time pattern of children for years to come.

The division has published a booklet filled with ideas for preschool play areas, based on plans supplied by J. A. Duelude, Commissioner of Playgrounds for Ottawa.

The booklet recommends the city block playground — made up of "back-yard" land contributed by all block residents.

Such a block gives quick "kitchen-window" supervision and assures mother of junior's whereabouts.

Tots play in "back-yard" safety, free from the dangers of traffic, ditches or diversions.

Mothers divide daytime duties of supervision and instruction and share in the resulting dividends of more leisure hours.

Fathers co-operate in choosing and installing equipment.

In another booklet based on material supplied by the Citizens' Committee on Children in Ottawa, the physical fitness division gives detailed instructions on the making of outdoor play equipment.

Play equipment does not need to be expensive if it is made of durable material. Usually, it can be made at home, thus saving on labor costs.

All equipment made of wood should be carefully sand-papered and painted. A play-yard can be very attractive if the big objects are painted the same color—a dark color weathers best — and the smaller objects different colors.

The booklet, entitled "Equipment for Outdoor Play", contains several diagrams complete with instruction to father to follow in building playthings for small son or daughter.

Directions are given for construction of a "Climbing Horse". Climbing apparatus provides good exercise and sense of achievement, but it must be sturdy. Children should be supervised for the first few times they use this type of equipment, until they gain experience and confidence.

Women's Institute

CARMEL W.I.

The June meeting of the Carmel W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. B. Pitman. Following the opening Ode and M.S. collect, Mrs. M. Robinson read the minutes. The roll call was answered with "garden or poultry hints."

During the business discussion it was decided to make a donation of $25 to the Manitoba flood relief fund.

The communications were then heard with Mrs. J. Homan reading an interesting paper on "citizenship." Mrs. Moorman in connection with "home economics," gave a paper on "how to use and buy Canadian apples," and also distributed recipes for preparing a fruit cup. Mrs. H. Howes reported for current events on the iron project electric.

The meeting was then turned over to the agricultural convener, Mrs. M. Ross who introduced Miss Elsie Irvine, home economist, as the guest speaker. Miss Irvine gave an interesting review on "Homemaking Clubs" and "Garden Club Work." This was followed by Mrs. C. Thompson, giving a paper "Common Things" which had been written by Edna Jacques.

Mrs. Ross then conducted a flower contest, after which the meeting was closed and refreshments served.

Fashion Flashes

COMING IN strong is the low-necked suit, following its acceptance at the Paris showings. Navy worsted for a softly tailored suit with scooped neckline flanged by narrow folds of the suit fabric. With it a rhinestone - buttoned shirtwaist blouse of white pique.

WINNING WAYS of the bright red straw hat make it a favorite. Bright red smooth straw for a nice little hat with a cuff brim that ends in a side flange. Brim is piped in navy velvet and the flange is finished with scroll piping and little navy silk tassels.

GAINING FAVOR is the gray flannel suit. A neatly tailored suit, a one-button design, has a navy velvet collar and navy velvet flaps on the slanting pockets. With it, a blue flannel topper in the exact tone of the navy trimming.

NOT MUCH success so far for furs dyed in colorful shades, except navy. Everywhere we go now, we see loose, boxy toppers of navy or deep sapphire blue processed lamb broadtail, as well as broad stoles of navy blue moleskin.

JUST RIGHT for ever so many occasions is the softly - tailored suit of silk surah done in tie prints. Navy blue with a wavy geometric design in deep red makes up into a handsome suit, the lustrous fabric set off by a matching red chiffon blouse.

Catholic League Presents Fr. O'Neill With Desk Set

Marmora—The June meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held on Wednesday afternoon at the summer home of Mrs. Teresa Warren at Crowe Lake. The president, Mrs. C. Brady, occupied the chair and there was a large attendance. The meeting opened in the usual manner after which the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. B. McTaggart. The president disclosed that $15 had been realized by the sale of sandwiches on the special train to the recent Rosary Rally at Kingston.

Mrs. C. Crawford and Mrs. K. Donaldson reported for social welfare and Miss Mary Hughes exhibited quilt blocks brought in by the members for the making of a quilt in aid of the annual bazaar.

The Rev. Father O'Neill addressed the meeting, congratulating the members on the good attendance and urged them to spend the summer months in preparing for the bazaar which he hoped would be bigger and better than ever.

He expressed his thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Warren for her kindness in having the meeting at her cottage. He asked the members to sponsor the "400 Club" for the next party.

Mrs. Sandham displayed a picture of the Holy Father, which she had done in oil. The president discussed plans for showing a film of the life of Pope Pius XII.

It was decided to have a travelling basket, to which each member would donate home cooking and also purchase home cooking from same, to raise funds during summer months.

The correspondence was then dealt with after which the president gave an interesting report on the Diocesan Convention held this month in Brockville. The president thanked Mrs. Warren for the loan of her cottage for the meeting and presented her with a gift in appreciation for which Mrs. Warren expressed her thanks.

Presentations Made

Mrs. Cook complimented the president on her splendid report. She also addressed Rev. Father O'Neill, thanking him for his support in all undertakings by the league and presented him with a desk set, it being the 21st anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Father O'Neill gratefully expressed his appreciation and thanks.

Mrs. Black then took charge of the program. A reading was given by Miss Mary Hughes entitled "The Beautiful Hand of a Priest". Mrs. S. A. Stephens also gave a reading, "The School of the Sacred Heart". Mrs. Black read a poem "That is What Lovers Are Made Of" and Mrs. W. A. Shannon contributed a poem "Father", followed by a recitation by Mrs. Black, "Story of the Wild White Rose."

The president advised the members that the Blue Cross Hospitalization fees were due in July.

A few games of bingo were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the ladies of Group 2 and group 5 before the members dispersed.

Garden-Party-Tea Held by Women's Catholic League

Brilliant sunshine and blue skies brought many patrons and friends to the afternoon garden-party-tea and sale of home cooking, sponsored by the Catholic Women's League of Murney and Coleman Ward at the home of Miss M. McAvoy, 14 Octavia St., under the convenership of Mrs. E. Logan, Mrs. J. Cowan and Mrs. G. Lee.

Miss Josephine Mascaro opened the door for the guests and Miss McAvoy and Mrs. K. Doyle, President of the League, received them and after being most graciously welcomed, they wended their individual ways to Mrs. B. Burley, and surrendered their dues, having done so, they were irresistibly drawn by the fragrant aroma of new made buns, tarts, lemon pies, cookies and cocoanut-topped cakes, to the attractive table at the far side of the room, where Mrs. W. Grant and Mrs. T. Mascaro were observed to be doing a brisk retail business.

After making their selections, the purchasers followed the tea hostess, Mrs. A. Meagher, along the garden-walk to the sunniest of the tea rooms, set in a jewel of a lawn, bestrewn with little quartet tables, each with its snowy cloth, and centred with little vases of orange blossoms. At one end of the lawn was the lace-covered tea-table with its gleaming silver, centered with a bowl of golden roses, flanked by tall, golden candles in their tri-branched candelabras.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. D. Bateman, Mrs. F. Shortt, Mrs. B. Collins, and Mrs. J. Kennedy. Those who assisted in serving consisted of Mrs. L. Quinn, Mrs. G. O'Brien, Mrs. E. Stiver, Mrs. L. Meagher, Mrs. K. Blaind, Mrs. R. Meyers, Mrs. A. Langabeer, Mrs. A. Eaves, Mrs. T. Morrison, Mrs. P. Richardson, Mrs. F. LaPalm and Mrs. H. Smith.

At intervals on the lawn, were three other spots of inducement, guarded by three custodians. The first, was a table on which reposed a sparkling brilliant necklace and bracelet of aqua marine blue stones alternating with white. This set would go to the holder of the lucky ticket. On the next table were two bracelets and a set of ear-rings, and on the last table, underneath a gorgeous green, white-fringed garden umbrella, in royal state, sat one of the royal family of pink-iced angel cakes, which now and then make their incognito appearance at festivals such as this, but whose identity is not disguised to the writer of this article. This was topped with a cluster of pastel-tinted, pink and mauvy-pink sweet peas. This, like the articles on the other two tables, would become the possession of the lucky ticket holder. Convening these tables were, Mrs F. R. Ross, Mrs. C. W. Cox and Mrs. W. Graham.

The winners of the lucky draws as later learned, were, Mrs. H. Lamb, the aqua marine necklace and bracelet; Miss M. McAvoy, the rhinetone earrings, and Miss A. Williams, the royal angel cake. A charming garden-party-tea, delightfully planned, and intensely enjoyed.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

Thieves are good moralists. They're still proving that their occupation doesn't pay.

The latest demonstration was furnished by several dim witted goons in Halifax, Nova Scotia. Their victim was a grocery store manager who had just closed his store. They attacked him brutally and ran off.

When the police nabbed them, they hadn't time to open the package of butter which they had seized and which the store manager was taking home.

The price of butter nowadays hardly makes it worth while to risk a jail sentence. Butter producers are now asking the government to reduce the support price which the government is paying them so that the public can begin to absorb some of the huge surplus on hand.

Buttered bread crumbs make a crisp brown topping for vegetables, scalloped or creamed dishes or casseroles. The crunchy topping seems to give just the right contrast to soft or creamy foods.

You can make your own crumbs by placing stale sliced bread in a very slow oven, 250 degrees, for an hour or until hard, and then forcing the bread through a food grinder or crushing it with a rolling pin. Use fresh bread crumbs in the recipe below.

Finnan Haddie and Asparagus Casserole. Serves 4

Grease a casserole or baking dish lightly.

Cook 1 pound fresh asparagus, and cut into 1-inch pieces or cook a package of frozen asparagus pieces. Drain well. Place asparagus in casserole.

Wash 1 pound finnan haddie. Place in a saucepan with boiling water to cover. Simmer slowly until finnan haddie is tender. Remove. Drain well. Break fish into flakes.

Place finnan haddie flakes over asparagus.

Into a bowl pour a can of undiluted cream of celery soup. To the soup add 2 chopped hard boiled eggs and ½ cup water. Mix well. Pour soup mixture over fish.

Rub ½ cup bread crumbs with 2 tablespoons softened butter. Sprinkle crumbs over soup mixture. Sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Place casserole in a moderate oven, 375 degrees and bake until crumbs are browned about 30 minutes.

Any other canned or cooked fish or poultry may be substituted for finnan haddie if desired.

PRAISES BILINGUIALISM

"It amazes me how judges and lawyers switch with great facility from English to French,' he said. "It also amused me to learn that there were third-generation MacPhersons in Quebec who cannot speak a word of English."

World Travellers Write up Ontario From Fresh Angle

By JEAN THOMPSON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto — (CP)—A man-and-wife team, world travellers for many years, has just completed a book on their native Ontario—planned as the perfect guide to tourist enjoyment.

John and Marjorie Mackenzie of Toronto should be top-notch judges of what to include in an Ontario baedeker. Until the war cut off foreign travel, they spent each summer in Ontario cruising its waterways and visiting its resorts, and each winter took a trip to some new country.

Visits to Europe, Malaya, Japan, Mexico and the Caribbean have given them definite ideas on what tourists like to see and the kind of information they want.

"Ontario in your Car," soon to be published by Clarke Irwin, was written after driving thousands of miles, collecting cartons of travel folders and taking hundreds of photographs.

The idea came to them because they never could find exactly the type of guide book they wanted. Though both have been writing for years, collaboration was an experiment. It turned out well, possibly because of something in their stars. "You see we were born within two hours of each other," said husband John.

"Tourists are primarily sightseers," explained Marjorie enthusiastically. "True they want to fish or play golf, but they want to see things as well. And we think they are far more interested in the houses that famous people lived in than in the cairns that mark their graves."

The Mackenzies met in London during the First World War while John was in the R. F. C., and Marjorie, a well-known actress, was starring in "Tiger Rose" at the Savoy Theatre. Marjorie started acting at Kingston, Ont., began her professional career in silent pictures and made her stage debut in Chicago. She appeared with Charles Coburn, Godfrey Tearle and other famous stars under such directors and producers as David Belasco and George M. Cohan.

Versatile Actress

After running a successful stock company in San Antonio, Texas, where Marjorie played leading parts in 28 new plays in as many weeks, the Mackenzies decided to travel. It was the fulfilment of one of her ambitions, for she had chosen a theatrical rather than a writer's career so that she could see the world.

Their book on Ontario describes places for the type of people that will enjoy them, and in a sense the book is a composite tour of all the most enjoyable places they have seen in the province. It is illustrated with 71 photographs, 60 of them done by the Mackenzies who are both ardent photographers.

"We have even been big-hearted enough to include explicit directions for reaching our best fishing spots," added Marjorie with a smile.

Both the Mackenzies are intensely interested in early architecture of North America and in preservation of old buildings and landmarks. Any "oldest thing" in any country is worth preserving, John maintains, because it is future history.

Citing the restoration of Williamsburg, Va., as a magnificent gesture and an unqualified tourist and financial success, both suggested that Niagara-on-the-Lake, one of the oldest continuous settlements in Ontario, as an ideal place for similar type of restoration.

They have run the gamut of accommodations, from sleeping in a drifting canoe to escape Algonquin Park mosquitoes, to staying at Ontario's most luxurious resorts In fact Marjorie has travelled so much that she cannot sleep without a suitcase under her bed.

This summer they are off for a trip to Quebec, the Maritimes and Newfoundland, with a new book in mind.

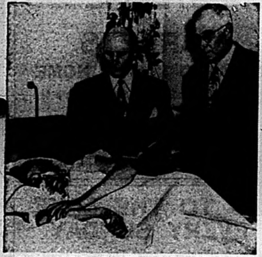
AFTER FIRST TRANSPLANT OPERATION



Mrs. Howard Tucker, 49, of Chicago, is shown following an operation in which her diseased kidney was replaced with a healthy one removed from the body of a dead woman. Mrs. Tucker, suffering om an incurable kidney ailment volunteered for the operation believed to be the first of its kind performed on a human. Dr. Richard Lawler, who performed the operation is shown (left) checking his patient's condition while the latter's husband, Howard Tucker, looks on. The kidney transplantation was completed within 45 minutes of the death of the woman donor. Dr. Lawler directed the operation and removed the diseased kidney from the patient while the healthy kidney of the dead woman was being removed by Dr. James West.—Central Press Canadian.

Power Steering for Passengers Cars on Way State Experts

By DAVID WILKIE

Detroit—(AP) — Power steering for passenger automobiles may sound a bit fantastic but it's [illegible] the way.

The nation's car makers aren't ready to admit it but experiments with a mechanical aid for steering passenger cars already are well advanced.

It will be expensive when it first appears. It probably will cost as much as an automatic transmission. For that reason it undoubtedly will be introduced first on higher priced vehicles where an "extra" or two aren't so difficult to sell.

Power steering already is used on some earth-moving giants of the motor vehicle family that have huge tires and otherwise require great effort to handle. When the principle has been applied to the conventional type passenger automobile just about the last strictly human control in handling a car will have disappeared.

If you are disposed to ridicule the idea, think how the automobile itself, then the mechanical or "self" starter, hydraulic brakes, tomatic transmissions and meanical window lifts were scoffed at when they first were proposed.

The power steering devices, of course, aren't designed to eliminate all effort by the driver; they are intended to help him. It has been suggested in some quarters that the device would be of immeasurable value in controlling the car in case of a tire blowout. Also it would help the little woman park the car with big, low pressure tires.

As has been the experience with many other mechanical advances in motor vehicles, an initial problem in development of the steering device reportedly has been elimination of the noise of operation. But this is being overcome.

So, too, is the problem of finding the right spot for it under the hood alongside rather wide engine blocks.

Year or So

The newest of the mechanical aids to car operation may not be announced for adaptation to 1951 model cars, but informed sources say it isn't much farther away than that.

Some engineers attending the Society of Automotive Engineers' meeting at French Lick, Ind., this week informally expressed the conviction that the V-8 type of power plant eventually will replace all so-called "in line" engines. The argument for the V-8 type is that it functions more smoothly and requires less space under the hood. General Motors, Oldsmobile division is the most recent to swing to this type of power plant. Its "Rocket" engine, introduced with the 1950 models has been described as one of the most efficient of the V-8 type.

Also apparently not to be dismissed too definitely is the possibility of eventual adaptation of a gas turbine power plant to the standard-type passenger automobile. Boeing Aircraft Co., which has designed one of these engines for the Navy's Bureau of Ships had one of them on display at French Lick. Car engineers were impressed with the compactness and light weight of the unit.

The model shown the auto engineers weighs only 202 pounds, is 38½ inches long, slightly over 22 inches high and 22.2 inches wide. It develops 175 horsepower, using diesel oil, gasoline or kerosene.

The Rover Motor Co., of Birmingham, England, has built a test car powered with a gas turbine, and Boeing has tested a truck with its version of the same unit. It is understood the engine used in the two vehicles are virtually the same. American engineers, however, have said much remains to be done in refining the gas turbine before it successfully can be adapted to the every-day passenger automobile.

Irish Smugglers Net Big Returns in Border Hauls

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — Irish border patrols are waging an unrelenting, but none - too - successful, battle against smugglers and cattle-rustlers operating along the 350 miles separating the Republic of Ireland from the six Northern Counties.

In the ceaseless war of wits, usually against heavy odds, preventive officers on both sides are daily rounding up an increasing number of "runners" with the value of seized goods running into thousands of dollars. But despite the tireless pursuit it is estimated that about 75 per cent of the illicit traffic eludes the hard-pressed customs patrols.

In a game where the stakes are high and the risks great, clashes between the smugglers and law-enforcement agents are a common occurrence.

Only recently when a patrol surprised "runners" trucking hundreds of cases of contraband eggs to the north, along the Monaghan - Tyrone border, the unarmed customs men were suddenly pounced upon and assaulted by "lookouts" who had been lurking in the darkness. The smugglers got away after seriously wounding three of the officers.

This attack led to organized agitation for increased officer protection, particularly on all-night patrols in lonely areas. But hunter and hunted alike are dead against use of firearms.

Said one of the operators after his arrest: "We don't want any bloodshed. If one side starts shooting anything can happen. We are out to make a few pounds but it is not worth risking dead bodies. Our fellows won't use guns."

Bruising Battles

But the traffickers can get plenty tough with staves, blackjacks and iron-piping, when they decide to resist. Usually, however, they abandon their cargoes or submit quietly to arrest when trapped.

While the illegal traffic flows on a large scale in both directions, most of it moves to the north. From there the goods are trans-shipped in large consignments to England where "black market" prices are high.

The contraband is mainly confined to cigarets, nylon stockings, eggs, sugar, meat, confectionery and automobile spare parts. To get these through the customs lines, the smugglers resort to novel and cunning tricks.

Many of the larger operators employ scouts to report on the movements of patrols. Another dodge is to send out a fleet of lorries during the night. Several are used as decoys to lure the patrols from the points where the cargo-laden vehicles will make their run across the border.

Five cars carrying contraband were recently seized in a northern town. The smugglers had removed the back seat of one of the cars and under a false top hidden 100 pounds of confectionery and 25,000 cigarets. In the spare tires of another car officials found 10,000 cigarets, stripped of their packets, as well as other articles.

A considerable haul, considering cigarets retail in the English market for about 55 cents a packet of 20.

15,000 Pairs of Nylons

A light truck, which outwardly appeared to be engaged in the legitimate business of transporting carcasses of meat in sacking, was found to contain no fewer than 15,000 pairs of nylon stockings which retail for around $3.00 a pair in the northern counties and even more in England.

Sugar is frequently found in specially - constructed tanks attached to the underframe of cars and trucks or packed in the upholstery.

The heaviest traffic is in eggs, smuggled through in colossal quantities. The operators usually have a farm on the southern side of the frontier, where hens are kept in large numbers. To these points the eggs are delivered and stored until a suitable opportunity comes to get them away.

Cottages or cabin hide-outs also are scattered along the border for concealment of goods to be run across the line when customs men are not looking. Should an official inquiry be made, the so-called "stand-in" has an answer not easily challenged. He claims to have bought the goods for his own use and has every right to store them on his property.

What happens to the large quantities of seized contraband? Most of it is offered for sale at public auction with the proceeds going to the state. The cigarets are distributed to the British army canteens for the troops.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Good Religion Is Anti-Isolationist

By ROY L. SMITH

It has often happened that good men have become so completely bogged down in the incidentals that they have missed the fundamentals. This has been the case in the instance of the book of Jonah in the Old Testament.

It is extremely unfortunate that the story of the big fish has been allowed to usurp first place in the record. As a matter of fact the author of Jonah would very probably be amazed if he could know of the furore his tale has caused. What he set out to do was to teach a very great and significant lesson, but probably not one man in a hundred thousand who knows the name of Jonah knows what that lesson was.

Almost from the beginning of their national history the Hebrews left themselves under some kind of missionary obligation to the rest of the world. As time went on this sense of mission grew, until soon after the exile it became one of the conspicuous factors in the race's religion.

> The Sunday School lesson for June 25: "Jonah Learns God's Missionary Purpose", Jonah (3:3-6; 4:1-11).

A devout Jew believed that the will of God had been revealed to his people in some peculiar manner. He was sure the religious laws and ceremonies which composed his faith had been divinely revealed to the prophets, priests, and leaders, a fact which set the Jew apart from all other men. But on the theory that privilege implies responsibility the Jew also believed he was divinely called to make converts among all other races of men.

There Were Isolationists

Then as now, however, there were those who held aloof from all concern about the rest of the world, contending that it was the chief business of the Jew to work out his own salvation and let all other men shift for themselves.

It was easy for a Jew to be an isolationist. He believed he had been signally honored by God in having revealed to him the secret of the Torah, and the ritual and ceremonies by which the favors of God might be won. Being assured of his own salvation, and being rebuffed by non-Jews, it was easy to convince him that he need not bestir himself.

Jonah Was a Fugitive from God

The book of Jonah was designed as an antidote for this kind of spiritual isolationism. It is the story of a man who was called to preach to the non-Jewish world and who undertook to escape the call by fleeing to Spain, at the outermost rim of the then known world. By a series of weird events he is thrown back upon his task and almost forced to engage in the work he so thoroughly despised. His success, to his own humiliation, was astounding and his converts were numbered by the tens of thousands.

Not the least of the timely messages in the book is this — that no man can flee far enough away on this earth to get out from under the jurisdiction of God. No fugitive from the Divine has ever been able to make good his escape.

All in One World

Here is a lesson our generation needs desperately to learn—that no man is able to live apart from the rest of the world, neither can any nation live apart from other nations.

All politics today are world politics. A British or an American election is destined to have global repercussions. It is conceivable that the close election of a single Congressman might have international results, and that a few hundred people would turn the tide of world affairs.

The politicians at Washington just at this moment are greatly concerned over what may happen to the world as a result of the capture of China by Communism. But it was extremely difficult only a few years ago to arouse in them any interest in Christian missions in China because the Chinese seemed so far away. By all accounts, however, if the Christian missionary program in China had been adequately financed during the last one hundred years the issue today would be vastly different.

The Struggle is World Wide

During the period of the war the American people and their leaders made the great mistake of believing that the Russian leaders had given up their idea of world conquest and only asked that the Russian government be left alone to work out its own destiny in its own way.

We have come upon a rude awakening. It is now perfectly plain that we are engaged in a global conflict with Russia contending against the democracies of the earth for the mastery of the whole world.

Good religion feels a concern for all men everywhere; any Christian who feels no such a concern is only a fractional Christian. This world cannot go on partly Christian and partly pagan, any more than it could have survived half slave and half free.

There is no greater responsibility resting upon the American people anywhere in the world today than in China, where the forces of the Christian Church in all its denominations and branches must be strengthened and upheld.

There is an inevitable conflict between Christianity and Communism, because both are out after the same world.

Prefer Stealing Books About Sex

Victoria, B.C., (CP)— There's a good reason for keeping books on sex under lock and key at the Victoria Public Library.

Prof. E. G. Jones of Victoria College says some people are so shy about sex matters that they would rather steal a book of this type rather than be seen checking one out at the library.

These people he said, never received proper sex instruction during their youth.

There's another reason for keeping them locked up. Librarian Margaret Clay says some people are so prejudiced against technical or fictional books which discuss sex that they would burn them as heretical literature if they could get their hands on them.

Among these are many middle-aged men who in their younger days led "very unconventional lives."

"To keep the peace and to save expenses the books are locked up," she says. "But if we had our own way we would place them on the open shelves."

NORWAY MILLS BUSIER

Oslo—(CP)—Norway produced about 432,000 tons of chemical woodpulp in 1949, compared to 384,000 tons the previous year. About 195,000 tons were exported. The total production of pulp amounted to about 900,000 tons.

Siamese Twins Joined at Head Pose Painful Problem for Parents

Hobart, Tasmania (Reuters) — While the searchlight of press and radio has moved away from the Siamese twins of northwest Tasmania, the problems of their future remains.

The twins joined at the head, are now home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Smith, of Natone, and the centre of the family's life.

They are being bottle fed on much the same diet as their mother used for her other five children, but unless they can be separated there seems little chance that they will ever leave their bed.

They will not be able to stand and even crawling would mean one learning to go backward as the other went forward.

Separate Personalities

They are separate personalities. Kathleen Rose is darker and livelier than Lexi Irene and one is often awake while the other sleeps.

In spite of their handicap, Mrs. Smith is confident that they are making good progress.

Both she and her husband are prepared to agree to an operation to separate them if specialists think it possible. Much depends on the result of an examination to be made by a Melbourne brain specialist, Dr. Graeme Robertson, when he visits Launceston, a northern Tasmania city during the next few weeks.

The Smiths are uncertain what action they will take if the specialist decides against an operation.

"It would be hard to part with them," Mrs. Smith said.

The Smiths are determined that the twins shall not be commercialized. They have refused to allow any photographs to be taken.

Dr. C. Duncan, government pathologist, said that although the birth of Siamese twins was a tragedy for the parents, it was of great scientific interest to the medical profession. This type of twins, known as symmetrical inclusion twins, is rarer and few survive birth.

Few Live after Operation

Conjoined twins, Dr. Duncan explained, arise from a single ovum or egg, and for that reason the children are always of the same sex. Death of one involves the death of the other in a short time.

Dr. Duncan added that surgical separation has been effected successfully in very few cases, and only where the union is over a small area. It seems unlikely that surgery can help the Natone twins unless the skull bones are fully formed and separate.

Twins have been born on both sides of the Smith family. Mrs. Smith has twin sisters and one of Mr. Smiths brothers is the father of two sets of twins.

Mrs. Smith said that she and her husband would keep the twins. In no circumstances, she declared would they consent to the twins being placed in a home.

Paper Breaks Off Talks With Guild

New York, June 23 — (AP) — The World-Telegram and Sun Thursday broke off talks with the striking American Newspaper Guild (C. I. O.) whose pickets have kept the newspaper closed for 10 days.

The newspaper, in a letter to the Guild, said there is nothing to be gained by further talks, and left future negotiations up to federal mediators. The dispute involves contract demands over wage minimums and other issues.

At the same time, the World-Telegram and Sun turned down an offer by an independent union to go back to work.

"We cannot make work available until the members of all unions return," said the newspaper in reply to an offer by the Newspaper and Mail Deliveries Union (Ind.).

The union is one of 10 A. F. L. or independent unions whose members have refused to cross Guild picket lines since the walkout began June 13.

$200,000,000 Public Health Hospital Care Expenditure Announced by Health Minister

Halifax, June 23 — (CP) — Canadian governments will spend $200,000,000 on public health and hospital care this year, Health Minister Martin told The Canadian Medical Association today in a speech prepared for delivery before the C. M. A.'s annual meeting, he said the provinces have done a "superb" job in carrying the main burden of public-health care while the National-Health program — under which 3,000 provincial projects totalling $37,000,000 already have been approved — is opening "new and exciting possibilities of advances for them."

He detailed four major steps now being taken to clear the way for health progress in the years ahead:

1. Provincial health surveys and new sickness surveys which will supply an "exact knowledge" of the public-health position and of anticipated requirements.

2. Provision of more hospital accommodation and more and better equipped clinics. Some 21,000 of the additional 40,000 hospital beds required by 1953 are in sight and have been allocated federal aid.

More Health Workers

3. Provision of more health workers. The national program has enabled the provinces to open more than 2,000 positions in public health. There still is a shortage of 2,000 doctors in Canada.

4. Steps to increase the level of training of health workers. Through federal-health grants, 1,500 have been trained, including 265 physicians. The practitioner is being brought up to date in such fields as cancer, tuberculosis and mental illness.

Mr. Martin reviewed health progress in Canada during the last half-century and suggested that the emphasis in the next half-century will be on "the prosperity of our people and the degree to which, in part through measures for social security, this prosperity benefits all Canadians."

Police, Citizens Will "Shoot on Sight" If Bandit-Slayer is Sighted in Bushland

KILLED BY BANDIT'S MACHINE-GUN BULLETS

ORDERED TO SHOOT ON SIGHT

LANGTON BANK BRANCH

SUB-MACHINE GUN LEFT BY SLAYER

BLOODHOUNDS PUT ON KILLER'S TRAIL
—Central Press Canadian Photos.

Hundreds of police and farmers armed with rifles and shotguns are searching the area around Frogmore, Ont., for the slayer of Arthur Lierman and W. Goddyn, two popular residents of nearby Langton. The two men gave chase to a man who had robbed a bank branch at Langton, followed him at breakneck speed along the highway, then were killed when the bandit's car ran into a ditch and he stepped out, Sten gun blazing. After he had shot Lierman and Goddyn through the windshield of their car, he calmly walked over and fired another burst of bullets at their slumped bodies, then disappeared into the bushland. He left behind in the car he was driving the bank loot and a Sten gun. Searchers have been ordered to "shoot on sight."

Peacetime Draft Will be Renewed In United States

Washington, June 23 (AP) — The peacetime draft in the United States is just about set to run on for two or three more years.

It was due to expire at midnight tonight, but Congress yesterday approved a stop gap bill providing a 15-day extension.

As the bill was sped to President Truman for his signature, the Senate shouted its approval of a three-year draft law extension after beating down a racial segregation plan for the armed forces.

There remain some differences between the Senate and House bills to be ironed out. For one thing the House bill would extend the draft two years, not three.

Senator Richard Russell (Dem. Ga.) who lost 42 to 29 an earlier attempt to let any non-commissioned or drafted person request service only with persons "of his own race" offered a modified proposal.

It would have required approval by a majority of all men enlisting or drafted in three-fourths of the States during the next six months, or would have been ineffective. The Senate rejected it 45 to 27.

W. German Reds Ordered to Purge All Titoists

Berlin, June 23—(AP)— West-German comunists have received stern orders from the east-German politburo: purge all Titoists and step up underground activity to foment unrest.

Tied in with developments in France and Italy, this report from east-German political sources indicated that a continent-wide drive is on in full force against "deviationists" any who do not blindly follow the dictates of Moscow.

Communist pronouncements in Rome and Paris have called openly and urgently for a purge of all Titoists. While the movement away from complete Moscow domination has not been strong outside Yugoslavia, the communists indicate a fear that it will grow and get out of their control.

Bullet in Head Hurts Says Man Sipping Beer

San Francisco, June 23 — (AP) — When a man gets a bullet in his head it hurts.

That's what taxicab driver Nicholas Rasberry, 44, confided as he sipped his beer.

The bartender called an ambulance for clearly there was something wrong with Rasberry's head. He had a hole in it.

In hospital Rasberry told police that he had shot himself in a fit of despondency over a love affair. The bullet entered his neck, ranged upward, broke his jaw and emerged near his ear.

SAYS MOTHER MADE CAKE

Texarkana, Ark., June 23—(AP)—A Bible School teacher was having a party for her young charges.

Mrs. Harold Hodge, mother of Pat and Paul Hodge, two pupils at the school, sent over iced muffins.

The teacher told the youngsters to bow their heads "and thank Jesus for these nice muffins."

The small voice of Paul Hodge came from the back of the room: "He didn't make 'em, my mommie did."

Britain Hopes to Have Atomic Power Plant Working in Four Or Five Years Says Official

Harwell, England, June 23—(AP)—Sir John Cockroft, director of the giant new Harwell Atom Research laboratory, says Britain may have a practical atomic power plant in "four or five years."

He revealed yesterday that researchers at Harwell, with this goal in view, are trying to figure out new ways to produce plutonium—atom bomb ingredient—faster and more efficiently.

He said his scientists already have worked out a new way of getting uranium out of uranium ore more economically.

The vast Harwell laboratory was thrown open to the press for the first time yesterday. Top atom scientists showed western correspondents — no Russians or east Europeans were invited — their 110-inch underground cyclotron, their house-high atomic pile and many of their formerly secret processes. Few key facts or figures were disclosed, however.

40-Foot Stack

The atomic pile is a 40-foot stack of lavender-painted graphite blocks. Uranium slugs are thrust through six-inch-square ports on both sides and cold-air ducts keep the temperature down.

Harwell's so-called "hot lab" where products of the atomic pile are sorted was engaged in the separation of a quantity of uranium from the plutonium produced in the pile the day before.

Scientists guided the process with the aid of mirrors from behind a four-inch wall of lead bricks.

Sir John told the visitors that Britain may have atom-powered ships and submarines within 10 years. He showed them drawings of an atomic submarine and said Harwell scientists are searching for materials to use in atomic-ship power units. Rare metals like beryllium and titanium are getting close attention, he said.

Although no eastern European newspaper men were in the party, a correspondent for the communist London Daily Worker was present.

The Worker correspondent, Peter Fyer, summed up the visit, saying:

Beyond The Law

Mary Imlay Taylor

She paled suddenly and her lips shook. "It would mean —if Creuse is judged guilty—"

"Death," said Gayle. A voice from the inner room intercepted.

"Have you eaten your supper yet, Gayle? You musn't make trouble around her. I'm trouble enough for Mrs. Gharian."

Laure's glance went back to the inner room and Gayle saw it. By jove," he thought, "she loves him!"

Her voice was calm when she spoke. "Supper's on the table, m'sieur. Will you please sit down?

He obeyed her awkwardly, for something in her look abashed him. She had hot food and drink for him and served simply. Gayle ate with an uncomfortable feeling that this was all tragic mockery. Even at the thought he looked up and encountered the woman's clear gaze. Innocent or not she did not fear him! Thoroughly puzzled he busied himself with his supper while she carried another cup of tea to O'Hara.

"I try to keep you still," she said to her patient. "Your head troubles you, I know it;!"

O'Hara nodded; his face was white now, the fush of fever had left it and his eyes were haggard. He took the tea from her.

"You must sleep, m'sieur," she urged. "You've been in fever—you must sleep!"

Something in her voice and her touch seemed to weave a spell O'Hara had drained the cup of tea, and now he sank back. A subtle feeling of drowsiness crept over him, and his head sank back on his pillows.

Laure came back to Gayle to pour more tea for him. There was relief in her face. "He's going to sleep," she said in a low voice.

Gayle rose, taking the cup from her hands. "I'll drink it by the fire," he said, and moved to a chair there.

A sudden gale had risen. It shook the little cabin and beat upon the door and windows, but not even the noise of the wind seemed to rouse O'Hara once he had fallen asleep. Gayle drank his tea beside the fire with a new sense of physical comfort. It was good to be indoors on such a night. The woman was clearing the table and he watched her stealthily. Her movements were slow but wonderfully graceful; there was harmony in them like the facile lilt of music. The firelight made glory of her hair. He seemed to hear again O'Hara's plea for her.

"Good Lord, it's a pity! Love at first sight, of course, and she's guilty!"

It was morning when O'Hara opened his eyes. A sudden sense of loss assailed him, a deathly chill. The fire was out! He started up, gripping at the side of his cot with his well hand. Thank God his head was clear! He rose unsteadily to his feet, stretched himself and straightened; he was better. He walked stiffly to the door and looked into the outer room. Gayle still slept before a black hearth. Beyond was a deserted room with only a spark of fire showing in the stove, there was no sign of a woman's presence!

"Laure!"

He name rose involuntarily to O'Hara's lips. There was no reply. He straightened himself again, for the first time since his accident he felt physically fit, except for the broken arm he was well. He glanced again at Gayle, and again looked about the room, scarcely able to believe that she had gone.

"Laure!" he called entreatingly.

Still no answer! A horrible suspicion tore at his heart. Without a thought of Gayle now he rushed to the outside door of the little cabin and tore it open with his left hand. In the snow outside he saw the tracks of her webs, and knew. He steadied himself and swept the vast sheet of snow with his eyes. He could see far off the tops of the blue green spruces, dwarfed by the snow. There was no living thing in sight. He went outside quickly. Gayle's dogs were in the shelter and yelped for food as he approached. She had gone alone and on foot.

Gone? And he was just awake! She had drugged them both and made her escape!

A sickening dismay seized him. She had done this—like a guilty thing! His feet slipped on the ice, he caught at a frozen willow and broke a bit of it in his one useful hand. He tore it to pieces with his teeth as he went back to the cabin, seized Gayle and shook him. The place was freezing and the constable awoke, cursing.

"It's cold as hell!" he growled.

"Get up," O'Hara ordered. "We must have been drugged. She's gone, been gone for hours, and there's been a light snow since, it'll be hard to trace her."

Gayle leaped up. "There" I told you," he snapped, "she's guilty!"

O'Hara did not answer that; he was trying to drag on his furs with one hand. Gayle aroused fully now, came to his aid. As he did so, he saw O'Hara's face, and put his hand on his shoulder. helpless and the innocent. She's not Gharian's slayer."

"Oh, man, I'm sorry!" he said with feeling.

O'Hara choked. Then he glanced down. On the floor lay a woman's handkerchief. He picked it up and thrust it into his breast. "We've got to get her!" he said grimly.

Gayle tried to stop him. "Stay here; I can do it. Why, man, she can't go far on foot alone!"

"Duval will meet her," O'Hara face was hard. His eyes looked like a dead man's, lusterless.

"I'm equal to Duval," replied Gayle. "You're not really fit—"

O'Hara thrust him aside with his left hand. "Do you think I'd let anyone else—take her?" he questioned bitterly.

Gayle nodded. He knew what it meant; O'Hara was true blue. He would keep his faith to the service, he would bring her in though it killed him.

"I'll harness the dogs," said Gayle.

O'Hara pointed at the web prints. "She's started afoot, but it's been four or five hours." He hesitated. studying the frozen waste. Dark snow clouds lowered again the Arctic sky. "I'll go on. You follow my tracks with the dogs. If she's met Duval we'll need them; he's the fastest driver in the North," he added, and his voice thickened.

"Wait!" Gayle called to him, running back. "I'll come—you're not able, only having one arm; there's the halfbreed!"

O'Hara smiled grimly, drawing his pistol with his left hand. "I can shoot with either hand," he said.

Gayle, harnessing the team, shouted again to him, but he saw the tall figure moving steadily across the frozen barrens.

A light powder of snow had fallen since Laure left the cabin. Now and then O'Hara lost all trace and had to double back. But the wind had driven the new snow off the higher slopes, and as he mushed ahead he found the clear track of her snowshoes and followed it.

Once or twice he stopped to glance at the bleak scene with a thrill of wonder. What a woman starting alone in the night! Her courage was magnificent; it was like her beauty, her gentleness. O'Hara set his teeth. Behind him he heard Gayle's dogs coming. A horrid fear that Gayle would find her, that Gayle would take her from Duval, obsessed him. She was guilty; her flight proclaimed it, and guilty he, O'Hara, must take her, he and no other man!

Gayle shouted to him. "Here are sled runners!"

He looked back and shook his head, pointing down. "The webs go this way!" he shouted back.

Gayle drove slowly, in a semicircle, trying to trace the spot where Laure might have met Duval, but O'Hara went on. The barrens seemed endless. He came to a clump of frozen willows, the blue ice of the creek. He remembered suddenly that she had crossed it here the day when Gharian died. It gave him a clue.

Before him rose a sharp eminence and a mass of spruce tops, a little forest. The wind had swept it bare of fresh snow and on the slope he saw the marks of her webs. Gayle shouted to him again but he heard nothing. A biting wind cut his face, but still he climbed steadily. At the top he could look down into the small forest. A thin plume of smoke asecnded!

Something tightened about his heart. He forgot to signal to Gayle and plunged down into the snow, following her prints through the trees. At last the evergreens parted. In a coulee he saw a brown object and knew it for the roof of a tiny cabin, some trapper's shelter. Strange that in all his previous hunt for clues he had not found it! He was right no; her prints were fresh here. It had taken her a long time, too, to reach it in the drifts. The webs led him straight to the door.

There were no fresh signs of dogs or sled; it was unearthly still. Only the thin curl of blue smoke and the footprints to the door! Her feet—going here—for what purpose? She knew she would be tracked! Was it the baiting of a trap?

O'Hara drew himself up. He pressed his hand across his eyes a shudder ran through him. Behind him he heard Gayle's dogs give tongue to their howls. "For the service!" he whispered, and opened the door.

There was a fire burning in the stove and the glow of red coals fell on the figure of a man stretched on a bed of furs, He lay still a rigid profile. One glance told O'Hara he was dead. Beside him kneeling her back to the door, was Laure Gharian.

O'Hara stood still. The fire glow made a glory of her beauty. Her hands were clasped; she was praying. There was a long moment of silence in which he could hear her breathe then— nearer and nearer—Gayle's dogs yelped.

She lifted her head and their eyes met. O'Hara could not speak. She rose slowly to her feet and stood, looking down at the dead man's still face. Then she turned and her beautiful eyes were full of tears.

"So you've come, m'sieur? Even here?" Her hand went to her heart, as if to still its beating. "I'm glad you slept—until he was —beyond the law!"

O'Hara took a step forward, looking down at the dead man. "He did it!" he gasped, suddenly knowing the truth.

"He was my brother," she said simply. "We came together to the grave of my little child. I never went to the cabin at all then; I didn't mean to go there, for my husband and I were utterly separated. But Paul saw Ninon Creuse at the door. He had known her in Quebec, when she was training in the hospital, and he loved her; It was that, m'sieur, not so much my quarrel that he took up. It was mad jealousy because Ninon was there and Gharian loved her. Paul told this afterward."

"At the time I didn't know, didn't realize it all until — too late! He was furious, tried to make Ninon come with us. Gharian interfered, and my brother told him to come outside like a man and fight it out.

"In the end it was a duel. Gharian wounded Paul. Paul's shot killed Gharian outright. The girl sprang between them, struggling to disarm them, to keep them apart. Unhappily it was a shot from my brother's pistol that killed her—and broke his heart! I was at the little grave when I heard the shots I ran to them and found Ninon dying, in her agony she caught at my coat and tore those two bits away. Oh, I didn't hate her, m'sieur; I pitied her. I did all I could. Paul was mortally wounded, and in great anguish of mind. I held him up. We got to the creek and Duval came, we put Paul on his sled and brought him here to hide him. I took his pistol to the cabin on purpose and Creuse found it.

"For weeks I've stayed to tend him secretly. The doctor who dressed your arm has been here, but he couldn't save him. He kept our secret because Paul was dying, I begged to have him die in peace. I came to him just in time last night. The doctor had warned me that the end was near. M'sieur I wouldn't betray him as he'd suffered enough. I decided to go with you to prison until the end, rather than have the law here! I loved my brother, for he was all I had. He fought—as most men would— and Gharian died. I can tell you now, he can suffer no more, he's beyond the law!"

As she finished she turned again, drew the furs up over the dead face sobbing.

O'Hara snatched at a chair back and steadied himself, the room seemed to reel. "Laure," he whispered, white lipped. "I came today—"

"To take me?" she smiled wanly. "M'sieur, I wouldn't kill a mouse."

"Laure," he sank to his knees beside her, snatching at her cold hand and resting his face upon it. "Laure, I'm not fit to tie your shoe!"

She did not move or speak, and his heart sank. The door fell open and the bitter wind drove in. He lifted his head and looked at her with anguished eyes. But her face was calm and beautiful, and, as he looked, her eyes softened.

"M'sieur," she whispered, "I wouldn't have had you fail to do your duty. For that I honor you! For this, for your pity and your gentleness to me, for this—"

He held her hand tight. "For this?" he cried, "for this Laure?"

"For this I love you," she answered simply, and laid her free hand upon his cheek.

Belleville Cubs Rally to Defeat Point Anne 7-6

Youthful "Gabby" Moynes racked up his first win in intermediate baseball last evening as coach "Speedy" St. Louis' Belleville Cubs came from behind to chalk out their fourth straight win in the Belleville and District League by downing Point Anne Cementmen 7-6 under the lights at the Fair Grounds.

It was a pitcher's battle all the way with Moynes claiming nine strikeouts and walking five while giving up eight hits and six runs. Bill Strahan went the route on the hill for the losers turning in a very creditable performance in whiffing 10, walking one, and giving up eight hits.

The Cubs, after booting the ball twice in the first frame for two runs, settled down defensively and pulled off three double plays to keep Moynes out of hot water.

The Cubs counted three runs in the bottom of the second. Soules led off with a triple to centrefield. Reeves strolled and stole second. Galbraith went down pitcher to first with the runners being checked. Mulvihill hit to the shortstop who bobbled as Soules scored and Reeves took 3rd. Lockyer struck out and pitcher Moynes rattled a single into right field to score Reeves and Mulvihill. Schreider was hit by the pitcher and Jones went down pitcher to first to end the inning.

Lead Shortlived

Point Anne took over the lead again in the top of the third on singles by Murney Green and Maracle, and a triple by Pete Green, with two away. They added another in the fourth on two errors, a sacrifice and a fielder's choice. Superb fielding from there on shut out the Pointers with but one run in the seventh on a triple by Gilmour and singles by Lewis and Buchanan, as the Cubs came up with double plays in the sixth, seventh and eighth.

The young Bruins pushed over two counters in the fifth on an error, a double by Jones, and a single by Elliott, and finished off with a pair in the eighth on a single by Soules, a triple by Galbraith, and a single by Mulvihill.

Soules and Galbraith tripled for the winners, while Pete Green and Gilmour clouted three baggers for the Cementmen.

FRANKFORD

Softball Team Trims Legion By 14-8 Score

Frankford— Frankford Sidney League softball team won its first game of the season at the expense of their fellow Frankfordites, the Legionnaires by a 14-8 score. For four innings it was all Bates, playing manager of the winners, who pitched magnificent ball, allowing only two scratch hits over that period. While Bates was blanking the Vets, his own team piled up a total of 12 runs. In the thus far silent bats of the Vets, came to life on singles by Smith, Adams and Lohnes, a double by Kelly and a round tripper by Ernie Chard. They added two more in each of the next frames. while the winners scored once in each frame. Courtney struck the big blow of the evening for the "Bates Boys" with a bases loaded triple. Huffman and Mikel combined in the pitching chore for the Vets. Standing after Tuesday night's games is as follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pct
Johnstown	2	1	667
Centenary	1	1	.500
Frankford Legion	1	1	.500
Wallbridge	1	1	.500
Frankford	1	2	.333

"Kill the Ump!" Wherever ball is played, that cry rings out among both the fans and players of the competing teams. Probably no other umpire in the world hears it more often than the Frankford umpire Oscar Farrar No matter what he does, he cannot please everyone. However, with all the razzing and bench jockeying, the teams and fans all think he's a pretty swell guy. Night after night, he is there to contribute his part in promoting sports in the home town, and a right good job he is doing. An umpire is a "necessary evil" in the sport, and he undoubtedly has the toughest job in the field. There will be lots of ball in Frankford this year, and he will hear those same cruel, heartless words "Kill the Ump" many times more before hockey takes over in the field of sport. However, he just laughs it off, and carries on like the true sportsman that he is.

Joe McCarthy Rests Comfortably In Own Home

Buffalo, N. Y., June 23 (AP)— Joe McCarthy, ailing manager of Boston Red Sox, rested comfortably today in his suburban farm home after attacks of pleurisy and temper.

The pleurisy, together with a touch of influenza, came in Chicago earlier this week. Doctors sent him home for a rest.

The attack of temper came as he strode through the gates at Buffalo airport yesterday and made a half-hearted pass at a photographer who snapped his picture. It prompted his wife, who met him at the airport, to remark "No, no, Joe; don't do that."

Later, seated in his automobile, McCarthy managed a smile for the same photographer.

McCarthy's terrier leaped all over his master in delight at having him home.

"At least somebody loves me, anyhow," McCarthy said ruefully.

Denials came from all hands on reports that he is quitting the Red Sox, who have lost 11 of their last 13 games.

PROTEST OUT!

There were argumentative high jinks at the meeting of the Central Ontario Baseball League executive meeting held down Kingston way last night with the verbal fire and fury centred on the eligibility of certain Belleville players to play for the Picton entry. The outcome was that the League tossed out the Batawa protest of a game with Picton in which players Dick Fitzpatrick and Jackie Wardhaugh played for Picton, on the grounds that it bore the wrong date, the accompanying check was not "marked" and the players' names not mentioned.

A bombshell was thrown into the Batawa argument voiced by the team executive president Conney Heldman when President Bob Nesbitt told the meeting that the Batawa team manager Bill Easton had advised the loop executive that the protest had been withdrawn "because he had a deal on with Picton". The protest originally was based on the fact that Fitzpatrick and Wardhaugh and later Vern Goyer had not been waived by Batawa as laid down in the OBA constitution.

Heldman said he was not aware, nor was his executive that Easton had nullified the protest and if such was the case, and if what was said at the meeting were facts, he would waive on all three players. In Goyer's case a release from the Belleville Cubs with which he had signed would be necessary.

Manager Ron Church of the Picton team told the league that if the three players mentioned were not allowed to play with his team, he would withdraw it from the league. In any event, he said, he was not worried over the protest as far as it affected Fitzpatrick and Wardhaugh since he could prove they had established residence in Picton according to OBA regulations.

He further stated that the three players mentioned had informed him that they had no desire to play for Batawa. In the case of Goyer, Church asked the Batawa delegation if they intended keeping him out of baseball by not waiving on him. Mr. Heldman said he would not stand in the way of any one playing baseball, but he was not aware of all the facts nor all that had transpired between Picton and Manager Easton. "If what has been said is true, I would not hesitate to waive any players" he said.

President Nesbitt pointed out that the Batawa club president was not aware of all the facts in regards to actions taken by Manager Easton, and suggested that he (Heldman) contact the Batawa manager and verify statements he had made to the league and to Picton.

Much discussion took place over complaints of teams that games had not been starting on scheduled time. The outcome was that all league umpires will be advised to from this time on all games will be started at the time called, and that the umps be reminded that they are in charge of the game and not the players.

Following a reported incident that a Batawa player struck an official following a game, the league ruled that if similar cases occur, any player who uses abusive language against an official be tossed out of the game and the incident reported to the league.

The schedule was re-drafted to the satisfaction of all concerned. OBA convener Jack Devine reported on the recent OBA annual meeting and urged that this part of Ontario be strongly represented at the 1950 conclave.

A letter was read from the executive of the Belleville Cubs baseball club regarding the status of Vernon Goyer, who, it claimed has signed a certificate with the club, and also one with the Picton team. Manager Church of Picton stoutly denied that Picton had signed Goyer, that no money was involved between his team and the player. The league executive tabled the communication.

BATTLE OF THE GIANTS

Two of the hugest giants in the ranks of the heavyweight wrestlers will shake the foundations of the Memorial Arena toonight when Primo Carnera, the former boxing champion of the world will clash with Sky-Hi Lee, the gigantic Ozark hillbilly. Da Preem, the fabulous, itinerant Italian, has racked up numerous victories, both in the boxing and wrestling rings, with his battering-ram arms. Most of the time, though, he has had a terrific pull in the weight and size departments. However, against the likewise mammoth Lee, who is a pretty fair sort of batterer himself, it is a big question as to what the outcome will be. Something like a couple of irresistible forces colliding, or two immovable objects trying to topple one another. In the semi-final, Timothy Geohagen, the Irish eye-opener, will tangle with Kaye "Samson" Bell. In the opening match, Steve Stanlee, New York television mat star, will tangle with Johnny Barend, popular young Rochester ace.

Feller Proves He Still Has it by Beating Yanks Twice in Row, Indians Climb

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Does Bobby Feller still have it? The answer seems to be "yes."

Even in his balmy days, the Cleveland Indian ace had trouble beating New York. Now he's whipped the Yankees twice in a row.

So-so-Rapid Robert rode home yesterday on five Tribe homers off the Yanks' Lefty Joe Ostrowski, late of St. Louis Browns. The 6-2 victory was no. 199 for Feller. One more and he'll be only active major leaguer in the 200 club.

With Feller's help, the surging Indians' American League pennant stock is booming. Only 5 1-2 games back, they figure to gain while Detroit and New York play an important four-game series opening today.

Cleveland, winning eight of nine, is the hottest club in the league. Yesterday, Jim Hegan and Luke Easter each hit two homers and Ray Boone hit another. For the Yankees Joe Dimaggio nicked Feller for his 13th and big Jawn Mize hit his first.

Washington continued to embarrass the Tigers as Bob Kuzava threw a six-hitter for a 5-2 decision. Despite the defeat, Detroit clung to a one game lead because the Yankees lost.

Irv Noren paced the Washington 13-hit blast with a double and two singles.

Home For Rest

With Manager Joe McCarthy in Buffalo, N.Y., for a rest and physical check-up, Boston Red Sox dropped another game to Chicago 4-2. Steve O'Neill, a coach under McCarthy, took over as acting manager, perhaps for some time to come.

Philadelphia Athletics pounded four St. Louis pitchers for 15 hits and an 8-4 victory. Sam Chapman got a two-run homer for Philadelphia and Sherman Lollar did the same for the Brownies.

Larry Jansen and Dave Koslo, two Giant shutout pitchers, juggled the National League standings. Jansen and Koslo blanked St. Louis 3-0 and 5-0 dropping the Cardinals from a first place tie to third.

As Brooklyn also lost to Cincinnati 9-5, Philadelphia Phillies sneaked into second place, a half game out of first, by dumping Pittsburgh 7-4.

Jansen stretched his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 29 with a six-hit effort against the Cards. Koslo allowed only two hits—third inning singles by Eddie Miller and Tommy Glaviano—in the second game.

The Phils parlayed four home runs and a triple play into Bob Miller's sixth straight win. Willie Jones, Del Ennis, Andy Seminick and Bill Nicholson hit the Phils' homers and Ralph Kiner hammered his 15th for the Pirates.

Sam Snead Wins Medal Round In P.G.A. Tourney

Columbus, O., June 23 — (AP) — Sam Snead, noted among his colleagues as thrifty, today begins defence of his United States Professional Golfers Association crown jingling $250 as the meet's medalist.

Never since the birth of the P.G.A. tournament in 1949 has a defending champion, automatically exempt from the 36-hole qualifying round, condescended to complete for the sake of picking up extra cash. That is, until Snead, who tops the money winners with more than $21,000 and, according to the pro pack, still has every cent of it, came along.

But you can't take anything away from the West Virginia hillbilly—either a penny or a golf shot. He's got both.

Yesterday over the tough 7,032-yard course his lethal chip shots, which left him with only 25 putts for the round, supported a dazzling 68.

This four-under-par effort, matching competitive course record set by wild Bill Mehlhorn and the late Mac Smith in the 1926 U.S. open, gave him a 36-hole total of 140 and medalists honors.

Opponents Don't Like It

When Snead returned to the clubhouse and ducked out without even taking a shower, Lawson Little of the P.G.A. tournament committee managed to tell him: "You won't even let one of us guys try for the medalist prize—you've got to go whole hog."

Most of the pros are either a little irked, or a little jealous, of Snead's ability to save shots and cash at the same time. Little was merely expressing a sentiment which may have been facetious originally but which has grown into a legend finally climaxed on the Scioto course.

If it hadn't been for Snead, Al Brosch of Garden City, N. Y., would be $250 richer today.

The 39-year-old Brosch came in with a 70 for 142. But he had to be content as runner-up medalist worth nothing.

Snead today faces the challenge of the medalist jinx. Only three times has the medalist gone on to win. Olin Dutra did it in 1932 and Walter Hagen in 1924 and 1926.

In today's first round Snead faces an imposing opponent, Sam Byrd. The former New York Yankee outfielder lost to Bryon Nelson 4-3 in the 1945 finals. He has not done much since.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Eddie Robinson White Sox: Drove in all runs of Chicago's 4-2 edge over Boston with his fifth homer and eighth-inning single.

Pitching: Larry Jansen, Giants: Stretched his consecutive scoreless innings streak to 29 with 2-0 job against St. Louis.

Relief Hurler Wins Both Ends Of Doubleheader

By The Associated Press

Andy Tomasic, exiled to the bullpen after completing only one of nine starts, is earning another chance at a starting berth with Jersey City Giants through some neat International League relief pitching.

Tomasic relieved in both ends of a doubleheader last night which the Giants won from Rochester Red Wings 5-2 and 14-5. He saved the first game for rookie George Heller and gained credit for the victory in the second game.

The twin triumphs moved the Giants to within a half-game of the second-place Red Wings and to within 1 1-2 games of the pace-setting Springfield Cubs.

Tomasic, who hasn't started a game since June 10, relieved Heller in the sixth inning of the opener and held the Wings hitless the rest of the way.

The big righthander took over from Roger Bowman in the fourth inning in the nightcap and stopped the Wings on three hits over the remaining distance.

Chet Laabs, who poled two home runs to beat the Wings Wednesday night, socked one in each game to increase his output to nine. Laabs featured a four-run explosion with a two-run homer in the fourth inning of the opener and climaxed a three-run rally in the third of the nightcap with his second homer.

Syl Yvars was the big gun in the finale for the Giants, Yvars drove in five runs on a pair of homers.

Bisons Beaten Again

Baltimore Orioles trounced the last place Buffalo Bisons 13-3, behind the seven-hit pitching of Russ Bauers. The victory was Bauers' fifth against one loss. Al Cihocki led Baltimore's 13-hit attack by driving in five runs on a double and three singles.

Clyde King, veteran righthander pitched Montreal Royals to an 8-0 triumph ofer Syracuse Chiefs. The victory enabled the Royals to take over fifth place from Syracuse.

King granted nine hits and also drove in a run and scored two on a triple and single.

First Baseman Chuck Connors of the Royals climed into the stand in the eighth inning after a fan and with other spectators joining in there were several punches thrown before police and Montreal players rescued Connors. Connors was banished from the game.

Toronto and Springfield were idle.

Springfield dropped a 4-0 exhibition game to the parent Chicago Cubs before 7,746 fans, largest crowd of the season at Springfield.

Cementmen Win From Alemite By 6 to 5 Count

A four run rally in the fifth inning was the margin of victory for the Point Anne Cementmen as they dropped Stewart-Warner 6-5 in a nifty Commercial Softball League "A" game at the Alemite field last evening.

All the scoring was done in the first five innings. Point Anne opened with a single tally in the second frame on an error and single and added another in the fourth on a 3 base error to the rightfielder and a fielder's choice.

Stewart-Warner took the lead for the first and only time in the game with a powerful outburst in the fourth inning. Ronsky led off with a bases-empty homer to left centre field. Rowbotham singled and went all the way to third on a sacrifice bunt by Ray Reid. Claude Carr flied out to left field and then Lunberg unloaded a fourmaster through centre field to score Rowbotham and put the Alemite one up.

Return to Attack

The Point returned to the attack in the top of the fifth to register four runs. With one away Jack Hunter singled to centre field and scored on Finlan's triple to left. Everett walked and Lawrence Horwood singled to score Finlan as Everett went to third. Keith Baldwin popped out to the shortstop and then Brant got a life on an error to Lefort at short as Everett scored and Horwood took third. Jim Hunter drove home Horwood with the winning run with a single to right field. Brant went out at third on a force play to end the inning.

Stewart-Warner put together three singles and a fielder's choice for two runs to end their scoring in the bottom of the fifth.

Big Jim Hunter went all the way for the winners walking one, striking out four, and being tagged for nine hits and five runs.

Roy McMillan went the first five frames for the losers walking two, striking out three and giving up seven hits for all the runs. Harold Dracup went four scoreless innings in relief striking out one, walkin gone, and giving up four hits.

Line up: Point Anne— Sword, 3b; Jack Hunter lf; Finlan rf; Everett cf; L. Horwood 2b; K. Baldwin ss; Brant, c; replaced by M. Green in the 9th, c; Jim Hunter, p; Logue 1b.

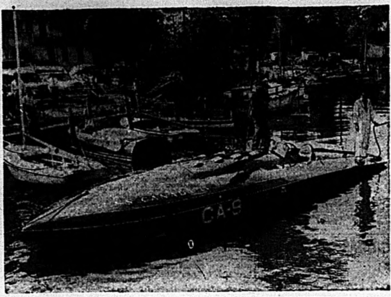
Canada, England to Provide Tough Opposition in World Speed Record Marathon



MISS CANADA IV . . . CANADA'S CHALLENGE FOR HARMSWORTH TROPHY
—Central Press Canadian Photos

BLUEBIRD IS ENGLAND'S CHOICE

Meanwhile, from London, England, all seems to be going well for Don Campbell, who hopes to make a trial run with the renovated Bluebird, another contender for world's speed record, soon. She's the same beauty in which Campbell's father, the late Sir Malcolm, set the world mark 11 years ago. Last year, in seeking the world mark, Campbell pushed Bluebird to an unofficial 150 m.p.h. on the first run down the measured mile. However, on the return trip, the gearbox broke down.

Miss Canada IV's new steel propeller has become so entangled in Canadian government red tape that it has become "stuck" temporarily. The propeller, made in England for 33-foot Canadian-built craft, is awaiting further customs invoices from Britain before it can be freed. Owner Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., said boat, Canada's challenge for Harmsworth trophy, will be ready for a try out at Gravenhurst by the end of June. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

Two Athletes Return Home From England

(By The Canadian Press)

Two touring Canadian athletes travelled home Thursday night after a "very pleasant" invasion of British and continental tracks.

Toronto's Richard Ferguson and Bob McFarlane, of London, Ont., left from London, Eng., airport—Ferguson to compete in four track meets in the next month, McFarlane to resume work in a "lab" at the University of Western Ontario.

Thus ended a visit in which McFarlane, right at the peak of his form, snatched 10 victories against British, United States and European challengers, and finished second and third in his other two appearances.

Ferguson, rated as something of a boy wonder, finished first twice in nine races against older opponents.

The New Haven team in the American Hockey League will operate next season as an independent organization, it was decided Thursday at New York by the league's Board of Governors.

New York Rangers of the National Hockey League recently announced they had severed connections with the New Haven Club, which was reported to have lost $87,000 last year for the Rangers. New Haven finished fourth in the eastern division of the two-division, 10-team circuit.

Maurice Podoloff, who presided over the annual business meeting, said the circuit would function again with ten clubs—five in each division.

Dave (Sweeney) Schriner former all-star leftwinger in the National Hockey League, will return as coach of North Sydney Victorias of the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League next season, club President Ed Swyers, announced Thursday at Sydney, N.S.

Schriner is the only one of last year's Cape Breton coaches expected back. Murph Chamberlain, former N.H.L. star who coached Sydney Millionaires, and Hal Dewey of Smiths Falls, Glace Bay Miners coach, will not return.

England's all stars, led by centre-forward Nat Lofthouse with four goals, Thursday night scored a 7-1 victory over Sweden Jonkoping here in an international soccer exhibition game seen by a crowd of 12,000 at Montreal.

Lofthouse put on a dazzling performance for the English team. The Swedes turned in their best play of the contest during the first 10 minutes, but Lofthouse booted his first tally and England took over command.

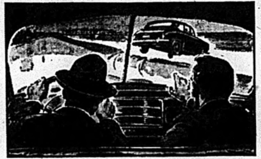
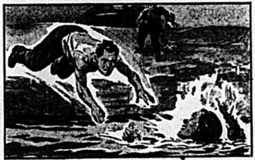
YOUTH DIVES INTO SOULANGES CANAL; SAVES DROWNING WOMAN

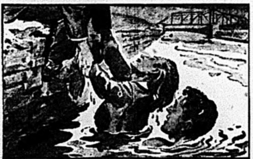
Gordon Emblem, 22, of Cornwall, Ont., makes plunge in semi-darkness near Cascades, Que.



1. Gordon Emblem and Joseph Hart, both of Cornwall, were driving to Montreal. It was a rainy night and darkness was falling as they were doing the long stretch beside the Soulanges Canal. Suddenly, ahead of them, they saw the red tail light of a car — skidding off the road and over the canal bank!



2. By the time Emblem had put on his brakes, the other car had gone under. Racing to the canal bank, Emblem saw a woman struggling in the water. He took time only to remove some of his clothes . . . and then dove in and grasped her. After several minutes, he managed to bring her to the bank.



3. Joe Hart was at the canal's edge and, using all his strength, succeeded in pulling the woman out. Unfortunately her husband had drowned while she was being rescued. For his gallantry and coolness in averting what would certainly have been a double tragedy, we are proud to present Gordon Emblem with THE DOW AWARD.

THE Dow AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A partner may lead with his chin or maybe from fright that is dumb. But classed with this breed is the partner whose lead is the card that is nearest his thumb.

When you lead from a suit of four cards or more, start with the fourth best; fourth from your highest. When you lead from a short suit (three cards or less) do the opposite. Start with your highest.

Apply this rule to the lead from partner. So, when he leads a small card you need not go into a trance. Realize what is shown. You know at once he has either three higher or none higher.

Keep repeating that to yourself. The small card lead from my partner is either his fourth best or his highest. It is one or the other. It is nothing else but one of these two.

If partner is too stubborn to follow this standard method, you soon have him classified. If partner is an expert with other ideas he is a fool for not warning you of these in advance.

If partner is a leader who does not know this standard method, be kind to dumb animals. Do not criticize. He has done the best he could with what he had. And you mean in his head.

Against a four heart contract by south, west has the hand shown here:

♥K 6
♦A J 9 7
♣K 8 4 3

The correct opening lead from west is his seven of spades. It is his highest card in a suit of less than four cards. Top of a short.

If west led from his diamond suit his correct lead would have been his seven of diamonds. Thus, his lead of a seven may be a fourth best of a long suit or his highest of a short suit.

As this series progresses you will learn why he should not lead his diamonds. Also how you know that your correct lead from such a hand is a spade. Also how partner knows you have diamond ace.

A rule prevails to cure your ails.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 23 — (AP)— Take it from Amanda Blake, it's no fun being known as a "young Greer Garson."

"I see red only twice — when I look in the mirror and when I read that I'm a second Greer Garson," the young actress remarked.

The 21-year-old redhead from Buffalo, N. Y. recently severed a contract with M. G. M., home lot of Miss Garson. Amanda did only two pictures in two years there. She felt that her inactivity might have been caused by the resemblance to the more famous star.

"I felt it many times," she sighed. "Once I reported for a dramatic lesson the coach looked at me and said, 'Amanda, can't you part your hair some other way? It makes you look too much like someone else on the lot.'

"I rushed home and parted my hair in the middle and have ever since. I even wore it tied up in a big bun in back.

"I don't want to be a reasonable facsimile of anyone. I feel that I have my own personality and I don't want to be typed as anyone else."

But everyone else, including me, seems to note the resemblance.

Happy Ending

Amanda took her crusade to the studio publicity department. "I pleaded with them to stop linking me with Miss Garson. They just nodded and kept on doing it."

Finally she and the studio parted. "I was bored and I guess they were, too," she explained.

But there is a happy ending to the story. She was signed immediately by Columbia Pictures and put into a starring role in a mystery. Furthermore, the studio publicity department is giving her what it calls the "de-Garsonized" treatment.

"It's fun being me again," said Amanda.

NEED LIGHT TO EAT

Canberra—(CP)—Many Australian finches sent by air to the United States recently were found to be dying on the way. It was found that many of the birds died because they were unable to find their food and water in the darkness of their boxes. Cages are now made with a little electric light bulb operated from a battery.

Circus People Left Some Money In Kingston

Kingston, June 23 — (CP) — The circus came to town Thursday, and before sundown five members had been fined for their activities with the travelling troupe.

Michael O'Brien and John Stevens, both of Gonzales, Texas, were fined $200 each for running gambling games. William C. Hammond, Miami, Fla., paid $200 and costs for keeping a common gaming house, and Daniel Mahoney $25 for obstructing an officer.

Frances Doran, a dancer, was fined $50 and sentenced to two weeks for doing an indecent act in public.

All five pleaded guilty.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was trying to open the iddle draw of her desk, saying pop, Now why dont this draw ome open, William? It cant be ocked, because this desk never ad any keys. In fact it has no eyholes, she said.

It reminds me of a caracter I sed to know, pop said. We called im Slovenly Slim, and he didn't ear shoe lacers, because he ever had shoes, he said, and ma aid, It's stuck, there must be ome little thing that's holding Meening the draw, and she kept pulling at it and jiggeling it, and pop said, It needs a man's touch. All the best berglars and safe crackers are men, because a man's touch is finer than a woman's, he said.

All rite, man, do you think you can open it? ma said, and pop said, Like a breeze, my dear.

And he went over to try, ma saying, Now for land sakes make it a gentle breeze, William, and not a cyclone. I dont want anything broken with your delicate touch, she said.

Being sourcastic, and pop tried for about 5 minutes, starting with easy shakes and ending with hard bangs, saying, Horse blanket to blazes, it's locked from the inside.

Now William how is that possible?? ma said, and pop said, I wish I knew. What do you want to get out of it that's so important anyway? he said.

Nothing, ma said. In fact I think it's empty. But I hate a stuck draw on general principals. It's like being in a room with a person that you're sure wont anser you in case you decide to speek to them. I think I know where there's an old button hook. You can open anything with a button hook. So dont go away, William, she said.

I'm away alreddy, pop said.

Which he was, back in his private chair in back of his paper.

Official Figures of Aussie Prices Said Misleading

By LOUIS L. LECK
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — As in Canada, the cost of living nowadays is uppermost in the minds of most Australians.

Official statistics say that living costs increased about 60 per cent between September, 1939, and December 1949. Economists and housewives, however, claim that prices generally have doubled.

The reasons for this discrepancy are fairly simple. The government statistics cover only basic items for a comparatively low living standard. Luxury items have increased more than the 60 per cent and, in many cases, the quality of goods has deteriorated. Goods are often in short supply and high-priced substitutes have to be purchased.

In addition, rent prices, which the government claims have changed insignificantly, have been boosted by various devices to defeat controls and stand at about a 100-per-cent increase.

In 1939, for instance, it was possible to rent a two-bedroom cottage in a Sydney suburb for £1.10.0 ($4.65) a week. Nominal rent for the same cottage today is unchanged, but "extras" would bring the real price to about £3.10.0. With an average wage in the area of £10 to £11, this is slightly more than the accepted North American figure of 25 per cent of income for rent.

Fruit Prices Trebled

Official figures show approximately a 53 - per - cent increase in food costs. Housewives, however, say the figures are based on basic items subsidized by the government or subject to a price control more theoretical than real. They say the figures take no account of the failure of the price control on meat, nor of the prices of fruit and vegetables, which have trebled.

Representatives of the increased food costs are butter, which now costs 2s. 2d. (34 cents) per pound compared with 1s. 8½d. prewar; peas and beans, 5d. per pound in 1939, now costs 1s. 3d.; six pounds of potatoes have gone from 6d. to 2s.

Government statistics on clothing show almost 200 per cent increase, but shoppers say it costs nearer four times the 1939 price to dress nowadays, due to inferior quality.

Official figures also allow for a 50-per-cent increase in miscellaneous items — transportation, entertainment, medical bills, etc. Australians again are dubious as to their practicality. Theatre prices have more than doubled, from 1s. 3d. in a suburban cinema to 2s. 9d; cheap restaurant meals are up to 6s from 2s. 6d; for a permanent wave, a woman now pays £3.3.0 for what she paid £1.5.6 10 years ago.

Wages have also gone up, but no one is quite sure as to the situation of the standard of living, because of their skeptical view of official cost-of-living statistics.

Unskilled laborers have had their wages doubled to about £9 ($27.90) a week. White - collar workers have increased salaries by about 60 per cent. Wages of from £6.10.0 to £14 now are roughly £10 to £20.

Anglers Paradise Fishing Banned

Montreal (CP)— There's fisherman's paradise right in Montreal's back yard these days, but there is one big restriction —no fishing.

The scope of this angler's nightmare is the new provincial hatchery located in suburban Lachine. Behind a sturdy steel fence, muskellunge, bass and wall-eyed pike are carefully nursed to a size big enough for provincial lakes.

The muskies, main product of this "factory", are brought along through a series of crib-like hatcheries until they are big enough to be placed in pools. Some of them are more than four feet long, weighing up to 35 pounds.

Then, as the demand arises, they are shipped out to 'market'.

In charge of this new hatchery is Gustave Prevost, head of the Provincial Biological bureau. It was largely through him that the bureau, co-operating with the city of Lachine, started construction.

By the time the hatchery is finished, it will be equipped with a three-storey building housing laboratory and offices, a series of small hatching tanks and a large artificial pond for the "big fellows."

The hatchery will close again this fall but will operate all-year-round when installation is completed.

Failure to Win Syrian Merger Depresses Iraq

By STAN SWINTON

Bagdad, June—(CP)—This sun-baked capital and the nation of Iraq—cradle of Western civilization——are plagued by the political and economic headaches brought by progress.

The country is suffering from a depression.

It is frustrated by neighbor Arab nationsin a great Iraqi desire: Union with Syria.

Iraq had its genesis in the ideal of Arab unity. When the new state was created out of Mesopotamia and placed under British mandate in 1920. The great proponent of a United Arab world, Emir Feisal, was made king He was of the Hashemite house, which led the revolt in the desert beside Lawrence of Arabia.

Britain and France frustrated Feisal's dream but the idea lives on. As a first step, the Iraqi want to merge with Syria, which has a population of 3,400,000 and an area of 54,300 square miles. Lumped with Iraq's 5,000,000 population and 116,600 square miles this would make a nation of greater political importance with a sounder economic base

Iraquis believe a majority of Syrians favor merger. In Damascus a reporter encounters both pro and anti-merger sentiment. Certainly a large percentage of Syrians do support the idea. Others might be for it if the sponsors abandoned idealistic generalities for a firm plan defining just what kind of a government they propose.

Still a Dream

Last fall the merger seemed close. But Egyptian and Saudi Arabian pressure on Syria's shaky government made the Syrians shy away.

Saudi Arabia opposed any merger because it would have increased power of the Hashemite house, blood enemies of its king, Ibn Saud.

So Iraq's big political dream of union remains just a dream.

More important in this desert land is the increasing economic depression. The departure of thousands of Iraqi Jews for Israel is a big factor, Iraquis frankly admit. The Jews were the businessmen and money lenders of Baghdad. Now many are gone. Those remaining have taken their capital off the market and hoard it as a result of Arab-Jew tension.

As a result, trade has slumped drastically.

Economists say another factor was a recent law that any money lender must declare assets of more than £50 ($155) and keep 15 per cent of his capital in the National bank. Bazaar money lenders—traditionally secretive—had about 1,000,000 pounds in fluid capital to finance Iraq's small traders. Rather than reveal their resources, the lenders hid their money. Many were Jews who felt a declaration of capital might result in discriminatory legislation as a result, small businessmen cannot get credit and buying has slowed drastically.

All sources agree there is capital in Iraq. How to pry it loose is the big question. Unless this is done, economists fear a full-fledged depression.

Giant 'Copter Wrecked in Ground Tests

Culver City, Calif., June 23 — (AP)— The giant jet helicopter that Howard Hughes is building for the United States Air Force tore loose from its moorings and was wrecked yesterday while undergoing ground tests.

No one was injured.

The massive craft, designated the XH-17, was rolled out for ground test March 27. It is the largest and most spectacular helicopter ever built, but was designed as a "flying crane" to lug huge loads, such as tanks, field guns and vehicles, for short distances. Its construction permits it to settle over loads much in the fashion that a lumber carrier moves over a stack of boards. It is designed to lift a weight of some 10 tons.

The U.S. Air Force said the XH-17 is a secret project. No details of the accident were disclosed.

APPOINTS TRUSTEE

Toronto, June 23 — (CP)—Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven in Ontario Supreme Court Thursday appointed the Public Trustee to manage the estate of Thomas H. Gray, missing since Feb. 28 from his Scugog Island farm near Port Perry.

His wife, Mrs. Nellie Gray, 62, now is residing in Toronto.

Abdication Story Not True Picture Says Editor

Toronto, June 23 (CP) —Allan Pitt Robbins, editor of the Times of London, said yesterday that the account of the abdication given by the Duke of Windsor in his memoirs, is not a true picture of what happened.

Mr. Robbins in a speech to the Empire Club here took exception to the Dukes portrayal of Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Britain during the abdication period and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Mr. Robbins, Parliamentary correspondent of the Times for 15 years, said:

"Mr. Baldwin had a real affection for the Monarch, as he called him in those days. He hoped and believed that he could persuade the Duke to change his mind. . . He told me once there was a time when he (Baldwin) loved him almost like his own son, which doesn't sound like the man described in the book which is now issued."

Cloud Busting Horses Compete in Big Circus

CHARLES MOROSKI, world famous Polish horseman and trainer and "Satan," one of his star equine performers with the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Sky pawing "Satan" is not jet-propelled, but he is a performing liberty horse that goes on high faster than a turpentined eagle.

Although "Satan" is good, he has no easy time staying on top in the liberty horse numbers, for Charles Moroski, the famous Polish horseman and trainer, makes stars of all his equine pupils — three squadrons of them.

With new groups of horses, racing free without lines or reins, Moroski has this year added much to the appeal of the equestrian displays of the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus, coming to Belleville, Monday, July 3, and that fits the pace throughout the 1950 edition of The Greatest Show on Earth. Everything is keyed to break on high — high, wide and handsome.

With an outstanding array of European features, never before seen in America, an opulent and breath-taking beautiful new super-spectacle, "When Dreams Come True," produced by John Ringling North and staged by John Murray Anderson, highlighting the greatest assemblage of headline attractions the circus has ever boasted, performances will begin at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m., with doors open at 1 and 7.

PICTON

Council Defeats Salary Increase For Constables

Picton — Prince Edward County council concluded its June session yesterday. A suggestion by Reeve H. MacDonald that the salaries of the two county constables be increased to $500 per year was defeated. They receive $300. plus fees collected from court appearances and other work. Reeve R. Cockburn criticized the police, saying much speeding is ignored and favoritism is shown. Reeve A. Bowerman voiced similar sentiments but Reeve J. Cleminson stated it would be hard to find two better men.

Put On New Roofs

Council decided to put new roofs on the county building, the Crystal Palace and the fruit building at the fair grounds.

Council decided to investigate the possible cost to the county in connection with a proposed free ferry service to connect Deseronto and Prince Edward shore near Northport. Warden N. Whitney and Reeve J. K. Welsh favored the idea. Reeve J. C. Cooper, Picton, felt a free ferry would take trade away from Picton merchants..

No Grant Requested

Prince Edward County Hospital advised that no grant would be asked for their proposed convalescent home. It will be financed from hospital funds and involves purchase of a house near the institution. Acting at the request of the Chamber of Commerce, council agreed to clean up Outlet beach and place containers for waste.

On June 24, 1949, he was given an additional six months at Toronto for escaping lawful custody at Mimico. He was sent to Burwash.

And even after 15 minutes the screening springs back to its original shape without trace of bulge or dent. That's only one feature of Firestone Velon Lifetime Screening. Once up it never needs to be replaced or repainted for it comes in fadeproof colors and is guaranteed forever against rust or corrosion. It's light in weight and cuts with ordinary scissors. ON AGAIN, OFF AGAIN

Hastingleigh, Kent, England—(CP)—Eighty-year-old Jimmy Mills is getting used to retiring. He has just retired for the third time. For 40 years he was a farmer. He retired but soon returned to farming. He retired again and yet he returned to work. Now he's retired for the third time—for good, he hopes.

Runs Down Road Wearing Only Socks and Shoes

Sudbury, Ont., June 23 — (CP) — Raymond Latourneau, 19, ran down a country road while wearing only his socks and shoes — but in court yesterday he said a snake was to blame.

He said he was sitting on the grass on a roadside near his home at nearby Larchwood recently and saw the snake.

"I got so scared I just began throwing my clothes about and started running. I was too scared even to go back and put them on."

Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe fined Letourneau $20 for indecency and remarked:

Bidault, Cabinet Overthrown By Nat. Assembly

Cabinet's Fall May be Blow To Coal-Steel Pool Parley

Paris, June 24 —(AP)— The French National Assembly today overthrew Premier Georges Bidault and his middle-of-the-road cabinet. The official vote on a government motion of confidence was 352 to 230 against the government.

The defeat came in the midst of a portentous European coal-steel conference in which France has taken the lead. Some observers said the cabinet's fall may be a blow to those negotiations.

However, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman father of the Schuman plan for industrial co-operation, remains a prime candidate to retain the foreign ministry in any succeeding government, unless his own party Bidault's Mouvement Republican Populaire (M.R.P.) decides against it.

Queuille May be Choice

Former premier Henri Queuille radical socialist (moderate) whose government holds the post war endurance record in France —13 months—may be the choice to take the premiership. Bidault succeeded him in office last October.

Bidault's own M.R.P. and the Radical Socialists supported him against combined opposition of Socialists, comunists and the extreme right-wing De Gaullists.

The vote was on a question which ordinarily would be a minor domestic issue. The government opposed a socialist demand for wage increases under a ruling forbidding such appropriations without providing special funds.

Bidault made it a broad issue of confidence in the whole government and the policies of the coalition cabinet. The socialists heretofore have supported the coalition without joining it in the cabinet.

The net result of the confidence vote may be new general elections in France this year instead of the regularly scheduled ones in 1951. This may come about if Bidault's M.R.P. refuses to join a coalition with Queuilles Radical Socialists. In that event Queuille could not demand the necessary majority in the National Assembly.

Rider Unhurt As Motorcycle Flares Up

Aside from being thrown off, just how fast can a rider dismount from a motorcycle?

It is not known whether anyone has actually been timed in the feat, but Ralph Godden, 29 Hillside Street, city, feels that he has established a record of some sort.

It all happened Friday evening when Godden was riding his motorcycle on Highland Ave. He was riding serenely along when suddenly the entire motor flared up in flames. It was then that Godden established his record in dismounting.

Godden had purchased the motorcycle only a few hours previous and while riding last night a screw came out of the sediment bulb allowing gasoline to run out over the hot motor.

Firemen were called to the scene to extinguish the blaze but the cycle was badly damaged by the flames.

Trigger-Happy Bandit Gets $1300 in Holdup

Kazabazua, Que., June 24 (CP) — A trigger-happy bandit today held up a merchant in this Gatineau Valley village 40 miles northeast of Ottawa, escaping with $1,300 in cash after firing three wild shots at his victim.

The merchant, W. A. Kenney, frightened but not hurt, told police he was carrying a $1,300 pulpwood - cutters payroll and was just about to unlock his general store when the bandit ran towards him and shouted:

"Drop that box".

The bandit, believed to be about 27 or 28 years of age, without warning then fired three shots from a revolver in Mr. Kenney's direction.

Mr. Kenney said he was carrying the payroll in a fisherman's tackle box. The bandit scooped up the box as Mr. Kenney dropped it and fled.

Mr. Kenney said the bandit escaped in a dark-colored sedan, heading south towards Hull, Que., and Ottawa. Pedestrians who noticed the bandit getting into the car told police that a second man was at the wheel.

Quebec Provincial Police immediately threw a road block on the Hull-Maniwaki highway which runs through Kazabazua.

MILITARY FUNERAL

St. Catharines, June 24 (CP) — A funeral will full military honors Monday will be accorded Maj.-Gen. W. B. M. King, C.M.G., D.S.O., V.C., who died in Toronto Friday.

The 44th. Field Regiment, RCA, commanded by Lt.-Col. Murray Robertson, will provide the escort party, bearer party and regimental band. The 10th. Battery, which the late General commanded at the start of First World War, is a part of the regiment. Veterans from Niagara Falls, Welland and Port Colborne are expected to take part in the funeral.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, June 24 (CP)—Synopsis: Relief from Friday's heat and high humidity came to Northern Ontario this morning with the arrival of cooler drier air from the prairies. A slow southward motion of this air is indicated for today and Sunday. Consequently little change in weather is anticipated for extreme Southwestern Ontario. Elsewhere Sunday should be sunny and cooler.

Newfoundland Marks 453rd Anniversary

St. John's, Nfld., June 24—(CP) —Newfoundland, with much of her historic past unknown, Friday celebrated "Newfoundland Day". —The 453rd anniversary of discovery by John Cabot.

There actually has been some claim that the Bristol explorer did not land at Newfoundland but in Cape Breton Island. But C. E. A. Jeffery, veteran St. John's newspaper man and a member of the historic sites and monuments board of Canada, says this claim "is a contention unsupported by any facts and is contrary to every reasonable supposition."

ABBOTT IS MUM ABOUT GOVT. CONTROLS POLICY

Refuses Information On Canadian Dollar

Ottawa, June 24 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott, possibly the only man in Canada who knows the answer, declined in the Commons yesterday to go out on a limb about the Canadian dollar and related foreign exchange controls.

Amid reports that the dollar might be revalued and the controls relaxed, he told the chamber he wasn't going to influence stock market sales by prophesying what may hapen to the value of the dollar and to exchange restrictions.

He addressed the reply to J. M. Macdonnel (PC—Toronto Greenwood), Progressive Conservative financial critic who termed it "most unsatisfactory."

The discussion developed as the chamber, striking towards possible prorogation next week opened consideration of finance department estimates.

The House gave final reading to four bills—one ratifying a new Canadian-American tax agreement, another improving the Canadian Citizenship Act, a third inserting new safety regulations in the Canada Shipping Act and a fourth placing the National Film Board on a more business-like basis.

In the early stages, Resources Minister Winters announced that Newfoundland has signed an agreement for construction of its section of the Trans-Canada highway. Quebec and Nova Scotia are the only provinces which still have not reached agreements.

Estimates Tabled

The government asked for another $300,000 for completion of a permanent home here for Canadian prime ministers, bringing the total cost to $410,000.

Mr. Abbott tabled supplementary estimates of $82,451,398, bringing to $2,393,782,998 total estimated expenditures by the government for the 1950-51 fiscal year.

The finance debate featured the varied activities of the day and produced a motion by Rodney Adamson (PC — York West) to reduce from $205,000 to $1 the amount provided for administration of foreign exchange controls. It was quickly defeated.

Mr. Adamson wanted to see the controls abolished and Canada's currency put back on the gold standard.

Mr. MacDonnell also protested against the principle of controlled currency and against Mr. Abbott's refusal to indicate whether or not it was to be permanent government policy.

Mr. Winters, piloting the film board bill, said the government intends to set up a $700,000 operation account for the board. It would take care of all board expenses and receive all profits from board operations. Any deficits would be met by appropriation by Parliament.

J. W. Murphy (PC — Lambton West) suggested that Canada should tell the film "moguls" of Hollywood that they would have to undertake to show Canadian films in their theatres if they wanted to show their productions in Canada.

Wax-Preserved Body of Child Martyr Viewed by Thousands in Basilica

Vatican City, June 24 (AP) — The wax-preserved body of young Maria Goretti, "Martyr of Purity" was displayed today in the Basilica of St. John and St. Paul as thousands of Roman Catholic faithful gathered to witness her elevation to sainthood.

Later today, Maria will be declared a saint in a huge, outdoor canonization ceremony in St. Peter's Square.

The Pope will present the murdered child as a model for all the world's youth. She died 48 years ago at the age of 11 from 14 dagger wounds, rather than submit to a man's passion.

Precedent will be set when Maria's 87-year-old mother witnesses the elevation ceremony—a privilege enjoyed by no other mother in the church's long history.

Maria's murderer, Alessandro Serenelli, who still is living, is not expected to attend the elevation, although he was the principal witness in her behalf in the canonization process.

The 68-year-old Serenelli, after serving 27 years of a 30-year sentence for the murder, works as a gardener in a Capuchin Monastery in Ascoli, Italy.

Wire Service to Newsroom Badly Disrupted by Storm

If you don't like the selection of news in today's Ontario Intelligencer, don't blame us — blame the elements.

Wire service to Belleville and presumably to other Eastern Ontario centres was cut off from approximately 3.20 this morning until about 7.30 a. m. by the storm which swept Eastern Ontario. The Canadian Press wire is automatically cut in here at 3.00 a.m., and the electric clock in the news room was stopped at 3.20 this morning.

When service was resumed, copy coming over the wire was unreadable in many cases, and had to be scrapped. Garbled messages read something like this: "JT COAST GUAREE T VRHDTPOR GOVERNMENT WA OLWOULDEDG IDE GAUL RLE INGPHIS RESIGNATION NEHR INEVITABLE. HE WAS SUPPORTED BY HIS OWN MOVEMENT."

On one sheet of the ultimately discarded copy were messages from Brockville and Cornwall to Toronto that they were not receiving the stories in good shape. Of the copy that did come through the Belleville machines in good shape, much was broken into part-stories, with the result that the news desk was a jumble of small slips of copy.

At 9.00 o'clock ,the Intelligencer wired Canadian Press in Toronto for a repeat on several stories, including the account of an airliner believed missing over Lake Michigan with 68 persons aboard. Also asked for were stories on the robbery of and beating up of Queen Mary's servant and the French socialist party demise.

Drenching Rain, Thunderstorm General Over Quinte District

With district farmers and city residents alike scanning the skies hoping for rainfall which would dampen their fields, vegetable and flower gardens and lawns, all wishes were realized early Saturday when a total of two and a half inches of rain fell over the Quinte district in a matter of hours.

Depressing heat and high humidity Friday afternoon and evening gave an indication that rain was in the offing but after a drizzling beginning the deluge descended with a suddenness that all but flooded storm sewers and roadways.

The rain started shortly before three o'clock and then at three the deluge and electric storm struck with a suddenness that startled all residents from their beds.

Blinding lightning and sharp cracking thunder swept over the district for the period of the heavy deluge and then subsided an hour or so later.

Despite the sharpness of the lightning, however, no reports of buildings being struck or destoyed were received up to a late hour this morning, but hydro lines did not escape the storm.

Officials of the local public utilities stated that trouble was general throughout the city and rural districts and limbs were ripped off trees only to fall across hydro lines and blow fuses. At the filtration plant west of the city the power was off from shortly after three o'clock until nearly nine. During the power cut-off gasoline motors were used to pump water for the city.

It was the heaviest rainfall received in the district for many months with the fall up to ten o'clock measuring exactly two and a half inches—just one tenth of an inch short of the average rainfall for June.

FARMER FLUSHES SLEEPING MAN FROM HAYLOFT

Langton, Ont., June 24 (CP)—The hunt for the man who killed two men after robbing a Langton bank was concentrated today in the area around Straffordville, 10 miles west of here and 10 miles directly north of the Lake Erie shore at Port Burwell.

A farmer doing his evening chores flushed a sleeping man from a hayloft hideout at Straffordville last night and squads of provincial police swept in to take up the chase.

In the hayloft police found an overcoat and two half-peeled potatoes, which the man had gnawed on before falling asleep.

When word was received that Bert Luce had seen the possible suspect in his barn police threw a cordon of more than 200 men around the area. The police said they were sure that the wanted man had been there.

Luce told police "It's him, all right," as he described the wanted man's features, build and clothing. He said he had gone to pitch hay down to the cattle. He heard a groan.

"I let go of the fork and got out of there fast," said Luce. "I jumped 10 feet to the barn floor and lit out for the house. I heard him hit the boards after me and when I was halfway to the house I dropped on my belly figuring he was going to open fire. But he headed for the bush."

The bank-robber escaped Wednesday with $23,000 in a holdup of the Imperial Bank branch at Langton. When his automobile ran into a ditch he poured bullets into a pursuing car, killing Arthur Lierman and William Goddyn.

HOUSEKEEPER OF QUEEN MARY BADLY BEATEN

London, June 24 — (CP) — A man broke into Marlborough House, home of 83-year-old Queen Mary , early today and severely beat an aged housekeeper and her helper.

The Queen Mother was asleep in another part of the house, an old landmark built by Sir Christopher Wren and was not disturbed.

The injured women were Mrs. Alice Knight, a housekeeper, who is in her 60s, and an assistant, Mrs. Winnifred Ralph, about 50.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Knight, severely beaten about the head and shoulders, was in a serious "but not grave" condition. Mrs. Ralph's condition was less serious.

The intruder was believed to have scaled a vine-covered wall then entered the house through a window. He apparently prowled through several rooms but did not enter the Queen's private apartments on the second floor.

Marlborough House contains one of Britain's finest art collections. Nothing appeared to have been taken.

Mrs. Knight heard the intruder enter her room and shouted a challenge. He struck her savagely and slashed her about the shoulders, apparently with a penknife.

Awakened by her screams, other members of the household staff ran to her aid. Mrs. Ralph was struck several times by the intruder.

The alarm touched off inch-by-inch search of the huge house and the four-acre grounds.

At dawn, a police truck drove into the grounds. Plainclothesmen put into it a small black tin trunk, like a cash box, and a small cardboard box.

Marlborough House is a long building of three storeys built in red brick with stone pilasters and dressings.

Queen Mary lived there as Princess of Wales. She left it in 1910 to become Queen but returned in 1936 after her husband, King George V, died.

CONTRIBUTORY OLD AGE PENSION PLAN OPPOSED

Goodfellow Expresses Opinion on Scheme

Kingston, June 24 — (CP) — The impracticability of contributory scheme of old age pensions was underlined last night by William A. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Public Welfare and Acting Minister of Health. Speaking to the annual meeting of the Frontenac - Addington Progressive Conservative Association, he said a contributory scheme would be unwieldy to administer and that many would be unable to contribute to such a scheme.

Pointing out that a contributory scheme would take from 20 to 25 years to become operative, he stated that a non-contributory plan is the only alternative.

Discussing the operation of his department, he said that "the tendency during the past few years has been towards public welfare," He recommended that private welfare organizations be encouraged to a greater extent since, he believes, "we are moving in the wrong direction."

But although he recommended a strengthening of private welfare organizations, he admitted that "in order to develop social welfare in a free-enterprise system, we must have a public welfare program." However, he warned that "we must remember that the citizens are the ones who pay for such a program."

Mr. Goodfellow stated his sympathy for disabled persons, who at present "can receive aid only through municipalities."

"We have a responsibility to give serious consideration to helping these people through legislation, and to rehabilitating them," he added.

Four Persons Believed Killed In Plane Crash

London, June 24—(Reuters)—An unidentified plane said to be carrying four persons is reported to have crashed today near Dalehead, four miles north of Clitheroe, Lancashire.

First reports said the plane was a passenger aircraft making for the Isle of Man from Leeds. But a Ministry of Civil Aviation spokesman said later the Leeds-Isle of Man plane landed safely.

He added: "We have no other reports of any planes missing or crashed."

Police from Lancashire and Yorkshire began to investigate the reported crash.

An Air Control official said the report might have been caused by confusion over a plane which crashed at Dalehead about a month ago. Some of the wreckage of this might have caused the present report, he said.

Searchers Locate Oil Slick Off Milwaukee, Wis.

Plane Bound for West Coast From La Guardia in N.Y.

Chicago, June 24 — (AP) — A Northwest Air Liner with 58 persons aboard was reported missing today over wind-lashed Lake Michigan.

The United States coast guard district office in Milwaukee, Wis., said their surface craft had located an oil slick off Milwaukee. They did not know the origin of the slick.

However, the oil slick area, about nine miles southeast of Milwaukee, was marked off with buoys. The coast guard said wreckage of an unknown nature and some dye markers also had been found.

The coast guard did not comment on a report that divers might be sent down to investigate whether the plane sank into the waters there.

If all aboard the DC-4 four-engined air coach are lost, it will be the most disastrous crash in United States commercial aviation history. The plane was en route from New York to the Pacific Northwest.

A gigantic air and surface search net was thrown out from both east and west shores of Lake Michigan.

Fogs clinging to the surface of the water hampered early morning searchers.

There was a crew of three aboard the craft. The skipper was Robert Lind, 35, of Hopkins, Minn.; co-pilot was Vern F. Wolfe, 35, of Minneapolis. Stewardess Bonnie Ann Feldman, 25, of St. Paul, completed the crew roster.

The night plane last reported its position at 12.15 a.m. C.D.T. today. At Minneapolis the Civil Aeronautics Authority said Capt. Lind told them he was over the eastern edge of Lake Michigan at the time.

He asked permission to descend from 3,500 feet to 2,500 feet. The C.A.A. denied the request because there was too much traffic at that altitude already.

The C.A.A. said Capt. Lind did not mention storm conditions. Sections of West Michigan, however, were lashed by electrical storms at about midnight. Winds of gale force slashed through the region.

The plane left La Guardia Field in New York at 9.25 p.m. E.D.T. Friday and was due at Minneapolis at 2.23 a.m. C.D.T. on a non-stop run. N.W.A. officials in Seattle said among the 55 passengers, 11 were bound for Spokane, eight for Seattle, and two for Portland, Ore.

An incomplete passenger list issued in Minneapolis and giving destinations of those aboard listed none as flying to points in Canada.

The Chicago headquarters of the Coast Guard dispatched the cutter Frederick Leek as soon as it was established the plane was overdue.

All Coast Guard stations and State Police posts in Michigan were warned. Two amphibian planes droned off over the lake seeking the missing liner. Early in the search police at suburban White Fish Bay, reported seeing a light on the lake. After 10 minutes it vanished, they added.

Bombers in Air

The naval station at Glenview, Ill., put patrol bombers in the air when the search alarm was sounded. They planned to ride the radio beams that the northwest plane should have followed.

The search area was vast covering about 32,000 square miles.

The big search turned up conflicting reports. In Chicago Coast Guard Captain Daniel Fulford said wreckage had been sighted nine miles off Milwaukee's north breakwater light. Milwaukee craft, however, could not locate it.

The air route traffic control centre in Chicago said that northwest's Duluth control tower ha heard a constant radio signa which it could not fix exactly. Government listening stations said they could not pick it up.

The Milwaukee office of North west Air Lines said one of thei cargo planes had sighted an o slick about six miles southeas of South Milwaukee.

Mysterious Brilliant Ball of Fire Flashes Across Southern States

Dallas, Tex., June 24 — (AP)— A ball of fire flashed across the southern United States sky as the sun sank last night, trailing a streamer of flame and startling thousands.

Or did it? Was it just a speeding plane with the sun's last red and gold rays playing tricks with its vapor trail? Was it a real ball of fire, a meteor? Or was it—could it have been—a flying saucer?

What direction did it travel? Take your choice: East to west or south to east.

And where did it land? If it was a jet plane, at El Paso, Tex.; if a meteor, perhaps in the swamps of Louisiana.

Or maybe there was a meteor as well as a jet.

Here are the known facts: A brilliant light, variously described as a ball of fire and a fiery streak was seen from Montgomery, Ala., to Fort Worth, Tex., at about 7.40 p.m. CST. A ship 350 miles at sea from Balveston, Tex., saw it. A similar flash was seen an hour earlier at Natchez, Miss., and about 20 minutes later at Abilene, Tex. During this period a jet plane was whizzing over the south on a course from Langley Field, Va., to El Paso.

The weather bureau at Moisant International Airport in New Orleans said there were theories that the ball of fire was either the tail-end of a comet or the vapor trail of a high-flying aircraft.

Dr. David V. Guthrie, director of the Lousiana State University Astronomical Observatory, was sure it was a meteor. But he had not seen it.

New Orlean's weather observer E. A. Aime, who did see it, wasn't sure what he saw. He carefully reported the aircraft vapor trail theory, then said:

"It looked like something that came from outside our atmosphere (which reaches upward about 75 miles) and burned up in our atmosphere.

"It was the most brilliant and the brightest meteor—if it was a meteor—I've ever seen. It looked like a sky rocket."

Umbrellas and raincoats were the order of the day this morning on the farmers' market. Outside market was light, as the sellers were driven in time and again by heavy downpours. FLOWER LOVER

Toronto — (CP) — One United States couple who regularly visited the Canadian National Exhibition were attracted by the flower show. The man expressed the wish on his death his ashes might be strewn over the "most beautiful garden in the world." Last fall, it is revealed, the man's wish came true when his ashes were spread at the height of the exhibition.

Do You Want to Count Words in This Dictionary?

"A dictionary," to quote briefly from a dictionary, "is a book containing all, or the principal words of a language..arranged in a stated order, usually alphabeticcally."

Most dictionaries in common use today have the word 'abridged' stamped plainly on their cover. What this means is that for five or ten dollars you can have the definitions of 40,000 or 60,000 words whose meaning is quite clear without it. But when a really tough word is curved at you the 'abridged' keeps the publishers conscience clear while you search vainly about before concluding wrathfully that all dictionaries are frauds.

The trouble, my friend, is that you are not looking in the Century Dictionary, "An Encyclopedic Lexicon of the English Language" 1914 edition, which unblushingly admits that it contains all the words in the English language. Just how many words that is, is uncertain but if you like to count them you are welcome. But you had better start right away because there are about 10,000 pages of words, three columns to a page, and approximately 85 lines to the column. Any counters?

This choice little item, which was hauled to a hallowed resting place in the offices of the Ontario Intelligencer a few weeks ago, weighs 20 pounds, and measures twelve inches, by nine and a quarter inches, by eight and a half inches, and is beautifully bound in brown corduroy.

First in 1889.

The first edition, published in 1889, contained "a vocabulary of upwards of 120,000 words more than the most complete dictionary at the time," to quote from the preface. This however was found to be incomplete and the editors, keeping faith with their public, brought out a supplement in 1909 that contained an additional 1,100 pages. By 1914 they felt that they could reasonably print across the cover that their book was 'revised and complete.'

The 1914 edition contains 7,046 pages in its main body. Tacked on behind is another 3,000 page segment. In speaking of the segment the editors have this to say "As regards new words, it is obvious that if one who consults the dictionary does not find a particular word in the main part of the volume to which he turns, he will naturally, without prompting, turn to the supplementary pages at the back, where it will be found." No hedging here. Rather a proud, but not boastful statement, that indeed here is the unabridged book to end all unbridged books.

A Is First Word

First word in this massive volume is the overworked vowel A. However A does not get away as lightly as all that. No sir. A is important for a great many reasons, all of which are pointed out in more than two pages of derivation and definition.

The second word in the language is Aam — a liquid measure used for measuring wine and oil in Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Livonia, Esthonia, Denmark and Sweden." Aam however is not constant. It differs in Amsterdam for wine and oil. Those ordering an "aam" of wine had better bring along a tank car as it comes out to 41 English gallons. But if you are ordering oil you get only 37.75 gallons. In Brunswick, though, oil by the aam means oil in 39.5 gallon units.

The last word to be found in the regular body of the book is the action of barium hydroxide on zygadinone." It resembles veratrine in physiological effects and melts at 102 degrees centigrade in case any of you have trouble spotting it right off.

Zythia" Last Word.

In the supplement, "zythia" brings up the rear. "Zythia is a genus of the imperfect fungi, type of the family Zythiaciae, characterized by having reddish or orange-colored waxy picnidia and hyaline unicellular spores. About 20 species have been de[illegible] on [illegible] in Italy." European travellers take [illegible] Amateur botanists should have no trouble with a book like this.

A careful check of this great tome shows that the fewest numbers of words begin with, not Z, there are 26 pages of Z's; and not Y—there are 25 pages of Y's, but X. Poor X has only 12 pages, or 36 columns of words.

Tucked away at the back of the volume and crushed by the tens of thousands of words on top are twenty pages of names—names of the men responsible for the English language, either through their writing or through their labor in establishing and compiling earlier dictionaries.

Source of Language.

The vast source of our language is never more apparent than in scanning these names. There are Greeks, Romans, Hungarians, Moravians, Poles, Rumanians, Germans and Swedes. Norweigians, Frenchman, Spaniards, Irishmen, Scotsmen, Americans, and oh yes, Englishmen, all rub shoulders on these pages as contributors to the language or to the definition of its terms.

There are musicians and moralists, bishops and beggars, politicians and pirates, (seafaring), tradesmen and travellers, orators and opticians, economists and evangelists. There are writers and rogues, poets and physicians, diarists and dramatists, chemists and clergymen, authors and anthropologists, lawyers and lexicographers, botanists and biographers, engineers and entomologists, architects and artists.

Such unlikely characters as Ivan Andreas Aasen, a Norwegian philologist, and Alfred Lebbeus Loomis, a physician, have left their mark on the language. Evanelinus Apostolides Sophocles, and Gudbrand Figfusson are there.

John Wodroephe, an English grammarian of all things, is there because he wrote a book entitled "True Marrow of the French Tongue," while, believe it or not a book entitled "Sprachschatz der Angelsachsischen Dicter," written by one Christian Wilhelm Michael Grien, also served to enlarge the vocabulary, as you can plainly see for yourself.

Words Not Found.

Books, pamphlets, papers, plays, treatises and essays, were all consulted in compiling the Century Dictionary. Some authorities for their definitions were dead and buried in the 13th century, while reference to the 14th century this or that is almost casual.

The strangest thing about this dictionary though was not its massive size, its thousands of "Britannica-India pages' but a small, creased cardboard slip with about twenty words written on it. At the top of this little scrap is the inscription "Words not Found In this Book."

How the original owner ever found out that they were missing is not the most puzzling aspect of the whole case. What we want to know is, do these omissions make the Century Dictionary abridged?

750 Farmers Attend Drainage Field Day at Rednersville, Latest Equipment Shown

With emphasis on farm drainage and on portable irrigation systems, approximately 750 farmers from Prince Edward county and the Bay of Quinte district attended at the drainage field day held Friday at the farm of Harold Bonter in Ameliasburg township west of Rednersville.

Visitors at the drainage field day saw the latest thing in tile ditching and laying equipment, how front bladed tractors could be utilized to back fill the ditches and how "man-made rain" can be put to work to irrigate parched orchards, gardens and fields.

The drainage field day was sponsored by the Prince Edward Crop Improvement Association of which Grover Smith of Bloomfield is the president. Assistance in planning the day's program was given by Don Taylor, Agricultural representative for the county.

Supply Ditching Equipment

Prince Edward county farmers supplied much of the ditching and other equipment used in demonstrations during the day while several of the tractors were supplied through county farm equipment dealers. Ameliasburg township, through Norris Whitney, reeve of the township and county warden, supplied their large road grader and the H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton demonstrated the use to which a bulldozer could be put on the average farm.

No less than four different firms offering farm irrigation systems had their equipment set up on the Bonter farm and orchard drenching the ground underfoot with "man-made" rain.

Even the inner man was not forgotten and members of the Albury Ladies' Aid did a land office business as they dispensed soft drinks, ice cream and other refreshments to a sweltering crowd.

One Operation

Getting a lion's share of farmer interest at the drainage field day was the Buck-Eye tile ditcher, farmer-owned by Ben Franklin, of the Kingston district, which demonstrated how ditching and tiling can be done in one operation.

Manned only by two operators —one to drive the machine and the other to lay tile — the ditcher crept its way across the Bonter orchard with a large crowd following its operation throughout the afternoon. Operators said that in good going the machine could lay up to 1250 feet of tile in a day. Cost to the farmer for ditching and laying the tile by the machine would be around six cents per foot, it was stated.

Both clay tile and concrete tile were demonstrated by a Napanee tile firm which supplied the tile for the drainage field day demonstration.

The Ameliasburg township road grader demonstrated how such a machine could be utilized to clean up around fences bordered with weeds and undergrowth.

A "pan breaker" tiling machine which opens up water courses two to three feet beneath the surface, the permanency of the operation depending on soil conditions, was also demonstrated as were bucket type machines for tile ditching.

Lot of Interest

The various types and sizes of farm irrigation systems came in for a lot of interest by farmers living in a district which in recent years has suffered losses through summer drought conditions.

Power by gasoline driven pumps and drawing water from the Bay of Quinte, these machines drenched several acres with man-made rain. The portability of the equipment was demonstrated as light aluminum feeder pipes with automatic couplings were easily taken apart and re-assembled.

Spray nozzles of each type of equipment were equipped with neat gadgets, which would direct the spray in a slow continuous circle, or which could be adjusted to oscillate over an arc of any decided number of degrees.

It was the first drainage field day held in the county and the second in the Bay of Quinte district. Judging by the interest shown by farmers and the distance which many travelled to attend, the day was a decided success.

Family Treasures Kept in Old Farm Clock

When my cousin Jack, who lives in Burnaby, went East to visit his old home, on the concession a few years back, he brought back one memento, and one only.

The old clock. It's hard to imagine it as an antique but I suppose it really belongs in that class today, writes Grace Lockhart in Vancouver Daily Province. It was the timepiece on the old farm for 85 years before Jack brought it to Vancouver.

It had a special bracket shelf in the log house built by the pioneers when Grey county was first opened up. Then as the family prospered and the farm was cleared and produced fine crops, a new house was erected. One of red brick, typical of the old Ontario farm houses.

Naturally the clock was moved and occupied a bigger shelf, but it still sat in the kitchen, which was after all, the centre of family life in those days. It was and still is, squarely built with a big open face and hands you couldn't miss. It has a key that would open any city. It still keeps perfect time.

Of course in those days people just had one clock. But you could depend on it. You adjusted it when it was set up and outside of placing a rag saturated in coal oil inside it for medicinal purposes, you just left it alone. True, it might gain a minute or so in 25 years, but then you realized the world was speeding up generally. Times weren't what they used to be.

Our old clock was just such another as the one Jack brought back with him. And when we were admiring the latter the other evening, it suddenly struck the hour, and it literally jerked me back through several decades.

No musical chiming out of the hours. No peal of bells reminding you gently of the passing of time. No soft pedalling to save your nervous system.

"Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!" in a good sharp staccato. That's how it strikes. As much as to say: "It's four o'clock. Cows to be milked. Chores to be done. I'm not going to strike again till five. Take it or leave it!"

We usually took it.

Our old clock was not only a time-keeper, but its lower storey was a receptacle for family treasures. The receipts for the payments on the mortgage were always kept in the clock, but I'm sure they would never have held in court. You couldn't read them for coal oil! Anything too important to be pasted in the Green Book where we kept the family clippings, went into the clock. It also contained a treasure known as "the compass."

This was a lovely little thing, set in heavy gold, on a little chain. My father who had been born in Port Credit, and had lived his young life around Collingwood Bay, had acquired it from one of his relatives who was a captain on a lake boat. I used to hound my mother to let me take it back to Taylor's bush and see if I could find my way home with it. Naturally, such an excursion was frowned upon. I knew my way home blindfold.

The only time I was ever allowed to handle this treasure was when I was practically at death's door. When I was given this compass to play with, and urged to have some wild strawberry preserves, I knew my number was just about up.

Our old clock had an end fitting for a real pioneer. We brought it with us to the North West Territories, but it met its end in a cyclone. When the twister had removed our roof and deposited our worldly possessions all over the Hudson's Bay section.

I met Grandpa Nicholson's enlarged picture bowling along about 50 miles an hour, but the old clock had lain down in disgust in a buffalo wallow. I suppose if it could have got rid of its ballast, in the way of a pendulum that weighed about a ton, it would have been back on the concession by now.

As I look around at the collection of clocks that clutter up my house today, each running on the theory of every man for himself, I decide that the old clocks had something!

Rural Girl Tells Why She Wants to Marry A Farmer

(By DELIGHT BOBILYA, in The Prairie Farmer)

I want to spend the rest of my life with a farmer husband. A man who will walk through the woods with me on a Sunday afternoon and talk about the woodpecker tapping a hole up there in the old elm tree.

He'll laugh with me over the antics of wobbly calves and frisky lambs, and he'll ask me to fix the feed for the new chickens. I'm willing to take the unpleasant tasks along with the pleasant ones, for I'm choosing the farm as my lot.

I don't know how early in life mother and dad came to the realization that they could best live and be happy right here on the farm, but I fear it has taken me a little longer to realize it.

All the reasons for farming as a life's work run through my head. They seemed to crowd in on me one night as I gazed at the splashes of light in the great city.

Through my open window I heard the rumble of heavy traffic. The warm June air seemed to hynotize me with memories ..

The hot stillness was a warning of the storm about to break. The thunderheads grew black and loomed higher and higher. Daddy rushed the team into the barn and ran toward the house.

'Hurry! The little chicken!" who worked feverishly to flock them into the coops and shut the slat doors. Jagged lightning cut the great clouds, and thunder made old Jiggs, the dog, cower close at our heels.

Mother closed the windows in the house, but I ran to my favorite vantage point in the barnyard to watch the storm come. Sitting high, atop the wooden gate, I could watch the rolling clouds and smell the fresh gusts of air that were starting the circle toward us. Dad fastened the barn doors so they couldn't be caught by the wind, and he came over to lean on the gate.

More memories, this time of another season:

We stayed in the kitchen kept warm in the Winter when the thermometer stood at six above zero and the wind howled at the window. With evening chores done and the animals bedded down, dad came in and relaxed. Mother opened the oven door to let the old cookstove throw more heat, and we all sat around it. Tipping back his chair, dad started reading his paper.

Jiggs dozed near the door. Suddenly he picked up his ears to listen. He turned his head sideways and the hair bristled up on his back. Dad turned on the pole light while mother pushed the polka-dot curtains aside and looked out the window.

"Why, here comes Paulie; wonder if Bessie's worse." Mother told me to get a chair from the dining room so it would warm up, and Paulie came in with a gust of icy air. He took off his boots.

"Just came to bring back the knife I borrowed for butchering. Here's a little meat ma sent along."

Mother gasped and said, "Why you needn't have done that, Paulie!"

"Sure is blowin' tonight. Hope the wind doesn't turn to the west. Could be a blizzard on the way.

We asked how all the folks were, as he sat down by the stove and rubbed his hands.

"Feelin' fine. Bessie's holdin' her own; the doctor was out to see her this afternoon."

Shortly, Morrie, the hired hand, came home bringing more news from the store down the road. Mother got the square corn popper with a long handle out of the cupboard, and I shelled the ears of Tom Thumb while mother poped it. The smell of salted, butterery popcorn filled the room, and conversation slowed.

It was cozy around our old cookstove with neighbors, crunching of popcorn and apples.

We learned the value of neighborliness on such Winter nights in our farm home.

I turned from the window and its city view. Why. I thought, can't I lay this picture out, paint it in the colors I see, and then hang it in the gallery of every rural youth's mind? I'd like especially for the girls to see this picture, for more girls leave the farm than do boys.

Too often the drudgery of the farmer's wife in her ill-equipped kitchen turns them to the more pleasing prospects of a modern city home. I've been tempted, too, but then I thought of the good times on our farm, and I thought deeper into the rearing of a family.

I learned to work on our 80-acre farm when I was very young. First, it was just part of my play to drive the cows to and from pasture. The more I worked outside the more I liked it, but I helped with the housework, too, canning, cooking, cleaning, and sewing. I did so much outdoor and indoor farm work that I'm sure, now, I don't want to stop.

The necessity of telling why I love the way of life offered on a farm wells up in me like a burden. I fear that I can't really put into words what I feel and know.

I don't know exactly why mother and dad stayed on the farm and worked so hard to build and improve the place. Maybe it was of necessity that they settled there and started rearing a family, but down underneath I believe they wanted to live on the farm.

They saw the farm's value, not in dollars and cents, but as a place where they could live and rear children without having to hunt out a park to give them the necessary fresh air and sunshine that children are entitled to when they are born into this world.

But theirs was more than a farm, more even than a home and children. Sunday found us at the red brick country church a mile west of us. Mother and dad were active workers who valued the principles of Christian family life.

I had come to the city for its so-called "advantages" — music, drama, social life. I lived in a club with other small town and country girls who wanted the same things as I, only to discover that with the high cost of living in the city, we could afford few musical or stage plays. It was even harder to become acquainted with nice fellows. I typed letters for people I really didn't know to people I had never met.

I have often thought of what a noted college professor said recently, that the whole, well-rounded relationships built by rural living in the family and community are necessary for human sanity. In rural living, a person is known in his home, church, social functions, and community life. His life is whole and responsibility is a part of a whole life. That responsibility is felt most keenly in the family, but a nation is not going to better itself, if its citizens do not feel civic responsibility too.

I want my children to feel the power of the thunderstorm, the warmth of Winter evenings spent with real neighbors, and hundreds of other rich experiences that give fullness and meaning to life.

Disregarding the fact that many farmers can afford the modern city advantages, and taking the uncertain income, long hours and hard work on a farm, I still add the columns up in favor of the rural way of living. The family-sized farm can sustain a happy home and laughing, healthy children. I believe two intelligent people can promote a way of life on the farm that produces happiness for the future.

I know I can rear my family better on the land. There they will more positively know God and learn from His vast instrument, nature. I want to prove to myself and others that my mother and dad have a recipe for happiness that can work out today for me, too. I want to marry a farmer for better or for worse, good times or depression, because I believe he will be a better family man to rear our children, a better community man to serve mankind, and a better church man to serve God.

There is no more interesting aspect of gardening than the cultivation of Water Lilies and Aquatic plants. The lily pool can be made a feature on the main axis of the garden possibly in combination with a rock garden and if space permits, may be on two levels with the water supply in the upper pool.

This drawing shows a method of construction which will insure lasting results. First stake out the size required, remove the top soil and haul away clay sub soil. The pool should have a sloped bottom for drainage. Sloping sides need to be formed on one side only. Concrete should be 3000# transit mixed and poured in a continuous operation. Reinforce sides and bottom with ¼" rod at 8 inch centres both ways. Keep water level below grade to provide a rock slope in which to use alpine plants.

The blooms of hardy lilies rest on the foliage on the surface of the water. They need a 12 inch water depth. Allow about 15 square feet of water surface for each lily and one bushel of rich soil composed of three parts of rotten sods to one part of rotted cow manure. Bone meal may be used at the rate of one quart to a bushel of soil. Old brick may be used for planting pockets, but weathered ledge stone makes a more natural effect. For plant material see the catalogues of Water Lily specialists.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

BATHING and DRINKING

Ducks are found on large lakes, Kingfishers beside smaller bodies of water, Herons in marshes. Even song birds require water. Without it there can be no vegetation, which means no food, and it is also needed for drinking and bathing. Only a very few species make any attempt to live in dry, barren parts of the country —Prairie Warblers, Yellowthroats, Hermit Thrushes occasionally.

When water is not available from any other source, birds drink drops of dew and take shower baths by shaking [illegible] from leaves. Given water but no food birds, like men, can survive for some time. In very hot weather they are often willing to travel quite a distance to find water. Certain birds, as Whitethroats and Mourning Doves, seem to drink more, and prefer to live within comfortable flying distance of a brook, pond or pool.

We frequently see Swallows "skimming" a lake. They love to hit the surface and bounce forward as a stone being skipped. One observer saw a very young Tree Swallow taking its first flight, which happened to be over a lake. After 75 yards it dropped in, exhausted. But Mother Nature had given it ability to swim without instruction "in the direction of the nearest

GOOD OLD-FASHIONED STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL

The old-fashioned strawberry-ice cream social is king a comeback. After years in the figurative mothlls due to the exigencies of the changing times and perps the gradual trend towards social functions of a more hilarating nature, the "festivals," as they were known in andfather's day, are attempting to reclaim a lost popurity.

In the days when zoot-suiters, jet planes, television, 0-miles-per-hour automobiles and wars were things of misty future, the strawberry-ice cream socials were as gerly anticipated as the circus or the county fair. Held the lush sward of the village park or a private residence, nged by the rustling foliage of elm and maple, the social racted the "Colonel's Lady and Judy O'Grady" from a dius of miles.

Gaily-colored Japanese lanterns hung from wires surunding the park or lawn. In the centre the village band ayed simple melodies, a far cry from the jazz, bebop, and ird noises that comprise modern popular music. Staid mers, a trifle uncomfortable in stiff collar and "Suny" clothes, escorted their beaming ladies from buggy, rrey and democrat, to tables on the grass. Young ladies rrying plates bearing mounds of snow-white ice cream pped with the scarlet blobs of strawberries, flitted from ble to table. The minister strolled slowly among the owd, stopping to chat with all and sundry. There was a m of conversation as these good folk discussed the news the day, gossiped mildly perhaps on local topics. In some es barter and sale was conducted among the men of the trict.

But beneath its quiet gayety, the social had a deeper, re lasting effect on these good folk than the mere satisction of an appetite for strawberries and ice cream. It ought them to the common level of community friendp and fellowship. It was the meeting-place for a crossction of the community and district where a man drew ser to his fellow man, heard and understood his probns and sought and gave advice. From this melting pot of rhaps differential opinion, there emerged the pure metal understanding which after all is one of the chief fundantals of happiness and contentment.

The old-fashioned strawberry-ice cream social with its -reaching effects on the people of a community could a tremendous amount of good in the topsy-turvy world which we live today. Nations, at each other's arguntative throats in search of that elusive "enduring ace" we hear so much about, but which seems to mainn its distance, would do well to use the fruit of tolerance h the cream of understanding. Perhaps the solution to ir problems would not be so far beyond reach.

IN SOUTH SEAS

The summer is a busy season, the holiday period of the r when millions enjoy holidaying in the woodland and e areas or by the sea. They get close to nature and take the health-giving rays, and enjoy the waters as they nsciously or unconsciously renew their sense of freedom ich has become somewhat cramped by living indoors through the late autumn, the winter and part of the ingtime. Now they want the pure air and the sunlight the out-of-doors.

Still this is a time when exploration of the colder ions of the earth is the goal of many exploration rties. They go into the Far North and Far South on ises of discovery to gather facts of great scientific ne. Hazards are not so great now as in the winter sea. Heading her way into the Southern Seas to carry out earch into currents, water masses, temperature variains and movement of sea birds and sea animals is the ited Kingdom Research Ship Discovery II. But her icers, crew, scientists on board will steam thousands of les in their aim to solve some of the remaining mysterof the oceans.

The ship will work mainly in the Indian, Australian d Pacific sectors of the Southern Ocean between subpical waters and the fringe of the pack-ice. Regularly will be stopped "on station" and by means of specially igned water sampling bottles, deep sea thermometers d fine meshed nets, the temperature, density and mical constituents of the water will be ascertained m the surface to the bottom and the innumerable small ms of life examined from the surface to a depth of about 00 feet.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE AN ADVENTURER

There is an old adage that says, "Nothing ventured, nothing gained", which is to be borne in mind. We get nowhere unless we have a plan or an objective, and then get going! Adventurers have been the writers of history. Their deeds have clustered the heavens of achievement.

The natural instinct within us all is to move, start something, create something, forever keep moving forward, and to better things. The adventurer always gains something, and often far more than he even expected. This western continent is full of adventurers. That is what has made it the envy of the world, comparatively new as it is among the lands of the earth. America is a name that thrills because it was created by those who risked to gain.

One of the great American adventurers was Benjamin Franklin. He was forever adventuring into some new idea or project, and always with the thought in mind of benefitting others. His autobiography is a classic and should be read by the young of this day, so as to catch the spirit of the man who did so much to encourage progress and a free way of life among those of his time. No one can study his life without gaining inspiration from it.

Be an adventurer! The spirit of adventure is what has given us our greatest naturalists, inventors, and pioneers in every activity of life. Pasteur adventured because there were too many mothers losing their children, and so found a safe formula for the preservation of healthful milk for babies. It was an adventurer who discovered the value of penicillin, which has been doing wonders in preserving life.

A friend of mine, Robert Updegraff, sent me a book he wrote many years ago entitled "Yours to Adventure." It was full of inspiring ideas. He said it was "for any man between 17 and 71, and for any woman who is interested in some man's future." You see no one is too young or too old to become an adventurer. Every one of us should be just that—and keep going forward to happier experiences.

He was the first big-time bookmaker to be brought to trial under the present nation-wide crime investigation campaign in the U.S. He could be sentenced to 60 years in prison and total fines of $30,000 on the 59 counts of bookmaking and one of conspiracy to violate the gambling laws. — Central Press Canadian.

Britain's Fen Area Productive

On the eastern side of England, near the coast, lies a strange and fascinating stretch of country — the Fens—formed over many centuries by silt deposit which gradually builds up until it is only covered at high tide, says a British release. Then men have come and reclaimed the land, thrusting back the sea with dykes and walls.

Land is still being won back in this area. In 1948 a group of farmers reclaimed 3,000 acres on the shores of a large indentation in the coast known as the Wash.

Built Sea Walls

They employed contractors to build two sea walls, each six miles long and projecting ten feet above the water level. The land inside that wall will be grassed over and become firm, high quality farming land.

But what we in Britain call the Fen District, covering some 750,000 acres, was reclaimed 300 years ago by the fourth Duke of Bedford, who joined with other landowners to form a "company of adventurers" for this purpose. They employed a Dutch engineer, Cornelius Vermuyden, to do the job. It is a tribute to his work that it stands to this day and has won for Britain some of the most fertile soil she possesses.

Vermuyden's scheme was a most ingenious one. He cut drains at the foot of the higher lands to carry away the surplus rainfall which poured down on the Fens. He led it away to the rivers or the sea by these drains so that it could not add to the wetness of the marshes. A further system of drainage was introduced to carry water away from levels from which there was no natural fal. He widened and straightened existing rivers, and cut new water-courses that were rivers in themselves.

20-Year Task

It took 20 years to finish the work. Since then banks have been added to contain water that might overflow existing dykes or river banks in time of flood. These extra banks restrain the floods from racing over the dead flat countryside and in flood time become like great reservoirs. As the water is carried off above the level of the ground it is not uncommon to see a house standing beside a river, but below it, with the river-bed level with the bedroom windows.

It is remarkable how Vermuyden's work has endured three centuries of winds and floods. But Nature never gives up the battle and this century it has become evident that unless large scale reconstruction is undertaken, sooner or later a great calamity must occur. We have had several warnings. The last one was in the great blizzard of 1947, when the Fen waters burst their banks and many acres of fertile land were flooded. It could easily have been worse.

Flood Causes

There are several reasons why the problem of Fen flooding has become more acute. Improvements in land drainage and macadam roads have combined to increase the flow of water from the higher lands that drain into the Fens. But also the Fens are sinking. They sink about an inch a year, for they are like a great sponge and as the water empties out, the peaty surface dries and crumbles away in dry, windy weather.

It is believed also that bacteriological action is eating the soil away. This is not only lowering the level of the Fens and so adding to the danger of serious flooding; it is interfering with existing drains and waterways. For the sinking takes place unevenly, so that two ends of a waterway may sink more than the middle, with the result that the middle becomes a hump back up which the water will not flow.

So now we are preparing to put into operation the biggest scheme for making the Fens safe since Vermuyden won them back for Britain. It will cost over $18,000,000 but it will save spending $300,000 a year for ever on makeshift arrangements that might not still avert a first class catastrophe.

Open New Rivers

Two entirely new rivers are to be cut to carry flood water from the high lands harmlessly to the Wash and there discharge it into the sea. One river, 27½ miles long, will encircle the Fens from the River Lark of Denver, in the county of Norfolk, where a great sluice controls both the outflow of the rivers and the inflow of tidal water from the sea. Another river, 11 miles long, will run from Denver parallel to the Great Ouse to a point a little way up river from King's Lynn, also in Norfolk. The work will take at least six years, but when completed it will be capable of dealing with flood levels higher than the greatest ever recorded.

The state will pay all but $1,800,000 of the total cost, for this rich land is a national investment.

Shortage of Homes Worries Australians

Sydney, Australia, June 24 — (CP) — Greatest social problem in Australia today is the housing shortage.

In 1947, there was a deficiency of 197,000 homes. At the end of last year, the deficiency had grown to an estimated 212,000. In New South Wales — largest state in the Commonwealth — the shortage increased from 79,000 in 1947 to 90,000 at the end of 1949, although 60,392 new homes were built during the period.

Equally disturbing is the increased cost of building. A house here that cost £1,000 ($2,400), plus £250 for land, in September, 1939, now costs £2,500 to £2,750, plus £500 for land.

The figures cover the average suburban home in Sydney or Melbourne consisting of two bedrooms, a living room, dining room, kitchen, bathroom, laundry and sun porch or verandah. It is constructed on a lot of about 50 feet by 150 feet and connected to gas, water and electricity.

The shortage — due to shortage of materials and skilled workmen — is blamed for some alarming social tendencies.

Immorality Increased

Most newly-weds have to live with in-laws for at least several months after marriage. Psychologists and divorce courts say this is responsible for many divorces. Many marriages are being postponed. Social workers say this increases immorality.

The life of old houses has been prolonged because no authority wants to demolish any dwelling place, however decrepit it is. In Sydney alone, there are an estimated 40,000 houses which health authorities say are unfit for habitation. Many families are living in makeshift dwellings — tents, shacks and trailers.

To cope with the problem, the government is encouraging immigrants with building experience and restricting construction to home - building and essential work. In Sydney, for example, no new office buildings have been built since before the war and there is an acute shortage of office accommodation.

State and Federal governments have sent missions abroad to examine pre - fabricated houses which will be imported duty-free and, in some cases, under government subsidy. Prices are high, however, and experts view the pre-fabs as little more than a stop-gap program.

Says Canadians Not Proud Enough

Bigwin Inn, Ont., June 23—(CP)—Canadians were criticized last night for not being Canadian Capt. K. E. Bond of Buffalo, N.Y., a speaker at a convention of the Ontario Urban School Trustees Association.

"I condemn you whole heartedly for your lack of pride in your country," said Capt. Bond, who said he lived in Hamilton for five years before the Second World War and then joined the United States Navy.

"Ye gods! Be Canadian!" he urged. "It makes me sore to see southern fried chicken advertised in Canadian restaurants. For five years I at eCanadian fried chicken and you can't beat it anywhere."

St. Thomas, Ont., —(CP)—St. Thomas residents used nearly 20 per cent more water last month than May, 1949—67,456,000 gals. compared with 56,332,000 gallons. The Public Utilities commission 's having test wells drilled with a view to supplementing the present supply.

BEWARE OF SALTS FOR HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

On entering private practice I served five years at hard labor in the country—Penn Yan, N.Y., now a beautiful village of perhap 5000 population atop the right Y-arm of Keuka Lake, the gem of the famous Finger Lakes of western New York State. Those five years were the hardest of my life—and the happiest. Although we nearly starved, Mickey and I and the baby—and probably would have done so but for the patience of the grocer, butcher and other merchants who extended us indefinite credit — I learned more about patients as people than I ever learned in hospital or city practice. It has been my firm belief ever since those halcyon days that a doctor should be permitted to hold himself out as a specialist only after he has served ten years in general practice, at least half of the time in a community of less than 10,000 population. Some such reasonable preparation would make medical specialism considerably less ridiculous than the racket is today, I think. Forty thousand "specialists" among a grand total of about 120,000 practising physicians! Isn't that ridiculous?

High blood pressure had not become popular in my Penn Yan days. I doubt that more than two of the ten doctors in the village even brandished sphygmomanometers (gadgets for measuring blood pressure) and I know I was not one of them. Only the dozen or two of rich retired farmers who had travelled extensively to the best advertised clinic away out west even knew how to run off the yakety-yak about their high blood pressure. The best the ordinary yokens could do was to worry about their thick blood or too rich blood—and dose themselves with prodigious quantities of salts, which, being yokels, they believed would "thin the blood"—a half-baked notion which is equivalent to lowering blood pressure in the mind of the person who acquires his knowledge from reading almanacs, nostrum and quack ads and testimonials from other yokels.

Far from lowering high blood pressure in any case, the effect of laxative or purgative salts of any kind is rather increase of excessive blood pressure.

Far from thinning the blood (even if the blood in any circumstance were too thick), the taking of salts or the use of laxative (aperient) mineral waters has no appreciable effect on blood pressure today or this week, but frequent or habitual use of such salts tends to aggravate conditions which produce high blood pressure and impair general health by interfering with nutrition, particularly with the assimilation of needed calcium from food.

As I have said here many times high blood pressure, whether you guess you have it or some charlatan has applied his $18.75 gadget to your arm and told you just how many points above par your pressure reaches, is not a disease susceptible of treatment by itself. In order to be of any real benefit to the patient with high blood pressure treatment must combat or correct whatever condition may cause the blood pressure to rise above normal. Would you monkey around with diet, medicine or any kind of treatment for rapid pulse or high body temperature without medical examination to find out if possible what ails you?

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Self-Mutilation

Several years ago I had a tattoo of an area of my skin, which I now regret. Is there any way to remove this mutilation? (J. O.)

Answer—Perhaps by dissection and filling the defect with graft from normal skin. Sometimes the mutilation may be made less conspicuous by careful chemical tattooing or color tattooing to obliterate the picture. It should be a penal offense to tattoo or permit tattooing, except for legitimate purpose.

Exposed to Cold

I am 70, healthy, stand in cold ice box at work several hours a day. No ill effect But at night I often wake up with cramps in the legs or feet. (N. C.)

Answer—Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Adult Tetany and Growing Pains. Your work has nothing to do with it, but your faulty nutrition probably accounts for the tetany.

Likes Tea

I like to keep a tea bag in my mouth—never break the bag but after a while I put it in hot water to make tea to drink. (Mrs. S. W.)

Answer—Harmless if you don't carry the habit to extremes.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

One thing you ladies need never fear, the scientists assure, is a bat getting in your hair. That is one of those old-wives'-tales. Bats are marvellously endowed. For example: scientists have criss-crossed a room with threads festooned with small bells; and then, without a vestige of light in the room, have released bats to fly around in the blackness. So marvellously keen are the bats' senses that they can fly about without ever touching one of those invisible threads.

The bat, say the scientists, uses radar. He emits a tiny squeak so high in pitch as to be inaudible to the human ear. And by shooting that squeak ahead of him as he flies, the bat can tell from the echo, as in radar where any obstructions are.

This is fine. But the other evening, under some apple trees in the garden, a lady of my acquaintance was sitting with a fifteen dollar hair-do, while two or three bats staggered rapidly about in the gloaming.

Her husband reassured her. He was a bat authority. He had read all about them. He told her about the bat's remarkable sensitivity. He related all the fascinating particulars about how the bats use squeaks for radar. The gloaming grew darker.

And right in the midst of the husband's learned discourse on the physiology of bats, one of the unsteady, teetering creatures, with a regular squeal instead of a squeak, crashed full belt into the lady's hair-do.

Exceptions, they say, prove the rule. But that was poor comfort for a lady screeching under the apple trees with a bat battling in her technological ringlets. Her husband, I am informed did a very poor job of rescue. All he did was fan at the bat with his hand. He said later, that he was afraid of disturbing his wife's hair-do. Anyway, the bat got free. The lady now wears a sou' wester in the evenings in the garden. And the only excuse I can offer science is that it must have been a young bat that had not yet mastered the intricacies of radar.

REASON IN EVERYDAY LIVING

Have you ever checked up to see how little thought enters into your daily attitudes and acts? Take your likes and dislikes, for instance. Are they resonable or do you harbor them because you were born into a certain circle of societ, received an education in certain schools, or passed through certain experiences, good or bad?

Your friends—did you choose them on the basis of reason and reflection or on the basis of emotion? Why are you holding your present job? Is it something you always wanted to do? The more were examine our lives the more we see that there is not much reason to the way we live, or for that matter, to the way the affairs of the world are administered. Most of us just plod along the pathway of least resistance. When we come to a cross-roads, we take the pathway which seems most inviting and easy and never question very much whether it will lead us to happy or unhappy results.

The story is told of a woman about to be anesthetized for an operation. "Doctor," she said, "how long will it be after I come out of the anesthetic before I can think clearly?" And the doctor replied with a wry smile "Madam, you are counting too much on the anesthetic."

CJBQ Sets up Studio And Office in Trenton

The Town of Trenton will soon have its own broadcasting facilities it was announced today by Mr. W. H. Stovin, manager of radio station CJBQ. Plans have been laid and work is now underway to establish branch offices and studios in the Trent Theatre building. Actual broadcasting should commence early in July.

"We feel that by having studios within the town of Trenton itself, listeners, organizations and advertisers will receive better and more adequate service," declared Mr. Stovin.

Mr. Phil Flagler, farm program director for CJBQ, has been appointed to take charge of the Trenton studios. At present he is handling farm broadcasts and material for CJBQ and in announcing the appointment, Mr. Stovin said that Mr. Flagler would continue with this phase of his work as well as assuming his new duties in Trenton and district.

All broadcastng done in the Trenton Studios will travel by direct line to the Belleville studios of CJBQ.

The Canadian Pacific Telegraph Division has installed these lines.

Broadcasting equipment will be much the same for Trenton's studio's as that used at Belleville with facilities for originating remote broadcasts in and around the Trenton area.

The studios themselves will be equipped to originate recorded and live talent.

Advertisers will now have the opportunity of using all media to bring their messages and services to the attention of Trenton and district residents when the added advantage of being in direct contact with CJBQ at all times. Social, service and religious organizations will also benefit in that they will be able to "go on the air" without the inconvenience and added expense of travelling some distance to reach CJBQ studios.

Mr. Stovin went on to say that many talented performers in the Trenton district will welcome the news of the establishment of Trenton studios since they too have previously been bothered by the problem of transportation.

Further announcements will be made later as the work on Trenton's studios progresses and a definite opening date is decided upon.

Fairmile Training Craft On Two-Weeks Cruise Will Take Part in Scheme

Trenton (Special) — Everything was shipshape when the navy sailed into the Air Force city yesterday afternoon. At 2.30 p.m. the trim 70 ton 116 foot Fairmile Patrol Training Craft 779 slipped into Trenton harbor and tied up at the government dock.

Eighteen officers and men are aboard the PTC 779 which will be taking part in training manoeuvres with three other similar training craft off Presquile Point today and Sunday. Four London Ontario Sea Cadets make up part of the crew which is under the command of Lieut. C. H. Aharan.

Lieut. Aharan said that the manoeuvres are "elementary and designed to give the ship's company a chance to achieve greater efficiency in their operation of the ship during these different tactical manoeuvres."

The ship is attached to the London Naval Reserve Division, HMCS Prevost and left Port Stanley last Saturday on a two weeks training cruise. Lieut. Aharan said that the London Division is the first unit to send its training craft on a cruise of this nature.

After passing through the Welland Canal, PTC 779 cruised down Lake Ontario and arrived at Kingston on Wednesday. Thursday night, the ship put in at Belleville and then came to Trenton on Friday.

Lieut. Aharan told the Ontario-Intelligencer that the first comment he wanted to make was "on the hospitality we have received both here and at Belleville. The man who looks after the dock (Leo Auger) was most helpful in looking after us and finding us a fine place to dock."

The other ships taking part in today's manoeuvres off Presquile will be from HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston, HMCS Star, Hamilton and HMCS York, Toronto. On Sunday night, the PTC 779 will sail out of Presquile Bay and continue up the lake calling at Port Hope and Toronto and then back to her home port, Port Stanley.

BELLEVILLE LIVESTOCK SALES LIMITED

Toto and Congo Cradle In Circus Gorilla Display

TOTO, world famous gorilla mate of the late Gargantua The Great, with the big Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

There's no shortage of gorillas in the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus menagerie this year, despite the death of the renowned Gargantua the Great on the last day of the 1949 circus season in Miami.

For the Big Show is now featuring three of these primates— Toto, the internationally famous wife in name only of Gargantua, and her Congo Cradle of two cute baby gorillas, recently imported from almost inaccessible depths of West Africa.

Exhibited in spacious, air conditioned cages, they are attracting greater attention than any zoological feature in circus history.

With the gorillas and hundreds of other rare creatures in its mammoth menagerie, in which the steel-barred dens simulate the habitats of the wild animals therein, The Greatest Show on Earth is coming to Belleville, Monday, July 3.

The new 1950 performances, which begin at 2:15 and 8:15 P.M., with doors open at 1 and 7, are scaled to unprecedented massiveness and quality, with a host of newly imported stars and feature troupes from Europe and new and gorgeous spectacles topped by the super-pageant, "When Dreams Come True," costing $300,000 to produce.

European Fishermen Invade Grand Banks

St. John's, Nfld., June 24 — (CP) — Newfoundland fishermen on the Grand Banks don't bother star-gazing any more. Instead they spend the nights counting lights of other vessels on the overcrowded fishing grounds.

Skippers arriving in port say the Banks have been invaded by a large number of French, Portuguese and Spanish fishing vessels. They range in size from tiny 58-ton Spanish trawlers to 1,000 ton "liners," as the Newfoundlanders call the big ones. The skipper of the Newfoundland vessel Blue Spray reported recently counting the lights of 38 ships one night.

Spain leads the parade of foreign vessels, and most of the Spanish vessels are new. They are small trawlers each carrying a crew of 15 or 16 men. They fish in pairs, towing a net between them which enables them to sweep a half mile of ocean at one time.

Since the start of the fishing this year 63 Spanish vessels have called here for supplies and repairs. Most of them are salt fishing. At present 17 Portuguese vessels are on the Banks off Newfoundland, with another 46 from that country operating off Greenland.

From Fecamp, St. Malo and Bordeaux in France 48 vessels, 15 of them after fresh fish, visited the Banks this season.

Some Newfoundland and Nova Scotia skippers have accused the foreign trawlers of destroying their gear. One Newfoundland skipper said recently, however, that most of the Europeans were "pretty decent, some don't care and others don't know the difference.

Canada Becomes Welfare State Says Senator

Ottawa, June 24 — (CP) —The Senate heard a charge yesterday that Canada is becoming a "welfare state" as it dealt with a number of committee reports, gave third readings to bills and then adjourned until Tuesday.

The welfare state charge came from Senator Thomas Reid (L — British Columbia) who said Canadians now are more interested in personal security than in the atomic bomb.

He was speaking on the report of the Senate's Investigation and Labor Committee which said that the government's annuities branch had dropped 50 per cent of its business since decreasing interest rates from four to three per cent and recommended an inquiry to determine if it could carry on on the present basis.

The Senate endorsed the report and that of the Finance Committee and the committee on tourist traffic. Third and final reading was given a bill amending the Judges Act. It provides for an increase of $2 a day in judges' travelling expenses up to $12 a day for city and $8 a day for noncity expenses.

Solid Silver Tray Presented to Principal Of Pr. Wales School

The annual graduation tea at the Prince of Wales School was a pleasant event yesterday afternoon, as the mothers of the graduating class gathered in the senior room, which had been tastefully decorated with the early Summer flowers, the school crest and colors.

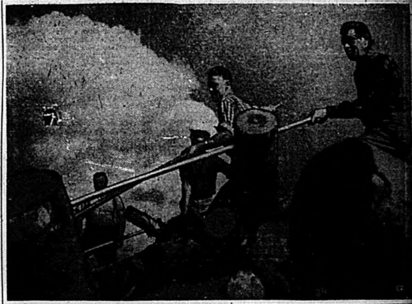
At 3.30 p.m., the 24 members of the graduating class entered, wearing the school colors. Mrs. J. B. Durrant, wife of the chairman of the School Board, and Mrs. K. M. Bird, wife of the principal, poured tea. Sandwiches, small cakes and relishes were served by the girls of Grade 7.

Before the tea came to a close, Nancy Wood read a brief address and John Wannamaker presented the principal with a solid silver tray, which had been suitably engraved.

In his reply, the principal thanked the class for this gift, and also for the interest shown by the mothers in their attendance at this annual event.

The tea was under the capable direction of Mrs. Orma Slack and Mrs. Helen Mastin.

Group pictures were taken on the front lawn of the school class and teachers, and so came to a close another happy event in the lives of the graduating class.



River Drivers Start Pushing 2,000 Cords of Wood A Day Towards Mills in Valley

(Written for The Canadian Press)

By NOLIN TRUDEAU

Carpe Rouge, Que., June 24— (CP) — With the annual St. Maurice Valley log drive at its height, you can see enough pulpwood to make 8,000,000 copies of your daily newspaper go down river here any day now.

River-drivers at Carpe Rouge, 250 miles upstream from the world's paper - making capital at Three Rivers, are pushing 2,000 cords of wood a day toward the mills of the valley. It will end up as newsprint, facial tissues and thousands of other paper products.

Some of the logs, part of a harvest of 55,000,000, were cut last winter on the James Bay watershed, transported over the heights of land by snow-truck train and dumped on the ice.

The season was a month late this year and the ice went out only a few weeks ago. When it did, hundreds of men up and down the valley went into action.

Many of them work with canthook and pike-pole, much as did their ancestors 300 years ago when early French settlers began to drive logs into small rivers falling into the St. Lawrence near Montreal.

But today's log drivers also have bull-dozer boats, special log sluices where pulpwood can bypass power stations, and machines that sort out logs owned by the different companies.

About 300 men, employed by the St. Maurice River Boom and Driving Company, live in four floating bunk houses and eat from floating kitchens. Each day the houseboats and kitchens are tied to motor launches and hauled downstream, following the drive.

With plenty of water, for floating, power and pulp-making, and thousands of square miles of softwood trees, Quebec's St. Maurice Valley turns out 20 per cent of the newsprint produced in Canada, whose 5,000,000 tons annually make her the world's greatest paper-making country.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Whether they are referring to business, politics, the professions, labor or management, the people at the bottom never stop criticising the policies of their superiors. And while it is definitely not true that all the people at the top are stupid, it is inevitable that a few duds should creep into higher posts. .. When this is the case, it is frustrating for the person of ability to see his own progress blocked by some "poor tocl" above him. .. All of which is pointed up in the remark of a fellow-worker the other day who said: "Just give me the job and I'll finish the tools."

A lot of things are new these days. But when you reach for a box of prunes, you are not a little startled by the label which says they are "pasteurized". If you happen to live in a district where there is very hard water, try adding a tablespoon of vinegar to the water when you are cooking rice. It will keep it from turning yellow.

When it comes to a flower bed dazzling with bloom, there's nothing quite as hardy and as continuous in its flowering as the common geranium. Every housewife has the odd potted geranium ready to be evicted from the window sill where it's being lolling all Winter.

Secret of outside bloom in geraniums, according to a nursery specialist, is to set pot and all right into the ground. The larger leaves should be picked off. The plants should be placed in the hottest sun and given little water. If the roots are kept confined in the pot and little water is permitted to develop foliage, the geranium in hot sunshine will bloom like mad.

Disasters have been the curse of nations since the beginning of time. They leave a toll of misery and heart-ache almost beyond human endurance. Canadians have always been a sympathetic people. Perhaps it is the very feeling that they have so much in the way of freedom, space and the simpler things that matter, which prompts Canadians to lend a hand to others in distress.

During the last war, Canada's financial gifts alone astounded other larger countries, to say nothing of her voluntary gifts of food and comforts for war and post-war relief.

With a major flood disaster, Canadians have had the chance to help their fellow countrymen as never before. What a wonderful thing it was to see the coins and bills piling up in the glass milk bottles and cardboard boxes in every corner store, labelled Winnipeg Flood Relief. These coin bottles and boxes showed that Canadians are not only good neighbors abroad, but good friends at home.

Uncle Frontenac says he heard over the radio about a woman who crossed the U.S. - Canadian border with one suitcase containing her clothes and a bottle of liquor. Questioned by the customs officer, the traveller said the bag just contained her clothes .."Do you call this clothes?" he asked, lifting out the bottle. "Why, that's my nightcap," she flashed.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mother Gets Mad—Father Won't Help

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I feel my mother is an extremely jealous woman. Last summer and the summer before when I would naturally go out with my girl friends quite a bit, she would get very angry and say "Why don't you take your clothes and live with them, if you must go and see them?

Now I am going steady, and her song has changed to a new tune, such as, "What happened to all your girl friends? Don't you have any of them any more?"

Just a few weeks ago, my best girl friend baked me a birthday cake and brought it to our sorority meeting as a surprise, and the girls all sang "Happy Birthday" to me. My mother was mad at me about something or other, and didn't sing "Happy Birthday" to me on my birthday. My father was the only one who did. Of course, this may seem silly, and a minor detail to you, but it wasn't to me. I felt she didn't have to carry her grudge that far. Right now, while I am writing this letter, she is giving me the freeze as the result of one of our usual arguments.

My best friend can't give me any advice, and my father cannot help because he has warned me to keep him out of all this. He usually just agrees with my mother and then keeps out of the way. What do you suggest I do?

Dear A.:

I wonder if you realize how many teen-age girls—and teen-age boys, too, for that matter—have a hard time, sometimes keeping things smooth between themselves and one of their parents, or perhaps both of them.

It is often difficult for one generation to understand the other while there is such a big gap of experience between them. Later on, as young people grow older, the number of years between seems magically to shrink so that the two generations come closer together in understanding. In the meantime, each has to have patience with the other.

I am going to suggest that you get hold of a pamphlet for teen-agers called "So You Think It's Love!" which you can obtain by sending 20 cents to the Public Affairs Committee, 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, N.Y. In This pamphlet you will find a section that discusses the subject of "parent trouble" which may help you in your particular problem.

I know it is a hard one for teen-agers, but if you can manage to look at things sometimes from your mother's point of view, perhaps it will help. Let her know that you love her and want to be friends with her. Parents have their problems, too, and affection from their children often does more than you realize to iron out some of the rough spots.

A Jealous Husband is a Poor Matrimonial Risk

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been expecting to be married within the next year or two to a young man with whom I have been going for over a year. Just lately, however, I have discovered that he is terribly hot-headed and jealous. He can't take a joke about me if any other man's name is involved.

I love him very much. What should I do about this situation?

A. G. M.

Dear A. G. M.:

If you are engaged I shouldn't think your name would be likely to be involved with that of any young man but your fiance, so I'm not sure exactly what you mean.

Do you, by any chance, have a habit of trying to make your fiance jealous by mentioning other young men in whom you have been interested or who have been interested in you? If so, then you are making a great mistake. Such a practice is not only in extremely poor taste, but is a very dangerous way of playing on somebody else's emotions.

If you are quite certain that you have not been doing any ill-advised teasing, then it becomes a matter of whether or not your young man is going to carry this jealousy over into marriage. If there is any likelihood of this, I advise you to think a long time before you set your wedding day. You are bound to have trouble if you marry anyone with a definitely jealous nature.

How to Write Notes Inviting Relatives of Bride, of Groom

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Instead of sending engraved invitations to my wedding, we thought that notes of invitation would be more personal as all the guests are relatives of my fiance and myself. We are having a church wedding in the morning and a reception in the early afternoon. All the guests will be invited to both the wedding and to the reception. Will you please suggest the proper wording of the invitations?

L.

Notes of invitation would indeed not only be more personal, but, to be sent to relatives only, more appropriate. These notes should be written by your mother, the hostess of the wedding. Somewhat like this, to a relative of your family.

Dear Grace,

Lorna and Tom are to be married in our church (give name and address, if necessary on Wednesday, July 12, at eleven o'clock We all very much want to have you and David with us at the church ceremony, and please come to the reception at our house in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Please say 'yes,' that you will both be with us for both occasions.

Affectionately.

And somewhat like this, to a groom's relative whom your family have not met:

Dear Mrs. Foster,

My daughter Lorna and your nephew Tom are to be married in our church here (give name and address), on Wednesday, July 12 at eleven o'clock. We all very much want to have you and your husband with us at the church ceremony, and please come too to the reception at our house in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock. We hope to hear that you both will come to both the ceremony and reception.

Warmest greetings from all of us.

Most sincerely,
Martha Hill Smith
(Mrs. George Smith)

She Should Not Buy Her Own Engagement Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in a few months .... and I haven't an engagement ring. Although my fiance and I have told our parents about our plans,, he has not said anything about giving me a ring. I also know that he cannot afford one at present, and so, Mrs. Beeckman, I wonder if it would be proper for me to buy my own engagement ring. I shall appreciate any suggestion you will give mem.

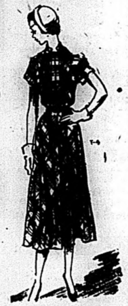
A. O'G.

Please, please don't buy an engagement ring for yourself. If you do, the chances are that you will deeply hurt and embarrass, and possibly humiliate, your fiance—and believe me, no ring is worth such a cruel reaction. It isn't really very important to have an engagment ring.... as a matter of fact today many brides-to-be prefer to have their fiances spend this money on things for future plans—furniture or furnishing for their new home, for example. Hold high in your heart the sentiment and meaning of your engagement....these, and not a ring, are important.

CLOCK WATCHER

St. John's Nfld.—(CP)—Private Donald E. Kelly of Howley, Nfld., was the youngest man in the Canadian army when he signed up. Kelly arrived at army headquarters a week before his 17th birthday and lived at the headquarters until he could legally sign on.

Glorified Gingham

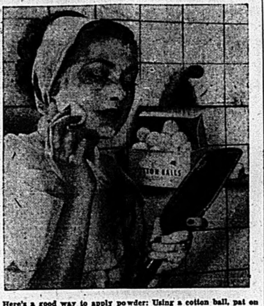


Box-pleated tartan frock

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Plaid gingham with the look and texture of taffeta is used for a nice little dress guaranteed to see a girl smartly through a busy day in town or country. Box pleats run from shoulder to hem in both back and front of the bodice. A tiny stand-up collar trims the high round neckline that closes with one button. There are three buttons lower down on the bodice above the tailored leather belt. The skirt is fully flared falling in an unpressed pleat look. Colors are turquoise, green and black in a plaid.

A Powder Pad Must be Fresh



Here's a good way to apply powder: Using a cotton ball, pat on liberal amount. Give it a chance to "set" then whisk off the excess.

By HELEN FOLLETT

One menace to the complexion is the poisonous powder pad, for a girl to wash her face carefully then pass over the skin surface a lamb's wool pad that is of dubious appearance just doesn't make sense. It is being done all the time, and those who do it are probably lamenting about a flock of blackheads that has taken lodgings on the sacred complexion.

It is impossible to be too fastidious about one's good-looks items. High school and college girls, many of them, are remiss about certain duties. Clean wash cloths should be used, and fresh towels. Cosmetic jars should be kept tightly closed so that dust will not get into the contents. Brushes and combs should be scrubbed frequenly. Most especially should powder pads be clean.

Cotton Balls

If you find it a bother to wash these pads, get a glass jar, fill it with sterile cotton balls, Use them when applying powder, when tapping on a skin lotion They're convenient for washing your eyes morning and night, much safer than swishing the wash cloth over your soul windows.

Young ladies should remember the quotation "Neither a borrower nor a lender be" as far as cosmetics are concerned. To use another girl's lipstick is a disgusting practice. If the lipstick owner has a sore throat or a mouth infection the germs germesses and little germlets will be passed along to the borrower.

Good habits concerning these items are reflected in appearance. To look well groomed it is necessary to be scrupously clean. Hair that is shampooed frequently, brushed every night, shows the results of care. The shafts will have luster and the growth will look alive and healthy.

The complexion that gets its creaming at bedtime will carry freshness, the surface will be soft and smooth, defects may be avoided.

Danish Newspaper Publishes Useful Hints For Married Life

Copenhagen, June 22 (Reuters) — Disturbed at the "iron curtain of silence between man and wife on long evenings year after year," the Danish newspaper Politiken gives three tips for restoring harmony:

1. Not enough wives read newspapers or, generally, keep themselves informed on national and world affairs. Having small children is a good excuse for this but only for the first year or so.

2. Being in love is not enough—not for a whole lifetime, anyway.

3. Husbands—and there are two parties to all marriage troubles—should help with the washing-up and general household chores so that both parties are free as soon as possible to enjoy the evening together.

4. Husbands and wives should never work in the same office together. They see too much of each other if they do.

5. A husband should try to maintain a keen interest in domestic affairs—made suggestions for meals.

6. The wife should always be neat and tidy in readiness for her husband's return.

7. The husband should not assume his wife would not understand his work problems. Husbands should tell their wives of their office worries. Maybe she can help.

8. Neither party should live for the other's interests; both should have their different interests and both should be interested in each other's.

Statistics issued here add an interesting footnote to the marriage problem. Most dangerous years of a marriage—the third and fifth year.

BEAUTY

Conserving the Beauty Budget

Toiletries are tempting, offering hope for better complexions, more radiant faces. The list is as long as your arm. Powders, lotions, creams, rouge, lipstick, eye shadows, eyebrow pencils, mascara—and that's not the half of it. Shampoos, wavesets, perfumes nail polish, polish remover. If one had to start from scratch what a gouge there would be in the balance in the check book!

These are days of careful buying, and cosmetics are more expensive than they were in the pre-war period. There are certain good-looks aids that we can get along without, and here are some that we can't. Creams are necessary for all types and all ages. The skin has enemies, especially atmospheric dust, strong sunlight and harsh winds. A lubricant will not only keep the surface smooth, but many times it will have a mild bleaching effect. The friction necessary for its application tends to keep tissues and fibres firm. It keeps the blood streams on the move and the blood streams bring nourishment to every cell. It has a favorable effect upon the glands.

A cream should be used to remove make-up before the face-washing session begins. It should be used afterward to do away with the starched feeling that soap sometimes leaves. To get the best effect the cream should remain on over night.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Creams are necessary or all types and ages.

Creams are made pretty much after the same formulas. The expensive offerings contain costly perfumes, usually are in such attractive containers that they are irresistible. It is not necessary to use these cosmetics, lavishly. A light film is as effective as a heavy application.

Powder should be put on sparingly. Addition is better than substraction when dealing with this item. All too often one sees a woman with a patchy complexion due to careless powdering. Too much complicates the make-up problem. Use small powder pads and you'll save on the beauty overhead.

Perfumes are out of this world many of them out of the reach of the average shopper. One can get around that difficulty by buying toilet waters instead of essences. The fragrance may be the same and one does not feel that one must economize. Put the toilet water in an atomizer; spray neck, chest and shoulders after the bath and you will walk in a floretted aura all the day long. Sachets are good buys. Place them in hat boxes and among your handkerchiefs, scarves and gloves.

Much home shampooing is going on these days. Cream shampoos are a good buy. You need barely a scant teaspoonful for a rousing head-washing. If you prefer liquid soap, dilute it one-half with hot water; it can be rinsed away more easily than if you use it full strength.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Heslip assisted by Mrs. Alvey and Mrs. Robert McCoy. Mrs. Grant Lewis and her sister, Mrs. DeMille (a guest) sang beautifully two duets.

Miss Van Kleek as guest speaker, gave an interesting talk on her work among new Canadians in the west.

Mrs. Ken Nicol, on behalf of the club, presented Mrs. Heslip with a box of chocolates in appreciation of the use of her home for the lilac tea. The meeting closed with refreshments being served by the hostess.

The president, Ed Emerson took charge of the business. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen the first Thursday of July. A reading entitled, "The Ten Commandments of Good Will" was given by Mrs. Don Rose, followed by a duet, sung in Dutch, by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Westerhof. A contest was enjoyed.

The hostess served refreshments with all enjoying a social time together.

Husband Must Honor $5,000 Wedding Gift

Montreal —(CP)—A husband who listed a $5,000 gift to his wife in their marriage contract 24 years ago has to pay up even though he didn't have $5,000 when the gift was made, it was ruled in superior court here.

In ordering Seymour Gibson to pay $5,000 to his separated wife, Mr. Justice C. G. MacKinnon ruled the gift could only be set aside if it could be proven that the gift was made fraudulently to escape a creditor.

In his defence, Gibson said the debt was not enforcible because no time limit was fixed on the contract. He added that since he didn't have $5,000 when the contract was signed the gift was meaningless since no one could give away something he hasn't got.

The court replied the lack of time limit meant Mrs. Gibson could collect whenever she wanted and the lack of money at the time was entirely irrelevant.

Prince Edward Section Women's Missionary Society Holds Annual Meeting

Picton — Prince Edward Section of the W.M.S. held their annual meeting in Bloomfield with a large attendance. Mrs. Rowland Barker, the president, conducted the sessions. Mrs. H. Walters, Bloomfield, extended a welcome with reply by Mrs. F. Huskisson, of Bloomfield.

Northport Auxiliary conducted the morning devotions, with Miss Ruth Wallbridge, presiding. Mrs. Ralph Aman read the scripture and Mrs. Dufferin Folkard sang.

During roll call, 17 organizations responded. The two minute reports of the secretaries recorded activity in all departments, and stressed the importance of fostering the work of the Junior organizations, the department of Christian Stewardship and of Temperance and Good Citizenship.

Literature a Living Link

Mrs. A. A. Benvie, Picton, reported on "Literature for Auxiliaries." She said, "The literature secretary is the living link between the Home Societies and Overseas workers." She recommended the reading course and the W.M.S. book shelf for becoming well informed missionary women, stressing the importance of the society's magazines and the United Church Observer for up-to-the-minute facts. Describing a visit to the Ryerson Press, and the United Church publishing House, she said she hoped that when W.M.S. ladies are in Toronto they will find time to visit this interesting plant and inspiring department of the church, where every assistance will be given any visitor.

Mrs. McMullen feelingly rendered the beautiful solo, "Thanks Be to God."

President Guest Speaker

Coming from Grace Church, Napanee, Mrs. C. D. McLellan, president of Belleville Presbyterial, brought to the women of Prince Edward section, a story of the early beginning of the three Women's Missionary Societies, which, 25 years ago this month, were inaugurated into the outstanding organization known as the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada. "The society," said the speaker, "is a challenge to the whole United Church in aims and methods, being first and foremost in the practice of systematic giving; and the spirit of the society has placed strong emphasis on the activities of church women, and upon their influence in their homes. W.M.S. mothers have influenced their children to love and worship Jesus Christ."

Quoting Dr. Arnup, Mrs. McLellan read: "The roots of the present lie deep in the past. Nothing in the past is dead to the man (or woman) who would learn how the present came to be what it is."

"The United Church W.M.S. stems from the early organizations of women years before Church union was ever dreamed of. At Ottawa, in 1886, men of the Congregational Union of Ontario invited women to meet with them to consider a wider field of service for women; only four responded, but these formed the Congregational W.M.S. which grew, and worked through our Church Boards in Canada and in Angolia, Africa,—Dr. and Mrs. Currie going to Chisambra. Mrs. C. R. Crowe was president of Congregational women at the time of union in 1925. Their motto was "Whatsover He saith unto you, do it."

First Methodist W.M.S.

"Methodist Episcopal women organized in 1876, and in 1880 the first real Methodist Missionary Society became active in response to an appeal from Dr. Alexander Sutherland. In B.C. a missionary's wife, Mrs. Crosbie, took Indian girls into her home for protective purposes, and thus began the now renowned Crosbie Girls' Home.

"The Methodist Society acted on the rule of having money on hand before spending it. They organized conference branches, and began work among immigrants, French Canadians, the Chinese in B.C., and began a Comunity Mission in Winnipeg. The Methodist motto was, 'Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit saith the Lord.'

"Presbyterian Church women had a Foreign Mission Society, a Western Home Mission Society and a Woman's Society in Montreal for work among French Canadians. There was also an Eastern Division in Halifax, N.S. These small organizations united in the Presbyterian Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society, which was interested in India and the East Indians in Trinidad. Later, they sent two nurses to the Yukon and built a hospital there. This Society introduced the method of giving systematically and regularly by envelope. There was also a very small society in the Maritimes to which the grandmother of Dr. George Pidgeon, belonged.

"The slogan of the Presbyterian women was, 'The World for Christ" The three foundation texts are now combined in the motto of the W.M.S. of the United Church.

"Someone," continued Mrs. McLellan, "has compared the W.M.S. to three small streams, at one time all very different, but since 1925 have merged together to form one large river. In 1926 the Dominion Board, representing leading women of all three churches, met in Toronto.

Aim of Joint Societies

"This Dominion Board set $1,000,000 as their financial goal, and in 1929 it was almost reached; but during depression givings dropped to $36,000. Since the Second World War, there has been an upward trend and last year the million dollar mark was reached. But,—expenses are now so much higher that we need even more than a million to continue to carry on.

"W.M.S. roots are still not too deep in Church soil, and the work needs more care. Anniversary is a time of deep feeling and of some pride in the United Church of Canada, which, in the United States is called 'Canada's Experiment', but which is really the spearhead in the Ecumenical Movement. Dr. Brewing's definition is, 'not adding denominations, but blending them to produce something higher than denominations.'

"Finally, said the speaker, "we can resolve to build better in the future than in the past 25 years," and she quoted from Ruskin:—'When we build let it be such a good work as our descendants will thank us for, and let us think as we lay stone upon stone that a time is to come when these stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and men will say as they look upon them, See, this our Fathers did for us.'"

Interesting reports of Junior Societies were received, from Baby Bands to Mission Circles.

Greetings From Women's Associations

Mrs. A. F. Brown, president of Picton United Women's Association brought greetings from the Associations of Prince Edward County, saying both W.A. and W.M.S. organizations have an important part in bringing in the Kingdom of God; and as units of the United Church of Canada they may work together in one large inspired group, with a wider influence and a radiating inspiration in the work of the church. She hoped that in the years of plenty larger fields will open, and greater services will be accomplished through the efforts of the W.M.S.

Service of Remembrance

Massassaga Auxiliary had charge of a service of remembrance for members of the section who, during the past year, entered into higher service; using the first 27 verses of the 14th chapter of St. John's Gospel.

As a tribute to the memory of those who 'rest from their labors' a basket of beautiful blossoms was placed on the table below the pulpit, and thus closed the morning session.

Bountiful refreshments were served by the Bloomfield ladies during the noon hour, with the second session opening at 1:30 p.m.

Afternoon Session

Promptly at 1.30 p.m. the afternoon session of the 24th Rally of Prince Edward section opened with the singing of

'In Christ there is no East nor
West,
In Him no South or North,
But one great fellowship of love
Throughout the whole round earth.'

This was followed by a devotional period conducted by a representative of the South Bay Auxiliary, and based on Psalm 23, which was earnestly and inspirationally interpreted. The leader said in part, "The Valley of the Shadow may be the darkest during our life time, but the Good Shepherd has abolished death, so the depth of the shadow is but a short passage. 'I will fear no evil for Thou art with me.—In spite of taunting shadows of our sins we have with us the abiding presence of the Shepherd for our protection, and His rod and staff give strength as well as protection. The Eastern shepherd is a friend to his flock. He leads them to green pastures in the morning, and to the safety of the fold at eventide. When we learn to follow our Shepherd we shall feel secure and fear no evil.

"I shall not want, — all our needs are supplied, our cup of happiness, contentment and peace runneth over with blessings, and 'I shall dwell in the House of the Lord' through all eternity."

Miss Rachel Freeman, of Wellington, contributed the lovely solo, "Thy Will Be Done", after which the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Jose, Convener of the Department of Community Friendship on the Dominion Board, (Toronto), was introduced by Mrs. W. C. Haggerty, saying that in Toronto Mrs. Jose is known as "Mrs. Joy" because of her happy faculty for spreading joy wherever she goes.

A Challenging Address

Replying, Mrs. Jose said that she was happy to be in Prince Edward County, and especially to have a chance to talk on the opportunities for service found in the Community Friendship Department.

"We are here because we love God and want to do His will", was the opening statement of the speaker. "Our responsibility as members of the W.M.S. is that we want to go and tell others of the great love of Christ, as Jesus asked us to do, and ladies, this means to do it here in Canada, and here in Prince Edward, as well as overseas. We are responsible for telling it in our own homes, and in our own communities.

"Excuses for lack of activity are often made. There is a lack of leadership, I heard in some reports. Women say, "I can't do that. I haven't the talents.' But, use what you have, if it be only one talent. A number of women, each with one talent and using it, may accomplish great things. Let us not think our part is the smallest part in Community Friendship. You know a pebble thrown into a pond makes a very small ring but if it were not for that small ring there would be no large ripples on the surface of the water."

The speaker asked and answered "What is Community Friendship?" "It is the means by which you women take your Church to your community. People are waiting to ask you the same question Phillip asked of Jesus, 'Show us the Father' This is our Women's commission, working through our homes."

Early Education Important

"Child education is an important chance to make church attendance a part of each child's life. Our Roman Catholic friends recognize the importance of this early association and training in child education.

Mrs. Jose told a story from her own experience. Walking on a Toronto street one day, she passed two small girls, the older one drawing the smaller on a wagon. Suddenly the older girl stopped and asked her passenger, "Are you a Catholic? Do you need to go to church' "That," said the speaker, "is a fair example of child education in forming the habit of church attendance.

"When visiting, we are not always trusted the first time we call upon a stranger. They may suspect we have an axe of our own to grind. But do not be discouraged, Jesus stands at the door and knocks and He continues to do so. Remember, a servant is not greater than his Lord, so we go again and again, until the door is opened before we knock. The door of a home of new-comers to whom we bring Christian Friendship.

"God so loved that He gave His only Son; Jesus so loved that He died on the cross. When we love, we give and we share if we are to show His love to people through ourselves. The small place where we live is the small plot we are able to cultivate. What of that? 'Nazareth was a small place, and so was Galilee.'

"Why is visiting newcomers necessary? Have you ever been in a strange place where you felt nobody cared about or wanted to know you? God said, 'Be careful to entertain strangers.' Here are some qualifications necessary in a visiting Community Secretary:-

She must have the love of God in her heart; she must be unselfish and be prepared to sacrifice; she must be able to see both sides of a question, and to listen to what others believe. Do not argue for one can always learn from others, and in time they may change. Canadian women do not know everything; you may be wrong when you think you are the only people who have the right answers.

She cannot work alone. She should enlist the help of her committee. If you plug your prayer wire into the Power of God you can iron out all the wrinkles when you set your mind fully and entirely to your task.

A secretary should answer the call for workers with 'Here am I, send me'. Our part is to be willing. Study to prepare and God will go before and with us and will give us the words we should speak."

Remember Older People

Continuing, she said,- "Our society has now a new branch of work with older people. There are more people over 65 years of age in Canada today than ever before, and then need activity, recreation, companionship in order to be happy. Homes for the aged and Government institutions provide housing, but no healthy woman at 65 is contented just to be housed. People are happiest when they feel they are needed, and can do something for others. Our Department is enlisting the talents of these older ladies.

No Racial Discrimination

"Racial discrimination may be a drawback to our friendship. What is your personal reaction to having dark skinned neighbors? Whether or not we like the idea our part is to love people, though we may not like the things they do. Our attitude toward friendly relations is the foundation for the concepts of our work in Community Friendship. What do we do as Christians about Community Welfare? I do not have Canadian figures but here are the startling facts in the United States, and in these days Canada is not too far behind our Southerly neighbor. Last year in the U.S.A. 730,000,000 books were read, and of these 720,000,000 were comic books. Radio may be a blessing to homes, but not with the trash broadcast just before the children's bedtime. And what help will television be in this regard? Parents are careless, concerning these everyday contacts and influences on their children. Children get questionable ideas outside of home and what does home life do to counteract these ideas?"

In closing, Mrs. Jose told a story about a Community Centre worker whose experiences were very enlightening as to the needs of the people in that community, which she was trying to meet. First, a young boy came in and seeing shelves lined with books exclaimed, "Oh, Miss Edgar, the books and books to read! I can read for a long time can't I? Later a rough looking man known as 'the town character' came in and the worker said to him, "Well John, what would you like?' His reply was, 'Aw, gee, Miss Edgar, I just want a bath.' "Both of these people asked for the thing they wanted most," said Mrs. Jose. "This illustrates that we cannot always judge from outside appearances what is hidden in the hearts of our fellowmen."

"What Are We Doing For Youth?"

Mrs. Pierce Jones spoke pointedly on the subject 'What Are We Doing for Youth?' She asked, "Why don't our younger women join our church groups? Why do their children not come to our Mission Bands?

"Are Your groups happy?" Then she proceeded to point that WMS women can greatly assist young mothers by making arrangements to care for infants and younger children while the mothers relax and enjoy a meeting. In other words, somebody may be a baby sitter.

"The Mission Band offers endless opportunities for teaching the pre-school age child many things pertaining to God and the church. They are at the age when they love to learn anything—songs, scripture texts, recitations, and to make things, so that crafts may be used extensively in Band work; also games and short plays. This also is the time to teach lessons in "Temperance." The main difficulty in this work, is a lack of leaders. Maybe you're a leader—the leader for a Band in your church."

To the women she advised—"Don't shove children aside to make room for older groups and their activities. Believe, and act accordingly, that children and their meetings are important assets to your church life. Are you giving the necessary spark of enthusiasm to the work of your younger groups? They need it now. Bringing up their interest in church life is your responsibility."

Mission Band Entertains

Bloomfield Mission Band entertained the delegates with a pretty exercise and song under the leadership of Mrs. Branscombe. A report of the Business Committee was presented by Mrs. Lyall Hicks of Cherry Valley Auxiliary, with Mrs. Nash of Wellington expressing appreciation for courtesy and hospitality. The committee for the coming year will be Mesdames Don Thompson, Henry Williams, Wm. Jose with Mrs. A. A. Benvie as chairwoman for the Reading club of the county. Mrs. Hicks said that Northport Auxiliary has graciously extended an invitation for next year's rally. Only one resolution was presented.

Local Woman Addresses

Delegates

"Consecration" was the subject presented by Mrs. W. C. Haggerty of Cherry Valley. She said in part—"Re-dedication was in the minds of the committee who chose this subject; re-dedication, on this 25th anniversary of church union, to go forward in the work of our society. There are two important sign posts at the top of our program today: 'The World for Christ' and 'Behold we come to Thee dear Lord, and bow before Thy Throne.' Let us heed and follow these signs to have and share in Christ's commission, 'Go ye into all the world.'

"It is quite a wonderful thing to have had a part in this organization for these past 25 years, but before us lies a shining goal. Our objective at the time of union was every woman in the church a member of the WMS. This is not yet accomplished.

"In 1882 Picton Auxiliary was organized, one among the first 20 in the Methodist Church In 1902 and '03 there were 23 working auxiliaries in this district and annual membership was $1. Gentlemen were privileged to join as honorary members.

"Recently, I read a few hints to WMS members such as 'Do not wait for someone else to do something, go to work and do it'; 'Do not wait to do some great thing, organize your auxiliary with three members if you can get no more; Arrange special meetings for prayer.' In the early days of WMS organizations this was done frequently. We fail on this point and we need much prayer for real consecration," said the speaker.

Satan's Greatest Tool

"A story is told," continued Mrs. Haggerty "of a time when Satan decided to go out of business and advertised a sale of tools. He laid them all out for inspection, each tagged with a price. Among them were seen hatred, malice, envy, fear and deceit, — but in a place by itself was a wedge shaped tool marked with a much higher price than the others. Prospective buyers asked 'Why is that tool so highly priced and what is it?' Satan answered—'That is "discouragement" my most important tool. I can use that where I cannot use any of the others. I can pry into man's consciousness, and, once inside, I can do as I like. The buyer must pay dearly for that tool.'

"But, so the story goes, that tool was never sold. Satan is still using it. He uses it among church members, and in the working of our society. Our only safeguard against discouragement is consecration, and a closene to our Heavenly Father."

In closing, Mrs. Haggerty quoted a poem from the note bo of the late Mrs. Smythe, a former president of the Bay of Quint Conference Branch, and for many years Dean of the school for leaders at Whitby, Ont. The sentiment of the first stanza is heart searching and thought provoking. 'They borrowed a bed to lay His Head, When Christ the Lord came down; They borrowed an ass, and a tomb and a winding sheet, But —The crown that he wore, and the cross that He bore, were His Own."

A Fitting Close

The solo, "Alone" was fittingly and feelingly rendered by Mrs. C. C. Spencer, of Picton, after which the rite of Holy Communion was administered by Rev. Stephen Spurrell, minister of Bloomfield United Church, bringing to a close the 24th annual rally of the Prince Edward section of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A few of the boys in the back room were discussing the origin of pugilism the other recess-time and opinions differed as to when and how the honorable profession of beak-busting started. Delving into the records we discovered that a "pugil" meaning one who fights with his fists first originated back in the Sumerian age when man used to cuff an inquisitive lion between the eyes with his knuckles. The records do not show the method of Numa's retaliation, but few were found starved to death.

The practice of butt 'em and cuff 'em was revived about 1750 B. C. but some 800 years later, a Grecian king named Thesus, who liked plenty of gore with his fistic fare instituted some rules that would make the St. Valentine's Day massacre look like a pacifist convention.

Thesus would have the boys placed sitting on flat stones, facing each other with their noses almost touching (the origin perhaps of the expression "It smells"). Their fists were encased in leather thongs. On signal, they started punching at each other. All battles were to a finish, towels being unknown in those days. It seems that only the death of an antagonist meant complete victory. This prevented any squawking on the part of the defeated one's manager for a rematch.

But even this proved too dull for Ole Thesus. He craved smarter, and bloodier action. This, he felt was powder puff stuff. So he had metal studs inserted in the leather thongs. This resulted in quicker finishes. and more bouts. Some of the studs were short, others long and often the first few blows transformed the face of one of the fighters into a reasonable facsimile of a pound of squashed hamburg. A dozen socks usually ended the battle and the warrior.

Later the Romans who had knocked off the Greeks for the continental title, arranged bouts between the future restaurant owners and their own laddybucks. The boys fought in an enclosure surrounded by a circle and that, kiddies was the origin of the present-day ring.

The winners were given various prizes. On one occasion the loser was presented with a two-handled cup, and the winner a "jackass in good condition." That was probably the origin of the present-day fight managers.

A priest in Sienna, Italy, who got tired of seeing the zoot-suiters of his day playfully carve one another to pieces with their cute little stilettos, caused the lads to substitute their fists for the carvers. This happened back in 1201 A. D. He taught them how to strike blows without breaking their hands. More important he demonstrated how the arms could be used to block punches. He stressed defence since he did not want to see anyone brutally hurt. His preachment was that each man "box up" the enemy attack-self-defence- and thus the name of boxing was tabbed to the punch-and-hit sport.

Umpires Clamping Down on Players Discoloring Balls

(By The Canadian Press)

As if it isn't tough enough earning a living pitching these days!

Now the umps are clamping down on tossers who persist in wiping that glossy sheen from new baseballs before pitching.

Harry Sollenberger, righthander for Galt Terriers in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League, was ordered out of a scheduled game with Brantford Red Sox Friday for just that. When Galt manager Alex Martin joined the ensuing rhubarb, he got the gate too.

Brantford went on to win the game 4-0, lone Ray Kirkgassor holding the pilotless Terriers to five hits. Bill Leader, who followed Sollenberger to the mound in the first inning, couldn't match that sort of pitching, and went out for Krall in the sixth.

Sox counted two runs off Leader in the third when Stan Lipka drove two runs home with a circuit clout to his wrong field. Pedroro Juarez doubled in the sixth to bring home the final runs.

In Stratford, the rejuvenated London Majors downed the Nationals 5-2. Bob Albertson, making his first start for London, was in control throughout except for the third inning, when two errors enabled Nats to plate two runs.

London scored all their runs in two innings, the third and fifth. They nicked big Jerry Hamm for two runs in the third and three in the fifth. Lefty Allan replaced Hamm in the eighth.

The luckless Guelph Maple Leafs, who had shown signs of pulling out their losing groove, relapsed again Friday and dropped a tight game to St. Thomas Legion 3-2.

Guelph outhit Legion 9-6 in a mound duel between righthanders Doc Doherty of St. Thomas and Bill McCarthy of Leafs. Only one run was earned, that by St. Thomas.

Guelph went into an early one-run lead in the fourth, only to have St. Thomas notch single runs in the fifth and sixth. Leafs scored another in the top of the seventh, but Legion rebounded with the winning marker in their half of the inning.

A scheduled game between Kitchener and Waterloo at Kitchener was rained out.

Galt Terriers got an additional bit of bad news Friday. Tex Kaiserbn, slugging centrefielder, is out for the rest of the season.

Kaiser is slated to undergo an operation shortly for a torn knee cartilege, an old hockey injury. He was ordered to rest the knee after a June 10 game when he hit two home runs against Brantford Red Sox, and has not been in the lineup since.

Both Battlers Fall Thru Ropes In California

(By The Canadian Press)

If Dave Whitlock hadn't fallen out of Hollywood Stadium ring last night and if Irish Bob Murphy hadn't fallen on top of him Murphy might not be the California light heavyweight title holder today.

As it happened, however, both battlers tumbled through the ropes in the 10th round of a scheduled 12-rounder. Whitlock, San Francisco Negro, didn't get up. Referee Abe Roth gave Murphy a 10th round technical knockout.

At Denver, Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias tries today to make golf history by becoming the first to win the women's Western Open championship four times.

To do it the Chicago pro must extend a three time winning streak over Peggy Kirk, a resolute amateur from Findlay, Ohio, who won her final spot by outlasting Claire Doran of Cleveland for a 2 up edge in yesterday's finals.

At Sandown Park, Isle of Wight Friday the photo of a tight finish in the Claremont Handicap today showed one horse's nose in front. But Judge Malcolm Hancock couldn't decide whether the nose belonged to Lanarth or Capillyo. "The photograph was too indistinct," he told reporters. So he called it a dead heat.

At New London, Conn., favored Harvard, barely edged out Yale by 12 feet Friday in the 85th renewal of United States only four mile crew race. The losers closed most of the gap in a tremendous home stretch drive, mainly the last 100 yards.

It is understood that Butlerjn who was holding a .385 batting average for St. Thomas, was scouted in Monday night's game with the Guelph Maple Leafs. He is reported to have been offered an $8,000 contract.

Business manager of the Legion squad, Goldiewhitfield, said he had not an inkling that Burler was leaving and intimated the management of the club was something more than "peeved" over the affair.

M. C. Chilton, president of the Canadian American Lacrosse Association announced at Sarnia Friday that a game in Chatam on Tuesday between Windsor Sterlings and Sarnia Beavers has been thrown out. Mr. Chilton said Mr. Brown, Ontario Lacrosse Association secretary-treasurer, had told him that player Stan Muchesna, of Windsor is the property of the Toronto Senior A club and is not eligible to play with Windsor or any other club until properly released.

Windsor won the game from Sarnia 15-10.

PETERBOROUG WINS

Peerborough, Ont., June 24 — (CP) — The crippled Mimico Mounties put up a suprisinglystrong fight against the powerpacked Peterborough Petes last night before dropping a 12-8 decision in an Ontorio Lacrosse Association senior game.

Jim Kinna, a former west coast player, paced the Petes in a close-checking, clean contest, scoring five goals. Arn Dugan and Bob Thorpe tallied twice each, and Don Ashbee, Mick Magee and Emmett Creighton once apiece.

Scoop Hayes was Mimico's ace, scoring four goals in the fourth quarter.

Only 3½ Games Separate First Six Clubs

By The Associated Press

If the Internationl League pennant ace gets any tighter, the boys will have to start computing the standings with a slide rule. Only 3 1-2 games separate the first six teams today.

It was knock-down-the-favorites last night as the three leaders —Springfield, Rochester and Jersey City—all were toppled.

Montreal belted Springfield 12-4, Baltimore downed Rochester 4-2 and Buffalo edged Jersey City 5-4.

Toronto and Syracuse, meanwhile, split a doubleheader. Syracuse gained a 9-8 decision in the after piece dropping a 7-3 loss in the opener.

Monteal backed young Tommy Lasorda's nine-hit hurling with a 15-hit blast against three Springfield pitchers: Don Thompson, Rocky Bridges and Lasorda led the Montreal batsmen with three safeties each.

Rochester, which has found the going difficult lately, got only three hits off Irv Medlinger, Baltimore southpaw who picked up his fifth victory. One of Rochester's hits was a two-run homer by Steve Bilko in ninth.

Buffalo turned on Jersey City after eight previous lacings.

The Bisons smacked three Jersey City moundsmen for 11 hits, including the home runs by Hank Biasatti and Gene Markland. Ken Wood, spacing six hits, posted victory No. 2.

Ken Trinkle, an old mopper-upper, started and won for Toronto in the first game against Syracuse. He gave up eight hits in winning his fourth game.

Toronto, June 24 — (CP) — Ada Mackenzie of Toronto added a climatic touch yesterday to one of the most unusual careers in golf.

Hi Lee Socks The Official 'Puss' and Carnera Smirks As He is Given The Victory Nod

"Ho ho" laughed "Da Preem" [illegible] he missed the clutching hams-pardon-hand of lumbering Hi Lee pride of the Ozarks, "so you missa me, huh?" He dances away giving the faithful a more or less pitiful facsimile of his former boxing days, and s'welp me the big fella got away with it. Wia' Sure he did. He forgot himself so far as to get geared into what appeared rasslin' second high in the second fall and egad, if the hairy Ozarkian didn't get the nod.

Of course Referee Bunny Dunlop who apparently has been listening to military bands for the past three months beat rath[illegible] rapid tattoo on the canvas when the man mountain was reduced to a plain level, and therefore Hi Lee was adorned with the figurative laurel wreath.

Egad, They Wrestled

But the ambling Alp actually was never in what you might call distress (after all who 's"). He was on an eye level for once with an opponent, both of the big lugs stretch up to six feet six plus, and when he finally got a glimpse of the Ozarkian eyes through its natural hair screen, he wafted a gentle right hand in their direction which with 287 pounds of Italian brawn behind did carry a little weight

Actually the big fellas did get in a laid-down wrestling hold occasionally with Da Preem favoring the back slam with Hi Lee, getting in whatever he could whenever he could. In fact [illegible] did his best effort of the evening when he socked referee Dunlop, once-twice and not gently on the puss which, natch earned him a disqualification, and which after all is said and done is the way the bout ended.

Carnera, who never works for less than ten dollars a wrestling breath, and who as a wrestler would qualify for a junior stenographer's job, figured there was no use in getting all "het up" over the affair. Hi Lee he figured was never the world's boxing champion, nor will be he the global rasslin champ. so to "da heil" with the orthodox holds and lets get a few spasms of shadow boxing.

Shades of Dempsey

He did, he plastred a short leerish grin over his map-like mug and feinting, ducking and flicking out a puny facsimile of his former right jab, danced around the scowling Ozarkian, much to the hillbilly's disgust. In feet the Carnera strategy worked. He teased the southerner incessantly until the Ozark Ike of the wrestling ring finally lost his temper and as was said before, smacked the Dunlopian pus and earned himself disqualification.

Ho Hum, it was a nice way to pass an evening, and the big boys will likely be brought back next week to settle their differences.

Handsome Steve Stanlee, "Mr. America" might better get back to the modelling studios. As a wrestler he makes a good poser. And young Johnny Barend who should have won going away, had to go the time limit and split the decision.

Kaye Bell, a long-hair from somewhere strutted his stuff in the ring against handsome Timmy Geohagen from Ireland. Timmy whose popularity is gaining in leaps and bounds, finally subdued the "Hair" with not too much effort.

25-Pound Lake Trout is Netted

Point Traverse, June 24 — One of the largest lake trout taken from local waters in years was netted by Herbert Bongard and Joe Thurston. The fish tipped the scales at 25 pounds, and was caught in whitefish nets.

Catches of whitefish taken from South Bay waters are very good, local fishermen report. They are now awaiting the annual run of trout, which commences during July.

Bakelite Entry Coasts to 13-6 Win Over Club

Behind a 12-hit attack that was featured by five doubles and a home run, the Bakelite entry in the B section of he Commercial Sofball League last evening coasted to a 13-6 victory over the Energetic Club in a nine inning tilt at the Alemite field.

The issue was never in doubt as the Bakelites baked themselves a solid four-run lead in the bottom half of the first frame. They continued to pile up runs as Energetic starter, 'Lefty" Lou Middleton, tried vainly to halt the carnage in front of a porous defence.

Two errors, a passed ball, a walk, and doubles by Woodbeck and Vanalstine in the first frame counted four Bakelite runs. Ray Burley's hefty four master to the right centre field with two away and no one on in the second stanza gave the planters a five-run bulge.

Two singles, two walks, and an error set up three more Bakelite counters in the third.

Eneregtic Club, set down with one hit for four innings by Hawkshaw, greeted reliefer Clark Birch in the fifth with a double and two singles to score two runs. A double by Picknell, a walk to Peever, and singles by Birch and Cook went for two Bakelite runs in the bottom of the fifth as the winners maintained their eight-run lead.

A single by Outingdyke, and home runs by McNiven and Stickle gave energetic three runs in the seventh. They added their final tally in the eighth on a walk and two errors.

The winners slashed in three insurance runs in the seventh to clinch an easy win.

Middleton toiled the route for the losers, walking nine, striking out two, and surrendering a dozen hits for 13 runs and the loss. Hawkshaw, in four innings, walked one, struck out two, and gave up one hit for no runs to register the victory. Birch worked the rest of the way for the winners walking one, whiffing none, and surrendering seven hits for all the runs. Line up:

Energetic Club: White 2b; Middleton p; Stickle ss; Moynes 1b; McMullen cf; Hitchon lf; Scriven c; Outingdyke rf; McNiven 3b.

Bakelite: Cook lf; Burley ss; Arnott 2b; Lawn c; Woodbeck 1b; Picknell cf; Vanalstine rf; replaced by Peever in 5th; Littlejohn 3b; Hawkshaw p, replaced by Birch in 5th.

Some Tips on Bass-Bug Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

Rarely does a week pass that my mail box fails to turn up some letters from fellows who want information about bass-bug fishing. Some of them are old hands at the game and their letters ask for data on some specific item of tackle.

The great majority of the letters are from men and boys who have done no bass-bug fishing, but who are anxious to learn something about it.

It is a large order to hand out in a letter anything that even approximates complete information about bass-bug fishing. However, those letters should be answered.

For the Beginner

All right — here is an answer to them. This is for the beginners. If you already are a bass-bug fisherman, don't bother to read this. You probably won't agree with me anyway.

The primary item of equipment for the bass-bug fisherman is, of course, his fly rod. You can't use too much care in its selection.

There are a great many "bass action" rods now on the market. Most of them are heavy nine-foot affairs, with stiff, fast actions.

Avoid these monstrosities as you would the plague. They tell you that these are "powerful" rods. Maybe so, but try to use that power in your casting! Unless you are equipped with a paw like the Hand of Providence, one of these fast rods will wreck your casting arm in half an hour.

And don't fall for this "light-tackle" nonsense that is being broadcast these days. You can land any bass living on a three-ounce rod, providing your terminal tackle is substantial enough.

The size of the rod, any rod, should be determined by the casting job to be done. It takes a big rod to cast a big lure satisfactorily.

Slow Action Rod

The rod I recommend should be at least nine and one-half feet long with slow action that comes clear down to the rod grip. Such a rod will cast a bass bug for you with minimum effort, and it won't tire your hand if you accept its timing and don't try to hurry the cast.

Get a nylon line, preferably of the three-diameter type, size GAF or GBF, depending on the size of your fly-rod. Your tackle dealer will know, at least he should.

For leaders, get some coils of nylon leader material, in 15 lb., 12 lb., and 8 lb. test. Then find out how to tie a barrel knot and make your own tapered leaders. I use four feet of 15 lb. and four feet of 12 lb. and then tie on a three-foot point of 8 lb.

Any large single action reel will do the job. Get one big enough to take fifty yards or so of nylon backing under your casting line. Your dealer will know about that, too.

Too Many Useless Plugs

The bass bugs on sale today are many and various. About half of them are worth about ten cents a carload if you have to use them and can't re-sell them to folks who know much about good bass bugs.

I am of the firm opinion that not many of the tackle manufacturers do very much bass-bug fishing. If they did, they'd make better bugs.

Better start off with deer-hair bugs, not too large, until you find out what you want a bass bug to do for you.

If you buy bugs with cork bodies or cork heads, be wary of those with the concave faces. They will dive on the retrieve and smash a rod tip for you unless you are very careful.

When you fish a bass bug, it is better if you can have a floating line. That is why we use nylon casting lines. Nylon lines are lighter than silk lines, and they float better.

Dress the forward end of your line liberally with line dressing so that it will stay on top. You can handle a bass bug much more effectively with a line that does not sink.

For Proper Use

So much for your basic equipment. Now, let's find out how to use it.

Bass bugs are most effective when they are fished in shallow water—along the shorelines or over the shallow bars, reefs and shoals. Usually you won't get very many bass out of deep water with a surface bug.

While bass are not shy fish, in the sense that trout are shy, they are wary and will not stand too much crowding. You will fare better and catch more large fish if you fish your bass bug at least fifty feet away from the boat. Sixty or seventy feet is even better.

I'm assuming, of course, that you know how to cast a fly. If not, go to your library and get a good book on fly casting. Then practise, either over water or on your lawn, until you can cast a bass bug that far.

There are two other things that are important, almost vital, to consistent success. The first is —fish slowly. Remember that the more time you can spend in fishing out a single cast, the better are your chances for taking the bass who may be looking over your bass bug.

Last but not least, bass respond very well to the promptings of the Solunar Periods. Both large mouth and small mouth take surface lures far more freely during the Solunar Periods than they do at other times.

So keep that in mind. At the close of the season we're betting that you will agree that it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Wants Godson To Win National

London, June 24 — Lord Mildmay of Flete, the gentleman jockey, bequeathed part of his vast estate to be spent to help his 14-year-old godson achieve what he could not: victory in the Grand National steeplechase.

Mildmay was drowned during a lone morning swim last May 12. His will was made public Friday.

He spent a fortune during his lifetime without achieving victory in the jumping classic. His best effort was in 1948 when he came in third.

He left an estate of £1,138,973 ($3,530,810). Of this he left £10,000 and his entire stable of 11 high-class jumpers to Peter Cazalet, his schoolmate, trainer and best friend.

He specified that the bequest be used to help Cazalet's 14-year-old son, Edward, win the Grand National. Edward now is at Eton, where his father and Mildmay were classmates. The boy, already a keen rider of jumpers, is Mildmay's godson.

Snead Bows Out Of PGA Tourney

Columbus, O., June 24 — (AP) —Just a plain country club professional, the kind that avoids the tournament grind and makes the United States Professional Golfers Association championship an annual fling, today was golf's man-of-the-moment.

He was the guy who muredered Sam Snead.

He is 43-year-old Eddie Burke, the youngest member of one of the game's great families.

Eddie, an ex-caddie, chipped in a 31-foot 5-iron for an eagle three on the 490-yard 18th hole yesterday. It whipped Snead 1 up in the second round of the mid-century P.G.A. classic.

Eddie was projected into golf history with that shot at the Scioto country club. How far he progresses in this P.G.A. championship, which today enters the third round of punishing 36-hole matter.

Tennis Talk

Gossip From The Courts of The District

BY "DIG"

Last Sunday the Point Anne Tennis Club who were last year's champions in the Bay of Quinte Tennis League journeyed to Cobourg to take the local unit who headed the Kawartha League. Some very good tennis was seen and the result was a five to three win for the home squad. The Cobourg team will be visiting Point Anne for the return match on July 16th.

This Sunday Point Anne have been invited to Madoc for the afternoon so Thorold Horwood informs us, and they are looking forward to being able to report a win as the Madoc opposition should not be as strong as that encountered at Cobourg.

In league affairs Trenton still lead the field. Quinte Two helped them out on Tuesday evening when they beat the cement workers by three events to two in some of the closest matches seen for a long time. Batawa are doing very well in their season in league circles and so far are standing as second in the tables. The shoe squad really get in there fighting for every point.

Last Sunday the Quinte Tennis Club ran one of their monthly round robin club tournaments which was quite successful. It must have been as several of the contestants are asking for more. The winners for the day were Men's Doubles, Bruce Hefkey and Dave Dill, Ladies' Doubles, Barbara Ketcheson and Pauline Hall, Mixed Doubles, Dick Morden and Madge Cowley.

Tomorrow Quinte Two visit Batawa in the league and will doubtless be out to avenge their defeat at the hands of the Shoemakers two weeks ago. The only other league game scheduled for next is on Tuesday evening when Trenton visit the Quinte courts with Quinte One as the home outfit.

A Weekly Peek At The Soccer Picture

BY ELDEE

The draw for the Belleville Merchants Charity Cup was made on Tuesday and clubs pair off as follows: 1st round (a) Batawa vs Vets; (b) Flyers vs Trenton Merchants; 6 R. D. and Belleville drew a bye.

1st round matches are to be played on Monday evening on the ground of the first named club. In the semi-finals the winner of (a) meets 6 R.D. on Thursday and the winner of (b) takes on Belleville United on Monday 3rd July.

Previous to last year this cup was last played for in 1922 when it was won by the old Grand Trunk team, and from that time had been gracing the sideboard of Bill Harvey, vice-president of the Bay of Quinte Football Association. All proceeds from this series of matches are set aside in a special fund for assistance of any who may be injured while playing soccer.

In the Eastern Ontario Football League Kingston are still top dogs as shown in the official lueague standings as issued by the league executive this week.

	P	W	D	L	F	A	Pts
Kingston United	4	4	0	0	16	5	8
Ottawa Armed Services	4	3	0	1	13	5	6
Peterborough U.E.W.	5	2	1	2	15	15	5
Vimy Signals (Kingston)	4	1	1	2	8	10	3
Breckville	4	1	0	3	7	13	2
Belleville United	3	0	0	3	3	12	0

Next Saturday Toronto Celtic will be visiting the city to take on the Bay of Quinte All Star squad and by all accounts are intending to make a big day of it. Bill Henshaw their president writes that they expect to bring along about 100 people in buses. About 90 per cent of the crowd will be Irish and they say they are going to take over the city on July 1st, and will make it a day that the people of Belleville will not forget in a hurry. The game is scheduled for the Fairgrounds for 6.30 p.m. and should be a real soccer attraction. The Celtic are doing pretty well in Toronto Senior League circles.

This afternoon league leading Kingston United are the visitors to the Fairgrounds to do battle with Belleville United in the Eastern Ontario League. This Kingston team is probably the best in the district and are a pleasure to watch. Most of them are old country fellows with several years of soccer experience behind them.

Owing to Belleville Charity Cup matches taking place next week no games have been scheduled in the Bay of Quinte League.

The 1950 'Rabbit Ball' Rides To Flock of Records as Major Loop Clubs Hit 30 Home Runs

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Hey, Mr. Spalding. You'd better make another test run on that "normal" baseball.

The 1950 "rabbit" ball rode to a flock of records last night when 30 home runs were hit. If there have been "no changes in the resiliency of the ball," as claimed, baseball is breeding a flock of muscle monsters.

July 18, 1930, 24 homers were hit during a regular eight-game program.

The big blast occurred in Detroit where 11 homers were hit, accounting for all 19 runs in the tight 10-9 thriller over New York Yankees. As the opener of an important four-game series for first place in the American League, this game will long be remembered by a crowd of 51,400.

When Hoot Evers homered with a man on base in the ninth inning another record fell. It was the 11th homer of the game, topping the old high of 10.

Detroit hit four homers in the fourth inning to tie an American League record for one team. As the Yankees also hit one in the same frame, the American League record for two teams in an inning also was matched.

But records don't tell the story of this ball game. Trailing 6-0, the Tigers scored eight runs in the fourth. Then they saw the Yankees fight back and go out front on Tommy Henrich's pinch homer in the eighth with a man on base.

With a man on in the ninth, Evers socked a Joe Page pitch for an inside the park homer and the game was over.

The other American League clubs contributed seven more for the all-night game.

Big Luke Easter with two runs in Cleveland's 13-4 victory over Washington.

Boston Red Sox, taking the field a few hours after hearing that Steve O'Neill had been named successor to the ailing McCarthy, outslugged St. Louis 11-9.

Joe McCarthy Resigns as Pilot Of Boston Red Sox

Boston, June 24 — (AP) — Jovial Steve O'Neill has formally taken over the American League's slumping pre-season favorites, Boston Red Sox.

He took command after General Manager Joe Cronin announced in St. Louis that Joe McCarthy has resigned his $50,000-a-year job. McCarthy left the Red Sox Thursday in Chicago and flew back to his Buffalo home to be treated for pleurisy and influenza.

He indicated then that he intended to rejoin the club next Tuesday in Philadelphia.

But last night the 63-year-old pilot said he is through. Asked if he expects to return to baseball, McCarthy replied: "No, this is final."

The resignation of the top pilot caused as much surprise as a similar move in May, 1946, when he left the Yankees. He had led them to eight pennants and seven world titles.

He quit the Sox while they were in one of their worst slumps, 8½ games off the pace.

He "received fair treatment in Boston," McCarthy said, "but did not accomplish what I set out to do."

The Sox have lost 11 of their last 14 games.

O'Neill piloted the club to a victory last night in his first game at the helm.

McCarthy became manager of the Sox shortly after the 1947 World Series. His 1948 club lost out for the American League title in a playoff game with Cleveland Indians. His 1949 club was beaten out by the Yankees for the league championship in the last game of the season.

O'Neill, former Cleveland and Detroit manager, was engaged as "supervisor of scouts in the middle west" last January and later was called up to the Sox to replace Coach Kiki Cuyler who died.

Sports Shorts From Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 24 (CP) — Of all the weird names ever foisted on a poor, unsuspecting race horse, Imhison sounds as unintelligible as any. But there's a perfectly rational explanation.

A man named C. G. Hoffman, it seems, had a dream. In it he saw a colt looking at the famed stallion Umidad. Then the colt confided, in the accents always used by dream horses:

"I'm his son."

So when Hoffman bred a colt by Umiddad, he naturally named him Imhison. And (naturally) won his first appearance on a race course, paying the right sort of price for a dream horse—nearly 120 to 1.

The only catch is: how did Umiddad get his name?

Tommy Farr, former British and Empire heavyweight champion, is back in light training.

He's not making a comeback—just keeping in shape in case he decides to go on tour in Australia and South Africa.

Farr is 36. In recent sparring he has shown much of the skill and stamina which enabled him to last 15 rounds against Joe Louis.

That was August 30, 1937. Louis won on points, but could not score a knockdown. It was generally considered a dull fight.

When Australian-born Rae (Snapper) Johnstone steered Marcel Boussac's Galcador home ahead of Prince Simon in the 172nd Epsom Derby, he put further sparkle to a remarkable riding record.

Johnstone usually rides in France, visiting Britain for occasional big-race raids. His derby victory gave him eight firsts, two seconds, three thirds and a fourth in 21 attempts in English classic races.

Sixteen years ago Johnstone left England with bitterness in his heart. He had been blamed for the defeat of the derby favorite, Colombo. Caustically, Johnstone said then—"I suppose if Colombo had had a jockey he would have won by 10 minutes."

His victory this year on Galcador, supposed to be only a good miler, ought to wipe out the memories of 16 years ago. The derby is run over 1 1-2 miles.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Go not to pains to beat out your brains. When partner leads a small card in bridge, divide it into only two meanings. It is either his fourth best or his highest in that suit. One or the other.

How do you determine which of the two it is? Apply the rule of 11. Subtract the numeral on the led card from 11. This tells you how many higher cards are in the three hands outside of the leader.

If no more than this difference are in the three outside hands, it must be his fourth best. If you discover more than this difference, it must be his highest. This is a mathematical certainty.

This formula is an important asset to all bridge players. But it is necessary to apply it only to the leads of deuce, trey, four, five, six or seven. No need for it when the led card is eightspot or nine.

Discuss first the lead of a nine. The only combinations of three higher cards are A K Q, A K J, A Q J, A Q 10, A J 10, K Q J, K Q 10, K J 10 or Q J 10. From any of these combinations comes a top card lead, not a small card lead, except the A Q 10 and that should be avoided.

Therefore,, the lead of a nine could not possibly mean his fourth best. So, it is automatically his highest. Because if it is not one it must be the other. Unless leader ignores the rule.

This should help you speed up your game a bit. When partner starts out with the lead of a nine it is not necessary to go into a huddle with yourself. Or to start playing put and take.

Simply and promptly say to yourself that the nine led by your partner is the highest card he has in that suit. Also that he has less than four cards in that suit. Conduct yourself accordingly.

Partner in west leads the club nine from the clubs here:

NORTH
♣K 10 4

WEST ♣9 5 2
EAST ♣A J 8 3

SOUTH
♣Q 7 6

Look at dummy north and your own east hand. All unseen clubs higher than the nine must be in the hidden south hand. Must be. The best way to play bridge is the easiest way.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 24—(AP) — Bill Pine and Bill Thomas, the two money-making producers who are never at a standstill, were discussing the problem of film stars who get in serious trouble. They came up with this solution:

Throw the rascals out!

"Heavens knows I'm no moralist," claimed Thomas, the more effusive of the pair. "I'm a business man And when I see business being hurt by stars who get in trouble, I think something should be done about it."

"I think when a star gets in trouble with the police and is convicted o' an offense that is odious to society, he should be fired from the industry. It would serve as an example.

"Look what happened after the Fatty Arbuckle case. He was thrown out of the industry (after being tried in a rape murder case). The result may have been tough on Arbuckle, but it created a better atmosphere in Hollywood.

Bad Effect

Pine emphasized that Hollywood scandals have a definitely bad effect on movie business. "Every bad story makes the box-office drop some more," he remarked.

"We find that out in our tours through the country. Even theatre managers and owners of big chains ask us: 'Why does everybody in Hollywood smoke marijuana?'

WALKS INTO TRANSPORT

Hamilton, June 24—(CP)—An unidentified man was instantly killed late Friday morning on King Street West in front of the steps leading to the Cathedral of Christ the King, when he walked into the side of a large transport truck.

The truck, belonging to the Victoria Transport Company, was being driven by Milton Haggerty of Brantford.

Police said there was absolutely no identification on the deceased man's clothing.

FEATHERED CHORISTER

Downham, Kent, England — The parish church choir has a new member. In the loft of the church every week a robin joins in the singing with the choir.

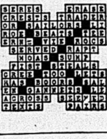
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

Today in school Miss Kitty was telling us how important it is to be kind to dum animals, saying, True politeness cannot exist without kindness. No matter how polished a man's manners may be if he ill treets his dog it is safe to say that he is not a true gentleman. And now we will go on to arifmetic, if there are no questions, she said.

The result being there was some questions quick, Puds Simkins waving and saying, Does a dum kid have as many feelings as a smart one?

Making everybody leff, and Miss Kitty said, Quiet, please That question was not as silly as it seemed, because a child who is not as mentally alert as his playmates is quite apt to be even more sensitive than they are, just because he feels inferior, and therefore he should be treeted with the utmost consideration, in other werds kindness. Now who has another question? Well Howerd? she said.

Meening Shorty Judge, and Shorty said, Which has the most feelings, a werm or a fish?

I prefer to ignore that question, Miss Kitty said. Now is that all? she said.

Which it wasn't, Artie Bromfield waving and saying, If a fly keeps on keeping you from going to sleep, how many chances should you give it to make up its mind to leave you alone before you get up to look for a fly swatter?

Now does anyone possibly regard that as a sensible question? Miss Kitty said.

Which everybody raised their hand, meening we all did, and Miss Kitty said, Oh dear, sutch a class.

The result being arifmetic.

REFUGEES PICKED UP

Ramsgate, Kent, England, June 21 — (Reuters) — Two poles, believed to be political refugees, were picked up from a dinghy off the Kentish coast last night. It was believed that the men left Poland four weeks ago.

Fraser Prospectors Still Pan for Gold

Vancouver (CP) — Early summer's warmth has melted mountain snows and rushing streams plunge down to join the mighty Fraser in its dash to the sea.

It is now that some 700 prospectors take to the sandbars of the river to sift the current-propelled mud for tiny gold-flecked specks.

Worn from the mother lode high in the hills by the swift water, these particles of pay dirt are whirled and tumbled until the pace of the current slackens and they sink to the bottom or drift onto sand bars.

The prospector scoops up the mud, washing off the coarser gravel in stages until there is nothing left but a heavy, black layer of fine sand on the bottom of the pan. If he is lucky, there were traces of gold.

After washing, or panning, a cubic yard of dirt and weighing the gold to see if there is enough to make his work worthwhile, he decides whether to set up his sluice boxes or to move to another spot.

The prospector uses almost the same equipment today as in the early days. He uses the same type of pan and sluice box and keeps his gold dust in a leather poke or bottle.

Chances are his luck won't be as good as it would have been 94 years ago. Some men, however still take between $2 and $5 worth of pay dirt from the river every day—when their luck is good.

In the Lytton and Hope areas, some 100 miles east of Vancouver, there are still Chinese prospectors who work the sand bars for gold. Many of them are descendants of the Chinese workers who settled in the area after the white man had exhausted his claims and moved.

Many old-timers still talk of a lost mine of fabulous wealth in the recesses of the rugged ranges which spawn the Fraser's tributaries.

They turn old eyes toward the lofty crags and gaze toward the silver ribbons of water slipping down a slop.

Up there, somewhere. . someday. . .

Escaped Baboons Give Detroit Women a Fright

Detroit, June 24—What happens when 11 baboons are at large in the community?

Detroiters found out Thursday when the baboons escaped from the Detroit zoo.

By nightfall, eight had been recaptured, but in the meantime pandemonium broke out among the residents in the vicinity of the zoo on the north side of Detroit.

Mrs. Anna Krupka, Detroit housewife, was picking strawberries when she looked up and saw a baboon sauntering down the middle of the road.

"There was a woman behind him," she recalled, "when all of a sudden she takes a good look at the thing in front of her, and starts screaming.

Northern Detroit police station switchboards were flooded with telephone calls from anxious citizens wondering if the long-heralded invasion from Mars had actually begun.

The baboons broke loose while they were being transferred to the zoo infirmary. Three still missing were expected to show up today for dinner.

Suspect to Face Murder Count in Double Slaying

Frank West, 37, Captured In Shack After 4-Day Hunt

Simcoe, Ont., June 26 (CP) — Frank West, 37, today faces a charge of murder in the machine-gun slayings of two men who pursued — and caught up with a fleeing bank robber.

West's arrest late Saturday by a rookie constable of the Ontario Provincial Police and a 20-year-old farm worker came after he was cornered in a shack at nearby Straffordville, some 20 miles southeast of St. Thomas. West, mosquito - bitten, bearded, tattered and sun-burned, came out unarmed, hands in the air.

After his arrest, the haggard suspect maintained a tight-lipped silence, refusing even to tell police his hometown.

Police announced the laying of the murder charge after the staff of the looted bank at nearby Langton looked at West and several other men in a line-up. West and the others were garbed in sun helmets, dark glasses and clothing similar to that worn by the man who fled from the bank with $23,500 last Wednesday.

FORMER CONVICT HELD FOR SLAYING OF CONSTABLE

Montreal, June 26 (CP)— Ex-convict Thomas Rossler, quoted by police as boasting how he eluded them for nearly a month, today was in jail here, held as a material witness in the killing of an RCMP constable in Montreal May 25.

The 45-year-old Rossler arrived here Saturday from Regina under guard of three Montreal police officers. An inquest into the murder of the RCMP constable Alexander Gamman, 58, will be held near the end of this week.

Rossler has not yet been charged.

Gamman, unarmed guard at the Bank of Canada here, was shot down as he tried to capture a gunman leaving a downtown branch of the Bank of Toronto. The bank manager was wounded in the leg and the killer suffered a leg or groin wound.

Virtually Certain All 58 Aboard Airliner Dead

St. Joseph, Mich., June 26—(AP)—A grim search was under way today in the depths of Lake Michigan where it is virtually certain that the lost Northwest Airlines plane went down Friday night with 58 aboard.

An airline representative left little doubt that this area was the scene of doom for the capacity-loaded ship when he identified a torn piece of blue blanket early today. The blanket was marked with the letters "NW".

Other traces of plane wreckage and pieces of human bodies were found on the lake waters last night.

There was only the faintest hope that any of those aboard the airship could have lived through the worst air disaster in North American history.

Paul Benscoter, sent here by the airline to help direct the search for the big plane, examined some grim tokens of the crash—bits of bodies, the blanket fragment, a man's fur-collared jacket, other pieces of clothing, part of a suitcase.

But he said a plane log and maintenance report found in the water apparently did not belong to the Northwest plane.

May Have Been Hit

Investigators examined a theory that the plane, flying non-stop from New York to Minneapolis, might have been hit by lightning.

Reports of residents of the vicinity and the discovery of the remnants of human bodies gave some support to this explanation.

A coast guard patrol boat came upon the gruesome evidence last night after a long search of the lake by fleets of planes and boats.

The coast guardsmen found part of a woman's skull, part of a man's back and piece of human stomach flesh.

The discoveries were made 12 miles northwest of here and six to eight miles off shore. At that point the lake is 110 feet deep.

New York Market Levels off After Heavy Early Sales

New York June 26 (AP) — Big blocks of stocks were dumped on the market today in the first response to hostilities in Korea.

Leading issues plunged $1 to about $5 a share.

Opening transactions were long delayed for many important shares—notably steel and automobile stocks—while buyers and sellers haggled over prices.

Initial transactions ranged up to 35,000 shares in the case of Radio Corporation which dropped $1.87 to $20 a share.

The heavy opening sales were the result of selling orders which piled up during the weekend. After this glut of business was disposed of, the market showed a tendency to level off.

Further selling was orderly and further losses minor.

Toronto CP) — A heavy wave of selling sent prices reeling downwards in early trading on the Toronto stock exchange today following news of war in Korea.

Losses ranged up to almost $2 over a wide list of key stocks.

Selling was heaviest at the opening and tapered off slightly as the session progressed.

Industrial stocks like CPR, Bell Telephone, Abitibi Paper and Imperial Oil were hardest hit. Western oil issues also slumped and leading base metals and gold stocks slipped lower.

The sudden drop in industrial prices followed a year of almost uninterrupted advance.

Ecker of the Brantford Expositor, following his capture by a posse of Ontario Provincial Police near Straffordville, Ont., Saturday, after a three-day search for the killer of two men following a bank robbery at Langton, Ont., last Wednesday. Korea's Little Iron Curtain Ranks With Berlin as Flash Point in East-West Cold War

(By Reuters News Agency)

Korean's "Little Iron Curtain"—The 38th parallel of latitude separating the communist north from the republican south—has long ranked with Berlin as a dangerous flash point in the east-west cold war.

Its explosion during the weekend, regarded as being far more serious than the darkest days of the Berlin Blockade in 1948, appears to have brought Soviet Russia and the United States closer than they have ever been to a shooting war.

For months, the Korean "curtain" has been the scene of frontier tension, inter-zonal rivalry and recurrent border incidents.

The frontier is only 38 miles from Seoul, the southern capital. The northern capital is Pyongyang.

In 1948 the United Nations tried to lay the groundwork for a unified, independent state. But the Russians refused to co-operate, so setting up of the southern republic went ahead.

In May's elections in the south, there was almost unanimous support for the republican government.

Then, earlier this month, three emissaries from the north crossed into the southern area, carrying what were described as proposals for unifying the country. They were arrested by southern authorities and later two of them were said to have defected to the south.

Demanding the delegates' release, the north Korean 'Fatherland Front" central committee called for a struggle for "unification of the homeland" and accused President Syngman Rhee and his followers in the south of trying "in the interests of Ameri-

Supreme Court Orders 2-Year Child Returned to Mother by Foster-Parents

Ottawa, June 26—(CP)— The long fight of an unwed mother for the return of her two-year-old son adopted by foster parents ended in success today when the Supreme Court of Canada ordered that the child should be handed back to its mother.

Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin announced this decision, dismissing an appeal without costs launched by the foster-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Martin of Toronto, against a judgement handed down by the Ontario Appeal Court.

The Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the child should be returned to its mother, Lily Aves Duffell, 31, formerly of Middlesex, Eng.

For nearly two years the mother has been contesting the adoption of her baby in 1948 by Mr. and Mrs. Martin. In evidence she had admitted signing papers relating to adoption.

The court's decision to return the baby to its mother bears with it deep legal significance. It may form a precedent for consideration of other cases where mothers who have given their children into adoption may later seek their return.

In two days of argument last week, B. J. MacKinnon Toronto lawyer appearing for Miss Duffell, held that "undue influence" was exerted when she signed the papers. He submitted also that the papers had no statutory authority and therefore came under the common law rule that the parent of a child "cannot sign any binding agreement relative to the child."

THREE KILLED, SHIP COLLIDES WITH FREIGHTER

Detroit, June 26 (AP)— The city of Cleveland III, her rear port side splintered in a fog-shrouded crash that claimed at least three lives, straggled home Sunday night.

The white-decked excursion ship collided with a Norwegian freighter at 6:20 a.m. Sunday on Lake Huron, near Harbor Springs in Michigan's Thumb district. The other ship loomed suddenly out of a "pea soup" fog about five miles off shore.

Besides the three who died in the wreckage, one man still is missing and six others reported injuries. Three are in critical condition in hospital in Harbor Springs.

All except one of the victims were with a cruising party of 70 Benton Harbor chamber of commerce members. Approximately 145 crew members also were aboard.

Kingpin Gambler Given Two Years, Fined $30,000

New York, June 26 — (AP) — Frank Erickson, kingpin of a country-wide bookmaking business, today was sentenced to two years in prison and a $30,000 fine on charges of bookmaking and conspiring to contravene New York State gambling laws.

The 54-year-old gambling mogul, who had plied his multi-million-dollar betting trade for a quarter-century without spending a day in jail, could have received up to 60 years in prison.

Erickson threw himself on the mercy of the court last Monday by pleading guilty to a 60-count charge.

ABBEY SCHOOL CLOSING

Cornwall, June 26 — (CP) — Special ceremonies were held Sunday to mark the official closing of Maryvale Abbey School at nearby Glen Nevis, which has been operated for the last 38 years by the Sisters of Providence, a Roman Catholic religious order. No announcement has been made of the disposition of the building. The Sisters will return soon to the mother house at Kingston.

21 ARE DROWNED AND 33 MISSING IN FLASH FLOOD

West Union, W.Va., June 26—(AP)—At least 21 persons are known to have been drowned and 33 are missing in the wake of floods that struck a six-county area of north-central West Virginia without warning early Sunday.

Authorities fear the toll may go much higher. At least 12 of 15 members of a family gathered for a birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bailey, five miles west of here, are missing.

The Bailey home was directly in the path of the flood, caused by unprecedented rain. The house was carried nearly two miles downstream.

Six members of the B. J. Cooper family also are listed as dead and three members of another family were killed when their home was pounded into bits against a railroad trestle.

Berea, a little agricultural community located on a curve of the south fork of the Hughes River south of here, also was hard hit. Six persons are known dead there, including a grandmother and two of her grandchildren.

High Property Damage

Property damage is expected to run high. In West Union, 200 homes were destroyed. City officials at Weston, 25 miles to the south-east on the West Fork River, estimated the damage there at $2,000,000.

All of Weston except sections on the hillsides was under water at one time.

At Weston, firemen had to chop a hole in the roof to evacuate Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peters and their four children, who had fled to the attic of their home. The water was still climbing and they had no other avenue of escape.

At Troy, to the south, an 80-year-old couple was rescued from an upstairs bedroom. They were standing on the bed with water lapping at their knees.

GUNMAN FIRES SHOT

Toronto, June 26 (CP) — A masked gunman fired four shots at Charles Kelly while escaping from the garageman's home today with $3 and a watch.

Kelly told police he awoke to find the man, an oily rag pressed to his face, aiming an automatic at him and demanding money. The bandit rifled Kelly's pants then fled through a window firing as Kelly leaped at him. The garageman was uninjured.

CANADA WILL SEND PLANES TO TRAIN OVERSEAS IN 1951

Primary Fighter Role Defence of N. America

Ottawa, June 26 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton announced today that Canada will start early in 1951 to send fighter squadrons overseas for training but said the R.C.A.F.'s "primary" fighter role will be defence of North America.

A Commons defence debate that coincided with the new Korean war heard the minister say that in co-operation with American fighter squadrons operating from Alaska and Newfoundland the R.C.A.F. should be able to provide adequate defence for Canada.

The R.C.A.F., building towards a strength of 20 active and reserve squadrons, would have a fighter squadron in Britain early next year. Further squadrons would follow later in rotation, staying overseas for several months apiece, training with larger formations.

Important Branch of Defence

It was possible that they would eventually go to others among the 12 Atlantic pact countries. They would consist of fully-trained air and ground crew.

It was expected that "as time goes on this will become a very important branch of our defence activity."

The army was not aiming immediately for anything more than its airborne brigade group because that was considered adequate to deal with the sort of attack that was likely for the foreseeable future.

Mr. Claxton spoke after George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Russia is unquestionably behind the new Korean aggression and said the only point that matters in considering defence estimates—the subject under discussion—is how many men Canada will have for immediate action and what sort of equipment they will have with which to fight.

Apprehension Over Korea

Senior members of the cabinet including Prime Minister St. Laurent, were in the chamber as the debate was launched amid a general feeling of apprehension over Korea.

Mr. Drew asserted that Canada's standing forces must be considered in the light of the mammoth strength of Russia.

Mr. Claxton told him that even with a record defence budget of $425,000,000 he was not "suggesting for one second that with this amount we can have nearly as great forces in being as we would like to have."

The navy had 41.5 per cent of its men at sea, a higher percentage than Canada's wartime average, higher than that of any other western nation.

"Perhaps," he said, "we may be too operational."

A navy flotilla was going overseas this summer to train with British formations. The air force now had two fighter squadrons and was going to have more.

Speedboat 'SLO-MO-SHUN' IV Sets World Record at 160.3235 M.P.H.

Seattle, June 26 — (AP)—The speedboat "Slo-Mo-Shun IV" today roared 160.323 miles an hour over the measured mile on glass-smooth Lake Washington to crack the world's hydroplane record.

Owner-pilot Stanley S. Sayres piloted the 1,500-horsepower Slo-Mo-Shun to the record on the first attempt.

The Slo-Mo-Shun cracked the old record of 141.74 miles an hour set in 1939 by Sir Malcolm Campbell on Lake Coneston, England.

Sayres also cracked two other records — the American record of 133.60 miles an hour set in 1949 in Picton, Ont., by Harold Wilson in the boat "Miss Canada IV," and the United States record of 137.063 miles an hour set on Aug. 20, 1949, by Dan Arena at Gull Lake, Mich., in the boat "Such Crust."

The first run was timed at 21.98 seconds, or 163.79 miles an hour. The second was 22.95 seconds — 157.20 miles an hour.

Officials said the time is subject to official confirmation by the International Motorboat Union, but added "such confirmation will be pretty much a formality."

The Slo-Mo-Shun is a 28-foot boat powered by a 12-cylinder aircraft engine.

Sayres, a Seattle automobile dealer, kept the capabilities of the Slo-Mo-Shun a secret until the official record attempt.

Prospects of Total Defeat of Forces Thru Bad Morale

Northern Troops Stab Tank Column to Capital Outskirts

By O. H. P. KING

Seoul, Korea, June 27 — (Tuesday) — (AP) — Invading North Korean communists broadcast an official demand today for surrender of the South Korean army.

The demand came as invading North Korean communists stabbed a tank column to the outskirts of this southern republic's capital early today.

The surrender demand was made over the Pyongyang radio by Gen. Cahi Ung Jun, commander of the northern forces that suddenly invaded South Korea Sunday morning.

Prospects of total defeat of the southern forces through bad morale rather than by being beaten in the field were in evidence at this zero hour.

The northern mobile column that thrust perilously upon Seoul did so by piercing two full southern divisions that were engaged in a counter-attack.

It reached Seoul's outskirts with little or no resistance for the last dozen miles.

(Exact whereabouts of the northern column was not mentioned in this dispatch, filed at 2:20 a.m. Korean time.)

Last official report had the northern tanks nine miles north of Seoul at 10 p.m. Monday and pushing ahead fast. This morning they were said to be on the outskirts.

Southern resistance at Uijongbu only 12 miles away, collapsed before the Russian-backed forces hammmering with tanks and artillery.

The United States embassy burned its important secret papers in a hugh bonfire. Air raid sirens screeched. The city was buzzing after four northern planes strafed downtown streets.

The flying column rushed toward here from the Uijongbu valley. A southern counter-offensive there failed miserably during the day. Heavy artillery softened up the Uijongbu defenders and the tanks pushed them out of town after savage street fighting.

Two southern divisions totalling 20,000 men dug in outside of the town of Uijongbu. But the determined onslaught of heavy tanks pushed them aside and the northern invaders, who were halted temporarily yesterday, rolled on toward the capital.

President Syngman Rnee and his cabinet were in emergency session at midnight. They were reported discussing the Ongjin peninsula front, where southern forces were reeling or knocked out.

Advices here said 30,000 southern troops along the boundary between the U.N.-sponsored republic and Russian-backed north were in dire straits.

Another segment of the southern army was in trouble at Kangmung, 15 miles due south of the 38th parallel on the east coast.

Urgent Call For Help

This division was being attacked from both the north and south by the communist northerners. An urgent call for reinforcements was received in Seoul tonight. An American military official said he was uncertain whether the reinforcements would be forthcoming.

In Seoul itself morale was high despite the strafing of several downtown streets by northern planes.

News that 10 Amreican fighter planes awaited south Korean fliers in Japan boosted spirits all around.

Northern forces had been halted short of Uijongbu yesterday. Southern forces started a counter-offensive today. The seventh and second divisions of 10,000 men each were thrown into the fight.

From the start things went wrong. Intense artillery fire rocked the second division back on its heels. Tanks ripped into them, halting what little forward movement the southerners had been able to make.

The seventh ran into trouble at the same time.

Northern forces seized their advantage and rolled forward. By 8 p.m. all southern troops were forced out of Uijongbu and had taken a position outside of the city.

Southern forces reportedly were being reorganized about a mile from the city, which is only 12 miles north of Seoul.

No mention of losses was made in late field dispatches but they were presumed to be heavy.

Defence Minister Sihn Sung Mo first reported the retreat.

The retreat, admitted by Defence Minister Sihn Sung Mo to be alarming, was just outside of Uijcongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul. United States military advisers said the drive could not be called a major offensive.

(In Tokyo, a high allied source told Reuters News Agency that the situation had "gravely deteriorated.")

Barn Destroyed By Lightning In Friday's Storm

Saturday morning's electric storm which swept through the Bay of Quinte district struck in at least three places to cause loss to district farmers.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen King, 4th. Concession Tyendinaga township, lost their large frame barn when it was struck by lightning during the height of the early morning storm.

Looking out of their bedroom window following an extra heavy clap of thunder Mr. King saw the east end of the barn ablaze. The barn was a large one and was renovated last year with a new high roof being put on. Some farm machinery was lost in the blaze.

Harry Grills, Seymour township farmer, living near Hoard's Station, lost eight cows when they were struck by lightning as they crowded under a tree in a pasture field. The cows were valued at $200 each.

Mr. Lorne Hunt, 1st concession Sidney township, lost one cow when it was struck by lightning.

Fire Destroys Christian Street Home in PE County

Fire of undetermined origin Sunday evening completely destroyed the large farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Freeborn, Christian Street, 10 miles northwest of Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeborn had been in Belleville visiting all day on Sunday when shortly after 7 o'clock in the evening neighbors saw flames and smoke coming from the Freeborn home. The blaze was so far advanced that nothing could be saved. The alarm was answered by the Bloomfield Fire Department but could do nothing to save the building.

The owner of the home knew nothing about the fire until they returned at 9:30 to find their home destroyed. The home was the former Calnan farm, which had been in the family for three generations and was the birthplace of L. B. Calnan, editor of the Picton Gazette.

Mired Six Weeks In Sinkhole Cow Loses 400 Pounds

Smyrna, Tenn., June 26— Red, a five-year-old jersey cow, was hoisted Sunday from a dark miry sinkhole where she had spent six weeks and two days without food.

She had lost 400 pounds. But when an automobile wrecker brought her above ground, Red blinked in the bright sunlight, munched some grass and ambled away.

Owner Sidney Maxwell said he thought she had been stolen. But yesterday lonesome moos were heard from a crevasse at sink hole's mouth.

Reporter Finds it Hard to Pin Tourists Down to Answer Simple Questions Asked

Now that summer is here, the statistics sharks say, more than 25 million Americans are heading for Canada to take advantage of the scenery, the fishing, and the favorable rate of exchange. So the logical questions are: How many of them come to Belleville? Where are they from? Where are they going? What do they think of Canada?

Now, the obvious place to find the visitors is on the main street as they pass through town. Pass through is right — few seem to stop at all. Most of the cars on Front Street yesterday afternoon from south of the border were from Illinois, New York, Ohio, Florida, Virginia, California, Michigan, and Connecticut. There was a stray from British Columbia and one from Prince Edward Island.

Happy to Tell Name

Usual procedure is to walk up to the tourist, tell him what you want, and proceed to get your ears filled with the glories and accomplishments of Pigs' Feet, Oklahoma, or Skullville, Montana. He (the tourist) is very happy to tell you his name, and right away wants to know what paper it is you work for again, and when the edition with his name in it will hit the street. After that is settled to everyone's satisfaction, you ask him how the fishing is, and he tells you that they don't grow 'em any bigger anywhere than back home in Skullville. Yes, but how about the wide open spaces, beautiful scenery and lovely breezes of Ontario? "Son", he'll say, "back home we got fifty miles of rich grassland for the wind to blow across, and we live under the blessing of the good Lord day and night." Defeated again.

What's the Name?

The next forceful step to take is to ask him how he likes Belleville. And the answer? "What's the name of the town again, son?" After you get him located so that he knows he's somewhere between Kingston and Toronto on this side of the lake, he smiles, lays a fatherly hand on your shoulder and murmurs — "Son, you just oughta see Skullville. Don't like to boast, you know, but it's got this place beat a mile."

Far from giving up, the eager type asks the tourist where he's going, and most of the time he says one word like "Detroit." But aren't you going into Ontario at all, mister? "Why, sure, son, but where else can I go but west? I didn't bring skis and skates with me, so I can't go north, can I?" The explanation of that one, and the accompanying disbelief when the session is over, just isn't worth the time spent on it.

So you move to the guy from Florida who came up in his hard-top convertible on a cruise to see the Mounties and the Indians and watch a real trapper in action. Last year one poor fellow came into the province at Windsor, was passed all the way down along the line to Peterborough with the tale that there were Indians "just another few miles along the way, in full war paint." Last anyone saw of him, he was heading for James Bay.

Don't get confused. These fellows are all right, but there just isn't anything like home.

Yesterday afternoon? Couldn't find a one to talk to.

First Sod Turned for Anglican Church in Parkwood Heights

Sod turning ceremonies, preparatory to the construction of the new Anglican Church to be built on Oriole Park Drive in Parkwood Heights, were held this morning with a goodly number of the parishioners present. The honor of turning the first sod went to Mr. John Exley aged 77, of Bridge Street, East, one of the oldest members of the parish.

The sod turning ceremony consisted of prayers by the parish rector, Rev. Ernest M. Caldwell, of Shannonville, while Archdeacon Arthur Smith read the 87th Psalm and then presented the spade to Mr. Exley who turned the first sod.

Plans for the new church to be known as "St. Margaret's On The Hill", call for a brick structure approximately 80 by 40 feet with seating capacity of 200 persons.

For the time being only the basement will be completed with the contractor George Mintz to begin the excavation immediately. The basement will be covered and furnished and will be used as a Sunday School and for church service until such time as the church is completed.

Interlisted stocks such as International Paper, Hiram Walker's and Massey - Harris were hardest hit on the industrial board. Losses ranged from fractions to almost three full points.

Western oils slumped heavily. Base metals were also sharply lower and leading junior gold producers showed losses ranging up to 85 cents.

About Size of Britain

Korea—including both parts—is about the size of Britain and has about 30,000,000 inhabitants who speak a language which is a mixture of Tartar, Mongol and Japanese — written exclusively in Chinese characters. Strategically, the 85,000-square-mile peninsula forms a bridge between Manchuria and Japan.

During the Second World War Japan, which first annexed Korea early in the century, made full use of Korean resources and recruited 500,000 Koreans for work in Japan.

A provisional Korean government was set up by exiled Koreans in China, and at the 1943 Cairo conference, Britain, China and the United States agreed that "in due course Korea shall become free and independent" after the defeat of Japan.

But at the second Moscow conference in 1945 it was agreed that Korea should be placed under trusteeship of the Big Four.

United States officials in Seoul estimated last year that upwards of 50,000 communists from North Korea had infiltrated into the south to mingle with the 2,000,000 political and social refugees from the north.

The officials warned last September that these communists would form the vanguard of any invasion from the north.

The North Korean army strength has been estimated at about double that of the south, with a hard core of veterans battle-trained in China. It is armed with Russian-made rifles, mortars, and heavy guns and ammunition.

The north also is believed to have Russian fighters, reconnaissance planes and bombers, Russian light tanks and light naval craft.

Military Vehicles from Reds

Refugees reaching the south have reported a steady stream of military vehicles being landed at Russian controlled eastern ports in exchange for North Korean nitrates, ores, manufactured goods and, by land-line to Siberia, electric power.

In the south, a 500-strong American military team is assigned to advise the Korean army. Men of the army and police force who are armed probably number fewer than 90,000, including a small mechanized section trained to operate American jeeps and transport vehicles.

South Korea has no tanks, and her air force consists of a small number of non-combat aircraft—surplus American machines. Her naval strength is limited to ships of less than 500 tons.

Since the final group of 25,000 American occupation troops left South Korea in June last year, border incidents on the 38th parallel have been frequent.

Large scale skirmishes, sometimes involving more than 1,000 battle-equipped troops and modern heavy artillery, have been

Mobile Crane Swinging Panel Board Overturns

The large mobile crane of the Crane and Transit Service of Belleville overturned at 1.30 p.m. today while swinging a one-ton $3,000 panel board across Church Street, near the rear of the new telephone exchange building.

The crane, operated by Dave Sweet, was swinging the board across Church Street when it became overbalanced. The load crashed to the pavement blocking the sidewalk and the truck turned over on its side. The boom of the crane snapped off as the truck turned over. The driver was not injured.

Provincial Police were at the scene of the accident in a few minutes and a guard was posted beside the cab tractor as gasoline leaked from the cab's tank.

A gang of men from the telephone building immediately laid down a wooden skid and prepared to remove the heavy panel from the street.

Presbyterians Commemorate 75th Anniversary in Canada With Rededication Service

Commemorating 75th anniversary of the Presbyterian Church in Canada a service of rededication was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon when the congregation joined with worshippers from the western area of Kingston Presbytery to observe this memorable day.

Entering in procession with the choir leading, followed by the participating clergymen, the hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy," was sung. All the hymns used in the service were ones beloved of the Presbyterian Church, including "All People That on Earth do Dwell," sung to the tune of the "Old Hundredth."

The Old Testament lesson was read by Rev. A. J. Fowlie of Deseronto, and was from Exodus, describing Moses' experience with the burning bush, and his talk with God. The burning bush is the symbol of the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker, Stirling led the responsive reading of the Psalm, and the responsive prayer of thanksgiving was led by Rev. M. W. Heslip of Madoc.

In an act of rededication the congregation stood and repeated with United heart and voice: "In acknowledgment of God's unfailing grace and in recognition of our own sin and weakness, we rededicate our life, our talents, and our possessions to the work of Jesus Christ and His Kingdom."

Minister in Charge

Rev. J. G. Hornsby, minister of St. Andrew's was in charge of the service.

The choir under the direction of Mr. C. Templer contributed the anthem "O Worship the Lord," with solo parts being taken by Mr. W. P. Youdale, and Mrs. C. Templer. Miss Jessie Cunningham, contralto soloist, offered the selection "Think On Me."

The altar was decorated with bouquets of white peonies for the occasion.

Rev. R. C. MacLean of Trenton was the speaker for the service, and he opened his remarks by saying that it was a tremendous task to speak on the history and faith of the church on such an occasion. His talk was based on two texts "Thou shalt remember the way which the Lord Thy God led thee" and "Man's chief end is to glorify God and to enjoy Him forever."

"A group of men met in Montreal shortly after our Dominion was newly founded and the Presbyterian Church in Canada was formed. The first general assembly had as its moderator, Rev. Dr. Cooke, of St. Andrew's Quebec. They founded their doctrine on the Old and New Testaments, the Westminster confession of faith the longer and shorter catechism, and the Presbyterian form of church government. This event was of great historical import for the men and women of our church have had an influence on the affairs of Canada out of all proportion to its size.

Heritage of Religion

"To men of France, Scotland and Ireland we owe our heritage of religion. The first branth to touch our shores were the Huguenots, who finally received freedom of land, faith and assembly. But the fires of persecution again broke out and Huguenots were denied their rights by Richelieu and Louis of France. With the close of the French regime the Presbyterians looked to Scotland and Ireland. With persecution in these lands many emigrated to Canada. With its history of trial and persecution it is no wonder that the Presbyterian now resents any attempt at interference with what he has gained through suffering.

"In 1751 many emigrants settled in Louisburg, N.S. Most of these came from Holland. This was the Dutch reformed church.

"Many pioneers suffered hardships as they sought to minister in the scattered parishes of early Canada. In response to an appeal to King George Third the site of St. Andrew's church in Quebec City was deeded to the Presbyterian Church forever.

"Wherever men went," continued the speaker, "There went the church. No settlement of any importance was without a Presbyterian Church attached to it. It has been said of this church that she was responsible for preserving Western Canada from the wildness that marked the country to the south.

Rises in New Era

"We see an amazing thing taking place, that of a church surviving persecution, disruption, changing social conditions but surviving to rise into a new era. This is due to the distinct emphasis of its faith. Man and man's life are subordinate to the will of God. The God-centredness of faith is peculiar to the Reformed Church only. We Presbyterians re-iterate that we are not our own, but God's. We have been called predestinationists, fatalists and fools. It is the acknowledgment that since man cannot rely on himself for salvation, he must throw himself on the mercy of God. Man belongs to God in his eternal destiny, God's command must be done.

"It is out of this knowledge that so many men who have found their spiritual home in our church have had so great a share in the progress in all reaches of our country; men who responded to the challenge and did great things.

Faith Important

"We are concerned over the condition of the state of Western civilization, we are becoming aware of a disintegrating society. It is at this point that our faith is so important, because it is ingrained in our church, we know that obedience to God which transcends time. Man thrives on submission to God, such a faith is directly opposed to human autonomy, but must find its unifying centre in God.

"Our church has a particular task because of her doctrine," concluded the speaker. "Our generation looks for the discipline practised by our church, and because of its history this church has the task of linking the new world and the old."

After the service the Women's Guild of the church served a cup of tea and lunch in the Sunday school rooms so that the members could meet in a spirit of social fellowship to mark the anniversary observance.

Leaders' Statements on Korean Situation

President Truman

Washington, June 26 — (AP) — President Truman today pledged full United States support of United Nations efforts to end the "unprovoked aggression" against South Korea.

In a statement, the president said:

"Wilful disregard of the obligation to keep the peace cannot be tolerated by nations that support the United Nations charter."

He said the United States is pleased with the speed and determination of the U. N. Security Council in ordering a withdrawal of the invading forces.

Meanwhile, Republican Senators agreed unanimously today that the communist attack on South Korea should not be allowed to involve the U. S. in war.

Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Conference of all Republican senators, said the opposition members agreed in a caucus that the U.S. should provide military supplies and other aid for South Korea.

"But it was the unanimous opinion that we have no obligation to go to war and that this incident should not be allowed to involve us in war," Milliken told reporters.

The Republicans criticized the military establishment and the State Department for what they said was a failure of intelligence services to warn the U. S. that the Russian-trained and -equipped forces of North Korea were ready to strike.

At no point did President Truman's statement say directly whether or not the U. S. would send armed forces to Korea if the United Nations asked for them to back up its cease fire order.

Generally, the hope was that the Korean war in any event could be prevented from exploding into a broader conflict.

President Truman and 13 of his administration leaders conferred for more than three hours last night.

It is understood that they explored possible further American action. No decisions were announced.

Indications are that the president, having set two lines of action in motion wants to judge results before embarking on further ventures. Basic American policy appears to be to do everything possible to localize the fighting but also, to assure the survival of South Korea.

Kingston, June 26 — (CP) —A 167-year-old structure, built by United Empire Loyalists as a general store and trading post, is being torn down. Considered one of Kingston's oldest buildings, it has been known in recent years as the Knapp House.

Canadian Minister

Ottawa, June 26 (CP)— North Korea's weekend attack on South Korea was termed an act of "unprovoked aggression" by External Affairs Minister Pearson today in the Commons.

However, the minister said it had not served to change his opinion regarding a Pacific Pact along the same lines as Altantic treaty. The government has taken the stand this is not necessary now.

Mr. Pearson also told the House steps were being taken to learn what Canadians might be in Korea and what steps should be taken to protect them.

Mr. Pearson was asked at House opening by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, for any information available about the "extremely serious situation" in Korea.

The minister said he could not give a full report, since information was still coming in. Canada had no diplomatic representatives in Korea and was receiving advices from its representative at the United Nations, which had a commission in the strife-ridden country.

"It appears from the information available that an act of unprovoked aggression has been committed by the forces of north Korea," Mr. Pearson said, adding that Canada did not recognize that government.

Information Received

Mr. Pearson said information to substantiate this belief had been received by Trygvie Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations. The result had been an extraordinary meeting of the Security Council yesterday, at which a resolution had been passed calling for a cessation of hostilities and for the northern forces to be withdrawn behind their own frontier.

"I am certain that will commend itself to this House," he said.

Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel), Progressive Conservative Foreign Affairs specialist, asked if any Canadians were in Korea, and if so, what steps were being taken to safeguard them.

The Minister said the government was looking into what could be done to protect any Canadian nationals in the area. As yet, it knew of none, except three on the secretariat of the U.N. in Korea and one who was married to a member of the U.N. staff.

Inquiries had been made about these four, and the government had been informed they were in no serious danger.

Nothing to Change View

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quarda), who has been urging a Pacific defence pact for some time, asked if the Korean outbreak had resulted in any change in the external minister's views towards such a treaty.

Mr. Pearson said there was nothing in the situation to change the views he has held regarding the establishment of a Pacific pact along the same lines as the Atlantic agreement.

Immediately after the Korea discussion, the House took up defence department estimates.

As consideration of the estimates began, Mr. Drew said that in previous defence discussions this session there appeared to be an air of "unreality" on the necessity of defence consideration. He said this should be dispelled by the Korean events.

P. M. Attlee

London, June 26— (Reuters)— Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons today that the British government was "deeply concerned" that a "breach of the peace" should have occurred in Korea.

Korea was a country which was the special responsibility of the United Nations and where a United Nations commission was actually functioning, he said.

The British government welcomed the resolution adopted by the Security Council and it was their earnest hope that all concerned would comply with it, Attlee continued in reply to a question by opposition leader Winston Churchill.

Attlee and State Minister Kenneth Younger this morning made a special journey to Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's beside at a London nursing home to consult him on the Korean crisis.

Earlier, Attlee held a consultation with Younger and Sir William Strang, Permanent Undersecretary of State.

Meanwhile, first reports here of the fighting from the British Minister at Seoul, Vivyan Holt confirmed the invasion was from the north into the Republic of Southern Korea, a foreign office spokesman said.

He said British official reports from Seoul did not give a clear picture of the course of the fighting.

His statment was taken here as a comment on the account of the invasion given today by the Soviet news agency, Tass, and the London Daily Worker which claimed Southern Korea had invaded the people's democracy of Northern Korea.

CUTS OFF HOLIDAY

Singapore, June 26 (Reuters)— The British Commissioner-General for southeast Asia, Malcolm MacDonald, today sent word to Singapore that he is cutting short his holiday in Dalat, Viet Nam, because of Korean hostilities, an official spokesman said.

V. C. WINNERS AND PEACETIME

It is not so long ago that Canada thrilled to the names her Victoria Cross winners of the Second World War as ey appeared in the daily press. These men were an exmple of the effort and courage Canada put into the winng of the war, and they were praised, rightly so, as the roes of the new generation.

Nowadays, when the war is remembered only by a ank spot in some homes, or the high cost of living reinds the people of the struggle that ended five short ars ago, it is comforting to know that the eight men still ving who won V.C.'s are still contributing something to anada. They have settled down into constructive ways of ving, and their actions are an example to others who ent through the strain of the firing line and the shocks war. Of the fourteen who won the V.C., (six were award the high honor posthumously), these eight are applyg the lessons of war in peacetime living.

Major Paul Triquet, who was awarded his V.C. for ghting in Italy, is now a member of the sales staff of a ontreal lumber firm. Major David V. Currie, who moved om Moose Jaw to Falaise Gap and there became a hero r all time, has found his place as a woodlands equipment perintendent for a paper company at Baie Comeau, uebec. Major John W. Foote, distinguished Dieppe chapin, came back to take a position as deputy commissioner the Ontario Liquor Control Board. Major Fred A. Tilon, whose award was made for action in Germany, and ho lost both his legs, is vice-president of a Windsor comany.

Lt.-Col. John K. Mahony, from New Westminster, B.C., hose action in Italy in 1944 brought him the highest nor, has remained with the Army, and is now its public lations director. His cohort from New Westminster, vin (Smoky) Smith, the only one of the group to win a C. while a private, is now managing a photo studio out ere. Lt.-Col. C. C. Merritt, first man to win the coveted oss in the late war, and later a member of Parliament, s resumed his law practice in Vancouver. The last an, Cpl. F. G. Topham, who won his V.C. for gallantry in e Rhine area in 1945, is now a lineman with the Ontario ydro Commission.

The rehabilitation of these men is the more impressive ecause of what they have been through, and shows that ey have learned to apply the determination and courage the battlefield to the job of living in peace.

HOLIDAY HANGOVERS

With the beginning of the summer vacation season, a ellknown malady will soon be sweeping through our ties and towns. Unless proper preventive measures are actised, this common complaint will assume its usual idemic proportions again this year.

In spite of warnings by newspaper columnists and ediial writers, weekend vacationers go right on doing erything they are advised not to do and inevitably wind on Monday morning with Holiday Hangover.

From then on it's a continuous merry-go-round until ol September days put an end to their misery and they e once more content to relax in their comfortable urban mes.

During the summer months however, city workers atch the days pass agonizingly slow and eagerly anticiate that relaxing restful weekend at the lake. After hurryg home from the office on Friday night, they pile into e family jalopy and head for that lakeside shangrila here there is nothing to do but soak up sunshine, breathe that healthy country air, and fry the ones that "didn't t away" over an open fire.

But somehow it seldom turns out that way and that iet restful weekend evaporates in a busy whirl of late rties, tennis, swimming and canoeing and before they tch their breath they find themselves trudging wearily wn the street to start another dreary work week.

The wise character is the one who takes along a couple magazines and a good book, stretches out on a comfortbel couch in the shade and reads and dozes until it's time head back to town. On Monday morning these sensible pes are really able to pitch in and get things done while eir colleagues stumble through and complain about their nburn.

To get the most out of that precious weekend and long aited vacation and still return to work refreshed and sted, take everything in moderation. Rest is more importt to most people than exercise. Have fun and enjoy urself but take time to enjoy the scenery too.

The first great gift we can bestow on others is a good ample. — Morell.

Sense shines with a double lustre when set in humily. — William Penn.

HAPPY HOLIDAY

About this time of year, the thoughts of many of us turn toward our coming vacation. There was a time when the idea of spending several weeks away from work was regarded as a luxury which only the wealthy could afford. But now nearly every worker is expected to take time off.

This is a healthy condition, for a vacation is good for all of us. Its physical benefits are obvious: we sleep more, our muscles relax, our digestion improves. Our nervous system, tired and irritable from daily problems, rests and recuperates.

But there are mental benefits of even greater importance. Vacation generally means a change of environment—new places, new people, new viewpoints. It is sometimes hard to see the little faults and follies of our daily life when we live so close to them. On vacation, however, we can look back at them calmly and broadly, from a distance. We have a new standard by which to compare our old values; and if we are honest with ourselves, we may see the wisdom of discarding some of our old ideas in favor of new ones.

And finally vacation makes ordinary life go better. We return improved mentally and physically to take up our old duties with new vigor and clearer insight. This fresh start may well become a real milestone in our success and happiness.

U.S. Government Has Big Shock For Lamprey Eels

Washington, June 26 —(AP)— The United States government has a big shock in store for the lamprey eels which are playing havoc with trout stocks in the great lakes—it plans to electrocute them.

It was disclosed during the weekend by Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman that the Cook Research Laboratory of Chicago has cooked up the electrical gadget to do away with the lamprey menace.

The device is to be put to the test on Carp Lake River in Michigan about Oct. 15, with the expectation that the shock treatment will be fully developed by next year.

According to Chapman's announcement, the lampreys will be lured by bright underwater lights and then will be shocked to death by sound waves produced by sonic generators tuned to their heartbeat.

He reported that trout and other game fish will not be drawn into the lethal trap because they are not bright-light addicts.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

PEDAGOGY AND POT ROAST

Charles E. Wilson, President
General Motors Corp.
Detroit, Mich.

Dear Mr. Wilson:

A few weeks back I was hit where I enthuse by the announcement that you had signed an unusually liberal wage and welfare pact with the United Automobile Workers, which, among other things, provided there would be no strikes for the next five years.

"That Wilson is a plenty smart hombre," I said to myself. "He knows that as long as his workers have full lives and dinner pails they're more apt to be interested in Groucho Marx than Karl."

So far, so good sir, but from where I mull, immunizing the present generation of voters against political pink-eye is only half the job. The other half is to go a giant step further and nail down the loyalty of the next generation of voters —the 25,000,000 kids now in school who will be calling the national signals a couple of Presidencies from now. And, to get down to brass tenets, I see no way of nailing down their loyalty unless you first nail down the loyalty of the 900,000 underpaid teachers who are shaping their minds.

Your quick answer, I imagine, is that you agree with this line of reasoning—but you're wondering why I address myself to you rather than the propper municipal, state and federal officials. Well, for three good reasons, sir. First, you've demonstrated that you have a lot more vision than the average politico; second, you and the gents you represent have a much greater stake in free enterprise than said politico and, third, you're a heap more competent in getting a thing done, once you're convinced it ought to be done.

But enough of the butter—let's get back to the bread. To begin with how sure am I that the problem I've raised is a problem? Well, let me put it this way: I'm not saying that the average teacher is underloyal because he's underpaid actually surveys show he's at least as leary of the lefty loudmouths as the next solid citizen. At the same time, however it stands to reason that the pedagogue who has to fill up on potatoes several times a week will find it harder to get het up about "our way of life" than a General Motors mechanic with a convertible in his garage and a couple of thousands bucks in the bank.

The Commies, of course, know this and are doing their darnedest to tack on the 'R' that stands for "Red" to the three traditional 'R's'. And it's a great tribute to our mis-meal teachers that so few have succumbed to this propaganda so far. But I think it's time the big motor, steel and chemical combines stopped pressing their luck and faced up to the fact that their financial futures may be empty if the teachers' bellies aren't full. Teachers, as you know, see more of a child than its parents do, and as mare follows night it follows that unless these teachers are happy and contented, there's always the chance that they'll mould a generation of malcontents. Which is precisely what the Kremlin is praying and plotting for.

Who, you ask, is going to pony up the money to make our educators as satisfied with their lots as, let's say, the average bricklayer? Darned if I know. Raising that kind of money is your department—and if you and the other forward peeping executives can't figure out how to underwrite this disaster insurance, nobody can.

Currently, our star-spangled democracy is spending one and one-half percent of its national income to teach the next generation of voters to think straight, whereas Russia is spending six times as much proportionately to make its next generation of non-voters think crooked. And if we want that kind of crooked thinking confined to the banks of the Volga, it's my carpy contention that big business ought to make the teacher's welfare its business—that is if it wants to stay in business.

Sincerely,
Billy Rose.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DON'T DIE IN A RUT

It's activity that creates a continual interest in what we do — and the more varied we make our work, the fresher will we face it each day of our lives. We cannot afford to shape our lives so as to land us in a rut, where no forward ideal will incite us to get out of that rut.

We must keep step to the tempo of our time, and not be slowed down and kept back to follow the line of those who would not leave the worn-out traditions of the past. People who are willing to travel in a rut, keep digging that rut deeper—until it stops them altogether.

In reading Thoreau's "Walden" the most interesting and striking thoughts were those that made him want to build his cabin in the woods, and his reason for leaving it later. "I went," said Thoreau, "to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach." And then he remarked: "I left the woods for as good a reason as I went there. Perhaps it seemed to me that I had several more lives to live, and could not spare any more time for that one."

But the two years Thoreau spent at Walden Pond in that little hut were ripened ones, in which he wrote down a philosophy of life, and handed down to our day thoughts and conclusions, many of which are too advanced for us now to adopt. Thoreau never travelled in a rut.

It is an easy matter to get into a rut—but often a very difficult job to get out of it. There are those who think themselves indispensable and so think that no one else can perform as they do. So they sit on the job, never taking a vacation, for fear they might not be missed, and imagining that they might be replaced. Getting into such a rut is self defeat. Vary your life and work, and you will enter each new day with freshness, ambition, and the will to climb higher.

Don't die in a rut. Many have —and with only a fraction of their lives made efficiently useful. Have a plan. Have a philosophy. Never be satisfied. Cling to a vision. Never stand still. There is plenty beyond the hills—but you'll have to climb them!

Mackenzie's Column:

U.S. Denounces Korean War as Act of Aggression

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The United States has denounced an "act of aggression" the communist-backed attack by North Korea on the Republic of Southern Korea, and is rushing military supplies from Japan to its little protege.

The South Korean ambassador in Washington John Myun Chang not only brands the act as aggression but says it couldn't have been carried out "without Soviet direction." A United States Senator who recently visited Korea agrees with Chang, as do other close observers, including your correspondent.

Accepting this as a well-founded appraisal, what significance can we attach to it? Can it possibly mean that Russia is using this "incident" as the springboard for another major war?

I think not. All the indications are that Moscow isn't prepared for an all out conflict.

Time will have to demonstrate the Red motive. Meanwhile, Southern Korea in itself is of such great strategic value that Russia undoubtedly would do much to gain complete domination of it. To understand this point we need only to go back 50 years to the time when Russia had diplomatic control of Korea and Japan declared that the peninsula was "a dagger pointed at her heart."

From the military standpoint that charge was true, and it brought about the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-5. Japan was successful and Russia recognized Tokyo's paramount interest in Korea. Finally in 1910 Japan annexed Korea and held it until the little country was given its independence after the Second World War.

I think these facts may well account for the communist move to gain control of all Korea and thereby obtain an invaluable base which not only points "at the heart of Japan" but also lies close to the ring of American defensive posts throughout the southeast Pacific.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE CHILDLESS MARRIAGE

Old wives' tales pertaining to vital questions of reproduction have always had credence over the truth in the popular mind and I gather from the queries of readers that old wives' tales even now break up many a family where the truth might prevent disaster.

It seems that in most childless marriages the wife automatically assumes that she is the sterile partner and submits to all sorts of treatment in the hope of gaining fertility, the capacity to conceive. The unfortunate part of this common practice is that in fact the husband, and not the wife, is the sterile partner in most childless marriages. It is high time the world recognized this truth and changed the old practice.

When a marriage has not proved fruitful after three years the couple may fairly wonder whether one or both may be sterile. Sterility in man or woman is not incompatible with apparent good health, full verility or feminity. It has no particular association with sexual potency. Of course a marriage may be barren for more than three years and then be blessed. It is not rare to hear of a couple rejoicing in their firstborn after 10 or 15 years of marriage.

According to an authority on the subject—Dr. Edmond J. Farris (Human Fertility and Problems of the Male, the author's Press, Inc., White Plains, N.Y.) only 40 percent of American men are fertile, and at least 5 million married couples in America are sterile.

There is no specific means or test which will determine whether a woman is fertile.

A microscopic test which any competent physician can make will determine pretty accurately whether a man is fertile.

It is obviously wrong, and in most instances futile for the wife to submit to examination or treatment for possible sterility unless or until the husband has first passed the microscopic test.

Sterility in man or woman, is not necessarily an absolute and unalterable state. There is plenty of evidence that simple correction of a faulty diet, for instance will restore fertility to a man or a woman who has been sterile. Such correction as that outlined in the basic health diet in The 7 Keys to Vite—for the booklet send 25 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope. There is no allusion to sterility of fertility in the booklet. It merely suggests how to build your own everyday diet on the pattern of the basic health diet, which is a corrective, protective, and, incidentally, a reduction diet for most.

So far as medicines or ductless gland derivatives or hormones are concerned, I know of none that may have any effect at all upon sterility in man or woman. Whether any such remedy should be used in a specific instance is a question which only the patient's own physician can answer.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Doctor Needs Iodin Ration

Son doctoring at present. The doctor can't find anything wrong. Suggested he take the iodin ration. Doctor had a fit! Said it almost killed one of his patients. Claims the iodin accumulates in the body and is very bad for the system. (Mrs. N.C.).

Answer—Obviously the doctor does not understand what iodin ration means. The iodin ration I recommend is not medicinal iodine or iodide, but only the quantity of the element every man, woman and child should get in his or her daily food or water, but in most parts of the United States and Canada few do get. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for the pamphlet The Iodin Ration which tells you how to get yours and what ill effect failure to get it will have on your health and happiness.

Rosacea

Your booklet Save Your Skin has proved a gold mine in our family—supplying the most satisfactory remedies for ringworm, dry skin, poison ivy. . .but now my husband has what doctors call rosesia and for the first time the little gold mine offers nothing. (Mrs. W.M.R.).

Answer—Not under that name perhaps, but you'll find a recipe for acne rosacea on page 38. For copy of booklet Save Your Skin send 25 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

It is at this time of year that you hear widespread comment upon the outrageous rents people demand for summer cottages. Since I would not rent my cottage at any price either to the King of England or to his holiness the Pope, it becomes me to say a word in defence of these high rents.

There may be people who build cottages to rent as a form of speculation or investment. If so, it is hard to credit. That is not the spirit in which cottages should be built.

In the first place, the selection of the site of a summer home is a matter of pure inspiration. Nobody can really explain how or why he came to choose a particular lake, bay, river or forest glade for a location. Yet, having chosen it, he cannot imagine himself accepting any other.

In the second place, how he got the cottage built remains a mystery to the end of a man's life. At the time he built it he had no money whatever to spare for such an extravagance as a summer home. Furthermore, he could find nobody to build it for him. But at last, after much trouble and effort, he persuaded some easy going local character to undertake the job. This local character, had, it appears, contracted to build five or six cottages for various people up and down the shore. Marvelous to relate, little by little and in due time, the cottage was put together —not, to be sure, exactly according to the original specifications. But marvellously enough too, in no specification whatever, would the new owner wish it changed.

In what you might call the consummation of a summer cottage there is both inspiration and mystery. Let those who complain about the high rents go choose a site and build themselves a cottage. Then they will perceive the wonder to be not the size of rents but that any cottages are for rent at any price.

Schuman Plan Is 'Dangerous' Says Beaverbrook

London, June 26—(CP)—Lord Beaverbrook today terms the Schuman Plan a new and dangerous weapon concocted by "enemies" who seek to destroy the British Commonwealth.

In a signed article, cabled from Fredericton, and published in bold type on the front page of the Daily Express, the Canadian-born newspaper publisher says the design of the European economic pooling plan is "to sever the British people from the colonial empire, the self-governing dominions and Canada."

"And its effect," the article contends, "would be the loss of the dominions and Canada to the United States economic system."

The Beaverbrook newspapers have been hostile to the Schuman Plan since it first was unfolded last month, but today's article is the most vividly-worded assault.

Sacrifice, Service Basis Of Citizenship Gathering Told on Memorial Day

Trenton (Special) — Sunday Afternoon, a memorial service in honor of Trenton men killed in action in both world wars was held in front of the Memorial Gates at Senator Fraser Park.

Every year, the fourth Sunday in June is proclaimed Decoration Day in Trenton and on Sunday morning, members of Trenton Branch Canadian Legion 110, gathered at the Legion Hall and proceeded to St. George's, Mount Calvary, Mount Evergreen and White's cemeteries where they decorated veterans' graves, and sounded the last post and reveille

Legion Leads Parade

At 2.30 in the afternoon, a parade formed up at College Street School and marched to the park for the open air decoration service. Trenton Legion led the parade followed by Havelock Pipe Band which provided skirling marching music for the marchers, Frankford Canadian Legion Branch 387, Bay of Quinte Branch 509 a reserve unit of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and representatives of Trenton Boy Scouts, L.O.L. 206 and IOOF also took part in the parade.

"Sacrifice and service" are the basis of our Canadian citizenship and "make up an importantant part of our individual and national life," said Rev. Canon W.E. Kidd, M.A., M.C., of Deseronto who delivered the Decoration Day Service address. During World War 1, Canon Kidd was chaplain of the 21st Battalion, C.E.F. and in the recent war, he was senior chaplain of Military District No. 2.

'That spirit that developed at the time of their service has enriched our national life and our children should know they belong to a country whose citizenship is based on sacrifice and service," declared Canon Kidd.

Tribute to Comrades

Canon Kidd gave two answers to his text "what mean ye by this service?" from the 26th verse of the 12th chapter of Exodus. First said Canon Kidd "we are desirous of paying tribute to those comrades who served for a nation, Commonwealth and Empire in two world wars and we publicly make our parade to pay tribute to their memory. He said another important reason for such service was that "we desire to infuse into our national life a continuous appreciation of the service and sacrifice that they rendered."

The history of Canada goes back to the United Empire Loyalists, continued Canon Kidd. "They left the comforts of home and endured sacrifices and left us a legacy, the land we possess today. This great country for for which so many have died and to which we are all happy to belong."

After being introduced by Rev. A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., chaplain of the Trenton Legion, Canon Kidd commended Mr. McConnell for the "human understanding" which he exhibited during his chaplain service in World War II.

Councillor Extends Welcome

In the absence of Mayor Couch Councillor C. V. Graham extended a civic welcome, and Allan Vanderwater, President of the local Legion branch, welcomed those present on behalf of the Legion.

Capt. J. R. Morrison of the Salvation Army read the scripture and Rev. G. J. Minielly led in prayer. Ford Gainforth sounded the last post and the Salvation Army Band provided music for the hymns.

Following the benediction, representatives of the various Trenton service clubs and women's organizations placed wreaths and other floral tributes between the pillars of the Memorial Gates.

Frankford Snaps Trenton's Win Streak of 6 Games

Trenton — Frankford snapped Trenton's string of six straight victories in the Trent Valley Softball League by defeating the local garagemen 6 to 2 in Frankford Friday night. As a result of Friday's game, Frankford and Trenton are tied for first place in the league with six wins and two losses each.

Errors proved costly for Norm McCue's boys as they made five miscues while Frankford played air tight ball. Frankford got off to a good start by collecting four runs in the first inning from two singles and three Trenton errors. Frankford added another run in the fourth, thanks to two more Trenton errors. The last Frankford run in the sixth was scored on two consecutive doubles by pitcher Don Boyle and Bob Mirlgam.

Trenton scored their two runs on three successive singles by Ron Mitts, Lou Istead and Martin Jordan. Weese Motors were only able to rack up one extra base hit, a double and Martin Jordon was the most effective man at the plate for the mechanics with two hits for four times at bat.

Harry Farr handled the Trenton mound duties. Don Boyle worked on the Frankford hill. Both pitchers went the route.

Frankford six runs, four hits and no errors; Trenton two runs, seven hits and five errors. Boyle struck out nine and walked five. Farr fired the third strike past 10 Frankford hitters and also allowed five free trips to first.

Tonight, Trenton takes on Campbellford at Bayshore Park, Frankford meets Stirling in Stirling and Wooler travels to Hastings.

Lions' Club Band Leaves to Play At Gravenhurst

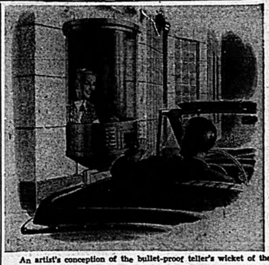
The band concert at Dufferin Street School on Sunday evening was a contrast of harmony and discord. The majority of the crowd remained in their cars which were parked in a semicircle around the band stand.

Unable to applaud the efforts of the Lions Club Boys' Band in the customary manner, a noisy blast of auto horns followed each of the band's selections.

Last night was an ideal evening for a band concert but the crowd was considerably smaller than the attendance at the two previous concerts. These concerts have been held the last three Sunday evenings to raise money to send the band to Gravenhurst to take part in a band competition at the Lions Club Convention being held there Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The band which is under the direction of Alfred Cooper left this morning by bus to take part in the band concert. Sunday evening's concert was arranged by Lambert Whaley.

The selections heard at last night's concert included: The Vanished Army, medley of Strauss Waltzes, Marche Militaire No. 1, The Maid of the Mountains, Handel's Largo, Lustspiel, Holy, Holy, Holy and Argandab.



An artist's conception of the bullet-proof teller's wicket of the Bank of Montreal's new drive-in branch in Vancouver. The ultramodern drive-in bank also features a special pram parking space for baby carriages in the main banking room.

Bank of Montreal Opens First Drive-in Office

Vancouver, June 26—The first drive-in office of a Canadian chartered bank opened for business here today. A branch of the Bank of Montreal, designed to serve our highly mobile age, the new bank provides speedy, efficient service for motorists at its outdoor drive-in wicket, a car parking lot, and even an indoor parking space for baby's pram.

Motorists intending to cash a cheque or make a deposit at the Bank of Montreal's drive-in wicket, enter a driveway at the rear of the bank, conduct their business without leaving their cars and continue on out. The equipped with an inter-communication system to make conversation between teller and customer easier, and a buzzer to summon the teller if she happens to be away.

No More Baby Sitters

The bank's second special feature is its indoor parking space for baby carriages. The carriages are easily wheeled in through the front door, and can be left in safety while the lady of the house does her banking.

Modern in appearance, both inside and out, the new branch is equipped with all the latest banking facilities, including fire and burglar-proof vaults and a large safety deposit section. The large plate-glass windows on three sides, soft pastel color scheme, flush-ceiling lighting and loping bronze tellers' screens give the whole office a clean, functional look.

The opening of this ultramodern branch is another example of the Bank of Montreal's close connection with the expansion of the West. From the first, the bank placed its resources to a marked degree behind the building of the first trans-continental railway by the Canadian Pacific. This achievement, perhaps more than any other factor, was responsible for the opening up of the West, and for welding the provinces, with bonds of steel, into one united country.

Car Crashes into House Verandah On Station St.

Inexperience of the driver when the accelerator stuck permitting the car he was driving to go out of control was responsible Sunday aftenoon for an auto leaving the road and crashing into the verandah of a house on Station Street.

R. 2 Frankford, who was a passenger, suffered shock and abrasions, while the front of the car was damaged to the extent of $300 and $600 damage was done to the house owned by Simon Malloy, 80½ Station St.

Police said that Namos was driving Copeland's car west on Station Street, when the accelerator becoming stuck. The driver being unfamiliar with the controls, the car swerved to the right curb and then swung to the left, mounting the curb, knocking over a no parking sign and crashing into the verandah which was partially demolished. HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

Consider now the opening lead of an eightspot. Rule says the lead of any small card is either fourth best or highest of the led suit. So, which could be the lead of an eightspot?

When the led card is lower than an eightspot, subtract 11. If exactly that many are higher in the three hands outside of leader, it must be a fourth best. If more than that many, it is the highest.

It would be a waste of time to apply this rule of 11 to a nine lead. Because virtually any three higher would combine for a top card sequence lead. So, lead of a nine is automatically a highest.

Almost the same goes with an eightspot lead. Three higher cards must be A K Q, A K J, A K 10, A K 9, A Q J, A Q 10, A Q 9, A J 10, A J 9, A 10 9, K Q J, K Q 10, K Q 9, K J 10, K J 9, K 10 9, Q J 10, Q J 9, Q 10, 9, J 10 9.

All but A Q 10, A Q 9, A J 9 and K J 9, take a top card sequence lead. It is only from a combine of A Q 10 8, and A Q 9 8, A J 9 8 or K J 9 8 that a fourth best would ever be led. And it is rare enough not to worry about.

Against a suit contract a good partner will not lead one of these last four suits, He will prefer to lead some other suit first. Even a suit that may be worthless in all respects.

So, where good bridge is played, the lead of an eightspot is automatically assumed to be the leader's highest. This saves time and effort in determining what partner may hold in that suit.

Comes then this practice. When partner starts with the lead of an eightspot, consider it like the lead of a nine. Take it to mean that he is not leading a fourth best. Assume it is his highest.

West leads the eightspot of clubs from this spread:

NORTH

WEST

EAST
♣K Q 6 4 2

SOUTH
♣10 9 7

East looks at dummy north and his own hand. It tells him what higher clubs are in the hidden south hand of declarer. Exactly what. And it is all done without mirrors.

Good neighbors mean as much to nations as to individuals. There's mighty little bickering over the longest border line in the world. WEDDINGS

JARDINE—COLDEN

On Saturday, June 17th, at 3 p.m., Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, decorated with baskets of peonies and gladioli, was the setting for the wedding of Pauline Colden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Colden, Belleville, to Lorne Randolph Jardine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jardine, Tweed, Ontario.

Rev. F. R. Harback officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a floor length gown of ivory barrnette satin with sweetheart neckline. She wore a finger-tip veil of tulle illusion crested with a coronet of lily-of-the-valley. Her bridal bouquet was sweetheart roses with white feather canrations and French lace.

Miss Marjorie Haire was bridemaid, gowned in blue jersey bodice and full net skirt carrying a bouquet of Picardy gladioli and blue carnations.

Mr. Leslie Jardine, brother of the groom, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Robert Colden and Mr. Carmen Caverly.

Mr. Eric Cappell sang, "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony and "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life", during the signing of the register.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received in a gown of French blue crepe, trimmed with lace, with black accessories and corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Assisting her was the groom's mother, wearing navy sheer and navy accessories with corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Following the reception, the happy couple left for Deer Lodge, Haliburton, from there they will travel through Western Ontario and the United States.

For travelling, the bride wore a powder-blue gabardine suit with white accessories, and corsage of roses. On their return they will reside in Tweed.

Out-of-town guests were from Tweed, Perth and Toronto.

Prior to her wedding, the bride was feted at a miscellaneous shower held by Miss Marjorie Haire, at her home. Mrs. Raymond Fritz and Mrs. Fred Clarke were also co-hostesses at a delightful shower held in her honor.

BUCKLE—SKELCHER

In a pretty double-ring ceremony in Trinity Anglican Church, Simcoe, Ont., on Saturday, June 17, Norma Olive Skelcher, formerly of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. C. Skelcher, became the bride of Robert John Buckle, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Buckle, of Simcoe. Rev. John L. Duncan, rector of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about 50 friends and relatives.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with white peonies on the altar and garden flower nosegays marking the guest pews.

The traditional wedding music was played by A. W. Marshall, A.T.C.M., and during the signing of the register he played the "Venetian Love Song" by Ethelbert and Evin as an organ solo.

Given in marriage by her father, the attractive bride wore heavy white corded taffeta with bouffant skirt and train, fitted basque bodice, with high round neck, yoke of embroidered lace and long sleeves ending in finger-tip points of embroidered lace. Her headdress was a small, fitted cap with tulle finger-tip veil and she carried a bouquet of all white carnations with wired gardenia petals and white streamers. She wore the groom's gift of a three-strand pearl necklace with rhinestone clasp.

Mantle, of Wellington, cousin of the bride. All three wore taffeta gowns similar to that of bride but with off-the-shoulder neckline, Mrs. Fort being in pale yellow, Mrs. Ledger in orchid and Miss Mantle in lime green. They wore matching poke bonnets and white lace mitts with rainbow beribboned nosegays of carnations, roses and cornflowers.

The groomsman was Owen Buckle, of Simcoe, eldest brother of the groom, with George Buckle of Simcoe, brother of the groom, and Ted Collett of Brantford, cousin of the groom, being ushers.

Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was held in the Parish Hall. The bride's mother received in a dress of navy sheer nylon with navy accessories accented in pink, wearing a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother also was in navy sheer with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A three-tiered wedding cake with glass standards between tiers centred the bride's table. On top of the cake were corn flowers and sweet peas in a swath of pink net. White tapers were placed on the U-shaped table arrangement with pink and white ribbon streamers on the head table. The Senior Branch of Trinity Church W.A. catered for the luncheon, with friends of the bride serving, including Sandra Nelles, Marion Cox and Lamoine Keene. Guests were present from Oshawa, Hamilton, Wellington, Belleville and Brantford.

The couple left for a week's trip to the Muskoka Lake district, the bride travelling in a fine wool Bolero suit, the skirt having a small gray and green check while the jacket was paddy green with checked collar to match the skirt. Her hat was lacquered grey straw with green ribbon and feather, other accessories being British tan calf. She wore a corsage of white carnations tied with green ribbon Upon their return, they will reside on No. 24 Highway, in Colborne.

The bride, who has been an employee of the Simcoe Branch of the Bank of Montreal, has been honored at several functions including a cup and saucer shower given by her associates in the bank. The groom is an employee of the American Can Company in Simcoe.

Pert Milliner Designs Models For Ottawa Set

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa (CP) —"My work —it [illegible] a part of me."

Pert Alberte Legeault shrugged an expressive shoulder. "I don't feel as if I'm working when I'm making hats. . ."

Alberte was born in Hull, Que., and went into the millinery business 12 years ago when she was 18. Now her styles are so popular in the capital that there is scarcely a wife of a diplomat or high government official who doesn't boast at least one hat with a "mlle Alberte" label.

The wives of two governor-generals also have worn Alberte models.

The sleek-haired young expert styled several for Princess Alice, wife of a former governor-general.

Viscountess Alexander took Alberte hats with her on a recent trip to Britain.

"I made five for her excellency," said Alberte. "One was a black shiny straw and there also was a close-fitting turban for travelling—draped in toast-colored jersey."

Lady Alexander doesn't care for extreme hats.

"Her Excellency chooses hats with good lines and not too much trimming," said Alberte.

Kind of Hat to Wear

What to choose when shopping for hats?

Alberte warns that trimming on the left side gives a "matronly" look. Flowers and feathers on the right give a "much younger, more dashing" appearance.

Women with round faces should avoid the complete halo hats. Instead there should be at least a fold in the material at one side—to detract from the roundness.

Tiny persons should avoid great towering feathers and obvious attempts to give height.

Tall persons can effectively wear cart-wheel hats —those are wide but don't add to height.

Finally Alberte has one last piece of advice— don't copy the other woman.

She confessed that customers often come in begging her to make them a hat exactly the same as one they've seen on somebody else. That's difficult when the customer is 10 or 15 years older than the 21-year-old model who wore the hat which caught her eye.

In such cases Alberte styles the hat as closely as possible to the one desired—but with modifications.

Novel Jewelry Show Draws Many Buyers to London

By MURIEL NARROWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, —(CP) — On a London bomb-site—where in A.D. 871 gold-beaters plied their trade — a barrow boy deals in rubies and diamonds.

He is part of an exhibition organized by British jewelry merchants to attract overseas buyers here.

Held in Cheapside, a busy commercial area, the exhibition ranges from jewel sets valued at $46,500 to mass-produced brooches retailing for 15 cents apiece.

Some choice pieces designed by leading jewel firms were sent to the international trade fair in Toronto but there is still a lot of costly stuff on display.

Many items are designed with an eye for overseas style preferences. A diamond necklace of leaf design worked in platinum and composed of more than 200 large diamonds and baguettes was snapped up by a United States buyer.

A new color combination, introduced by the firm which designed Princess Elizabeth's engagement ring, is turquoise and amethyst. Spray brooches with gold stem and leaves supporting delicate flowers of turquoise and amethyst are matched to bracelet clips or earrings.

For those who want an expensive memento of London, there are well-known figure brooches, including a model in rubies, emeralds and diamonds depicting a flower-girl under a gold street lamp with diamond studded panes.

To complement the popularity of "separates" in dress fashions the jewelers have produced a three-piece necklace which breaks into clips and bracelet.

Pearls, as always, are a front-line favorite. Latest hues of processed pearls range from gray to amber.

In original designs clips delicately conceal the face of watches One shows a tiny figure on a bicycle; push it off and up pops the face of the watch,

"Window" Hat Is New Style For Sun Wear

A band of isinglass is let into the brim of a turned-down straw hat. The dipping brim protects the wearer's eyes from the sun's rays and enables him to see at the same time.

Other hats, designed especially for seaside wear this season, have exaggeratedly high crowns, some with large brims, others with tiny ones.

Stove-pipe, floppy - brimmed hats accompany black beach slacks strapped below the knee, with turned back cuffs and buttons in yellow sateen as part of a novel fishing outfit.

The importance of correct accessories is stressed every season by Paris dress designers and perhaps no one understands the need for this better than they do.

Beach ensembles this season often strike a coolie note. Slacks are tighter and cuffed below the knee. Coats and jackets are of the square--cut, boxy variety.

Schiaparelli's beach sandals in white patent leather repeat the oriental theme. They have a square cut blocked toe, turning up at the tip. The tapering end of the thin black sole is brought up and curled over the toes. Two narrow white leather bands form a criss-cross design across the foot.

BEAUTY

Toothsome Items for the Good-Looks Class

From the standpoint of health, as well as beauty, the teeth should be in perfect condition. The first stages in the process of digestion take place in the mouth unless the teeth are normal, mastication is not thorough.

In these days of advanced dental science, it is taken for granted that a woman should display teeth that are white, even, highly polished. Without this attribute of loveliness, other good looks assets don't mean a thing. There is little need of urging women to make every effort to preserve the blooming complexion of youth, to advance with the modes as far as dress is concerned, to carry the chic hairdo. Time and money are spent without stint to build good appearance. But the teeth more important than any other feature, usually get little attention other than a hasty brushing night and morning.

X RAY LA
J.J. JONES BRS
6-24
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

The teeth usually get little attention.

They should be brushed until they shine. Dentists tell us now that brushing should be done immediately after eating. Within half an hour food particles that remain in the mouth change in character, produce chemicals that are harmful, that may cause caries to form.

Bacteria is ever present in the mouth. An experiment made at a dental college showed that the greatest number of bacteria was found in the mouth immediately upon arising in the morning. After a brisk brushing and a rinsing with a lotion, the count dropped 50 percent. By luncheon time the count had increased 20 percent, dropped that much after brushing.

By fastidious attention it is believed that the chances of decay can be lessened Of course, there is no sure immunity against dental troubles. The best weapon is the toothbrush.

Don't fail to make an appointment with your dentist every six months for examination and for such repairs as may be necessary. This habit will save you time, pain and money. There may be small cavities of which you are not aware. Caught early there will be less drilling, less strain on your nervous system. The bravest among us may feel cowardly when climbing into the dentist's chair.

Nearly everyone is afflicted with tartar that forms at the roots of the teeth, presses against the gums, may cause inflammation. It consists chiefly of phosphate of lime deposited by the saliva. Mixed with this are food particles which breed bacteria. Once firmly established, it can only be removed by those murderous little instruments that the dentist uses.

TOOK REAL ONE

Cannes, France, June 26—(AP) —Clever jewel thieves palmed off a fake emerald necklace on wealthy Mrs. Frank J. Gould during the weekend and made off with the real one valued at 40,000,000 francs ($120,000).

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

The vichyssoise season is now in full swing.

Vichyssoise is the French name for the cold cream of potato and leek soup, topped with chives which has become the unchallenged queen of all summer soups.

Until recent years cold soups were offered on restaurant and hotel menus but infrequently found in homes. During the last decate the vichyssoise rage has penetrated everywhere, and, in hot months, the cold velvety puree is as common as iced tea or ice cream.

Briefly it consists of potatoes, onions, leeks and chicken stock cooked until the potatoes are a mush and then forced through a sieve or puree utensil. The strained mixture is then thinned with milk or milk and cream.

As the soup stands, and becomes chilled, it thickens. Milk must be added to bring it to the right consistency.

Cold vichyssoise soup should be served in cups that have been placed in the refrigerator until frosty. It should be topped with finely chopped chives or scallions if chives are not available Vichyssoise fans eat the soup day after day without tiring. In many homes it is prepared in batches several times a week.

Cold Vichyssoise Soup.
Serves 4-6

Melt 3 tabelspoons butter or vegetable fat in a soup pot. Add the following vegetables all chopped fine: the white part of 4 leeks, 3 medium size onions and 2 cloves of garlic. Cook, covered, stirring frequently until the onions become tender but do not turn brown.

Peel four medium size potatoes. Slice potatoes thin. Add to onions.

Add one quart of chicken broth or 1 quart of hot water to which four chicken bouillon cubes have been added.

Simmer until potatoes are quite soft. Stir frequently or weight of potatoes will cause soup to scorch. Break up potatoes as much as possible while cooking.

Force mixture through a food mill or fine sieve.

Heat 2 cups milk or 1 cup of milk and 1 cup light cream until bubbles appear around the edge of saucepan. Add milk to strained mixture. Season with 1 teaspoon salt or more to taste and white pepper to taste.

Cool soup to room temperature. Place in refrigerator to chill thoroughly. Stir soup well before serving. If too thick, add cold milk. After soup has been poured into cold cups, sprinkle with chopped chives.

How to Pasteurize 'Raw' Milk at Home

Vacationers in the country this summer may find that the milk they buy from local farms is "raw." To be safe for drinking by children or adults it must be pasteurized at home, cautions the Bureau of Dairy Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. If skillfully done, specialists say no cooked flavor is noticeable nor is there loss in important nutritive value.

For quick home pasteurization pour milk into the upper part of the double boiler, put in a clean thermometer (the kind that floats is most convenient) and when the mercury mounts to 160 degrees Fahrenheit, count off fifteen seconds. Discard hot water in lower section of boiler and replace with cold water to bring down the temperature of the milk quickly. Ice in the water hastens the cooling. When cool, transfer milk to bottles that have been sterilized in boiling water, cover and refrigerate.

As to the floating dairy thermometer, this may be found in hardware stores, dairy supply companies or local dairy plants. Any thermometer may be used however.

For in-the-jar pasteurizing, which saves pouring milk into bottles after heating, follow this method, advises the bureau:

Pour "raw" milk in sterile glass canning jars, leaving three-fourths inch headspace at the top. Seal and arrange in a water-bath canner. One jar, in which the thermometer is inserted, should contain water rather than milk. Add water to cover jars and heat till mercury registers 163 degrees Fahrenheit. Hold that temperature one minute, then remove, cool and refrigerate jars.

MASS PRODUCE 110-MILE-PER-GALLON CAR

This baby auto, weighing only 350 pounds, is being mass produced by a West German firm at Arnberg. It has a one-cylinder, five-horse-power engine, with 50 m.p.h. top speed claimed and mileage of 110 per gallon. Kurt Kannenberg shows it to prospect in Berlin. —Central Press Canadian.

Conditions Changed in Franco Spain but Still Long Way to Go

Madrid, June 24 (CP) —Spain has flirted midly with democracy since VE-Day, but Generalissimo Franco believes the next move now should come from the western allies.

Qualified diplomatic observers in Madrid say Franco feels he has made enough concession to public opinion in western countries.

Conditions have changed considerably in Spain since VE-Day, but there is still a long way to go.

When Germmany was defeated, Franco's followers claimed their country was an "organic democracy." However, it bore little resemblance of the west.

Capitalism was denounced as exploitation; freedom of the press was disavowed; freedom of religion applied only to Roman Catholics; freedom of speech did not extend to criticism of the regime; free elections belonged to Spain's "decadent" era before the "glorious crusade."

After Germany's defeat there were ominous growls from the allied camp.

New Bill of Rights

The handwriting on the wall had been seen even-before VE-Day. On May 5, 1945, just two days before the signature of Germany's surrender, Franco announced a "Bill of Rights" for his people.

Freedom of association, religion, speech and many other things were pomised. Laws were drawn up and sent to the legislature to put the bill into effect. The laws were never passed.

Four months after VE-Day, the Fascist salute was abolished as the obligatory form of salute.

Finally, in November 1948, municipal elections were held in which all "heads of families" participated, and five months later provincial elections took place. The elections in both instances were not direct. The electorate chose men who in turn voted for others who finally elected the actual members.

Since the announcement of the "Bill of Rights" there has been no evidence of persecution of protestants as part of a government campaign. Sporadic instances have become fewer.

Still ahead of the regime, however, are such difficult lumps to swallow as really-free, unhedged elections with opposition candidates permitted, full freedom of the press, complete implementation of the bill of rights and a general amnesty for those imprisoned for Republican or Civil War activities.

Channel Swimmers Ready To Assault Treacherous Tides

By BEN PHLEGAR

London, June 26 (AP)— It looks like a tough summer for English shipping. Even the fish may have to move if they want peace and quiet.

Channel swimmers are about to take over the biggest assault in history upon the 19 miles of treacherous tides that split England from France at Dover Straits.

Indications are that between early June and late September 24 or more determined men and women will plunge into the cold water at Cap Gris Nez, France.

Last year 11 swimmers made 17 attempts. Six men succeeded.

The main attack on the channel which has been conquered by swimmers only 33 times will come in mid-August.

The Daily Mail is organizing a contest for 20 of the world's best professional long-distance swimmers.

Waiting on the English shore will be prizes of £1,000 ($3,100) each for the first man and woman among the 20 to negotiate the distance plus £250 for each additional successful crossing.

Swimmers from 11 countries have filed entries for the contest. three of them—Willy Van Rijsel of Holland and Sam Rockett and Margaret Feather of England — are practising at Folkestone on the English coast.

Individual attempts also will dot the swimming calendar.

Philip Mickman, brawny young Yorkshireman and one of the six men who made it last year, has begun training for the trip.

Shirley May France, the 17-year-old Somerset, Mass., school girl whose unsuccessful try last year was deluged with publicity, is going to try again. Shirley May was within six miles of England last September before her father dragged her from the water because of the cold.

Mrs. Betty Cohn, a 50-year-old Brooklyn grandmother, has added her name to the lists.

George (Scotty) Fraser, 44-year-old war veteran who left his home in Dennisport, Mass., to try the channel swim, has just arrived. The rugged little Scottish-American, a native of Glasgow, wants to show disabled veterans the restorative powers of swimming.

Son of Lindsay Mayor is Held On Two Charges

Lindsay, June 24 (CP)—Douglas Lamb, 28, son of Mayor Charles Lamb, surrendered to police last night to face two charges of shopbreaking. He was driven to the police station by his father.

Lamb was implicated in the break-ins following a statement to police Friday by Walter Hontoon, 18, and Floyd Bryans, 17, who face charges in connection with thefts from the Lindsay flour and feed plant and Byrnell's grocery.

In his statement Hontoon said: "Lamb told me he would kill me if I said anything."

Lamb was released on $2,000 bail and will appear in court Monday.

Dispute Between Two Old Friends Led to Shooting

Langton, Ont., June 26—(CP)—An argument between two old friends over methods used by posses in the hunt for the Langton bandit-killer led to another shooting in this area Sunday.

John W. Fink, 71 of Houghton township suffered minor shotgun wounds. George Parker, 71, is being held in Simcoe jail. No charges have been laid yet.

Parker, a woodcutter who lives in North Walsingham, was disarmed by a Toronto newspaper reporter and turned over to provincial police.

Fink was wounded in the right arm, left leg and back. After treatment in the office of Dr. J. W. Nicolson here he was returned to his home.

Fink said he had gone to call on Parker with whom he had been friends for years and when the argument began, Parker hit him on the head with a club.

"I went at him with my bare hands and turned him over with a rolling hip-lock," said Fink, who was a wrestler in Niagara Falls in his younger days.

Parker then ordered him off the property and seized a shotgun, saying "if you don't start running I'll shoot."

Fink said he didn't run and Parker pulled the trigger.

TWO U.S. SOLDIERS HELD

Berlin, June 26—(AP)— Two American soldiers were held briefly by Soviet authorities Sunday after one of them ripped down a communist banner in an east Berlin subway station. Officers said they were not subjected to mistreatment or interrogation.

OLD HOBBY

Russell, Man., — (CP)— Some local residents are making a hobby of collecting fossils which have been discovered in some quantity in the area. A fossiled clam was recently found on the banks of the Assiniboine and has been sent to the University of Manitoba for identification.

ONTARIO OPENS NEW 160, 000 HYDRO STATION

Forty-thousand horsepower of electrical energy was added to Ontario's Thunder Bay district with the opening of the new Hydro plant at Pine Portage. Built in three years at a cost of $28,500,000 the project will ultimately convert 160,000 horsepower from the flow of the Nipigon River into energy for industries and homes in the area.

Doctors Worried About Use of Sleeping Pills

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York, June 26 (AP) — Sleeping pills should be "booby trapped" to prevent suicide or poisoning from taking too many of them, a committee of physicians says.

The booby trap would be adding an emetic, something that makes you vomit. The amount wouldn't affect anyone taking one or two pills.

Rigging sleeping pills this way is one recommendation of the committee on public health of the New York County Medical Society.

The committee is worried about abuses of sleeping pills, or barbiturates. They cause about 1,000 deaths a year in the United States. Some deaths are suicides. Others are accidental overdoses.

The taking of "large amounts of barbiturates has become one of the commonly-used forms of suicide," the committee said.

"Of particular concern to the medical profession is that last year over half of the 325 individuals admitted to (New York) City hospitals for barbituate poisoning obtained the drugs legally—from their own doctor's prescriptions."

Unless physicians co-operate to control the abuses, government may impose restrictions on sleeping pills similar to those controlling narcotics, the committee warned.

The barbituate drugs are useful medicines and "their value far outweighs their harmful misuse by a small number of people," the report said.

"RUBBER STOCKINGS"

St. John's, Nfld. — (CP) — Merchants are sometimes in for a rough time when non-English speaking Portuguese fishermen enter their stores. One chap baffled employees recently when he asked for "rubber stockings."—he had it written down. It developed he wanted rubber cement to mend his long rubber boots.

Hour With Relics Brings Half Century of Memories

How would you like to go back half a century without moving from main street?

You can do that and more by just wandering around a second hand store. You'll see nearly every article you can think of, and then some. There will be pitcher and bowl like you once used before modern plumbing became common. That's enough to make you shiver as you recall the ice you had to break in the top of the pitcher before you could wash on a winter morning. And look a little farther in the shop and you will see cast-off successors to that way of living—shiny plumbing fixtures.

And in that same store you may see the shells of private lives in pictures of a family dog, someone's flute, the generator from the old family car. There are the old type lamps with the glass tassels hanging in long fringes, books browned with age, squat little stoves and mantel clocks with heavy Roman-numeralled faces. Over in a corner are stacked the playthings of men now smoking pipes and resting in easychairs—golf clubs, skates and cameras.

The smell and warmth of a kitchen as a woman irons the weekly wash comes back with the sight of a heavy, aged pressing iron. And even more romantic are the old rifles, some with the stocks taped to seal up the cracks, an old wind-up Victrola that once played records like "La Paloma" and others. Family histories are contained in picture albums, covered on the outside with red plushy felt and a long faded umbrella reminds you of a tall slim man setting out for church on a Sunday morning.

But the things that tie up the memories in a nutshell are the ornaments, most of them useless, that used to sit on tables in the parlor. They were carefully cleaned week after week, and have now come to an end in dusty negligence.

But before you can get too far back in the past, you'll be jerked to 1950 again by the sign that tells you that sentiment hasn't much of a spot in a place of business—"no refunds. Goods sold as is."

'Skeeters' Carry 'Yellow Jack' Findings of Medical Board

Washington, June 25 (AP) — Fifty years ago today, Maj. Welter Reed of the United States Army Medical Corps arrived in Havana, Cuba.

He had come to find out what caused Yellow Fever which had killed more Americans in the Spanish-American war than were slain by Spanish bullets.

"Yellow jack" the soldiers called it.

In the United States in previous years, yellow fever had struck with epidemic frightfulness in many cities, killing thousands.

Victims would fall suddenly, wracked with pain. Later their eyes and faces would turn yellow and their stomachs retch forth the dread "black vomit."

No one knew the cause of the sickness, but many believed it was some mysterious poison in the air. Men fired cannon or burned tar pots to try to dispel it.

Reed and his associates demonstrated that the disease was transmitted by a mosquito.

Years after Reed's death in 1902, scientists discovered that the actual cause was a virus. This and other finds have resulted in development of protective vaccine.

But the work of Reed and his associates made it possible to control yellow fever by ridding stricken areas of the mosquito.

Reed and three associates on the "yellow fever board"—doctors Jesse Lazear, James Carroll and Aristides Agramonte.

Dr. Carroll was the first hero of the research. He contracted an almost fatal case of fever after twice allowing himself to be bitten by mosquitoes which had fed on yellow fever victims. Dr. Lazear also got sick—and died.

Reed made a brilliant deduction based on notes left behind by Dr. Lazear.

The deduction was that a mosquito can become infected only if it bites a yellow fever victim during the first three days of his illness, and that it requires at least 12 days for the disease to develop in the insect's body.

Better living in city and country
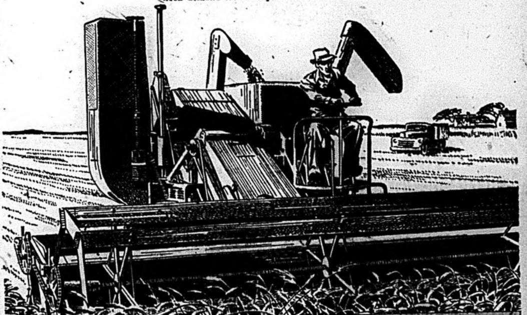
because Modern Machinery increases farm production and buying power

Everybody benefits when farmers are prosperous. Take the past five years. Farm buying power was approximately 95% higher in 1945-49 than in 1935-39, increasing farm demand for hundreds of products. Farm buying broadened the foundation for the all-round expansion of Canadian business, with the result that more Canadians were employed at higher wages and salaries than ever before.

Farmers, in turn, benefited from a keen demand for their products in all Canadian towns and cities; plus a steady export market . . . completing a true prosperity cycle.

The total effect was greatly amplified by more efficient farm production. In the past five years, Canadian farmers replaced 1,000,000 horses with new tractors and power-farming equipment. By so doing, they not only withstood the loss of thousands of farm workers who moved to town and city jobs, but raised their 1945-49 production nearly 25% above the 1935-39 level.



With the latest model Massey-Harris super-combine, one man can cut and thresh more wheat in a day than 9 or 10 men were able to do in two days, with horse-drawn equipment. Since 1847, Massey-Harris has been a leader in engineering better and better machines for more efficient farm production.

Home Runs All the Rage As Major League Pitchers Are Unmercifully Pounded

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Homers are the thing in the major baseball leagues these days. The poor pitchers have been pounded unmercifully since last week.

With little more than one-third of the season gone, the two majors have hit 888 homers — 449 in the National and 439 in the American.

A three-run homer by Hoot Evers in the last of the eighth inning gave Detroit Tigers a 6-3 second-game victory and a split of their Sunday American League doubleheader with the Yankees. Homers by Joe DiMaggio and Hank Bauer helped the Yankees win the opener 8-2. Bauer had a five-for-five game and knocked in four runs in that game. Evers' blast came after the Yankees had pulled even in their half of the eighth on a two-run homer by pinch hitter Tommy Henrich.

The split left the league-leading Tigers still three games in front of the Yankees.

The climbing Cleveland Indians were stopped by Washington 5-3 after winning the opener of a doubleheader 7-6 for their fifth straight. Four homers, capped by Al Rosen's grand-slammer in the eighth, won the first game. A homer and single by Irv Noren furnished three Washington runs in the second to help Sandalio Consuegra, the unbeaten Cuban rookie, to register his third victory.

Red Sox Win Pair

Boston Red Sox swept a pair from St. Louis 11-5 and 8-2, to give them four straight over the Browns. Walter Dropo, with two singles, a triple and homer, was the batting star.

Philadelphia fielder Paul Lehner tied an American League record of 11 putouts as the Athletics defeated Chicago White Sox 13-4 in the second game of a doubleheader. The Sox won the opener 7-6. Lehner joined Happy Felsch, Johnny Mostil and Harry Rice as co-holders of the record. Earl Clark, of the 1929 Braves, set the major league putout mark of 12.

A three - run homer by Gus Zernial helped the White Sox to their 11th victory in 13 games in the opener. The A's scored six runs in the first inning and four in the second to make Bob Hooper's seventh victory an easy one.

Phillies Climb

In the National League, Philadelphia Phils rose within a half-game of the leading Dodgers by dividing a twin bill with Chicago while the Pirates were thrashing Brooklyn 16-11. The Phils won the second game 2-1 after the Cubs had won the opener 11-8.

Vern Bickford, Boston righthander, blanked St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 and Cincinnati Reds swept a twin bill from the Giants 6-3 and 6-4.

Richie Ashburn's single with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the ninth enabled Philadelphia to win the second game from the Cubs. Hank Sauer slammed two doubles and two home runs to drive in four runs for the Cubs in the opener.

Ralph Kiner crashed a pair of three - run homers, a triple, double and single and drove in eight runs to feature Pittsburgh's 20-hit attack against seven Brooklyn hurlers.

Bobby Schnurr Hurls One-Hitter In Winning Game

(By The Canadian Press)

If it's inspiration they're looking for, Kitchener Legionnaires don't have to look any further than playing-manager 'Bobby Schnurr.

Schnurr, long one of the Intercounty League's top batsmen, has been taking a regular turn on the mound for his squad this year, with generally-good results.

He was never better than in Kitchener Saturday, when he blanked St. Thomas Legion on one hit, showing the way in Kitchener's 7-0 win. The only hit was a line-drive double by John Groat in the sixth.

Schnurr, working quickly behind strong support afield, struck out four men and walked two, and was never in serious trouble. Kitchener backed him up with a 14-hit attack on three St. Thomas pitchers, Schnurr collecting two of those safeties himself.

In other Intercounty senior games Saturday, Brantford Sox squeaked through to an 11-10 decision over Stratford Nationals, Guelph Maple Leafs beat London Majors 5-2 in 17 innings at London, and Waterloo Tigers breezed past Galt Terriers 4-1 at Galt.

Grafton Wins From Electrics By 8-2 Score

Although outhit six to four, Grafton ladies' softball team handed the Northern Electric ladies' softball team an 8-2 licking last night as the local entry in the Lakeshore Ladies' Softball League suffered its second setback of the current campaign in a game played at Grafton.

A four-run outburst by Grafton in the fourth inning, on three errors, a walk, and a single, put the crusher on the Electrics. Grafton had opened the scoring in the first frame pushing over two tallies on an error and a single.

Electrics came up with a lone counter in top of the second on singles by K. Mills and H. Reeves and a double by S. Day.

Grafton added their third run in the third inning on a walk and an error and then shoved over four in the fourth. They added their final run in the sixth.

Northern scored their second run in the fifth on a walk and a single.

McGrath went the route for the losers walking four, striking out one and giving up four hits for eight runs as the team bobbled seven times behind her. Kernigan went all the way for the win, walking one, whiffing two, and being nicked for six hits and two runs as her team mates committed four miscues.

Line up:

Northern Electric: B. Reeves, c; B. Young, 1b; I. Seguin, 2b; K. Mills, cf; H. Reeves, 3b; A. Atkinson, rf; S. Day, lf; B. Robson, ss; A. McGrath, p;

Montreal Royals Back in First Place of Loop

(By The Associated Press)

The sun is shining and hearts are young and gay once again in Montreal for the Royals are back in first place in the tight International League pennant race.

Black indeed was the picture May 26, for on that date the Royals yielded first place to Rochester Red Wings and started a slide that tumbled them all the way down to fifth place.

They began their stirring comeback June 18 when they buried Syracuse Chiefs 17-5 to halt a nine-game losing streak. Since then the Royals have won nine of 10 starts.

A crowd of 15,106 turned out in Montreal yesterday, and the Royals took both ends of a doubleheader from Springfield Cubs 4-3 and 7-2, to wrest the league lead from the Cubs.

Catcher Toby Atwell was the hero in the opener. Atwell cracked his third home run of the season with one out in the last of the ninth to break a 3-3 tie.

Made First Start

Ronnie Lee, young southpaw specialist, made his first start of the season in the seventh-inning nightcap and came up with a neat six-hitter to post his seventh victory against three losses. The Royals clubbed Bob Spicer and Gene Costello for 10 hits, including Don Thompson' sixth home run of the season.

The defeats dumped the Cubs into a third-place tie with Jersey City Giants, with Rochester Red Wings remaining in second place half-a-game off the pace.

Rochester split a doubleheader with Baltimore Orioles and the Giants divided a pair with the last-place Buffalo Bisons.

The Wings trounced the Orioles 11-6 in the first game but lost the second 5-2.

Helps Owns Cause

Righthander Johnny Yuhas gained his eighth victory and his first since June 4 in the first game. Yuhas helped his own cause by banging a pair of home runs. The Wings iced the decision with a 10-run blast in the fourth.

Rookie third baseman Russ Kerns won the second game for the Orioles with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, his eighth of the season.

Righthander Aaron Silverman blanked the Giants on six hits in the opener at Jersey City. The Bisons collected only five blows but two were homers by Walt Novick and Gene Markland.

The Giants slammed four home runs to nail down the nightcap. Rookie Marv Blaylock socked two homers and Nap Reyes and Chet Laabs one each. Hank Biasatti poled one for the Bisons.

Toronto's seventh-place Maple Leafs took both ends of a twin bill from Syracuse Chiefs 6-2 and 4-0. The Leafs wiped out a 2-0 deficit with three runs in the eighth inning and sealed the verdict in the ninth when Andy Skurski belted a tree-run homer.

Jocko Thompson blanked the Chiefs on five hits in the finals. Johnny Mayo homered with one on in the first to give Thompson and early morning working margin.

SMITHS FALLS WINS

Smiths Falls, June 26 — (CP) — Mac White drove out a two-run homer in the fourth inning Saturday as Smiths Falls Royals whipped Brockville Memos 15-9 in a free-scoring Central Ontario Baseball League contest before 400 fans. Nobby Clarke, Bill Rickey and Bill Foley each tripled for the losers.

No Youngsters In Semi-Finals Of PGA Tourney

Columbus, O., June 26 (AP)— The $40,000 Professional Golfers' Association tournament is making a farce of the old axiom that youth must be served.

There are no youngsters (in the 20-year-old classifications) left in the meet today. Usually the six-day tortuous grind sends the older pros to the verandah.

This 1950 meet on the 7,032-yard Scioto Country Club course has become, generally, a race of darkhorses—older ones.

Into the 36-hole semi-finals go such aged-in-the-woods contestants as Henry Picard, responding like an old fire horse; Henry Williams, Jr., of Secane, Pa., Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Rainbow-hued . Jimmy Demaret.

Demaret, 40, should be ranked heads above the company he is keeping in the semi-finals. He contends that he is only 38, if that makes much difference, but the record book says he should be 40.

In the past, this tournament has been Demaret's jinx. Twice he has reached the semi-finals only to be beaten each time by Ben Hogan, who went on to win.

Youngest is Williams

The youngest in the 36 holes of match play today is Williams, 33. He hasn't been projected as far into the limelight before and is rather blinded by it all. He was a quarter-finalist in 1949.

Then comes Harper at 36. He is recognized as a tough competitor. But he has never advanced beyond the second round in three previous P.G.A. attempts.

The semi-finals send Demaret against Harper and Picard after Williams.

By far the most interest centres on Picard, once one of golf's greats.

In 1936 he developed arthritis in his hands. Despite this handicap, he won the 1938 Masters' at Augusta and the 1939 PGA crown. Then he suddenly dropped from sight, emerging slightly in 1945 to take the Miami Open. That was his last victory.

Picard advanced by trouncing favored Johnny Palmer, the 1949 runner-up, 10 and 8 in yesterday's 36-hole quarter final session.

Williams fought off a closing round rally to whip slim Dave Douglas of Wilmington, Del., 1-up.

Demaret came home in the last 18-hole stretch to oust Ray Gafford of Dallas 5-4.

Harper cinched a 1-up surprising win over Lloyd Mangrum, the "peoples' choice," with a hot putter.

Crescents Move Into First Place Of Lacrosse Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Owen Sound's fast-moving Crescents handed Brampton Excelsiors their first loss and moved into first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series all in one move Saturday.

In another Saturday game played at St. Catharines, sharp sniping enabled St. Catharines Athletics to down Peterborough Petes 20-14 to extend their win streak to seven in eight starts.

Crescents defeated the Excelsiors 10-8 in a sparkling game before 2,000 fans. The big break came in the second period when Brampton's C. Shepherd got a major penalty and crescents slammed in three goals, two by Rusty Slater. That broke a 2-2 tie, and the Crescents were never headed.

Slater led the winners with three goals, and Arn Smith had a pair. Ferri and Graham each notched two for the losers.

The St. Catharines game was described as one of the fastest senior contests so far this season.

Before a crowd of more than -,000 the Athletics took a 7-3 lead in the opening quarter, boosted it to 11-6 in the second quarter and to 15-7 in the third. Tony Damico scored three goals for the Athletics and six teammates each tallied twice. Top scorers for Peterborough were Don Ashbee with five goals, Dootch Vitarelli with four and Arn Dugan and Bob Thorpe with two each.

Cream of World Tennis Players At Wimbledon

Wimbledon, June 26—(AP) — [illegible] cream of all the world's amateur tennis players step onto the gleaming green lawns of Wimbledon today in a two-week scramble for the time-honored British championships.

The fortnight's grind, coupled with the psychological pressure of play on Wimbledon's famed centre court, will be a severe test for the two pre-tournament favorites for the men's singles crown.

Top-seeded Frank Sedgman of Australia entered the fray with a crippled wing. He pulled some ligaments in his right wrist during tune-up competition. He faces the British Davis Cup player, Howard Walton, in the opening round.

Billy Talbert, 31-year-old New Yorker who is seeded No. 2, is making his first appearance in [illegible] all-England championship. If he can conserve his stamina, he could snare the title left vacant by the non-appearance of Ted Schroeder of the United States, last year's winner.

A Diabetic

Talbert, a diabetic, lacks the fire of some of the Wimbledon all-time "greats," but his steady, accurate stroking could take him to the top. His first round-foe is unranked Norman Kitovitz, an English player.

Leading matches in the 64 opening-day skirmishes on 15 courts include:

Budge Patty, Los Angeles, vs. Raymoundo Deyro, Phillipines; Gardnar Mulloy, Miami, Fla., vs. Josip Palada, Yugoslavia; Fred Kovaleski, Hamtramck, Mich., vs. R. G. Reeve, Britain; and Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, vs. B. W. [illegible], South Africa.

Ladies day, combining tennis and fashion competition, is tomorrow.

The titleholders are, respectively, Louisa Brough and Gertrude (Gorgeous Gussie) Moran. The girls do not play today.

Miss Brough is expected to get stiffest competition from two fellow-Americans, Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont and Doris Hart.

Mrs. Dupont is a former titleholder, while Miss Hart has been beaten by both of them in the finals.

Gussie's leading rival has not been nominated, but all eyes are centered speculatively on Nancy Chaffee, another captivating California miss with a flair for fancy tennis duds.

Rich Ferguson Breaks Record For Mile Event

(By The Canadian Press)

Rich Ferguson of Toronto made good Saturday his announced intention of breaking the Canadian junior record for the mile but he had no monopoly on record-breaking performances at the Quebec Provincial track and field championships at Montreal.

In all, three Canadian marks were bettered in junior and juvenile competition.

Ferguson made a show of his field in winning the junior mile by 125 yards. His time of 4:23.6 bettered the old mark of 4:28.8 held by Don McEwen of Ottawa.

Jack Clark of Montreal set a record in the junior 12-pound shot put with a heave of 53 feet seven inches, against the old mark of 47 feet, 9 1-4 inches.

Jack Carroll of Montreal cracked the third junior Canadian record by winning the 440-yard run in 49.5 seconds. The old mark was 50.6.

At Toronto Sunday, Ontario's National Soccer League Selects upset the touring Jonkoping eleven from Sweden 3-1 Sunday before 5,500 fans. Alf Davis of Toronto, centre forward, led the victors' attack with two second-half goals. The other Ontario counter was booted by Jackie Butler of Hamilton on a penalty kick.

Jonkoping's lone goal was scored by B. Carlsson, outside right.

Ontario outplayed the Swedes except for the first few minutes of the second half.

Diamond Gauthier, long-driving professional from Montreal Municipal Golf Club, fired a record-smashing 65 at the Lachine Golf and Country Club at Montreal Saturday as he copped the $1,000 second annual Irving Open tournament. Par is 37-35—72 and the old course record was 68.

At Rio De Janeiro, England defeated Chile 2-0 Sunday in second-round play of the world soccer championships. Spain downed the United States 3-1 and Sweden edged Italy 3-2. In the opening game Saturday, Brazil scored a decisive 4-0 victory Mexico.

At Paris, Baron Guy de Rothschild's Vieux Manior pounded home two lengths ahead of a packed field Sunday to win the $60,000 Grand Prix de Paris, France's richest and most fashionable horse race. Vieux Manior's stablemate, Alizier, came in second. Count Edward de Cares Lacaduv ran third. The Rothschild entry paid 12 to 1.

At Seattle sloppy water and a forecast of increasing winds prompted weekend postponement of a world record attempt by Stanley S. Sayres' speedboat, the "Slo-Mo-Shun IV."

Noor Sets World Record in Beating Citation Saturday

San Francisco, June 26 (AP)—Noor, the invincible Irisher, is the new "wonder horse" of thoroughbred racing.

The five-year-old son of Nasrullah dispelled any doubt as to his greatness Saturday at Golden Gate Fields when he outran Citation for the fourth time in a row.

This was the most convincing because, for the first time, he conceded weight, instead of accepting it, from the kingpin of the Calumet farm. Noor carried 127 pounds to 126 for Citation and won going away by three lengths in the 1 1-4 mile $50,000 added Golden Gate Handicap. He set a world record of 1:58 1-5 lopping 1 3-5 seconds off the old time.

Two worlds' records within seven racing days give Noor undisputed membership in the equine hall of fame. Both times Noor hung decisions on Citation and both times Citation himself bettered the former world record

On June 17, the horse from the Emerald Isle set a world record 1:46 4-5 for 1 1-8 miles on the same track. He beat Citation by a neck.

The late Charles S. Howard of San Francisco bought Noor and his brother, Nathoo, for a reported $200,000. Nathoo hasn't run in the United States and is stabled at Hollywood Park, where Noor will race next.

When Noor made his initial appearance at Tanforan last fall he repeatedly lugged out. It was because he was accustomed to running clockwise as in England and many other countries. He had to learn to lean differently in the turns.

Now Noor has won five of his 12 starts in the U.S. for earnings of $205,690.

Jockey Johnny Longden, a former national champion and only one in the United States to pilot more than 3,000 winners, says:

"Noor is a champion. I never rode a horse that deserved that title more. I don't believe there is a living horse who can beat him."

Citation's trainer, H. A. (Jimmy) Jones was more succinct. After his favorite had lost No. 4 to the Irish-bred, he exclaimed:

"That Noor is a running so-and-so."

Batawa Shoemen Defeat Picton In Ninth Frame

Picton — Staging a ninth-inning rally which netted them four runs, Batawa defeated Picton Athletics 9-5 in a C.O.B.L. game here Saturday afternoon. All four winning runs were lucky ones for Batawa, two coming in when MacDonald threw wild over third and two more on fielder's choices at the home plate. Picton outhit the winners 13 to 12 but committed three costly errors to the winners one.

Nokes went the route on the mound for Batawa. He fanned three and walked two. Downs started for Picton but ran into trouble in the third when a walk was followed by a double, a strikeout, a single and a walk for three runs. Gerald Miller replaced him and after a force filled the bases, when Watson was hit by a pitched ball. A single scored two and the final out was a grounded third to first. Miller settled down and pitched nice ball. He fanned three and yielded 10 hits and walked none.

Dyer Ruled Out

Dyer was ruled out of the game, though not in action at the time, when he protested with the umpire that the Batawa hurler had balked. Fans were thoroughly aroused and it was the liveliest game from the crowd standpoint of the year. Batawa got four in the third and one in the sixth. Picton tied that up at the seventh, but Batawa added four in the 9th to win the game.

Batawa garnered four in the third when Rankin walked; Peacock doubles; Nokes fanned; Solmes singled to score Peacock; Carson walked; Bridgeman forced Carson at second; Watson was hit by a pitched ball, loading bases. Aquino singled to score two; Spencer grounded out.

Add One in Sixth

The added one in the sixth when Spencer, Rankin and Peacock singled. Rankin was nabbed at third, Spencer scoring when a long fly was dropped.

The four for Batawa in the ninth came when Solmes flied out, Carson singled and went to second on an error; Bridgeman and Watson singled. Watson was called safe on a close call at home plate. Aquino went to first on a fielder's choice, when MacDonald threw wild over third base and two runners scored. Spencer got a fielder's choice when the throw to home plate was knocked out of the catcher's hands after he had the runner cold. Rankin and Peacock were safe on fielder's choices which did not prove effective; Nokes flied out.

Picton's first run in the fourth came on doubles by Hayden and Perry and single by Platford, men being left on second and third. One in the fifth came on a double by Fitzpatrick and singles by Duetta and Carson. One in the sixth came with singles by Perry, Wardhaugh and MacDonald. Two in the seventh followed a walk to Duetta and a single by Hayden and an error.

Peacock headed the batters for the winners with a double and a single; Rankin had two singles; Carson two singles; Solmes, Bridgeman, Aquino, Spencer, Nokes, single, every man getting at least a hit. For Picton, Perry Fitzpatrick, MacDonald and Hayden each had a double and single; Carson two singles; Platford, Duetta, Wardhaugh, singles. All but the two pitchers gots hits.

Batawa—Solmes 2b; Carson lf; Bridgeman ss; Watson 1b; Aquino c; Spencer rf; Rankin 3b; Peacock cf; Nokes p.

Picton—Perry rf; Wardaugh 3b; Fitzpatrick ss; MacDonald 2b; Downes, Miller, p; Duetta lf; Carson c; Hayden cf; Platford 1b.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 26—(AP)—"Mr. Inside" reports: You can expect some action on the deal to sell Philadelphia Athletics "when they return home" (they open at Shibe Park in Philadelphia tomorrow night) although the sale probably won't be completed before the end of the season. . . . Tiberio Mitri will be celebrating his 24th birthday July 12 when he fights Jake Lamotta for the middleweight title. . . . Detroit's motor-city open golf tournament is a financial success just on the sale of program advertising. After taking in $48,000, chairman Harold Kelly cracked: "A lot of people were mad to be left out. I guess we'll have to print a supplementary program." . . . Hearing that Ben Hogan had asked golf writers to quit writing about his legs, Louisville's Tommy Fitzgerald suggested: "They'll probably start writing about Betty Grable's golf game now."

Silks And Sat On

In contrast to most jockeys, who serve a long apprenticeship before they don racing silks, Willie Downs got the costume first and then the job. . . Willie posed for a cover picture for a racing magazine and looked so much like a jockey that he was persuaded to try it. . . He learned the trade on a Maryland farm and now is a popular rider on the Maryland-Delaware-New Jersey circuit. . .

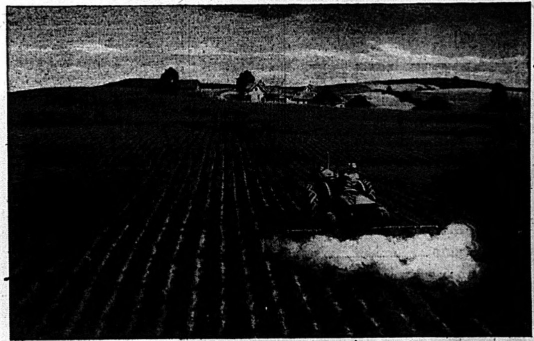
CANADA PRODUCES SEED POTATOES FOR ALL THE WORLD



As the world's chief source of supply for seed potatoes, Canada ships millions of quality certified seed potatoes each year to replenish the world crops of one of mankind's most essential foods.

Why Seagram's sells Canada first

This advertisement is an adaptation of one of a series created by The House of Seagram to tell the peoples of other lands about Canada and her various products. For the past two years this campaign has been appearing in newspapers and magazines printed in many languages and circulated throughout the world.

Our prosperity is based on our ability to sell our products to other countries. Every Canadian has a personal stake in foreign trade, for one out of every three dollars of Canada's national income results from our trade abroad. The more that the peoples of other countries know of the quality, variety and prestige of our products, the more likely they are to buy from us.

We feel that the horizon of industry does not terminate at the boundary line of its plants; it has a broader horizon, a farther view—this view embraces the entire Dominion. That is why The House of Seagram believes that it is in the interest of every Canadian manufacturer to help the sale of all Canadian products in foreign markets. It is in this spirit that these advertisements are being published throughout the world.

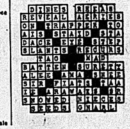
Answer to Saturday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a Satturday walk with pop, and we went passed Puds Simkins's house and Puds was at the frunt window, and I waved at him and he waved back kind of weak, and pop said, Is anything wrong with Puds? He's not sick, is he? he said.

No sir, he just has to stay in the house on account of his mother, I said, and pop said, What's a matter with his mother?

She's unreasonable, I said, and pop said, I beleeve I'd like to hear the whole story.

Well, after luntch us fellows started to go around to the empty lot for a game of ball, and we needed one more guy to make the sides even, and Puds was sitting on his frunt steps, so we asked him, I said, and pop said. It all sounds quite normal so far.

Yes sir, but the thing was, Puds's mother was mad at him for different reasons, so she had told him not to dare take a single step off the frunt steps, I said, and pop said, Oh, here's where the plot begins to thicken.

So us fellows started to think of different ways Puds could come with us without actually stepping off the steps, I said. Shorty Judge advised him to bump down to the sidewalk on his rear view, but Puds claimed it would be too mutch like using another part of his body to step with, so I advised him to fall off the side of the steps and us fellows would catch him, but Puds thawt it sounded too dangerous, so finally we all took a hold of him and picked him up and carried him off the steps, and when he got home again his mother said it was the werse excuse she ever heard and made him stay in the house. So that was being pritty unreasonable, wasn't it pop? I said.

Well, there may be 2 schools of thawt on the subject, but we'll let the case rest where you've left it, pop said.

Which he did.

"We are greatly disturbed," he said. "Our communications are broken and the northern forces are resuming their advance.

"They first were reported to have reached Uijongbu, but information just handed me is they still are about two kilometres—(about 1½ miles) north of Uijongbu. Our forces will do their utmost to protect the city."

Adds to Confusion

A company of guerrillas was reported to have slipped behind the southern forces and destroyed bridges and severed communication lines, adding to the confusion.

Sihn said Russian-supported northern artillery had made the south's 2nd division at Uijongbu helpless.

Suicide squads earlier had been reported to have knocked out invading Red tanks—some said to have Russians in the crews— in the drive to the capital. But Maj. Gen. Choi Byung Duk, Republican chief of staff, conceded the loss of Chunchon, railway terminal 60 miles northeast of Seoul.

An estimated 6,000 had been killed or wounded by this afternoon on both sides.

Seoul's airport was raided once.

An encounter was reported between a Russian Yak-3 and an American Mustang protecting United States nationals ordered evacuated.

(Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo prepared, among other war material, 10 Mustang fighter planes for immediate delivery to South Korean pilots in Japan.

Escort By Sea

(Other United States war material was to be escorted by sea and land patrols to the South Koreans, whose republic is backed by the United States and sponsored by the United Nations.)

The North Korean air force today made its first raid on this capital of the South Korean Republic. A single Yak-3 fighter dropped three bombs, killing six, and then attacked a United States fighter plane.

Ten eyewitnesses at the American embassy said one of the two Mustangs over the city drove off the Yak. But a United States military observer said the Mustang simply took evasive action and eluded its attackers.

To Protect Evacuation

The Mustang apparently was one sent here from Japan to protect the evacuation of the American women and children by sea.

John Muccio, United States Ambassador, in a radio speech predicted that the communists would be defeated. There were "favorable portents" which could not be disclosed because of "military security."

Choi estimated that 90 tanks had been thrown into the struggle by the communist northerners, whose over-all strength is estimated at 75,000 men.

The Korean army information director asserted that a regimental commander of a guerrilla force which landed on the east coast had surrendered with an undetermined number of men.

The guerrillas landed near Samchok, 40 miles south of the 38th parallel which divides the communist north from the south.

Choi said five landings were made on the east coast, but his armies in that area are fighting well and keeping the invaders in check.

Military observers said the fate of South Korea will be decided in the valley that leads down from the north to Seoul.

Intended As Invasion

This is the only fairly-level route to the south in this mountainous country.

(Premier Kim Il Sung of communist North Korea, in a broadcast today ordered his soldiers to fight on until the "military power" of democratic south Korea "is smashed."

His proclamation made it clear that the red north intends this as an invasion not a stronger-than-usual border raid. He reiterated the communist claim that the south had attacked first.)

South Korean officials charged that the invasion was instigated and supported by the Russians.

Defence Minister Sihn Sung Mo asserted that crews had been captured from 10 tanks and half of them were Russians. This could be an error in identification, however.

Rush Up Reserves

After the surprise of the first attack, the south swung swiftly into action and rushed reserves to the border.

Northern forces gained from two to 12 miles yesterday in an 11-pronged assault on the boundary separating north and south Korea.

There was an exception to this—and it was a fluke. Aware that Ongjin Peninsula was indefensible, government troops showed only moderate resistance yesterday. Evacuation of some units preceeded by water but one unit south to escape by land.

It slipped eastward around the northern forces and suddenly discovered itself at Haeju, a city of 200,000 just above the 38th parallel.

Haeju's defenders had joined the offensive against the south and the "lost battalion" captured the north Korean city. It still held it today.

SUSPECT TO FACE

West was taken before a Justice of the Peace at the county courthouse Sunday and remanded until Thursday. He showed no emotion during the brief hearing.

About to Call off Hunt

West's capture came when police were about to call a halt to a four-day search during which dozens of police officers and armed farmers scoured the tangled swampland of Southwestern Ontario's tobacco-growing district. Airplanes, walkie talkies and a bloodhound had been used to no avail.

Then Constable Gerald Moody, 27, and Graham Hagarty, who lives near here, spotted West and shot at him as he dashed wildly in circles through a tangled glade. They saw the man dart into a deserted shack. He offered no resistance.

Five hours before West's capture, funeral services were held for Arthur Lierman who, with William Goddyn, was shot down by Sten-gun fire while chasing the man who robbed the Langton bank. The victims were Langton area residents.

FORMER CONVICT

Eighteen days later—June 17—Rossler was picked up by a Montana sheriff near Whitetail, south of the Saskatchewan border. He waived extradition and was transferred to Regina where RCMP officers said he admitted orally to shooting Gamman.

In Boastful Humor

The husky, bald-headed suspect made the 1,800 mile trip here in leg irons. Detective Lieut. Russell Senacal said he was in good "and boastful" humor all the way.

"Rossler said he took a taxi near the scene of the shooting and took a round about trip to give him a chance to think and collect his wits," Senacal told reporters.

"Rossler doesn't remember exactly how and where he stopped after getting into Beauharnois, Que., but by hopping freights, hitchhiking and walking, he got as far as Moose Jaw, Sask."

He was spotted there in the freight yards by a Canadian Pacific Railway policeman and fled across the border to Montana, Senecal said.

Senecal added that Rossler had told police he was a "good loser," that he had won and lost and was ready to take his medicine.

THREE KILLED

The dead include a former Benton Harbor mayor, Merwyn Stouck, and Alvin J. Boyd, 55, the city's police chief.

The bow of the freighter, the Ravnefjll, bit through the light superstructure of the Great Lakes queen. It crumpled a 40-foot swath 10 feet deep into the upper decks of the pleasure ship.

The passengers, many of them still asleep, were tossed from their low bunks. A few were dumped into the water as the two ships edged apart again.

No Panic Aboard

There as "no panic, no pandemonium," when the freighter hit, one passenger reported.

A lifeboat was lowered and crew members sifted through the wreckage that spread over an area as big as a city block.

From the water they took the body of Boyd and Stouck, who died a short time later.

Thomas Spooner, 45, in the water with Stouck, said the lifeboat crew "had to pull the wreckage off us with pike poles before they could lift us into the boat." He is in critical condition

The body of Louis Pertitucci, about 40, South Bend, Ind., frozen foods executive, was removed from the wreckage about 10 hours later. Still missing is Fred Skelley, Benton Harbor auto dealer.

Other injured include Tom Dewhirst, 48, son of the late Judge H. T. Dewhirst, one-time head of the House of David; and Richard Lybrook, 57, auto dealer.

TRYGVE LIE CONFIRMS RESIGNATION

ACHESON: LET TRYGVE LIE SPEAK BEFORE CONGRESS

Angered by direct question as to whether he is or ever has been a communist, Trygve Lie has confirmed his decision to refrain from running again as candidate for secretary-general of the United Nations. He refused to say whether or not he was a communist, told newsmen questioning him at Lake Success, N.Y., to look at his record. Support for his U.N. policies comes from picketers, right, who paraded in front of Harvard University for the benefit of U. S. Secretary of State Acheson on visit there. — Central Press Canadian.

20-Year-Old First to Put Rifle on Fugitive

Simcoe, Ont., June 26 (CP)—Dozens of policemen were all around—but it was the luck of 20-year-old Graham Hagarty of nearby Vienna to be the first to put his rifle on 37-year-old Frank West, who was arrested late Saturday in the double slaying that followed the Langton bank robbery last Wednesday.

It came at the climax of the big manhunt as the fugitive was trapped in bushland near Straffordville.

Flushed from the bush by closing-in posses, West ran across a small clearing into an abandoned hut.

Carrying a .32 calibre rifle, Hagarty was on the edge of the clearing at the time. He raced to the front of the doorless hut and shouted "come out or I'll shoot." Right behind him were two companions, Carmen Buchanan and Thomas Neville, armed with .22 calibre rifles.

Hagarty said that as the haggard looking suspect, unarmed appeared in the doorway, Provincial Constable Gerry Moodie ran up and took charge of things and slapped handcuffs on the unresisting man.

Kingston Trims Belleville 8-3 In Soccer Game

In an Eastern Ontario Football League game played at the Fair Grounds Saturday, Kingston United, the league leaders, lived up to their reputation when they defeated Belleville United by 8 goals to three.

The Kingston team proved to be a smart football team and were faster on the ball than the homesters. Exceptionally clever at positional play the visitors pressed an offensive from start to finish.

Gillespie opened the scoring for Kingston in the first five minutes of play and a Belleville player made it 2-0 when he accidently put the ball in his own goal. Gemmel made it 2-1 but Gargarro, Poulton and Neidballa all tallied for Kingston in the first half to make the score 5-1

Russell added another for the visitors in the second half with Holroyd and Gemmel counting for Belleville. Gargarro and Gillespie scored Kingston's final brace of tallies.

THE CAMEO

By Virginia Teale

Perched on the platform of a tall stepladder, Hagar Blair found his eyes level with the long narrow window near the ceiling of her storeroom. As she gazed outward, her strong, tanned fingers fumbled with a useless pencil, passing the ruptured point idly across the face of the inventory pad propped on her knees.

She had called for extra pencils and presumed that Stephanie, her young assistant in the Three Wishes Gift Shop, was getting them. "From Timbuktu, probably," she muttered.

While waiting for the boat to land, one would of course, look out the window and enjoy the view. That was the nice thing about Dolorosa — wherever you looked, you saw something worth looking at. The little town was spread out in bright patches over rolling terrain—its backdrop, the hills in October colors; its foreground, the Pacific Ocean.

So it was that Hagar, a disciple of Rodin, an actolyte of Malvina Hoffman, was engaged in the bothersome process of listing and storing away summer stock in the rear of her small shop.

She thought about Stephanie! The girl was gentle, beautiful and intelligent, but, somehow, unfathomable. Occasionally, she reminded Hagar of a cat, a Siamese cat, because of her coloring and lithe strong body.

Not only did she not fathom the girl, Hagar, didn't even know where she came from, or exactly why. Stephanie had seemed to spring up all of a sudden like a wild mushroom. She had nothing to say about herself, except that she was a writer and that she had come to Dolorosa to work and write.

Hagar had been pleased at the prospect of helping a struggling young writer, she had pictured consultations late coffee and comraderie, but the girl hadn't entered into the spirit of the thing. She never brought her writings to Hagar for advice or criticism, she was downright secretive about her writings.

Hagar's thoughts came whirling back to the half-finished inventory.

"Great graven gods! Are you getting those pencils, Stephanie?"

Stephanie glided in, her walk much swifter than usual, her crystal-blue eyes much wider. Her slender hands with their short, pale nails were clasped tightly in front of her—and she carried no pencils!

Hagar promptly started down the stepladded with jerky movements of her bony, slack-clad legs

Stephanie had put a finger across her lips. "He's out there" she whispered, "the man Nell O'Neill's always with!"

"Who?"

"That Martin Falter!"

Hagar frowned. "So what? So it's Martin Falter," she whispered back. "He's been in here before—you've seen him before. Don't tell me you've fallen for that fur-trimmed old renegade!"

She brushed past Stephanie and went out to confront the visitor. She rammed her fists into her pockets as she advanced to where Falter stood, he head bent over the cabinet containing her collection of cameos.

They faced each other in the manner that had become typical of their encounters— wordless, and with the uncompromising calculation of a pair of unacqainted dogs.

Hagar stood, inwardly raging, while Falter's narrowed eyes swept over her figure. Helplessly, she sensed what he was totting up: Thin body, lean chest— mado even leaner by her black, pullover jersey—shapeless hips in shapeless black sacks, and the whole composition topped by her uncontrollable gray hair.

"Well, all right!" she burst out. "So I look like an up-ended floor mop! What do you want?"

Her eyes fastened disdainfully on the black curling hair revealed by his open collar! The man was so perition vain about his virility that he wouldn't even button his clothes against the wind! Grudgingly, her sculptor's eye went over his wide shoulders flat stomach and slim hips. Not bad for his age—he must be 46 or so.

He gave her what he probably thought of as a charming smile:

"You'll be more cordial, Hagar, when I tell you why I've come."

He turned and let his glance range through the cameo cabinet: "Nice collection. From what I hear in the breeze, though there is much more of it, much rarer items. Right?"

"Miss Blair has cameos from all over the world."

Hagar and Falter glanced at Stephanie who suddenly had arrived beside them. Hagar appeared annoyed; Falter, detached and contemplative.

"This one," the girl continued, pointing out a carnelian, "came from Florence. It has an unusual double engraving. If you'll look closely—"

Hagar jerked, making a kind of empty grab in Stephanie's direction: "Oh, pot! Stop with that summertime spiel, girl. Falter's not interested in cameos!"

Falter grinned and in a leisurely way took a cigaret from a pigskin case and lighted it. He reached into his jacket pocket and brought out a silver box about four inches across its gently mounded top. With an elaborate gesture, he placed it on the glass surface of the cabinet and stepped to one side.

Hagar strode over picked it up and opened it:

"Hey!" she couldn't control her amazement and delight. "Great lords of creation, man! Where did you get hold of this?"

Martin Falter picked a small shred of tobbaco from the end of his tongue:

"I thought it would give you a jolt. Even the great unwashed like me have heard of the extent of your collection. But I still say you don't own anything to compare with this."

Hagar angrily faced his triumphant smirk: "I still want to know where you got this. Steal it?"

She watched Falter's grin fade while his pale eyes turned the gray metallic color of a dead fish.

"I can forgive that remark," he told her, "because I realize it would be entirely possible for you to steal—if the loot were a rare cameo like this. But, sorry to disappoint you, I came by the pin honestly. For, well, let's say: services rendered.",

There was a shattering crash as something hit the floor. Hagar spun around and saw Stephanie staring down at a few bright-colored fragments that once had been a dela Robbia vase. One of the girl's hands was poised in mid-air over the silver box on the cabinet.

Hagar clasped her hands prayerfully and looked up at the ceiling, then turned an exasperated face to Stephanie:

"You realize, my girl, what that thing cost us?"

Stephanie bent miserably to gather the pieces: "I was dusting it—I don't know —it fell," she murmured. "I'll pay for it, Hagar. I'm sorry."

Hagar flapped both hands from the wrists: "Oh, don't look so woebegone! We'll work it out later."

She turned back to Falter: "Now listen: You probably know how much this cameo is worth. I don't doubt that you had it valued before you came loping in here with it. Also I suppose you're going to quote me some astronomical price just because I'm a collector."

He shrugged and hitched one knee over the edge of a counter: "You should be grateful that I'm giving you first chance at it. As a matter of fact, my dear Hagar, I'm beginning to wonder if you realize what this little item is? Maybe you don't know its history.

"Which you do, I suppose?"

Falter lifted the pin from its box and displayed it in the palm of one hand.

Hagar's chocolate-colored eyes avidly registered each detail: the gentle rose-red glow of the carnelian with the exquisite carving of the weeping woman; the linned gold frame outlining the stone, set with small diamonds and extending at the outer edges into crown-like points which were topped with tiny pearls.

"Well," began Falter, "originally, this pin was designed for Isabella d'Este by an Italian craftsman. Then it was supposed to have fallen into the possession of Lucrezia Borgia during all that inter-family political and amorous intrigue which was taking place at that time."

Hagar shook her head in impatient denial: "You're giving the wrong spiel. It stayed in the possession of the d'Este family for almost a century. I don't know why people get so almighty fascinated with the Borgias that they have to ring them in on any and everything that took place in the 15th century. If Lucrecia Borgia actually owned every work of art and jewel that legend gives her, she'd have had to rope off the whole city of Rome to corral the stuff."

Martin Falter eyed her narrowly. "So you do know something about this pin?"

"Your common sense should tell you that any collector worth his salt would recognize a piece like that one. The only thing I don't know about it is how you happen to have it."

"Suspicion is unbecoming even to attractive women, my dear Hagar!" He bowed as she jerked indignantly. "I'll say once again that I came by it honestly. And now, the main point: I have it and you want it. I happen to know that you have sufficient means to meet my price, provided your well-known — ah — prudence in money matters doesn't overcome your collector's mania."

Hagar stood tense, her eyes yearning. One fist was pressed tightly up under her nose, the pressure warping her angular face into gargoyle outlines.

Discuss Moon As Dump Ground For A-Waste

London, June 26 (Reuters) — Scientists at Britain's atomic research station at Harwell, Berkshire, have discussed the idea of using the moon as a dumping ground for lethal radio-active waste materials, the Sunday Chronicle reports.

The newspaper says the volume of this waste is at present small, but in time may become a major problem.

"When the time arrives it is expected that there will have been considerable progress in the development of space rockets," the paper says.

"The idea is to pack a lead-cased rocket with some of the more highly active waste and fire it to the moon."

Fire-Tower Operator Feared Drowned, Alive

Temagami, June 26—(CP)— A man whom police thought had drowned turned up in Kirkland Lake Sunday and authorities called in five boats off Lake Temagami that had been used in dragging operations in an attempt to locate the body.

Police said today details were scant but Arthur Thomas Mann, 28, of Fort William turned up in Kirkland Lake where he had hitch-hiked Thursday after upsetting his canoe and walking ashore.

The upset canoe, found floating between Foresty Island and the dock her Friday led forestry officials and police to presume Mann had drowned.

A fire-tower operator, Mann had sleeping quarters on the island a few hundred yards out in the lake.

SUPERFICIAL WOUNDS

What Income Will You Need When You Retire?

When the time comes to retire you will still need an income . . . but how much will you need? If you have to reduce your standard of living too steeply, your declining years are unlikely to be years of comfort.

The wise thing is to review your probable needs while it is still possible to make provision. Life insurance can be arranged to provide as much guaranteed monthly income as you consider necessary.

Individual needs differ — some men must provide their entire retirement income from their private savings — others need only to supplement existing retirement benefits. Manufacturers Life representatives are trained to help you plan the income required in your particular case.

Truman Orders Planes, Ships Aid S. Korea

U.S. Fleet Ordered Ready to Prevent Attack on Formosa

President Steps up Aid To Philippines, Indo-China

Washington, June 27 — (AP) — President Truman today ordered United States planes and warships to the aid of South Korean forces. He laid down a policy of standing firm against communist aggression in the far Pacific.

As a part of the broader policy, Truman directed that the U. S. Seventh Fleet be prepared to intervene to prevent any communist attack on Formosa, the island refuge of the Chinese Nationalist government.

At the same time, he asked that Chiang Kai Shek, head of the Chinese Nationalists, cease attacks on the mainland as a contribution toward the pacification of the whole area.

He also announced he is stepping up aid to the Philippines and Indo-China.

Reds will Use Armed Invasion

Truman announced his actions in a statement which declared:

"The attack upon Korea makes it plain beyond all doubt that communism has passed beyond the use of subversion to conquer independent nations and will now use armed invasion and war."

It was learned that Truman's decisions were reached at a high policy meeting at the White House last night.

Before announcing them in a statement today, he called both Democratic and Republican Congressional leaders to the White House to review them and explain the background.

The United States actions were taken under the United Nations resolution which condemned the communist invasion of Korea and asked all members of the U. N. to lend their support to carrying out the U. N. declaration for a halt to the fighting.

The next big question is what will be Russia's reaction.

The hope of American officials is that the Soviets will refrain from any direct aid to the North Korean forces and permit the fighting there to be ended.

Even before Truman's announcement that he was sending air cover to the South Koreans, there had been reports from informed Tokyo sources that American bombers would hit towns held by the communists south of the 38th parallel — the dividing line between South and North Korea.

86,100 JOBLESS LOPPED OFF LIST IN FOUR WEEKS

Ottawa, June 27 — (CP)—Increased activity in the agriculture, construction and transportation industries lopped 86,100 jobless off Canadian unemployed lists during the four weeks ended June 15.

In a periodic report of Canada's employment situation, the Labor Department reported Monday that at June 15 the number of job seekers registered with National Employment Service offices across the country was 220,400 compared with 306,500 at May 18.

Although the June 15 figure was 74,000 above the 146,400 reported out of work on the corresponding date of 1949, the department said some farmers, particularly in Quebec, Ontario and the prairies, were having difficulty obtaining experienced farm workers.

Some who had been available earlier for farm work now were engaged in manufacturing industries where the number employed continued to increase.

This was the unemployment picture in the six labor regions across Canada at June 15, with May 18 figures in brackets:

Newfoundland, 19,400 (21,600); Maritimes, 27,700 (40,900); Quebec, 68,100 (103,600); Ontario 49,300 (63,800); Prairies, 30,800 (44,400); Pacific, 25,100 (32,200).

Held to High Level

The increased United States demand for pulp and paper products was holding employment in that industry to a high level with more workers being hired to process the logs now coming down the rivers in the spring drive. Employment in British Columbia and Maritimes sawmills was increasing.

Automobile plants, primary iron and steel plants and those producing electrical equipment were all operating close to capacity.

Construction and agriculture were largely responsible for reducing the jobless from 63,800 to 49,300 in Ontario. The automobile industry was operating close to capacity, with feeder plants at full production. Radio manufacturing plants were busy making television receivers. Most heavy manufacturing industries maintained high-level production, though part-time work continued in a few light industries such as textiles and leather goods.

Breakdown of unemployment in major Ontario cities at June 15 with May 18 figures in brackets:

TEMPERATURES

Toronto, June 27 — Synopsis: Cool air invaded Ontario Monday and temperatures early this morning ranged from the mid 50s in the lower lakes to mid 40s in the north. Cloudy skies in central and northern regions will hold today's temperatures in the 60s, but under the influence of a strong June sun temperatures in southern regions will climb to mid 70.

Wednesday will be warmer in all regions with afternoon temperatures near their seasonal normal. A new disturbance moving eastward across the prairies will bring scattered thundershowers to the extreme northwestern Ontario Wednesday afternoon and evening. Elsewhere skies will be clear.

ESTIMATES GIVEN QUICK PASSAGE BY PARLIAMENT

House Told Korean War Creating Grave Situation

Ottawa, June 27 — (CP) The Commons yesterday quickly passed a $425,000,000 defence budget on the heels of official statements that the outbreak of a communist-inspired war in Korea has created a "very grave" military situation.

Adoption capped a brisk three-hour debate in which opposition members expressed concern over the Korean development. Defence Minister Claxton said the situation may force him to ask Parliament for greater outlays and External Affairs Minister Pearson termed it an act of "unprovoked aggression."

Mr. Claxton made these announcements:

1. If the Korean picture continues to "look serious," the navy may delay sending a six - ship squadron into European waters for exercises in August with the Royal Navy.

2. The RCAF will start early in 1951 to send fighter squadrons to Britain and possibly later to Europe for training. They will go overseas on a rotation basis, each for a few months.

3. Canada and the United States have decided to drop peacetime operation of a chain of long-range radio navigation stations in the Arctic because of poor radio conditions.

Mr. Pearson said the Korean attack, despite its severity, had not changed the government's opinion that the time was not yet ripe for a Pacific pact. This also was the opinion of the United States, the United Kingdom and India.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, suggested that Soviet aid and direction was behind the Korean aggression.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, asked Mr. Claxton to say how much money he needs for adequate defence of Canada and pledged his party to support the minister.

Mr. Claxton said that if another $200,000,000 were available a large part of it would go into equipment and the acceleration of aircraft production and shipbuilding. But the present budget, a record one was what the government felt represented a fair contribution by Canada to Atlantic-Pact security.

Defence estimates adopted, the chamber turned to trade department appropriations. Trade Minister Howe reported that subsidies paid to help the steel industry convert to peacetime operation will end this year.

Alexander Says Hitler's Stand In Italy Biggest Nazi Error

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 27—(CP)—Hitlers decision late in 1943 to make a stand south of Rome, is described by Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, former allied commander in the Mediterranean, as the major error of the Italian campaign in the Second World War.

Britain's master strategist reached this conclusion long ago, but his views have just been made public with the release of his official report in the London Gazette.

In a stirring account of the so-called "holding attack" in Italy, the present governor-general of Canada, tells of the victorious march of his troops from the first landing at Calabria in September 1943, to the final annihilation of the German forces in May 1945.

During this period he led his armies, including the Canadian formations and units representing 25 other nationalities, on four successful assault landings and three full-scale offensives. Despite handicaps of limited reserves, shortage of ammunition and equipment, the allies forced back a retreating enemy for more than 1,100 miles in treacherous terrain and against fierce resistance.

Viscount Alexander pays glowing tribute to the efficiency and courage of his officers and men in carrying through to a successful conclusion the two-pronged directive of administering a knock-out blow to Italy and in tying up the maximum number of German divisions. In the main his praise is generalized, but of the Moro River crossing in December 1943, and the drive against Ortona he has this to say about the Canadians, leading the attack:

"For over a week the Canadians were engaged in a most violent and-to-hand struggle. Street fighting, especially in a town of masonry houses, calls for the greatest skill and courage as Stalingrad had shown. The Canadians came triumphantly out of

U.S. MOVES SUPPLIES TO SOUTH KOREA AS U.N. CONDEMNS NORTH FOR AGGRESSION

Border warfare between North and South Korea has flared into open conflict with an estimated 60,000 North Russian-armed troops advancing southward. U.S.-trained, these South Korean troops will receive planes, tanks and guns according to Washington reports. — Central Press Canadian.

Americans Taken From Korea Under Fighter Escort

By O. H. P. KING

Ita Uki Airbase, Kyushu, Japan, June 27—(AP)— Seoul's Kimpo airfield was evacuated today by United States personnel.

Before leaving there this forenoon I made repeated telephone cals without result to the residence of President Syngman Rhee of the South Korea Republic.

Two Korean airfields are being employed by the American evacuation operation. Some 563 persons are being flown out by American military transports, shielded by fighter planes.

One U.S fighter shot down a Russian-built plane that interfered with the evacuation, the largest since the Berlin Airlift.

There was no way when I left to obtain an accurate view of the situation in the Korean war. All communications within the country are down.

Not All Leaving

Not all of the Americans are leaving. About 330 military advisers to the Korean government are driving south planning to keep in contact along the way with the South Korean army.

American Ambassador John J. Muccio was reported at the last minute to have been persuaded to abandon his intention of remaining in Korea.

Two of 10 U.S. fighter planes given the South Koreans entered hostilities today and shot down two North Korean fighters.

The action occurred about 9 a.m. at Kimpo airfield near Seoul.

The South Korean F-51 Mustangs engaged the Russian-made Yak fighters in two separate dogfights. One North Korean pilot crashed with his ship and was killed.

The other bailed out. Eyewitnesses said he was shot to death as he reached for a pistol strapped to his leg.

One Korean news agency dispatch said the South Koreans now had air supremacy. It added that some of the new planes were being used against North Korean armor in the northeast battle front.

DRIVE ON DRINKING BY MINORS

Kitchener, June 27—(CP)—Police are launching a drive against drinking by minors, Chief Constable John Patrick said today.

Special target are persons supplying liquor to persons under age. There is some indication minors have been served at beverage rooms of some hotels, he said.

A case likely to result in charges involves five teenagers, including two girls. Police said the quintet had been drinking at a wiener roast.

28 Are Killed In Plane Crash In Australia

Perth, Australia, June 27 (AP) — Twenty-eight persons including two infants died last night in the crash of an Australian National Airways Skymaster 50 miles from Perth. It was West Australia's worst air disaster.

The sole survivor — Edgar W. Forward, 67-year-old Australian engineer — was found dazed and badly burned an hour after the crash. The wreckage of the plane still blazed three hours after it plunged into dense bush country.

Quintuplets Born To Negro Mother In New Orleans

New Orleans, June 27 — A 28-year-old Negro mother gave birth to quintuplets today—three boys and two girls—and one of the boys died shortly after birth.

Dr. Alvin Wexler, one of the attending physicians, said that he "wouldn't be too optimistic" about the survival of the other children.

Hospital records identified the mother as Alberta Allen of Whitecastle, La., about 80 miles north of New Orleans. The records made no mention of the father.

The quints were born at Charity Hospital between 8.15 a.m., CDT, and 9 a.m. at intervals of about 10 minutes.

The babies ranged in weight from $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$ pounds each.

They were three months premature. When the mother entered hospital yesterday her pregnancy was diagnosed as triplets.

The mother has three other children, between three and five years old.

Girl is Held For Vagrancy

Brantford, June 27 — (CP) — Hunt for a "mystery girl," whom police at first believed to be Mabel Crumback, ended last night with the arrest of a young woman on a vagrancy charge.

Provincial Police said the girl was not Miss Crumback, who has been missing from her York township home since May 23.

The identity of the girl was not revealed.

Police said there was "no doubt" she was the same woman who led police, farmers and reserve-army men, on a three-day hunt after she was spotted by a Mount Pleasant farmer June 12

TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN FARM HOME

Match is Dropped In Pool of Kerosene

Kirkland Lake, June 27—(CP)—Two children were burned to death in their log farm home at nearby Charlton when a match was dropped into a pool of kerosene after it spilled from a lamp. The dead are Stanley Aldred, three, and his sister, Diane, five, children of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Aldred.

Another child, Delbert, 13, who was left in charge of his eight brothers, and sisters while his parents attended a theatre at Englehart, 10 miles from Charlton, said he was attempting to light the lamp when the match fell and ignited the fuel.

Flames immediately spread to the ceiling and efforts of neighbors to battle the blaze were hopeless.

Elaine, eight, is credited with carrying her eight-months-old sister, Linda, to safety as flames neared her crib.

Stocks Race Down On Truman Aid Announcement

New York June 27 (AP)—The stock market raced downward at high speed today in the wake of President Truman's sweeping aid to Asia policy announcement.

Selling orders came in one of the heaviest streams in years. Prices plunged $1 to an extreme of $7 a share on top of yesterday's declines running to $7 a share, representing extreme nervousness over Korean hostilities.

Ticker tape lagged as much as 21 minutes in reporting prices. Up to noon alone sales totalled 1,370,000 shares.

The selling attack came on the heels of a morning rally which lifted favored issues as much as $3 a share.

UK Will Support UN Resolution For Aid to Korea

London, June 27 (Reuters) -- Prime Minister Attlee announced in the House of Commons tonight that the British representative would support a resolution calling for aid to Southern Korea, to be introduced in the U.N. Security Council by the United States.

Attlee said he understood the United States resolution would recommend that members of the United Nations furnish such assistance to the Republic of Korea as may be necessary to repel armed attack.

His announcement was cheered

Four North Korean Planes Shot Down by American-Manned Fighters

Tokyo, June 27 — (AP) — American-manned fighters today shot down four north Korean planes attempting to disrupt the evacuation of Americans from South Korea, it was learned tonight

There was no official announcement of the action from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters here. Reports gathered by correspondents at Ita Uki airbase in southern Japan, terminus of the air lift bore out the figures.

MacArthur's headquarters announced earlier that one American fighter had shot down a Russian-built North Korean plane attempting to interfere with the air lift at Kimpo field outside of Seoul.

AP correspondent O. H. P. King who flew to Japan from Seoul during the day, reported two North Korean planes were downed by South Korean piloted Mustang fighters at Kimpo.

That would make a total of six North Korean planes lost in combat during the day.

Some Ita Uki reports placed the number shot down by South Korean and American pilots during the evacuation at eight planes.

Presumed Entire Korean Cabinet Has Left Seoul

Sources Say Strategic Town Of Uijongbu Recaptured

Tokyo, June 28—(Wednesday) — (AP) — United States planes and warships were dispatched today to the aid of South Korea.

President Truman, issuing the orders in Washington, said communism has shown it now will use arms instead of subversion to conquer independent countries. He declared the U.S. assistance is in line with United Nations action.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters here reported American fighters have already shot down four communist-manned North Korean planes.

The first task of the U.S. planes was said to be to bomb all towns captured by North Korean troops. The South Koreans were reported by some sources to have hurled back the communist invaders to a point 20 miles from Seoul, the capital.

Early today a Seoul broadcast quoted President Syngman Rhee as announcing that "General Church" has been named to command a "joint defence operation" and that Gen. MacArthur has promised the South Koreans bombers and anti-tank guns.

Might be U.S. Commander

The Gen. Church referred to was apparently Brig.-Gen. John H. Church, listed at occupation headquarters as commander of the Ryukus (Okinawa) military government.

There was no immediate confirmation at headquarters of such an appointment. The Seoul broadcast was heard by two different agencies in Tokyo and was in line with the trend of the Korean crisis.

MacArthur's summary of the fast-breaking Korean situation said that, contrary to previous reports, the American embassy and military advisory staffs had not left Seoul. It said the South Korean government also appeared not to have left and, "tanks reported in the suburbs of Seoul appeared to have been isolated forays."

The South Koreans ground forces, after having been rocked back on their heels, also appeared to have made a marked improvement.

Korean sources said the defenders in a furious counterattack had recaptured strategic Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul. This was partly confirmed by two Korean newspaper men in direct telephone conversations with Tokyo.

The two — Bill Shinn, Associated Press Korean reporter, and Sol Kook Wan, managing editor of the Korean Pacific Press, said the entire South Korean cabinet — presumably including President Syngman Rhee—had evacuated the city despite continued contrary government claims.

Report Denied

(Reuters News Agency meanwhile reported that President Rhee told his minister in Tokyo in a radio - telephone conversation that the South Korean government still was in Seoul and his troops had pushed the invaders back 12 miles from the city.)

Shinn and Sol Kook Wan said one North Korean fighter plane was shot down by United States-made fighters during a bombing raid on Seoul during the afternoon.

Three newly - acquired American Mustang fighters challenged the raiders — eight in number.

This is the third North Korean fighter claimed by Korean pilots of the Mustangs which Gen. Douglas MacArthur turned over to the South Korean government on orders from Washington.

The Korean newspaper man talked from the Chosen Hotel in the centre of Seoul.

Long Battleline

They said the battle line this afternoon stretched from Munsan, about 25 miles northwest of Seoul, to Tong Du Chan, about 23 miles due north, to Pochan on the east.

FLOW OF CANADIAN GOODS INTO U.S. AT ALL-TIME HIGH

Ottawa, June 27 (CP) — The flow of Canadian made goods into the United States reached an all-time high during May to boost the Dominion's exports to $287,000,000—the highest monthly total in six months.

More than half the month's total was made up of exports across the border, the Bureau of Statistics reported Monday. The record shipments of $175,290,000 worth of goods more than offset lower sales to the United Kingdom, the Union of South Africa and most European countries.

The over-all May export figures of $287,000,000 compared with $205,500,000 in exports the previous month and $272,900,000 in the corresponding months last year.

The month's gains, however, failed to offset earlier losses this year. In the first five months this year exports totalled $1,141,402,000 compared with $1,169,552,000 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Seven of the nine main commodity groups played a part in boosting may shipments to the United States 45 percent above the $121,199,000 sold across the border in May 1949. In the first five months of 1950 exports to the U.S. climbed 26 percent to $727,090,000 from $577,044,000.

Wood Makes Biggest Gain

The biggest gain was recorded in the wood and paper group which soared to $83,425,000 — a gain of $26,894,000 from the May 1949 figure of $56,531,000. Non-ferrous metals jumped to $24,006,000 from $17,453,000; agriculture and vegetable products to $20,824 000 from $12,073,000; animals and animal products to $19,847,000 from $13,322,000; non-metallic minerals to $15,917,000 from $3,209,000; and chemicals to $5,376,000 from $3,904,000.

Exports to the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries continued to fall. On the United Kingdom market, Canadian exports sold only $43,693,000 worth of goods compared with $72,403,000 a year earlier. In the five month period sales dropped from $274,887,000 to $153,551,000. All commodity groups played a part in the decline except non-metallic minerals.

Grand Master Of Masonic Lodge To Lay Stone

Grand Master of Grand Lodge A.F. and A.M. of Canada, J. F. Maher, of Toronto, will lay the corner stone Wednesday afternoon for the new Masonic Temple now under construction on Foster Avenue. The Grand Master with several of his officials of Grand Lodge will be in the city for the occasion.

The visit of the Grand Master to the city will be of special interest to Masons in the Bay of Quinte district as he spent several years of his early life in Picton.

He was born in Toronto but while still an infant he moved with his parents to Picton where he spent his boyhood and received his education in the Picton public and high schools. While still a young man he returned to Toronto where he entered the manufacturing field and today is president and general manager of the company which bears his name.

Although he no longer calls Picton his home, the Grand Master has not forgotten his boyhood friends nor the beauties of Prince Edward county where in his own words "the grass is greener and the skies are bluer."

It is expected that a great many Masons from Prince Edward county, as well as from other parts of the Belleville district, will turn out Wednesday to see the Grand Master officially lay the corner stone of the new Masonic Temple.

Counterfeit Bill Put to Good Use by Cafe

If you have a counterfeit $10 bill in your possession, don't try to pass it at the Paragon Cafe, because the boys there have learned a lesson.

A little while ago, one of the employees was given his pay from the safe, and when he went to the bank to deposit it, a $10 bill was turned back as counterfeit. So now it sits by the till, where it can be compared with any other ten that crosses the counter.

The phony bill has a rougher surface than a real one has, and its markings can be rubbed off. It doesn't have any of those little green dots called planchettes that the government bills have imbedded in them. The color of the bill is such that you can't tell it from the real thing unless you put a good bill beside it. Then it appears faded, with a lighter impression.

That rough surface doesn't shed dirt like the good bills, either. On this one, the dirt has clung to the fold where it has been doubled over in someone's wallet. It looks pretty shoddy up against a good bill, but if you don't look closely, it seems all right.

So don't be miffed if the boys look twice at that bill you tender the next time.

DISCUSS STREET RAFFLES

St. Catharines, Ont., June 27—(CP) — City council discussed possible action to curb street raffles of automobiles last night and finally decided something should be done about it— by next year's council.

Commenting on the current situation, in which five organizations are raffling cars on the main street, Alderman Ed Moir said the public would decide the issue, through "the old law of supply and demand."

Obituary

JOHN CHESTER SILLS
(West Huntingdon)

West Huntingdon— Following an illness of lengthy duration, John Chester Sills, a native of Huntingdon township and prominent in the life of that community died at his home late Monday evening. Mr. Sills was a veteran of the First World War and took an active interest in Veterans' affairs after the cessation of hostilities in 1919.

Picture Postcards of Ancient Vintage, Depicting Scenes Around City, Seen in Racks

Belleville is a lush, brilliantly colored ghost town with a few 1926 model automobiles parked in front of the Quinte Hotel. The people, who are nowhere to be seen on the streets, are all boating on the Bay wearing Bowler hats and long camisole dresses.

That is the picture that tourists send back to their friends when they stop long enough to buy a postcard at any one of a dozen Front Street outlets.

Some of the postcards are so old that a brilliantly bedecked castoff from the Mississippi pleasure boat system, called the Alexandra, is depicted as steaming up the Bay in a gay holiday outing. The Alexandra, which retired as an old tub forty years ago, never looked as good as it does in the postcards.

Keeping the Alexandra company are a host of delightful pleasure boats with candy-striped awnings and long-skirted passengers in picture hats. This touching little scene is one of the harbor. Victoria Park is above water in another one and the lawn is well manicured.

Pictures of city buildings of course are ageless, although some of the negatives seem to be getting a little wrinkled in their youth. The court house peers dimly from one picture through what looks like a dense fog. All the churches in town are available on post cards. Major repairs in the past twenty five years have not been recorded, so the postcards make it ideal for one to see what everything was like in the long ago.

The quickest way to see the Belleville Collegiate Institute with a lawn for a campus, is not to dash up to the school on Church Street but to dash downtown for a very flattering postcard.

Equally As Ancient

Pictures of the surrounding countryside are equally as ancient. Two wistful little girls, wearing bright yellow straw hats are gazing out from the shore near Picton, at the great world beyond with 1900 written prominently all over the style of dress and the general appearance of the scene.

Another card, and pictures don't lie, shows only one car parked in the driveway of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club. Another shows the Graham residence on the Trent Road standing forlornly on a barren plain with nary a shrub for miles.

To add a humorous touch to an otherwise droll collection one dealer has a series of comic cartoons lampooning the town and exaggerating the fishing.

These cartoon cards are distinct from anything you will find elsewhere because they have Belleville, Ontario, stamped on them. In Deseronto, the cartoons show the healthy state of fishing in Deseronto, and tell you where the fish bite hardest because Deseronto is stamped on them.

It is reassuring though to note that all these old cards are still with us. The town's integrity is still intact as long as people continue to leave them in the racks. Forty years from now they will come in handy to give travellers an idea of what Belleville used to be like 80 years ago.

Merchants of City Generally Will Observe Saturday Holiday

Merchants in the city are divided in their opinion as to which day should be observed as the Dominion Day holiday. Front Street generally is observing Saturday, July 1st, as the official holiday while the independent grocers in the city will remain open on Saturday and will close on Monday.

The government has named Saturday as the holiday and the Retail Merchants' Association of the local Chamber of Commerce has followed suit with members of the Association agreeing to observe the Saturday holiday.

As far as is known all the manufacturing plants are closing on Saturday, although in many cases this will not affect customary procedure as they are operating on a five-day week.

Des Joachims Power Plant Opens Wednesday

Official ceremonies for the opening of the Des Joachims power plant take place tomorrow, with representatives of hydro commissions and press from all over Ontario to be in attendance.

Now that the plant is almost at the functioning stage, Des Joachims will be on everybody's lips, and the pronunciation of the name will be something to hear. Pronunciation varies from the hydro-sponsored "Da Swisha" to the good old Anglo-American "Dess Jo-ackims". At any rate, purpose of the plant on the Ottawa River is to eliminate the winter power cuts and assure ample supply of electricity for Ontario for some time to come.

Getting back to the name of the place, it appears that some of the dignitaries are quite sure of where they are going, until you ask them. Then they stumble and mutter their way through the words. If you feel wise after such an exhibition, stay that way when you say Des Joachims.

Just sneeze.

Harvey, Ottawa district commander, Canadian Legion, Col. J. F. Mooney, Gananoque; Lt.-Col. G. W. McGregor, the commandant of the India Staff college and a representative of the Provincial command of the Canadian Legion.

Reveille Sounded

During the service the reveille was sounded by the Montgomery Bugle Band and an impressive two-minutes' silence was observed. The address was given by Col. Stone and "Last Post" was played by the band. At the conclusion of the service, the band gave a counter marching demonstration in front of the Town Park.

Out-of-town guests were given a trip down the river. The ladies, a large number of whom were from this city, were entertained at the Gananoque Canoe Club.

The collection taken by the Boy Scouts during the service was handed over to the Winnipeg Flood Relief Fund.

Safety Measure Is to Protect "Kids"

Detroit, June 27—(AP)—Even a boy on a bike isn't too safe from the traffic cops in Detroit now.

Two youngsters were given tickets yesterday for riding in the street without written consent of their parents.

It's a safety measure on Detroit's part to protect the kids during the dangerous summer season.

Ken Griffith Installed as Rotary Pres.

Installation of officers for the coming year and the showing of the Rotary International Goodwill Plaque to be sent to Bogota, Colombia, S.A., highlighted the Rotary luncheon yesterday noon.

This year's winner was Alberto Williamson, of Bogota, and the plaque is being forwarded to him. The student, to be eligible for the award, must have been born outside Canada.

The installation of the new officers was handled by Ed Bernstein, past president. He impressed upon the incoming men their duties to the club and urged them to "go forward and add lustre to the service of this club." He then introduced the first of the new members to office, Leo Riggs and Jack Deacon, who will take over the posts of Director of Music and song leader, respectively.

The new sergeant-at-arms will be Fred Wilson; new treasurer is Fred Chamberlain; Carl Crosby takes over the job of secretary. Club president for 1949-50, Fred Deacon steps down to the vice-presidential spot, and Ken Griffith is the new president.

Mr. Bernstein, in addressing the new men, told them "I am sure you will have the co-operation of the members of the club and I am equally sure you will do a real job in the operation of Rotary here this year."

First act of new president Griffith was to declare the meeting adjourned.

Guests were W. H. Atkinson, Rotarian from Eugene, Oregon, and non-Rotarian H. W. Milner, from Indianapolis, Ind.

Recommends Nearly 300 Doukhobors Be Tried for Conspiracy

Nelson, B. C., June 27 (CP) — An Assize Court jury recommended last night that nearly 500 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors be tried for conspiracy in the 1947 burning of a Co-operative store at Grand Forks, B.C.

The recommendation came after John Sherstibitoff, one of those convicted on charges arising out of the fire, told the court: "All of us are guilty." He placed the number involved at nearly 500.

Grand Forks is more than 200 miles east of Vancouver.

16 PERSONS KILLED

Rome, June 27 (AP)—Sixteen persons were killed yesterday in a crash of a bus and a truck on the Island of Sardina.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 27 (CP) — A sudden wave of selling sent prices reeling backwards from early gains as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The market opened in a continuation of yesterday's sharp break, began a strong recovery movement within 30 minutes and showed signs of wiping out a good share of yesterday's losses.

Selling suddenly hit the market at one o'clock following President Truman's Washington announcement of aid-to-Asia and a sharp crack in New York.

The sudden decline followed heavy waves of selling yesterday in what traders termed the sharpest market break since 1929.

Within a few minutes after the sudden break this afternoon, losses ranged up to $4 in a handful of key stocks that are also listed in New York.

Most of the selling centred in industrials. Stocks like International Paper, Abitibi Paper, CPR, Bell Telephone and Hiram Walker's were among the issues dipping from morning gains.

Base metals also sagged rapidly and golds were quietly easier. Western oils showed the best advances in the early dealings but these were being wiped out quickly as the session progressed.

Volume for the first three hours was 2.719,000 shares.

No Plan Made For Capital Help To West Coal Mines

Ottawa, June 27 — (CP) — Trade Minister Howe said in the Commons today it was felt that the economic position of Canada's western coal mines was such that expansion should not be invited by way of federal assistance.

The minister said there was "no plan" for capital assistance for the western mines. With oil undercutting the price of coal in the west, he believed that any western operator would be unwise to venture to expand operations.

With regard to the activities of the Dominion Coal Board seeking stable markets for western coal, the Board "could not perform miracles." He would be reluctant to "say anything to encourage the western coal industry to think it had a bright future."

If this line is correct it would confirm previous South Korean claims that Uijongbu, important valley town 12 miles north of Seoul, had been recaptured.

South Korean forces under a new general began their second counter-attack this morning against Uijongbu, a key point along the route followed by the tank-led North Korean forces driving on Seoul.

The reporters said the entire South Korean cabinet left Seoul between 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. They were reported to have passed through Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul, and headed for Kejon (Taejon) 90 miles southward.

The reporters said the cabinet members had left despite assurances that they would remain until the end.

There was no sign of communist North Korean ground troops about the city, the reporters said.

10 Planes Furnished

Ten American fighter planes furnished the South Koreans by Gen. MacArthur apparently lost no time getting into the war. There were reports that their South Korean pilots, in addition to challenging the Russian-built North Korean planes in the air, had strafed and bombed communist ground forces.

O. H. P. King, Associated Press correspondent, who arrived in Japan late today from Seoul said he tried unsuccessfully until 11.30 a.m. to reach President Rhee, the 75-year-old former exile to the United States, by telephone. King's calls were placed to the president's residence, a large house normally staffed with many servants and secretaries.

King reported by telephone from Ita Uki airbase on Kyushu Island, southern Japan, that until just before noon today the North Korean forces never had been reported closer than nine miles to Seoul. He said the Korean defence ministry claimed the nearest penetration to that time was 12 miles northward in the vicinity of Uijongbu.

MacArthur's headquarters reported officially this morning that tank elements had entered the suburbs of Seoul. The Korean mission in Tokyo had placed the northerners three miles from the city.

Military circles in Tokyo, trying to sift vague and conflicting information, said it appeared that advance North Korean units had reached close to the capital. Apparently they had over-extended their lines and were forced to withdraw or had been pushed back by defenders of the city.

Motorist Throws Girl Out of Car She Tells Police

Chatham, June 27 — (CP) — A 26-year-old girl today told a strange story from her hospital bed of being taken for a ride and thrown from a car bearing an Indiana licence.

Doreen Shellard told police a motorist about 50 years of age offered her a lift as she walked toward her trailer camp home near here yesterday. She said he "got fresh" and then threw her from the car.

She is undergoing treatment for shock and hysteria.

West Belfast M.P. Leaves Sickbed To Vote in House

London, June 27 — (Reuters) — Rev. J. G. MacManaway, Unionist Member of Parliament for West Belfast, whose place in the Commons was challenged because he is a clergyman, arrived today to take part in the vital Schuman plan vote.

He left his sick bed in Londonderry after being summoned by telegram to make a "supreme effort" to vote.

After his position in the Commons was challenged last March, a select committee appointed to check up was unable to agree. It had been argued that under an Act of 1801 he was disqualified as a clergyman of the Church of Ireland. Conservative leader Winston Churchill advised him to take his seat. He first did so June 13.

Asks Licences For Well-Run Restaurants

Toronto. June 27 (CP)— The serving of liquor with meals is one of the best means of assuring temperate consumption a spokesman for the Canadian Restaurant Association said today.

A. Kelso Roberts, K.C., appearing before the Liquor Licence Board of Ontario on behalf of the Association's Toronto and district branch, said liquor consumption with meals is preferable to the serving of snacks incidental to drinking.

He urged that licences be granted to "well-run and well-established restaurants, giving good public service."

COLLIDE IN N.Y. BAY

New York. June 27 (AP)—The Danish ship Columbia and the American export liner Excalibur collided in upper New York Bay today and the Excalibur appeared to be settling, police headquarters and the Moran towing Company reported.

Six tugboats were dispatched to the scene by the Moran Towing Company.

The Columbia was coming into New York and the Excalibur was outbound at the time. The Excalibur sailed from Jersey City a short time before with 114 passengers for a Mediterranean cruise.

Five Canadian Women in Seoul

Toronto, June 26 (CP) —Five Canadian women connected with the United Church Mission at Seoul, Korea, have been evacuated by ship, it was reported here today.

Rev. D. H. Gallagher, executive director of the overseas mission branch of the United Church of Canada, said he received a cable from Rev. E. J. O. Fraser, secretary of the mission at Seoul.

"Five women evacuated Monday by ship," the message read. "I shall leave when possible. City quiet to noon."

The United Church mission is the only one in area staffed by Canadians.

Reds Use Amphibious Forces

In their invasion, the communists have used small amphibious forces to land troops behind the lines of the South Koreans. This is one tactic which superior American forces could quickly stop.

(Seoul broadcasts said an American general would take command of the "joint defence operation." The President's statement made no reference to this.)

Along with the speed-up in arms aid to the Philippines and Indo-China, Truman announced that an American military mission will be sent to the forces of France and the associated states in Indo-China to provide close working relations.

Victoria Park Will be Site For New Club

The newly-formed Belleville Racquets and Yacht Club will occupy a site on Victoria Park, it was disclosed at a meeting held last night.

Announcement was made that the City Parks Board had given club officials permission to use a part of the eastern shore of the park on which to erect their clubhouse and install recreational facilities.

President T. A. Carruthers said that plans of the building were nearing completion by an architect. The plans call for the construction of a modern clubhouse with a spacious lounge overlooking the Bay of Quinte from the southernmost point of the park on the east side.

Yachting, and badminton will form the main recreational efforts of the club, with probably facilities for basketball and other indoor sports.

Share certificates have been available for some time, and the response has been so satisfactory that club officials feel that badminton facilities will be available by Autumn. The certificates can be obtained from President Carruthers, phone 1184; Roland Pryke, phone Avon Jewellers and Jack Sills, phone 1584.

Membership dues are laid down at $15 per season for male members and $10 per season for ladies. These shares make all club facilities available to members.

It was announced a short time ago that the club had secured a site on the shore of the bay above the bay bridge. Since, however, it was not deemed a suitable location for yachting purposes and a movement got under way to secure the location on Victoria Park.

TEN SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS

Boys and girls of Belleville are to have every opportunity for a good summer vacation of supervised play at ten laygrounds. No time is being lost by those in charge in pening the grounds. For this they are to be commended.

There is a growing interest in the play-on supervised rounds because of the valued lessons of true sportsmanship which can be learned at play and of the physical benefits which can derive from supervision. The children's ocial nature will have every scope for development.

Children find summer in a community where there are laygrounds under supervision a time when they can learn many lessons which will prove of benefit in preparing them or the lives they will lead as they grow older.

The playgrounds here are extensive and well situated o as to be accessible to the boys and girls in every part of he city.

The playgrounds for the next two months will be entres of interest, for not only the children but for their arents who appreciate the training which will come to hem as they play.

KEEN INTEREST IN SCIENCE

Everywhere in the world where modern science has its lace experimenting is proceeding into a multitude of subjects of interest to the health and welfare of man. Readers f the daily press know what a large percentage of stories ublished has to do with the advances of the science of ealth and the progress of invention. Scarcely a day passes ut there is news of something which may prove to be a momentous discovery.

Modern science is today advancing because of the pportunities it offers for experiment and because of the ide appeal it has for readers. Announcement of a new iscovery or invention attracts the public keenly. Publication of such information and news cannot but help to mean on the part of the public a wider and more informed nowledge of the progress of this age in matters of health nd so many other subjects.

All of this is the best type of news because it satisfies man's natural interest in the progress of invention and he widening of the bounds of knowledge, not only about ersonal health but about everything that interests human ature.

FRANCE LOOKS FORWARD

The French Government has decided that the first ost-war world exhibition will be held at Paris in 1955. This ill be the sixth exhibition of this type — which must not e confused with the international exhibition — to be rganized in the capital: the previous ones took place in 855, 1878, 1889 and 1900, after which date the principle of very ten years was abandoned, says M. Albert Mousett in n article for the French Information Service.

Those who are preparing the forthcoming exhibition ill doubtless take up the discovery of the use of atomic nergy and its industrial applications.

The 1855 exhibition was called the "industrial lympiad." In 1867 to the exhibition came two emperors, even kings, the Prince of Wales, the Sultan and the Viceroy of Egypt who were the guests of the exhibition in which orty thousand exhibitors had participated. Pottery and he industrial arts were prominent then. In the 1878 exhibition there was the evidence of the speed with which rance had recovered from the defeat of Sedan. In the 1889 xhibition a whole world of discoveries was opened up. In 889 the Eiffel Tower was thrown open. That was the age f the triumph of iron, steel girders with a span of 350 feet eing used in the construction of the Palace of Machines.

Iron had triumphed in 1889, it was underplaster that riumphed in 1900.

For once those who are preparing the 1955 exhibition ill find themselves in no difficulty. It will obviously be he atom and its industrial implications. What a fine program for an exhibition it would be to present atomic nergy at the service of peace and progress among peoples!

JUST FOLKS

"IT'S A BOY!"

"It's a boy!" said the nurse as she entered the hall
Where the step of the father had slowed to a crawl,
And I wondered, while watching, if man ever hears
So happy a phrase down the length of his years.

There is "find cheque enclosed," which brings light to the eye.
There are telegrams cheery which gladness supply.
There are letters from friends which all often enjoy.
But none of them equals the phrase: "It's a boy!"

Just ask any man who has lived through despair,
And wondered for hours just what's happening in there.
What it means in the manner
all nurses employ
To be suddenly told with a smile: "It's a boy!"

Oh, doctor and nurse who assist at the birth
And are first to make welcome
a child to the earth,
What doubts and what heartaches and fears you destroy
And what gladness you bring with the news: "It's a boy!"

The wind was blowing a gale at the time and shortly the adjoining house owned and occupied by Richard P. White fell a victim to the flames, then next the house of Mrs. Nancy Palmer and then the sheds and stables adjoining R. R. Palmer's hotel took fire and spread to the hotel which was also destroyed. Help was sent from Belleville, but the fire was too far advanced to save the buildings. Trains on the Midland Railway were held up for some time as the ties upon the road bed caught fire.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A TENNYSON ANNIVERSARY

The year 1850 was marked by three great events in the life of the poet Alfred Tennyson. In the spring of that year he published one of his greatest long poems, In Memoriam. In June he married the woman to whom he had been engaged for fourteen years. And finally, in November, he was made Poet Laureate of England.

Our fathers and mothers read Tennyson more than we do now, and yet few of us are entirely ignorant of his poetry. From the line of In Memoriam, an elegy on the death of his friend, come the words for two well known hymns found in most hymnals, "Strong Son of God, Immortal Love," and the New Year hymn "Ring Out, Wild Bells." Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar", placed by him at the end of his collected poems, is perhaps our most moving funeral hymn.

Through two generations whose religious beliefs were growing steadily weaker, Tennyson sounded a message of faith and strength that we cannot entirely forget even today. Despite the disappointments of his early life, the untimely death of his best friend, and long years of poverty, he fought against despair and disbelief. Thus when his triumph finally came, a century ago this year, he was able to speak out, not bitterly, but strongly and nobly, as the voice of his nation.

He told a reporter that he expects good prices. He could see no likelihood that they would be lower than last year.

He said stocks of canned and frozen foods are lower than usual and this should mean a good market for garden and fruit crops.

Tobacco is doing nicely, he added, although acreage has been reduced slightly because of stocks the tobacco companies have on hand.

Responsibility Of Safe Solution Rests With U.N.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Upon the United Nations rests the responsibility of finding a safe solution for the Korean upheaval—The most dangerous threat to global peace which the organization has thus far encountered.

This conflict, in its essence, is another clash between the leaders of two ideologies—Russia, which is backing northern Korea, and the United States, which has sponsored the south Koreans in establishing their republic.

Thus the position is far too dangerous to be dealt with in any other way than by concerted action in the U.N. Direct armed intervention by either Washington or Moscow in Korea would be almost certain to produce the war which nobody wants.

It may be splitting hairs rather fine, but the provision of military supplies to the Koreans—either north or south—isn't placed in the category of armed intervention technically.

The only satisfactory solution would be to halt the fighting altogether, and that would have to be done through concerted action in the United Nations.

The current position reminds one of another far eastern crisis which the League of Nations encountered in 1922. Japan's aggression against China in Manchuria was brought before the league and there were heated arguments over the possible use of sanctions against Nippon.

But the league was too timid to meet the crisis squarely. Japans only punishment was condemnation and she resigned from the peace organization.

This failure of the League to measure up to the situation was credited by many observers with having much to do with its loss of face and ultimate demise. That is a point which may be worth remembering now as a somewhat similar situation comes up for action in the U.N.

POSTED AS MISSING

Ostend, Belgium, June 27 — (Reuters)—Captain Tom Eastwood, 71, who set out from England a week ago to sail alone across the Atlantic, yesterday was officially posted "missing, believed drowned" by an Ostend Maritime Court. Eastwood's 20-foot sloop was found empty and adrift off the English coast Saturday.

Second Search On for Money, Gun of Killer

Straffordville, Ont., June 27 — (CP) — A second search is under way — this time for weapons and money — in the swamps and bushland of this area, while the man charged with the murder Wednesday of Arthur Lierman and William Goddyn has been identified in R.C.M.P. files at Ottawa as George Walker, 37.

Inspector Frank Kelly, who headed the posses of police and armed civilians in the 72-hour hunt that led to the arrest of the murder suspect, is again in charge.

The veteran officer has established headquarters here and is directing 100 policemen over the area where the fleeing bandit killer either cashed or discarded his guns and loot. Civilians may again be called on to aid.

Police are not yet sure whether the murder weapon was a submachine gun or a heavy calibre automatic pistol. Less than $8,000 is unrecovered of the $23,000 stolen from the Langton bank.

Seek Mystery Man In Bushland

Kitchener, June 27— (CP) — Provincial police, aided by a large posse of nearby Winterbourne men armed with clubs, spotlights and flashlights, searched the farm and bushland district east of Winterbourne last night for a "mystery man" roaming the countryside. He was described by residents as either "mentally unbalanced" or an escaped convict.

Residents first spotted the man heading towards Milton Weber's barn.

"He acted mysteriously, jumping up and down and waving his arms, when he heard music from a house near the main highway," said one resident.

RIGHT BACK IN JAIL

Grimsby, Lincolnshire, England, June 27 (Reuters)—Herbert Howlett was released from prison last week after serving only half of a five-year sentence, because he had become blind. Less than 48 hours after his release he suddenly regained his sight. But today he was back in prison again facing charges of stealing a bicycle.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Apart from desiring to get his arms around his loved ones at home, the most familiar of all yearnings of a soldier in the most recent Great War was for a tap running clear, cold Canadian water.

What he dreamed of, as he stood in the muggy cold of an English dawn with an ugly tin basin—it was more of a miniature tub—full of gray tepid water, was a beautiful bathroom, with a dry floor underfoot, and a clean white basin, with two gushing taps answering the mere twist of his fingers. In the sour chill of the Italian daybreak, as he shared with his mates the scummy pails of suspect well-water from the fountains of Bandusia that Horace sang, he fairly ached with the memory of the fragrant bath tub of home.

With a scabby glass of the true, the blushful Hippocrene to his lips—though white or red, it was only vino at about four cents the bucket—he gagged slightly when a vision flashed across his brain, a vision of the old familiar kitchen of home; and the sink, and a tap, brass or nickel, bending humbly towards it. And out of that tap in memory flowing a nectar all the gods of Rome never knew—cold, sweet Canadian water.

It is a thing we forget until we are far away that nothing tastes so sweet, nothing hits the spot, nothing comes so close to being of the essence of home, as the water out of the kitchen tap.

In Normandy in a ditch I came upon a youngter with a bullet in the thick of his leg, and we sat with him until the motor ambulance came along. He was terribly thirsty, and, as he emptied our water bottles as well as his own, he sighed: "All I want is a frosty glassful of water out of that pump at the farm back home."

I feel sure he got it. And I hope he always thinks how good it tastes.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

VISIT A BOOKSHOP

Now that holiday time has arrived, new scenes, new towns, new people and new experiences, will be in order. In many a convenient spot will be located a bookshop. Visit it, whether you have it in mind to buy a book or not. Bookshops are friendly places with a silent atmosphere that is always stimulating.

Books are products of people just like you. Their thoughts and observations are oftimes only written into their books. We never know when we are to meet a new friend in the flesh, likewise, we never know when we may meet a new friend in a book. The bookshop is the place. So, from the habit of visiting these intriguing places.

Christopher Morley once wrote: "We visit bookshops not so often to buy any one special book, but rather to rediscover, in the happier and more expressive words of others, our own encumbered soul." I can think of no better reason than this for visiting a bookshop and becoming friendly there.

Many a little treasure have I retrieved from its long sleep in some hidden corner of a bookshop. An old friend of mine once wrote an article in a magazine about his 10-cent book shelf—none costing more than 10 cents, and many of them books that had stood the test of long years, all of them well worth while. There is no place, in which a lover of books can get himself more lost to the outside world, than in a bookshop, especially a second-hand shop.

An English writer, whose books I have long admired, wrote one of his first ones under the title of "With Silent Friends," which were his books. It's these silent friends who relax us and commune with us, always at our call. At any hour of the day or night they await us.

So, while on your vacation, visit a bookshop if there is one near. Make a new silent friend—one to whom you can tie for life. People don't hesitate to go to a doctor if they feel ill, or have some physical trouble. Why not go to a bookshop when you feel the need of mental and spiritual uplift? Perhaps you may discover yourself there!

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address: Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

IT TAKES FROM TEN TO TWENTY YEARS

In 1939 or 1940 I hailed and heralded here what promised to be a boon to the public—namely, the peg tooth. I did so upon the report by Alvin E. Strock, D M D., of his experimental work implanting a mental support for a tooth into the bone of the jaw. Dr. Strock described three cases in which he had inserted a screw made of vitallium (a special metal alloy) into the bone in the space where the tooth was missing and then attached the artificial tooth to the peg.

I caught hell for my "premature" and unwarranted announcement of the peg tooth achievement, from dentists in various parts of the country, some of whom ridiculed the very idea of inserting a metal screw or peg into the jaw bone as a base for an artificial tooth to take the place of a missing tooth without attaching the artificial tooth to a tooth on either side.

Although I never apologized or acknowledged I had been wrong, I had to pull in my horns and refrain from much further talk about peg teeth because I couldn't find any dentists who were prepared to employ the new technique. Dentists, it seems are even more conservative than physicians in respect to new developments, methods of techniques. Although the relatively painless and effective ambulant or office of internal hemorrhoids (piles) has been established as the method of choice now for years, there are still many physicians who inflict the atrocious clamp and cautery "operation" on their patients—if the luckless victims are aware of the ambulant treatment and ask about it these old timers assure them that it has been tried and discarded, or that it is dangerous, or that it doesn't cure the trouble. Maybe some of them really know no better, but if so, it is just another indication that there is something radically wrong with medicine.

A reader sends me a newspaper report of a session of the Connecticut State Dental Association in Hartford May 22, where Dr. Moses S. Strock, oral surgeon, presented a report of his research work in implanting such metal screws or pegs in the jaw to support artificial teeth.

This can be done in child or adult at the time a tooth is extracted or later on. Dr. Strock said a patient can put as much pressure on such a peg tooth as one could on a normal tooth. One patient has had a peg tooth for 12 years and has had no trouble with it. The metal used is the same as general surgeons use for plates, nails and the like in bones. Dr. Strock believes the method offers for the future in providing full dentures, but to date it has been successfully used only for implanting a single tooth. It is as simple and as inexpensive as present methods of attaching a single artificial tooth to ajoining teeth.

Both Dr. Alvin E. and Dr Moses S. Strock carried on the experimental work and research in the same hospital.

Since I sounded off about peg teeth in 1939 or 1940 I have received some interesting reports from people who have peg teeth. One man has had two of them which were implanted in Budapest 35 years ago; the teeth are still strong and good looking. A woman, now 43, had four peg teeth implanted and she says: "After twenty-six years of use I don't see how any one could say that peg teeth are not practical."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Salad Twice a Day

At first I doubted that the reducing method you recommend would be successful but I tried eating a large salad at the start of both noon and evening meals. I found it very successful, because by the time I finish my salad the other members of my family have eaten everything else! But seriously, I owe you... (Mrs. C. J. H.)

Answer—The good and sufficient reason for making a real salad the first course of lunch and dinner daily is just that: it suplies minerals and vitamins which your usual refined food fails to supply, plus filler which contributes to the sense of satisfaction, with less calories pushed into your metabolism—a sense or feeling that makes it easier for you to worry along without that slice of bread, helping of potato or unearned dessert. Before you undertake any hammer and tongs reducing, send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet Rules for Reducing.

Is It Beer or Paresis?

My husband 54, drinks from two to three 12-oz. bottles of beer every week day, but on Friday and Saturday he drinks 6 to 8 bottles, maybe more. He likes the stuff and won't admit that so much is injurious, gets angry when I speak of it. (Mrs. F. L.)

Answer—Even if it were only the unwarranted expense of such overindulgence the man should be restrained, Perhaps you should apply to a court of record for appointment of a commission of lunacy examiners before the man ruins his own life and his family.

Player Attacks Official During Softball Game

Trenton (Special) — Weese Motors resumed their winning ways in the Trent Valley Softball League Monday night by defeating Campbellford 5 to 2 at Bayshore Park.

All Trenton's runs were scored in the top half of the sixth. Campbellford pitcher Bruce McComb held the mechanics to three hits in the first five frames. In the sixth however, Don Forbes led off with a single. Austin Scott bunted safely. Frank Miron laid down a sacrifice bunt putting two runners in scoring position. Then Lou Istead pinch hitting for Buck Whitley hit a solid single that drove in two runs

Lefty Reid went to first on an error and Ivan Istead blooped a Texas leaguer to short - centre field scoring Istead. Lou Carswell went to first on an error and Trenton collected two more runs. The next two Trenton hitters grounded out and McComb put a stop to the rally.

Campbellford was out in front until the sixth inning. Vincent Herrington, Campbellford lead off man hit safely, stole second and third and then came in on an error to put Campbellford one up in the first inning. That was all for Campbellford until the first of the sixth when two Trenton errors enabled the visitors to add another.

The Weesemen were sporting new red and blue sweaters presented by sponsor Lloyd Weese just before the game and perhaps the new finery was the reason they were unable to untrack themselves in the first five innings.

Umpire Attacked

In the last half of the eighth the first rhubarb of the season sprang up at Bayshore Park when Chevrolet pitcher Lefty Reid popped a gasket and practically ripped the shirt off plate umpire Hendy. Reid took exception to the way umpire Hendy was calling the balls and strikes and charged in from the mound to tell him so in no uncertain language. Hendy ordered Reid out of the game and Reid started swinging.

Hendy is to be commended for his self control in not retaliating following Reid's unprovoked attack and it took several Campbellford players and his teammates as well to cool Lefty down.

Trouble started brewing early in the game when Campbellford claimed that Reid's method of delivery was contrary to the rules and then in a close decision at home plate in the third, Hendy called Reid out, then in the eighth Lefty really blew his top.

Such exhibitions do nothing for the team and have no place in any sport. Reid's burst of temper could well have cost his teammates the game coming as he did in the eighth with only one away.

Ernie Curtis turned in a superb effort on the Trenton mound for the rest of the game. Reid had a three-one count on Wilson when Curtis took over. Ernie walked Wilson and then struck out the next two batters and made it five strike outs in a row when he retired the first three Campbellford batters in the ninth.

Reid struck out seven, allowed four hits and walked two. Curtis struck out five and walked one. For Campbellford, Bruce McComb went the distance giving up eight hits, striking out 11 and permitted five walks.

All hits by both teams were singles except a double by Ivan Istead in the fifth.

For Trenton, eight hits, five runs and three errors; Campbellford, four hits, two runs and three errors.

The teams: Trenton: I. Istead rf; Gord Flyn lf; Ernie Curtis 3b; Joe Scott 1b; Don Forbes 2b; Austin Scott cf; Frank Miron ss; B. Whitley c; Lefty Reid p; L. Carswell; L. Istead; R. Mitts, and B. Miller.

Campbellford: V. Herrington cf; E. Hoard c; A. Holmes 2b; A. Taylor rf; P. O'Sullivan 1b; G. Fralick 3b; B. McComb p; D. Robertson ss; P. Dougherty lf; Wilson. Tanner.

Umpires: Hendy, plate; Joe Semain bases.

The new officers are: president, O. L. May; vice president, W. B. McClung, secretary, A. J. Boorne, treasurer, B. F. Joyce. P. F. Anten, C. P. Maxwell, George Richardson Gordon Dunlop and J. W. Whytock are the five new directors.

A series of reports were heard from the retiring officers. The secretary, treasurer and five directors reported for the 15 different Rotary committees.

In his review of the highlights of the past year, retiring president W. B. Simmons presented Mr. McClung with a past president's Rotary jewel.

Army Jeep Crashes Dundas Street Bridge

Trenton—(Special)— The Department of National Defence had a run in with the Department of Transport here early Saturday morning and as a result of this interdepartmental clash, traffic on No. 2 highway was held up for almost a half hour on Saturday afternoon.

It all started when an army jeep driven by Bdr. Douglas H. Clark, 18, of 178 Bagot Street, Cobourg, went out of control while travelling east on the Dundas Street bridge and crashed into the steel guard rail on the south east corner of the swing span.

Saturday afternoon about three o'clock, bridge operator Harry LaFrance opened the bridge to allow the gasoline yacht Jin Jac to pass through and when he went to close the span it would not swing back into position.

Mr. LaFrance said that when he first examined the damage it appeared to be only slight and he failed "to notice that the steel guard rails were sticking out and when the bridge was opened, they caught on the end of the stationary part of the bridge", preventing it from closing. After traffic was held up on both sides of the river for almost half an hour, the bridge was finally swung back into position.

"The cast off going gate is still out of order," Mr. LaFrance said on Monday morning but workmen were repairing the damage when he made this statement. There are four gates altogether and Mr. LaFrance said he could still get a boat through if necessary by operating the hand crank.

New Trading Deals in Offing Says Minister

Ottawa, June 27 — (CP) — Trade Minister Howe disclosed in the Commons Monday night he expects to be able to announce new trading deals with Britain before the end of this week, including a contract for the sale of 300,000 tons of iron ore this year and 350,000 tons next year. This would come from Belle Isle, the tiny ore-producing island just off Newfoundland's northern coast.

Indications also were "hopeful" that a revived British market would be found for Canadian apples.

Mr. Howe said he also is sure that the trade discussions, currently under way, will open up the British West Indies market to Canadian goods "to a very considerable extent."

Fire Chief Law Of Pickering Dies Driving Truck

Pickering, Ont., June 27 (CP) —Answering a call to a fire at nearby Whitevale, Fire Chief Charles Law, 47, of Pickering, died of a heart attack here while driving the fire truck through the main street.

The truck struck a guard rail

After calling the coroner, firemen assisted the Brougham fire department in controlling a blaze which destroyed a three-storey chicken house, and 2,500 fowl at the farm of Cal Connelly at Whitevale. Damage was estimated at $9,000.

Pickering is 25 miles east of Toronto.

Public Schools Will be Closed On Thursday

Classes for public school children will close Thursday when the joyous cry of "school's out" will be heard from hundreds of children in the city and district.

High school students got a bit of a start on their junior brothers and sisters with the last of the students leaving the local collegiate on Friday when Upper School examinations were completed. Students in the other grades had completed their exams earlier.

Although classes will not reopen at the collegiate for over two months, already registration for Grade 9 students has taken place with entrance graduates from city and rural schools visiting the collegiate on Monday. A total of 461 students, 221 boys and 240 girls, has registered to enter the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School next September, it was stated by Principal G. E. Currie.

Introduced to Teachers

Following registration the entrance graduates were divided into forms and introduced to their form masters and given a list of books which will be needed for school opening. This was done to enable the books to be purchased during the summer holidays, thus eliminating the rush at the time of school opening.

The high school pupils-to-be were also taken on a familiarization tour of the collegiate.

Principal Currie stated that this was the largest registration of grade 9 pupils in the history of the school being about 110 in addition to last year. There was a heavy enrolment of rural pupils for the vocational branch and also for the commercial studies. Rural pupils seemed more practical minded than their city cousins, according to Mr. Currie.

Number in Course Increased

Forty-nine students will be taking advantage of the agricultural course at the collegiate, this being an increase of 22 over last year.

There will be a number of staff replacements at the collegiate when school opens in September, as well as two additional teachers to take care of the increased registration expected.

New teachers at the collegiate will include Miss Nancy Redfern of Renfrew, who will be replacing Miss May McKinnon who is returning to her home city of Toronto as P. T. specialist at Danforth Tech. Ernest H. Tindale of Toronto, art specialist, will replace Miss Daisy Davidson, who was temporary instructor. Bernard J. Kinlin, commercial teacher, Parry Sound, will replace Miss Marion Smith who is getting married, and John S. Gluck of Fort William, is replacing temporary machine shop instructor George Anderson who is going to Niagara Falls.

The two additional teachers at the Collegiate will be Charles W. B. Sloan of Belleville, graduate of B.C.I. who will be returning to the collegiate as English teacher, and John A. Snetsinger of Cornwall, commercial teacher. The high school staff will number 42 at the re-opening of classes in September.

Just 'Holiday' Says Driver In Describing Drive to Mills

(Written for The Canadian Press)

By NOLIN TRUDEAU

Windigo, Que., June 27 (CP) — To most men in the annual St. Maurice Valley log drive, the work is no cinch, but to Jim Metzner, middle-aged New York it's a "holiday."

Jim is one of the hundreds of river drivers, clerks, cooks, machinists, boatmen and carpenters now bringing 55,000,000 pulpwood logs down the St. Maurice River system to the mills of the world's greatest paper-producing area.

Jim, in his early 60s, stands out among that rugged crew, most of whom have their homes in the valley. He is a city-dweller, playing in the stock market at home in New York when he is not clerking here on the upper St. Maurice for a log-driving company. He speaks French, the language of the river driver, with a Brooklyn accent.

"Some days," says Jim of his stock-market operations, "I do pretty well. On others I have nothing to blow about."

Every April—he has been doing it for the last 40 years— he comes to Windigo, 700 miles from New York, and takes over for five months as chief clerk, hiring men, keeping their time, paying them and buying enormous quantities of food.

Food belongs to the department of cook Jean-Louis Bedard boss of one of the floating kitchens that feed as many as 300 men at the peak of the drive.

A hungry driver can put away a peck of potatoes a day. But Jean-Louis can still find time to get his men fresh fish.

He drops his kitchen refuse through a hole in the bottom of the boat, attracting the pickerel and pike that abound in the river. Sometimes he drops a hook too. "This comes in extra handy on Fridays," he says.

COUSINS—TAYLOR

Pink and white peonies formed a fitting background in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville for the marriage of Margaret Ann Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Taylor, on Saturday, June 17th, at 3.30 p.m. to Earl William Cousins, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Cousins, of Deloro, Ontario. The Reverend J. G. Hornsby, pastor of the church, officiated.

Traditional wedding music preceded the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Robert Taylor, wore a charming bridal gown of blush satin, featuring an over tunic of white Chantilly lace, and flared peplum, moulded collar with long sleeves ending in petal-points at the wrist. Her long, floor-length veil was held by a Mary Queen of Scott's headdress, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias, carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. Dorothy Shensel, of Trenton, was matron of honor, and Miss Shirley Bennett, of Belleville, and Mrs. Jean Cunningham, also of Belleville, were bridesmaids. All were gowned in ice-blue taffeta, with off-the-shoulder berthas, with matching Mary Queen of Scott's headdresses and carried bouquets of feathered white carnations.

Mr. John Mumby, of Trenton, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. John Stringer and Mr. Douglas Bone, of Belleville.

Following the reception, which was held at the home of the bride, the bride's mother, gowned in French blue nylon sheer with white accessories and corsage of red roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy blue crepe with pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses, received the guests.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Montreal, the bride chose a light blue ensemble with white accessories, and corsage of gardenias. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cousins will reside at 28 Queen Street, Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from, Marmora, Deloro, Toronto and Galt, Ontario.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

Only millionaires can afford to lick their lamb chops these days.

Loin or rib lamb chops, which recently reached the highest price in history, have climbed even higher Since lamb fortunately is not our national dish, average consumers can forego double thick lamb chops for the present.

Lamb for stewing can still be bought without causing too much tension on the purse strings. Two pounds of lamb chuck with bone or one and a half pounds of boneless lamb chuck will furnish 4 adequate servings. Lamb for stewing should be somewhat fatty for flavor; but every drop of fat floating on the gravy should be skimmed before serving.

Stews can be stretched with almost any seasonable vegetable. Potatoes and carrots are the usual garnishes. As a change, cook fresh or frozen peas in the liquid of the stew.

The gravy in the stew recipe below will be light in color rather than brown. If a brown gravy is preferred the meat should first be well browned and then a small amount of gravy color added to the stew before serving.

Lamb Stew with Peas. Serves 4.

Buy 2 pounds of chuck of lamb cut into 1 1-2 inch squares for stewing. Go over meat carefully to remove any bone splinters.

Chop very fine 1-2 cup onions, 2 cloves of garlic and 1-3 cup of green peppers. Place in a heavy saucepan with 2 tablespoons melted fat. Cook over a slow flame until onions turn yellow. Add 1-2 bay leaf and 1-8 teaspoon powdered sage.

Add lamb to saucepan. Stir well. Cover with lid. Cook over a slow flame, stirring ocassionally, until meat loses red color and liquid collects in pan.

Sprinkle meat with 2 tablespoons flour. Mix well. Cover with hot water. Add 3 bouillon cubes or 1 teaspoon meat extract. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Bring liquid to a boil. Remove scum. Reduce flame so that liquid barely simmers. Cook until meat is almost tender. from 1 1-2 to 2 hours depending on quality of lamb. Remove fat from gravy. Add a 12 ounce package of frozen peas or 1 pound of shelled fresh peas. Cover with lid. Cook until peas are tender.

Add salt and pepper to taste. Add 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsely. Serve stew between split baking powder biscuits.

IVANHOE

Friends Shower Popular Bride-to-be With Kitchen Items

Ivanhoe—Miss Wanda Reid, popular Ivanhoe bride-to-be, was honored with a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. Earl McMaster on Thursday afternoon.

The rooms were prettily decorated with yellow roses, orange blossoms, pansies and baskets of peonies.

The bride-to-be, her mother Mrs. Sidmer Reid, and grandmothers, Mrs. George Reid and Mrs. Albert Clements, were each presented with a dainty corsage.

The afternoon was spent making a bride's book, and each girl wrote some timely advice on marriage in an autograph book.

The highlight of the party was the presentation made by Eleanor Reid and Doris Twiddy, of an array of kitchen items carried in a huge flat basket covered with pink crepe paper and adorned with a small pink umbrella.

Miss Joyce Moore, of Madoc presented a "kitchen bride" made of 15 different items and Mrs. Charles Keeble read several verses explaining their many uses in the home.

As Wanda unwrapped her many gifts, the girls broke 30 confetti-filled balloons suspended over her head. She graciously thanked her friends and extended an invitation to visit her in her new home in Madoc.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

New Fur Fashions Feature Capelets

New York — (CP) — Furs being shown for cool summer days or evenings put much emphasis on the little jacket or capelet.

From extremely brief, little below the armpit, to 26-inch length, it may flare jauntily or fall straight. Cape-like jackets are caught at the sides to form sleeves. The newest have accents of velvet or braid on collar, cuffs or pockets.

One novel design is a cardigan of white Russian broadtail with knitted banding, lined with black chiffon.

A short-sleeved bolero of black Russian broadtail has a collar of white ermine, tied with a black velvet cord.

Favored summer furs include broadtail in navy, white and black, Persian lamb, caracul and mink.

MARMORA

'Molly Cottontail' Finds New Home For Little 'Raggy-Lugs'

Marmora — The adventures of nine little bunnies in the heart of Marmora, as told by James A. Rice, local resident, makes an interesting nature story.

About two weeks ago Mr. Rice was using his scythe in his back garden to cut shoots from a plum tree. As he started to rake up his cuttings, he sighted what at first appeared to him to be a rat's nest. Moving aside some fur, he saw nine little rabbits in a hole in the ground, lined with their mother's excess fur.

Thinking they might fall a prey to cats, Mr. Rice decided to take them to Percy Eamer, who lives about a mile south of the village who has a cat with kittens. But the cat refused to foster the rabbits.

Mr. Eamer tried to feed them with a doll's milk bottle, but this was not satisfactory, so they were taken back to their nest again. No sooner were they back than the mother rabbit appeared on the scene. She kept a little distance away and waited until dusk before rejoining them.

The next day she decided to move them. She is still hopping around the garden but where she has taken the young ones has not yet been ascertained.

FRANKFORD

Bride, Bridegroom-To-be Honored With Many Gifts

Frankford — A shower was held for Elsie Rogers and Don Hooker, bride and groom to be of next Saturday, in the Community-Memorial Hall Friday evening. A large turnout was on hand for an evening of dancing, cards and crokinole.

Following the entertainment, the young couple opened their gifts, and thanked each and every one. Refreshments were served in the basement of the hall. Roy Lockwood acted as master of ceremonies, and kept the party rolling right along in his capable manner.

In The Garden

The martins that nested early
Have long since flown away,
But the wrens are lustily nesting
And twittering throughout the day;
And robins, so bright and cheery,
Gladden the summer hours,
As they perch in the shady tree-top
Above the fragrant flowers.

The flowers of June are blooming
In a bright perennial row,
Tho' tulips once gay and flaunting,
Have lost their springtime glow
But a cluster of scarlet poppies,
And peonies, pink and white,
With golden iris blooming
Bring glamor and delight.

O sweet, sweet flowers of June-time
You spread a wealth of cheer,
And awaken pleasant memories
Of a long-lost distant year,
When we played amid the flowers,
Our childhood hearts atune,
With the beauty and the glamor
Of the fleeting days of June.

BONARLAW

St. Mark's Church Holds Lawn Social

Bonarlaw — On Friday evening of last week St. Mark's Church lawn social was held on the rectory lawn which was prettily decorated for the occasion and strings of electric lights made the grounds a perfect setting for a garden party.

Excellent music was provided all evening by the Stirling Community Band under the direction of Maurice Bell.

The refreshment booth, whose main attraction /was ice-cream sundaes and soft drinks, did a flourishing business and the fish pond, home-made candy booth, hot-dog stand etc. had no complaints. The weather was ideal and the throng seemed to have the holiday spirit.

The social was sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary but all the families of the congregation assisted with the baking. Free lunches were distributed to everyone.

On Sunday evening the officers and brethren of Marmora Masonic Lodge No. 222 attended divine service at St. Mark's Church, where the rector, Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie, who is also Junior Warden of the Lodge, delivered an interesting and instructive sermon, his theme being "King Solomon's Prayer."

The choir was assisted by several members of Marmora Anglican Church choir.

The holiday season is at hand and this county will soon be attracting tourists. Among the fine tourist centres is Holiday Inn, one mile east of Picton on the Glenora Road. Blake and Marjorie, Wellington, were tea hour guests at Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Leona Whyte, Bath, was a guest of Wellington friends on Monday en route to Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stevenson were weekend guests of friends in Toronto and Queenston.

Miss Gladys Lumb left on Monday by plane for British Columbia where she will spend some weeks with friends.

Mrs. W. Huycke is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. Ed. Anderson and daughter, Mrs. Walter Evenson, Edmonton, left that city by plane on June 15 and arrived in Toronto in the evening. They came by train to Belleville where they were met by Mr. W. H. Morton and are now with Mrs. James Morton, Consecon Lake. On Sunday the Mortons with their Edmonton guests enjoyed a picnic at Glenora. And on Tuesday they were tea hour guests of Mrs. W. H. Anderson, Wellington.

Blossom Time Tea!

The Guild of St. Andrew's Church, Wellington, held a successful tea in the town hall on Thursday afternoon. The room was beautifully decorated with baskets of June flowers. The president, Mrs. W. A. Davern, welcomed the guests and Mrs. Francis Jones and Mrs. Charlie Thomas poured tea. Tea assistants included Mrs. Mace, Mrs. Gair, Mrs. Beale, Mrs. Hutchinson and others.

Miss Mary Lumb is a patient in Kingston hospital following an operation on her hand. Her many friends will be glad to welcome her home.

Strawberries are now being sold at 30 and 35 cents a box. Rain is much needed at time of writing, June 22.

Variety Concert

The Variety Concert, sponsored by Group IV of the W.A. of Wellington United Church was a pleasant affair, with Rev. J. F. Lane ably acting as chairman. A poem entitled "A June Morning" read by Mrs. H. B. Anderson; vocal selections by Mr. A. A. Benvie of Picton and his quartet delighted the audience. Readings by Miss Hettie Unger, Mrs. A. Walker and Miss A. Tait received applause. Several numbers were given by local entertainers, namely the Bishop family; by Mrs. W. Fox and Mrs. Walt; by little Catharine Ferguson and by Miss Snider and Miss Pierson. At the close the entertainers were invited to the basement where refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed.

Pettengil - Harvey

On Wednesday June 21st, at the United Church parsonage, the marriage was solemnized of Mr. Allen Pettengil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pettengil, Hillier, and Miss Barbara Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, Wellington. A reception was held at the bride's home, after which the happy couple left for Ottawa to enjoy their honeymoon.

Spinsters Classed As Married at 45

Vienna — (Reuters) — Austrian spinsters no longer will have to pay a "batchelor's tax" after the age of 45.

This is one of a series of amendments to the tax laws recently passed by the Austrian parliament. In Austria, all unmarried people are classed in number 1 tax group which pays at a higher rate than tax group 2, which applies to married people.

Hitherto, a spinster has been put into group 2 on reaching the age of 50 — which meant that she then paid tax at the lower "married rate."

The age now has been lowered to 45 on the grounds that, as there are too many women in Austria, it is not their fault if they fail to marry and they should not be penalized for it.

Men go on paying the "bachelor's tax" until they marry — or die.

Readings were given by Mrs. George Varty, Mrs. John Wallace, Mrs. Hugh McMullen and Mrs. Don Haggerty.

Several musical numbers were enjoyed along with impromptu speeches.

Mrs. Richard Haggerty, mother of the bride, presented her daughter with a bouquet of carnations. Mrs. George Varty, Toronto, and Mr. John Wallace, dressed as bride and groom, presented Clifford and Marguerite with a well-filled purse.

The bride was formerly Marguerite Haggerty of West Huntingdon, and the groomsman and bridesmaid, Mr. and Mrs. Don Haggerty, were in attendance.

Refreshments, topped off with anniversary cake, were served and all enjoyed a happy celebration together.

Paroled Convict Held for Rape Of 8-Year-Old

Corunna, Mich., June 27 (AP) — A paroled convict who admitted raping and strangling eight-year-old Virginia Mae Bird in her foster parents' home was held by police today.

Clifford Pulver, 32, was arrested about 12 hours after Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bird found their small adopted daughter dead on a couch Sunday morning.

"I did it, but I don't know what I did," Sheriff Charleer quoted Pulver as saying.

Pulver, brother of Bird's first wife, had come to the Bird home Saturday night, asking if he could sleep there because he had been drinking and thought his mother would be angry.

Pulver, paroled March 29 from Southern Michigan prison, was captured at a gasoline station on the edge of this small city.

A crowd of a hundred or more gathered in front of the county jail, so officers took Pulver to Flint, about 25 miles east, for further questioning.

Early African Life Probed by Survey

Durban, South Africa —(CP)— Three expeditions — two in search of relics of primitive man in Tongaland and one to investigate fishes and fauna on the East African seaboard — will leave Natal shortly.

Next month, Gordon Cramb, natal archaeologist, and W. Van Der Elst, well-known Dutch archaeologist who has been conducting research in the Transvaal hope to penetrate the heart of the Lebombo Mountains in Tongaland to open up a cave believed to contain many answers to middle and late Stone Age questions.

The expedition to investigate fishes and fauna on the East African seaboard will be undertaken by Professor J. L. B. Smith of the ichthyology department of Rhodes University College, and his wife.

This is intended as the first of several expeditions, from which it is hoped to produce a major treatise on the fishes of the region. The project probably will take eight to 12 years to accomplish.

Ichthyolgical research, says Professor Smith, has reached a high level in most parts of the world; in many countries the discovery of a new species has become a rarity. The eastern coast of this continent, however, is one of the least-known areas in the world, biologically.

It is probably one of the richest fields for research in the world, and the time for a full systematic investigation is long overdue, he says.

Big Show Fills Air With Ace Somersaulting Fliers

The world renowned Flying Concellos, Artonys and Comets don't do it with the greatest of ease, but they achieve the seemingly impossible in daring artistry and soaring grace in the big Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus coming to Belleville, Monday, July 3, for performances at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m. with doors open at 1 and 7.

These famous somersaulting fliers are, however, but three groups among the hundreds upon hundreds of headline artists featuring the 1950 program of The Greatest Show on Earth.

Climaxing the overwhelming presentation of sensational features is the $300,000 super-spectacle, "When Dreams Come True," an unbelievably lovely fantasy employing multitudes of gorgeously garbed people and trained animals.

News to many spectators is the fact that one of the initial lessons in the school of circus aerial work is "taking the fall". The "safety" net spread beneath the fliers is safe in name only and many a broken arm or leg and neck has resulted from improper landing.

If they miss a trick, they try to land on their heels or their backs. Failing and falling out of control they roll up into a ball and trust to luck.

With the lofty reaches of the world's largest tent filled with flying figures, including a host of sensational new aerial stars from Europe, the Big Show is coming to town with 1450 people, nine herds of elephants, hundreds of horses and a mammoth menagerie including Toto, gorilla mate of the late Gargantua the Great and her Congo Cradle of two cute baby gorillas recently imported from the depths of West Africa.

Two of the Flying Artonys, famous aerialists with the big Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Two Men Suffer Burns in Blast

Oshawa, June 26—(CP)—Two men are in serious condition from burns suffered following an explosion in the meter room of the Ontario Shore Gas Co., here today.

They are Albert Gooding, 37, Oshawa, and Guy Osgoode, St. Thomas. Both have been given blood transfusions and hospital authorities describe Gooding's condition as extremely serious."

The explosion and fire which followed cut off gas to homes in Oshawa, Whitby and Bowmanville.

The men were working on a regulator when the blast occurred. Its cause has not been determined.

Committee Will Study Combines Act

Ottawa, June 26 — (CP)—Justice Minister Garson announced to the Commons today the government's intention to appoint a committee to investigate the Combines Act with a view to making the legislation "more workable."

Mr. Garson said he will make a formal announcement on the matter when all members of the committee are appointed. The committee at present was in the process of formation.

Mr. Garson was answering John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) who asked if the Justice Minister could confirm press reports that Canada's anti-combines legislation was to be overhauled.

MAKE JAM THE MODERN SHORT-BOIL WAY
SAVE TIME, WORK, MONEY
Compare These Two Methods—

WITH CERTO

1. Mrs. A. makes jam the short-boil way with CERTO. She has 2 pounds of fruit prepared, ready to start at 9 o'clock.

2. The dotted line shows level of the prepared fruit in Mrs. A's saucepan.

3. Mrs. A. adds 3 pounds of sugar. A pound of jam made with CERTO contains no more sugar than a pound made the old long-boil way.

4. Mrs. A. brings the mixture to a full rolling boil; boils hard ONE MINUTE only; removes from stove and adds ½ bottle (4 ozs.) Certo. CERTO is the natural jellying substance in fruit in concentrated form.

5. Mrs. A. is able to pour and paraffin about 5 pounds (10 glasses) of jam from her 2 pounds of fruit.
She gets sure results because she follows the CERTO recipe EXACTLY.

6. Mrs. A's 10 glasses of jam were made in just 15 minutes.

THE OLD WAY

1. Mrs. B. makes jam the old-fashioned long-boil way. She, too, is ready to start her jam making at 9 o'clock.

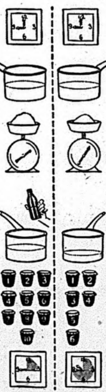
2. Mrs. B. starts off with the same amount of prepared fruit in her saucepan.

3. Mrs. B. uses the old "pound of sugar per pound of fruit" standard recipe. So she adds 2 pounds of sugar.

4. Mrs. B. boils the mixture about 30 minutes before the jam thickens to the desired consistency. This evaporates about ⅓ the weight of the fruit, darkens the color and carries off much of the natural fresh-fruit flavor in steam.

5. Mrs. B. pours and paraffins about 3 pounds (6 glasses) of jam from the same amount of fruit.
Until it is finished she cannot tell for sure how well her jam will turn out.

6. Mrs. B. took 45 minutes to make her 6 glasses of jam.



Certo gave Mrs. A. sure results... much more jam... saved time, work and money.
Free Recipe Book
Under the label of every bottle of CERTO is a book of 78 tested recipes for jams and jellies. Different fruits need different handling, so CERTO gives you a separate recipe for each fruit. Be sure to follow the simple directions EXACTLY.

May Have to Have Programs to Keep Records Straight

When you go to the ball park, you get a program because you can't tell Joe from Moe without it. It now appears that Kingston courts will have to have programs to keep their records straight.

Last week, some members of a circus playing Kingston were brought into court on gambling charges and fined. Also in court was a Miss Frances Doran, who, police charged, was doing an indecent act in public—in fact, several of them. She was convicted and fined $50, plus two weeks in the hoosegow.

Then came the payoff. When Miss Doran was lodged in jail after her conviction, she refused to take a shower bath as all new inmates are required to do. An investigation of the incident was ordered and when the excitement died down, Miss Doran had changed sexes—she, it, or what have you, was a man.

Mr. Doran had been convicted Thursday morning, and that night was hastily transferred to the male section of the jail, still attired in a black velvet jacket and a robin's-egg blue ankle-length skirt. Not only that, he had a number of blue plumes tucked into his auburn colored, shoulder-length hair.

Looks like nothing is sure these days.

REFUSED NEW TRIAL

Washington, June 27 — (AP)— Judith Coplon Monday was refused a new trial on charges that she removed United States government documents from the Justice Department, where she used to work.

The 29-year-old girl argued unsuccessfully that "newly-discovered evidence" indicated the government had concealed wire-tapping activity at the trial. She is under a sentence of 40 months to 10 years.

Prairie Crops Looking Better After Heavy Rain

Winnipeg, June 27 — (CP) — Prairie crops are looking better because of weekend rain — everywhere but in recently-flooded areas of the Red River Valley where farms still have too much moisture.

Rain came just in time to avert drying out of Alberta grainland, a Canadian Press survey today showed. And in Saskatchewan, a three-day drenching brought badly needed moisture to central and northwest regions.

In Manitoba, outside the flooded areas, an inch of rain built up reserve moisture that will be valuable when the hot suns of July strike. But in sections saturated by flood water, the heavy rain did some damage by adding to the moisture and keeping farmers from doing further seeding.

SEVEN MINISTERS RESIGN

Tokyo, June 27 (AP)—Seven Japanese cabinet ministers resigned today in a move that has no connection with the outbreak of war in Korea. Premier Shigeru Yoshida, who will not resign, will attempt to form a new cabinet.

ALEXANDER

a test as severe as any in the war."

The former commander believes Hitler blundered badly in electing to fight it out after the surrender of Italy.

"We had the initiative in operations," he wrote, "but the Germans had the initiative in deciding whether we should achieve our objective. . . had they decided to withdraw altogether, they could have defended the line of the Alps or one of the strong river lines in north-eastern Italy with the minimum of forces. Instead of us containing them, they would be containing us."

All danger of such an alarming result, Viscount Alexander says, was removed by Hitler's decision. From that moment, he adds, the German army undertook a commitment as damaging and debilitating as Napoleon's peninsular campaigns of 1808-14. The following summer the Germans were forced to pour troops into Italy to retrieve disaster at the very moment when allied invading forces were storming the breaches of a crumbling Western Wall.

A month after the fall of Rome, the British commander suffering a stinging setback to his plans—not at the hands of the enemy but through a call from the combined chiefs of staff for the urgent release of seven divisions from the Italian sector These forces were to be employed in an assault against southern France as a diversion to the invasion of Normandy.

Cancel Balkan Thrust

Failure of the allies to capture Bologna according to plan, transference of the entire Canadian corps to the western front and diversion of other forces expected from the middle east had forced cancellation of a possible thrust into the Balkans.

While expressing no opinion on the correctness of the decision, Viscount Alexander admits disappointment in his inability to exploit victory to the fullest.

"Whatever value the invasion of southern France may have had as a contribution to operations in north-western Europe, its effects on the Italian campaign was disastrous," he says.

"The allied armies in full pursuit of a beaten enemy were called off from the chase. Kesselring—the German commander — was given a breathing space to reorganize his scattered forces and I was left with insufficient strength to break through the barrier of the Appenines.

"My armies which had just been built up into a strong, flexible and co-ordinated instrument, inspired by victory and conscious of their own superiority, were reduced once more to the shifts and improvisations which had marked the previous winter. They were faced again with the problems of overcoming not only the difficulties of the Italian terrain and stubborness of the enemy's resistance, but also the lack of manpower on their own side."

At the very time the allies were withdrawing seven divisions, the Germans, he says, were rushing to Italy the equivalent of eight divisions, some of them from the threatened West Front.

THIS SHOULD BE SOMETHING!

Following the battle of the wrestling Gargantuans, Primo Carnera and Ski Hi Lee last week, the faithful can settle down and enjoy something this week that is somewhat closer to earth. In direct contrast to the lumbering amblers that performed on Friday last comes a spot of speed and action that should satisfy the most critical fan. None other than Whipper Billy Watson, who has been feuding with Yvon Robert over who is going to wear the British Empire championship bauble, is slated to appear here, and the loyal opposition will be the human dynamo, Rapid Ray Villmer. These wrestling buzz-saws of the ring should make things hum, and speed and agility should be the keynote of the bout. In second slot in Friday's attraction will be Timmy Geohagen, the popular young Irish strong boy who will pit his mighty strength against boisterous Robert "Strangler" Wagner while in the curtain raiser will be Toar Morgan and Jim "Goon" Henry.

BUT WHEN?

Stan Hack, the personable manager of the Springfield Cubs, thinks that the club which might come from off the pace in the second half of the season is the Toronto Leafs.

"They've got the pitching," he explains briefly, which is something his own club lacks.

The Leafs have such good hurlers as Buzz Bowers, Paul Stuffel, Jocko Thompson, Lou Possehl, Brittan and Peterson. Behind these they have a couple of experienced relievers in Ken Trinkle and Nick Strincevich, which gives the staff plenty of balance. If Ed Sanicki, Bill Glynn and some of those other Leafs could start hitting with any consistency, they could still give everybody a run for it.

THERE AIN'T NO MOE!

Moe Fogarty, mentor of the Northern Electric Ladies Sofaball team who brought the lassies to the top of the Lakeshore Ladies Softball League (Eastern Section) relinquishes his position as of next Monday. Moe has been transferred back to Montreal, along with others, and the master-minding of the squad must of necessity be turned over to someone else. We understand a meeting has been called for Thursday afternoon to name a successor and the names of "Chuck" Barriage and Jerry Mahoney have been mentioned.

Fogarty is popular with his charges, and rightly so. He has done a fine job and this in conjunction with the co-operation given him by his team has been mainly responsible for their perch at the top of the league ladder.

TWO IN A ROW

The Batawa Shoemen seem to have shaken that ninth innings jinx for last night in one of the best games seen in Napanee this season they downed the Gibbardville crew 3-1 in a ten-innings thriller. The game was all tied up after the fourth and both Art. Wright for the Shoemen and Stan McTaggart for the Athletics duck-egged the opposition until the tenth. Three hits with Mac Watson in the hero role with a double in the tenth shoved over the winning runs and the Shoemen came home with their second straight victory. The defeat, incidentally, removed the Gibbardville crew from first place in the league. Smith's Falls who shut out the Kingston Leafs by a 4-0 count behind the fine hurling of Rothrock took over top perch. Batawa have a full weekend ahead of them, according to the revised schedule. On Friday they take on the Napanee team at the Exhibition Grounds and on Saturday night they play hosts to the Picton Athletics.

CUBS CLAWED

The Sixardee entry in the Belleville District Baseball League maintained their winning ways at the expense of the Belleville Cubs on the former's diamond last night turning back the city squad by a 7-3 count. The damage was done in the second innings when three hits off Bobby Bunton, an error and a walk paved the way for five airmen tallies. The Cubs scored singles in the sixth, seventh and ninth. According to the Sixardee scoring official, the Cubs were restricted to two hits by Maloney, but of them doubles by Vern Goyer and "Elder" Neilson. Maloney and Bunton went the route for the respective teams. The Cubs meet Napanee here tomorrow night under the lights with Sixardee taking on the Point Anne team at Point Anne.

ON YOUR MARK!

Garry Schreider, one of the better young athletes of the city will get his track baptism of fire at the Sports College, Toronto, meet being staged at Pantry Park on Saturday July 8th. The youngster is training faithfully these days under the guiding eye of Dad Eddie and he expects to give a good account of himself in his first appearance at an organized track meet. He is specializing in the 100 — 220 — and the running broad jump. Garry will enter the preliminaries on Friday June 7 and go into the finals the next day. He will wear the green and white of St. Michael's Academy, Belleville. Best of luck, son.

Neil Colville New Coach of N.Y. Rangers

New York, June 27 (CP) — Neil Colville, whose stickhandling wizardry dazzled New York hockey fans for 11 years, is the new coach of the team he starred for—New York Rangers.

The Ranger coaching berth has been open since May when Lynn Patrick unexpectedly resigned to join his famous father, Lester, in operating Victoria Cougars of the Pacific Coast League.

Colville, at 35 the youngest coach in the National Hockey League is succeeding Lynn Patrick for the second time. He began his bench career with New Haven Ramblers of the American Hockey League in December 1948, when Patrick moved up to the Ranger post.

Colville, now spending the summer in his native Edmonton joined the Rangers in 1936 and was a regular through 1948 except for a three-year period during the war when he served with the R.C.A.F.

Informed of his apopintment the mild-mannered Neil said: "I've played with most of the fellows I'll be coaching. I don't know whether that will be good or bad."

The canny play-maker is one of the few to make a successful switch from a forward position to defence. In both positions he made the N.H.L. all-star second team.

Moved Bock to Defence

Before the war he centred a line which had his brother Mac and Alex Shibicky on the wings. After his three-year stretch in the R.C.A.F. he returned to a hockey career to find that he had slowed up and so he moved back to defence.

As a defenceman, Neil earned a reputation as the man who set up offensive plays in unspectacular style and who, somehow, always happened to be in the right place on defensive moves

In contrast to his young mates, Colville appeared to be the "elder" player, shepherding the play along.

Colville is the second A.H.L mentor to move up to the N.H.L. ranks this year. Earlier this month Ebenezer (Ebbie) Goodfellow was named coach of Chicago Black Hawks to succeed Charlie Conacher. He had been directing St. Louis Flyers for two seasons.

Under Colville's direction the Ramblers finished in fourth place both in 1948-49 and 1949-50 in the eastern division of the two-division, 10-team loop. The rangers recently dropped New Haven from its organization.

Two Darkhorses Play in Final For PGA Title

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Columbus, O., June 27 — (AP) — The great Walter Hagen, holding court in the Scioto Country Club locker room, shook his head.

"Never, no never," expounded the magnificent one before a group of friends, "have a couple of guys bolted out of nowhere to be playing for such a big one."

The "Haig," still beloved and vividly remembered as golf's most grandoise performer, was referring to Chandler Harper and Hank Williams, Jr. Two of these veterans are playing for one of the most cherished titles — the National P.G.A., with a $3,500 first prize.

Not since the tournament was inaugurated in 1916 have such rank darkhorses showed up for the showdown.

The 36-year-old Harper, a pro at a public fee course at Portsmouth, Va., has made stabs at the tournament circuit — the most serious being in the 1950 Tuscon open. He won that one, including one round of 63 carved with a total of 20 putts, an established P.G.A. all-time record on the greens.

That has been the most notable victory in the career of the fellow who has picked up winnings of about $3,600 in nine meets this season.

But that's big dough to Williams. Yank is a 33-year-old pro from Secane, Pa.

He's a good-natured guy who dropped in weight from 180 pounds to 173 while in the process of a tremendous rally yesterday to oust 42-year-old Henry Picard 1-up in 38 holes. The temperature was 98, and Williams was hotter.

Has Real Plugger

Since nobody knew Williams, his main plugger in the gallery has been Magistrate John Allen, a member of the church-owned Tully-Secane Country Club.

Williams has bagged exactly $192 after a fling in nine tournaments this year. He collected this by finishing 17th at Tuscon and in a tie for 29th place at the recent National open.

"He's been playing golf a long time, breaking 880 when he was 14," said Allen, Williams' apparent Boswell. "His dad paid more attention to the golf game of Frances, the only daughter in the family, than he did to Henry's. And Frances won the Pennsylvania women's amateur crown once."

Thus, you have the cast for today's 36-hole windup. The first 18 starts at 11.30 a.m. EDT and the second at 4 p.m. — the first "twinight" windup in golf history.

It was scheduled this way to draw the tired businessman to the course after his working day is finished. It has drawn criticism from such fellows as sports writers who can foresee a race with night-fall never before experienced in the sport's realm.

Williams has jumped from obscurity into the position as sentimental favorite after yesterday's exploits. Trailing 6-down to Picard with eight holes to go, he closed the gap by sinking some fantastic pressure putts. He carried the match to the 38th hole, where Picard missed an 18-inch losing putt.

Debate Rages Over "Rabbit" Ball in Majors

New York, June 27 (AP)—It's not the "rabbit" in the ball—it's the humidity, says Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager.

The agate is so hopped up that pitchers take their lives in their hands when they step on the mound, contends the Athletics' octogenarian, Cannie Mack.

Thus the debate rages among the men who hit and throw the 1950 tightly wound major league baseball and among those who watch it sail out of sight.

Is the modern ball full of atomic juice that produced a total of 11 home runs in four days last weekend? Or is it a normal cycle of inferior pitching?

Here is what leading major league figures have to say about it:

Bobby Feller, Cleveland pitcher: "So far as I can see, the ball is the same as always. It's just inferior pitching."

Steve O'Neill, new Boston Red Sox manager: "Maybe it's just better hitting—or the weather—or just plain luck."

Greenberg: "It's not the ball, it's the weather. The pitchers have been working in cool weather. Then suddenly it gets hot and humid. They're not used to it and after two innings they haven't anything on the ball."

Connie Mack, Philadelphia A's manager: "Pitchers take their lives in their hands when they go out on the mound. The ball is livelier. It goes places in an awful hurry."

Joe Page, New York Yankees relief ace: "That ball this year is pure lightning."

Campbell Will Give Up Attempt To Lower Record

By The Canadian Press

Donald Campbell of England said Monday he may give up all attempts for the present to set a world speedboat record.

The reason? That 160.3235-mile-an-hour mark set earlier in the day by Stanley S. Sayres in his boat 'Slo-Mo-Shun IV" over Lake Washington, Seattle.

"If this is official then our job is defeated for the time being." Campbell said. "This speed is out of the range of our present boat and is five miles per hour faster than the speed at which the Bluebird is known to stay on the water."

Bluebird is the name of Campbell's boat, the same one used by his father, the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, who set the former mark of 141.74 in 1939.

The news of Sayres' mark came as Campbell prepared to make his first trial runs Wednesday over Lake Coniston.

Carl Galbriath, speedy halfback from North Carolina State University, has been signed by Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four. Galbraith is the ninth import signed by Hamilton. Club officials said another unnamed U.S. player is expected to come to terms later this week.

Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver shot a three-under-par 69 Monday to turn in the best qualifying round in the Pacific Northwest Golf Association tourney.

Doug Bajus, another Vancouver shotsmith, toured the Vancouver Capilano course in 72 for the next-best effort in the first day of the meet. Harry Givan of Spokane had a 73.

The top 32 men and women qualify for match play, starting Wednesday.

More than 180 craft will take part in the annual invitation regatta of the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club, July 1-2.

Entries have been received from many parts of the United States including, St. Petersburgh, Fla., Long Island, N.Y., Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit and Rochester. Canadian boats of all classes will come from Toronto, Port Arthur and several St. Lawrence River clubs

About 50 boys from across Ontario showed their stuff in Galt before the watchful eyes of two New York Giant scouts Monday at the opening sessions of a four-day baseball school conducted by the Terriers of the Intercounty League. The two most promising boys will get an expense-paid trip to New York for a tryout in professional ball.

A three-horse spill badly injured two jockeys and shook up a third in the fifth at Cincinnati's River Downs Monday.

Johnny O'Brien, 31, up on Seneca's Pesty, suffered a broken collar bone. Joseph (Jimmy) Whalen, 24, received arm and head injuries when El Vite went down. The horses were not hurt.

Middleweight champion Jake Lamotta and Tiberio Mitri of Italy signed official contracts Monday for their 15-round title clash in Madison Square Garden July 12.

Two members of Canada's Davis Cup team—Lorne Main of Vancouver and Henri Rochon of Montreal—raced through without the loss of a set in the opening day Monday of the United States Southern Tennis Championship at Louisville.

Main, who swats the ball two-handed on both sides, put out Louisville's James Betcher, 6-0, 6-0. Rochon had a tougher time, but knocked out Joe Davis of Nashville, Tenn., 6-3,6-3.

Most of the other seeded players advanced easily through the first round.

Tigers' George Kell Proving His American Loop Batting Title Last Year Was No Fluke

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"The test of a true batting champion is whether he can repeat."

Wise old Connie Mack first made that remark many years ago. It still is true today.

Since 1900 there have been 44 different major league batting champions. Only eight won the title two or more consecutive seasons although nine others returned to the top after a lapse of a year or more.

Great sluggers like Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bill Terry, Tris Speaker, Joe Medwick and Goose Goslin couldn't repeat as batting kings. Even Stan Musial with three titles and Harry Heilmann with four couldn't put two crowns back to back.

This brings us to George Kell, who won the American League batting championship by 2/10,000ths of a point over Ted Williams last fall.

For some reason Kell's victory over Williams was greeted with applause usually reserved for "cheese champions."

In the balloting for distinction player, Kell was given little consideration.

Did all that discourage the American League standout third sacker? Well, the top figure in the Majors today is .372, compiled by George Kell of the Tigers. He has the most hits, the most doubles.

It is by no means certain that Kell will win the championship again this year. There is no doubt however, that thus far he's been the most valuable player in his league. More than any other player, he has been most responsible for the Tiger's lofty perch.

Kell had a hand in Detroit's uphill 6-4 victory over Chicago White Sox in yesterday's only big league encounter. George got two singles and a walk in four times at bat. He was the only Tiger to score against Billy Pierce until Detroit blasted over the four-run winning rally in the eighth. Kell had a hand in that, too.

The victory increased the Tigers' first-place lead over the idle New York Yankees to 3½ games.

Sixardee Scores Five in Second For 7-3 Win

A second-inning five-run explosion gave the Sixardee team another victory at the air station field last night when they defeated the Belleville Cubs by a 7-3 score.

The airmen bludgeons got to Bobby Bunton, Cub hurler for three hits, an error and a walk in this chukker to salt the game away. After that it was a good ball game with both hurlers bearing down.

Maloney, Sixardee moundsman, went the route for the winners holding the Cub bludgeons to two hits, both doubles, by Vern Goyer and Elder Neilson. Bunton was touched for nine clouts with the Cubs bobbling the ball twice. Sixardee committed five errors.

The airmen scored one run in the first inning, added five in the second and tacked on another in the seventh. The Cubs scored singles in the sixth, 7th and 9th.

Gibson got two for three for the winners with Hastings getting two for four and Racicot two for five.

Names of Nine Players Added To Hall of Fame

Kingston, Ont., June 27 — (CP) — Hockey's Hall of Fame inscribed with the names of 27 immortals of Canada's national winter sport—players and builders—made room for another nine today including Montreal's battle-scarred Edouard Charles (Newsy) Lalonde and Vancouver's Frank Patrick. Four of the nine honored today are dead.

New members are: Lalonde, Patrick, Mike Grant, Silas (Si) Griffis, Joe Malone, all living; and Allan (Scotty) Davidson, Charles Graham Drinkwater, George Richardson and Harry J. Trihey, now dead.

Lalonde is one of the most colorful personalities admitted to the Hall since it was instituted seven years ago. The one-time printer's devil, now 62 and living in Montreal, had few peers in the game.

Newsy gained his fame when professional hockey was in the teething stage. He played with Cornwall in the old Federal League; Michigan Soo in the International; Berlin (Kitchener) in the Trolley; Renfrew in the National Hockey Association; Montreal Canadiens of the N.H.A. and its successor, the National Hockey League, and Saskatoon in the Western Canada League and Pacific Coast League.

Syd Howe, former Detroit Red Wings centre and left-winger, is credited in modern records with the most goals scored in a single game—Lalonde scored nine goals while playing with Renfrew Millionaires against Cobalt.

Two of his team-mates were Frank (Cyclone) Taylor and Lester Patrick, already in the Hall of Fame.

Frank Patrick, younger brother of Lester, is known best for his contribution to big-league hockey in the form of rule changes. He was investigator of forward passing, unlimited substitution, numbering of players, artificial ice and the present N.H.L. playoff system.

He had the distinction in the Pacific Coast League of holding down the job of league president, club president, manager, coach and star player—on the defence—at the same time.

Joe Malone played his early hockey with Waterloo in the Trolley League and later with Quebec Bulldogs in the N.H.A. and N.H.L. and with Montreal Canadiens and Hamilton Tigers. On Jan. 31, 1920, he scored seven goals for Quebec against Toronto St. Pats.

Malone captained the Stanley Cup champion Bulldogs of 1911-13.

Allan (Scotty) Davidson, a native of Kingston, Ont., was captain of Toronto which won the N.H.A. championship and Stanley Cup in 1913-14. He was killed in action in France in the First World War.

Drinkwater and Grant were amateurs, playing all their hockey with Quebec clubs. They formed the regular defence of the Montreal Victorias Stanley Cup-winning team of 1899, contested for by amateur teams at the time. Drinkwater was on the Victoria's club which won the cup in 1894-95, 1896-97, 1897-98 and 1898-99.

Griffis was a forward with Kenora Thistles when that club won the Stanley Cup in 1907. Later he went to British Columbia and was an outstanding defenceman for a decade with Vancouver Millionaires. He was captain of Millionaires' Stanley Cup winners of 1915.

Centenary Hurler Pitches No-Hitter Against Frankford

Frankford — If anyone has noticed a flag flying at half mast in Frankford, it is probably in memory of the Frankford Legion softball team. Travelling to Centenary Tuesday night, they not only failed to score a run, but Fred Edmundson, star hurler for the Centenary team twirled a neat no-hitter. Only six Frankford men reached base, four by walks and two on errors. Edmundson chalked up a total of thirteen strikeouts along the route. While Fred was excelling in the box, his team mates ran wild at the plate, and blasted two Legion pitchers for a total of twenty-four runs. Not to rob Fred Edmundson of any of his glory, he received outstanding support from shortstop Roy Cooke, who made a diving catch of a line drive that was labelled for a hit, and ran far into centre field to haul in a long fly. The win advanced Centenary into a two way tie with Wallbridge as Wallbridge defeated Johnstown 8-7.

Standings

Team	Won	Lost	Pc.
Centenary	2	1	.667
Wallbridge	2	1	.667
Johnstown	2	2	.500
Frankford	1	2	.333
Frankford Legion	1	2	.333

Frankford Merchants regained a first place tie with Trenton in the Trent Valley Softball League, as they defeated Trenton 6-2 on the Frankford diamond Friday night. For Trenton, it was loose fielding that cost them the game, as Frankford was able to get to Harry Farrar for only four hits. Don Boyle, nursing a sore arm pitched a fine game, giving up seven scattered hits, while his team mates played flawless ball behind him.

Line score:—

Trenton	000 002 000—2	7	5
Frankford	400 101 00x—6	4	0

Five of the 13 entrants qualified to enter the 1950 Ontario junior championship golf tournament at the Scarboro Golf and Country Club, Toronto, June 30.

PLANE LANDS SAFELY

New York, June 26 — (CP) — A British Overseas Airways Corporation plane landed safely today in Kingston, Jamaica, after reporting earlier that one engine was afire and it was losing altitude, the B.O.A.C. office here said.

The York airliner which was over the Caribbean en route Balboa, Panama, to Kingston, when it reported the fire, landed without injury to passengers, said a B.O.A.C. spokesman.

Batawa Edge Napanee 3-1 In 10 Innings

The potent buldgeon of Mac Watson and the fine hurling of Art Wright gave the Batawa Shoemen their second victory in their last two starts in Napanee last night when they turned back the homesters by a 3-1 score in a ten-innings thriller.

The Shoemen apparently shook that last innings jinx for they came through handsomely in the tenth chukker with a pair of game-winning runs after the teams had battled in a one-all deadlock from the fourth heat on.

At that there were two out in the tenth before Watson's bat came to life. Red Carson banged out a safety and Dick Bridgeman followed suit. Mac Watson looked at a couple of pitches and then found one to his liking. It soared out into centrefield for a clean double and Carson and Bridgeman trotted home with the winners.

Pitchers Duel

Wright and Stan McTaggart duelled in a thrilling mound fight practically all the way. WWright was touched for eight hits and struck out four while whiffing one with McTaggart yielding ten clouts, three of them coming in the tenth.

Batawa drew first blood in the opening innings when an error gave Bridgeman a life. He went to second on a passed ball and Watson's single drove him home.

Napanee tied it up in the fourth when Vic Burtt drew a life on a Shoemen error, stole second and galloped home on a putout and Bud Green's long hoist to the outfield. Three times the homesters had runners on third base but good defensive play and Wright's hurling held them scoreless.

The defeat drops the Napanee Athletics into second place in the Central Ontario Baseball League standing with Smiths Falls taking over by virtue of their 4-0 defeat of the Kingston Leafs last night.

Watson Connects

Mac Watson, who drove in all three Batawa runs led the Shoemen hit parade with a double and single. Bridgeman and Peacock got themselves two singles each with Solmes, Aquino and Bush getting singles.

Gordie Hayes banged out three for five for the Athletics with Markle getting two for five. Munroe, Bud Green and McTaggart came through with singles.

The score:

Batawa	100 100 000 1—3	10	2
Napanee	000 100 000 0—1	8	2

Wright and Aquino; McTaggart and Hayes.

Connors May Move to Yankees To Plug Hole

(By The Associated Press)

New York Yankees, who've been having first base difficulties might do well to look north — Montreal, to be precise—and take another peek at Kevin Connors, the Royal's colorful first sacker.

It had been rumored last week that George Weiss, general manager of the Yanks, was dickering for Connors to fill the World Series champions' gaping first base cavity.

But, it appeared, Branch Rickey, president of Brooklyn Dodgers and an old trader himself, had too high a price tag on the loquacious Irishman.

Connors, a seasoned minor league performer, once was Yankee property. He was drafted by the Yanks chain and sent to Norfolk in 1942. After a stint in the armed services, Montreal claimed him on waivers from Newark, a former New York farm club, in 1946.

Connors then made stops at Newport News and Mobile, finally landing with the Dodgers last spring. He was given a brief trial, then shipped back to Montreal, where he enjoyed his best year, hitting 20 homers and driving home 108 runs.

But Quite Active

This season Connors' bat has been active. He's hitting .342 with 54 runs batted in. In 59 games, the Brooklyn born left-hander has clubbed 75 hits, including 16 doubles, four triples and five home runs.

The 29-year-old stringbean (he stands six-foot-five) cracked two triples and a single last night to help Montreal whip Baltimore 14-3. It was the 10th victory in 11 games for the Royals, who hold a half-game edge on second place Rochester.

Rochester kept pace with an 8-7 victory over Stan Hack's slumping Springfield Cubs. Larry Ciaffon's eighth-inning home run cracked a 7-7 tie and gave Jack Fasholz' his second victory.

Other league action saw Toronto, behind Max Peterson's six-hit hurling, down Jersey City 2-1 and Buffalo whip Syracuse 12-3, with Fred Hancock rapping two home runs for the winners.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In bridge we learn to shirk unnecessary work. We dig a lot of ruts with rules that breed short cuts. And thus our brain finds room when deeper problems loom.

Rules advise a player what to look for. Sometimes they show a choice. Sometimes one in the choice is obviously eliminated. Then is when the other in the choice is obvious.

You can see this occur with the signals for opening leads. Every little lead has a meaning of its own. Sometimes two meanings. As in the case of the opening lead of a small card.

When a small card is led, rule says it is either the highest or the fourth best of that suit. If it could not be the fourth best, it must be the highest. So says the rule.

To determine which it is, apply the rule of 11. Deduct the led card from 11. If that many are higher in the three hands outside the leader, it must be a fourth best. If more, it is a highest.

This operation is performed when the led card is lower than an eightspot. It would work also with the lead of eightspot or nine. But there is no need to go to that much trouble for its discovery. Why?

A player who leads a fourth best must have three higher, of course. Any three higher than the nine would be a sequence. With a sequence, a top of sequence lead is used; not a small card lead.

Therefore, the lead of a nine is never a fourth best. So, it must be a highest. And the same is almost true of a suit containing the eightspot; excepting A Q 10 8, A Q 9 8, A J 9 8 or K J 9 8.

The clubs in a deal are as shown here:

NORTH
♣K 10 6 3
WEST
EAST
♣A J 7
SOUTH
♣Q 9 4 2

West leads club eightspot. Seeing dummy and his own hand, east knows south has club queen and nine with at least one more club.

Card sense is a series of short cuts moulded by rules.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 27 — (AP) — Fans of Greta Garbo will have a longer wait for her film return.

The deal for her to make a picture in Europe under the producership of Walter Wanger and Eugene Frenke now is completely off, inside sources report. The difficulties of filming in a foreign land caused the abandonment.

Wanger, it is reported, was unwilling to gamble the actress' career in a film which could not be made under the most ideal of circumstances. Garbo, who hasn't made a film since "Two-Faced Woman" nearly a decade ago, is still anxious for a movie return.

Some Roles

Paul Douglas was asked if he had any regrets over not doing the film version of his stage role in "Born Yesterday." His frank answer: "None." However, he wishes his friend Brod Crawford well in the role and hopes the picture will be good.

Richard Basehart has the most confining role of the year in "14 Hours." He plays the potential suicide who stands on a high-up ledge and threatens to jump off. He has to do all his emoting in the space of about one square foot.

Odd Notes

Audie Murphy says he's serious about going tiger hunting in India next winter.

Barbara Stanwyck took time out to make some radio announcements to plug Toronto-born Walter Huston's performance in "The Furies," his last picture.

Avon Jewellers Beat Crawfords By 5 to 2 Score

Brilliant three-hit pitching by McBride and Bellis shackled Crawford Metals last evening as Avon Jewellers took a sparkling 5-2 win in a scheduled Commercial Softball League B game at the Alemite Field.

The Jewellers came up with a revamped lineup that proved most effective against the startled Metals.

Jewellers opened the scoring in the bottom of the first frame counting two runs on a single by Connell and doubles by pitcher McBride and first baseman Ethier, after the first two batters had been retired.

Crawfords came back in the top of the third to make the most of two errors to score one run.

Pitcher McBride came up with the winning blast in the fourth frame with a home run to left field.

Krah hit for the circuit to lead off the seventh inning for Crawfords with their final run.

Avon put two insurance runs across in the bottom of the seventh on doubles by B. McTaggart and Ford, and an error to the second baseman.

McBride Starts

McBride started on the hill for Jewellers and in five innings walked three, struck out four, and gave up one hit for one unearned run. Bellis went the rest of the way in relief giving up two hits for one run while striking out two and walking one.

Taylor and Davis toiled for the losers. Taylor worked for six innings giving up five hits for three runs and the loss. Davis worked the final two frames being nicked for two hits and two runs.

Best at the plate was Avon hurler McBride with a double and a home run in four tries.

Line ups:

Old Oscar Judd Showing Way, To Youngsters

(By The Canadian Press)

Old Oscar Judd is finally starting to show the stuff that made him major league material for years.

Oscar's performance in the Intercounty Senior League to date has been largely disappointing. The former big-league lefthander has seen only limited action on the mound—his specialty— and his hitting has been none too consistent.

It has been a bitter pill for Guelph fans to swallow. They had high hopes when Oscar inked a Maple Leaf contract this spring.

But it was Oscar who made the difference Monday night, when Leafs edged out Kitchener Legionnaires 3-2 in a real thriller. The veteran, playing right field, smashed out a home run and triple, knocking in two runs.

Kitchener rallied in the ninth to score one run and put the tying and winning runs on base, but Jeff Shelton bore down and struck out pinch hitter Shorty Miller to salvage his victory. Shelton, Leaf ace, allowed 10 hits, but was stingy when it counted.

Another Veteran Wins

In Galt, another veteran — Tommy White—pitched London Majors to a 15-2 trouncing of the hometown Terriers. White received flawless support afield and an 18-hit batting attack to hand Terriers their sixth straight loss.

Tommy Lynett was the only Terrier who had any luck with White's delivery, getting three of his team's eight hits. McFadden had four hits in five appearances for the winners.

A pitchers duel between two lefties, Bo Whitcher of Brantford and Lefty Wilson of St. Thomas featured Brantford's 6-2 win over Legionnaires.

The two hooked up in a tight battle for seven innings, but Red Sox reached Wilson for three runs in the eighth and added another in the same inning to salt down the win.

Tommy McGrattan and Jim Borthwick, with two hits each, led the Sox hitters. Whitcher held Legion batters to four hits, with no one batter getting more than one.

Page is Ready To Start Putting Out Fire for Yanks

New York, June 27 — (CP) — Joe Page flexed his famous salary wing today and said he's ready to start putting out those fires again for the Yankees.

"I told Case (Manager Casey Stengel) last night that I'm ready to go," the New York relief ace said.

The 32-year-old bullpen wizard hero of the Yankees' sweep to the World Series championships last year, said his left shoulder now seems free of the miseries that have plagued him for almost a month.

Page, who appeared in 60 games last year, winning 13 and losing eight, has a 3-5 mark so far this season.

His recent ineffectiveness has caused skipper Stengel some alarm.

"I think I'll be all right from here on in and there'll be nothing for skip to worry about," Page said. "I've got my stuff and confidence back.

FAVOR SUNDAY GAMES

Crystal Beach, June 27 — (CP) —Crystal Beach Monday voted in favor of Sunday sports and games, regulated by municipal by-law. The vote was 278 to 150. Operators of the 60-year-old amusement park in this community near the Fort Erie end of the Peace Bridge to Buffalo announced that their amusement devices and rides will be in operation next Sunday.

CHILDREN HAD FEED

Hamilton, June 27 — (CP) — Children on York Street had a watermelon feast last night as a result of a minor taffic accident. An automobile was bunted into a display of watermelons in front of a fruit store. The proprietor of the store turned over the smashed melons to the youngsters.

AT THE BELLE — Bing Crosby is flanked by lovelies Coleen Gray and Frances Gifford who star with him in Paramount's entertainment-packed romantic comedy, "Riding High," continuing today and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre.

Gerry Kesselring Maintains Lead

Toronto, June 27 (CP)—Youthful Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener Monday carded a 36-hole total of 140 over Thornhill Golf Club to maintain his lead in matches to determine Ontario's Willingdon cup golf team.

Nick Weslock of Windsor remained in second spot, turning in a two-round total of 142.

Monday's competition was the second of three tests to determine the four players who will represent the province in the annual interprovincial amateur team match, to be played at Saskatoon in August.

Kesselring won the first match at London's Hunt Club last week with 137 for two rounds. This gave him a total of 277 for the 72 holes.

Weslock, second at London with 140, remains in second place with a total score of 282.

Jack Nash of London scored 137 today, moving into third place with an aggregate 287, while Toronto's Phil Farley took 147 and fourth place.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 27 — (AP) — Asked by a reporter when his busted thumb would be out of the cast, Rocky Graziano replied:

"As soon as Toni Janiro is ready to fight." . . .

R. G. Gustavson, a former ball player who is chancellor of the University of Nebraska, has figured it out that a young pitcher gets tired and loses his stuff after about 100 pitches . . . In the games the chancellor watches, that usually comes about the fifth or sixth inning, though a kid with control can stretch his 100 over nine frames . . . Wonder how many throws those Dodger and Pirate flingers make in those 19-12 and 16-11 games?

Suspended Game

An avid Yankee fan driving from New Jersey into New York Friday night, felt perfectly comfortable when he steered into Holland Tunnel with the Yanks at bat and leading the Tigers 6-0 . . . naturally he couldn't hear the radio underground and he remained there some time, what with heavy traffic . . . As he emerged, he heard with satisfaction that the Yanks were at bat — then came the score: two innings had passed and his favorites were trailing 8-6.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Puds Simkins and Glasses Magee, just walking along, and I said, Hay, there's that cop that picked up our baseball and kept it, that time we were around here having a catch with the guys on this street. He claimed we were libel t[illegible]rake a window with it, and h[illegible]ouldn't give it back to us. Do you remember? I said.

Sure I remember, darn that guy, Puds said, and Glasses said, I bet he didn't give a darn about windows, I bet all he wanted was a free baseball.

Sure, I bet he took it rite home and gave it to his own kid, I said. I bet his kid throws it on his own frunt street all he feels like, and nobody says a werd to him. Darn that darn guy, I wish we could pay him back, I said.

And we walked passed the cop, and he kept on standing on the corner as if he thawt he owned the werld, and Puds said, Hay, did you notice his feet. One of his shoe laces is untied, he said.

Oh boy, if a lottenant or a captin comes around on an inspection and sees him looking like that, he'll be fined for lack of neetness, Glasses said, and I said, They mite even take his uniform away from him and fire him off the force. A cop like that is libel to miss catching a bergler by tripping over his own shoe lace. Oh boy, talk about revenge, let's stick around and see what happens, I said.

Oh boy, revenge, 3 cheers for revenge, Puds and Glasses said, and we kept on walking up and down slow passed the cop hoping a lootenant or a captin would come along.

Queuille Hopes To Form Govt. In Near Future

Paris, June 27— (AP) — Ex-premier Henri Queuille struggled today to get the French socialist party into a new cabinet. War in east Asia added urgency to his efforts.

Queuille expected to report on his progress to President Vincent Auriol later today after interviewing leaders of his own radical socialist party, former Premier Georges Bidault's Mouvement Republaine Popularie and the Socialists.

Queuille insisted that he must have the Socialists to share the responibilitie of power if he resumes the premiership. his earlier cabinet lasted 13 months.

The Socialist, third strongest party in the national assembly, were members of every cabinet after the liberation until last February.

They walked out of the Bidault government then when other parties refused to grant wage raises to low income workers. But they continued to support the M.R.P. premier in parliament. Last Saturday they withdrew their support, because Bidault opposed wage increases for government workers. The cabinet was forced to quit.

The Socialists have doubts about the west European coal-steel plan of Bidault's Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. The British Labor government's aloof attitude has been the chief cause of this feeling.

Indianapolis, June 27—(AP)—Ralph Albertson, 25, a census taker, peeped while he counted. He was given 30 days in jail and fined $50. Testimony was that he was caught April 17 peeping into a bathroom.

World Fasting Record is Set By Fakir Burmah

Lille, France, June 27—(Reuters)—Fakir Burmah, 40-year-old son of an Indian father and English mother, Monday set a world fasting record of 53 days, one hour—and announced his engagement.

Burmah, who had been fasting in a glass coffin with two pythons and scores of vipers since May 4, left his coffin but did not eat anything immediately.

He expressed his pride at beating by one hour the record recently established by his German rival, Willy (Hero) Schmitz.

More than 2,000 spectators cheered Burmah when he announced his engagement to his 30-year-old French secretary Suzanne Pottier.

All the vipers died one after the other during the 53 days, and one python is in bad shape, But Burmah said he'll put it right by secret methods.

Oakville, June 27 — (CP) — From now on, skyrockets or any other type of firecracker that sails more than 50 feet into the air are banned in Oakville—unless they are directed out over Lake Ontario. THE CAMEO

By Virginia Teale

Falter ceremoniously returned the cameo to its box and offered it to Hagar. She shook her head: "Hah. The old brush salesman trick. Tell me first how much?"

"I suppose I should ask $15,000. But, to you only, I'll say $12,000."

She stamped her feet: "You know darned well I cant afford any such price!"

He raised his eyebrows: "For what is probably the rarest cameo on the market? For the piece that would make your collection almost priceless? For the finest carmelian carving ever to come out of Italy?"

"Since when did you become an authority on cameos?"

Falter blew a plume of smoke toward the ceiling: "One learns what one may find profitable. I could tell you even more about this pin. About how it fgured in Napoleon's war with Russia, how it was used as a pawn for freedom by a Russian Archduke. And about how finally it got back into the Russian crown jewels and was eventually brought to this country and sold to provide bread for an exiled duchess."

"You've boned up well, Falter But since I'm positive you didn't give the bread to the duchess, I still question where you got hold of the pin. I haven't got $12,000, or even $10,000 to buy it" She brushed her palms together with brisk finality. "You can take the pin and—go up the street and sell it for $12,000! I've got an inventory to finish."

Falter shrugged, looked at the silver box regretfully and slipped it into his pocket:

"It seems I overestimated your good taste, Hagar, and underestimated your parsimony. Well, perhaps someday you may be able to feast your eyes on this cameo again—through the glass of some other collector's case."

As he sauntered toward the door, Stephanie dashed forward and pulled at his sleeve:

"No! Wait!"

Falter his hand on the doorknob, looked down at her with the heavy lidded half smile that continued to madden Hagar.

Stephanie's face was turned up to his pleadingly. Her right hand tugged imploringly at his left elbow as she spoke.

"Come back tomorrow, Mr. Falter, will you? Come back tomorrow and bring the pin. Will you please?"

His eyes travelled slowly over her face. A slight frown, like a try for recollection, rippled across his forehead.

He patted her shoulder. "I may stop in again—if I'm in the neighborhood."

He went out, closed the door quietly and walked away from the shop without a backward glance at the two staring women.

Hagar confronted Stephanie: "And what may I ask, was the meaning of all that?"

The girl gave her a long, unwavering look, and Hagar drew in the blue eyes.

"Hagar. Hagar, you must buy the cameo locket. You must!"

Hagar laughed nervously. "At that price? What's come over you, girl? I can't afford the thing and that's final."

Halfway to the back room, she stopped and pivoted slowly to face Stephanie:

"Why did you call it a locket? It's a pin. A brooch."

Stephanie was staring into space, she shook her head:

"No. It's a locket. And you must buy it, Hagar. No matter what it costs, we must get it away from Martin Falter."

Martin Falter made his way down the town's main thoroughfare. He passed a small building whose facade consisted of a blue door and a wide window in which a ceramic urn was displayed on a drape of tapestry —this was the studio of Nell and Tom O'Neill, art potters and people-about-town.

Somewhere behind it, probably were the buxom and impulsive Nell, and her husband Tom, whose alternate preoccupation with his clay and his bottle left Nell feeling neglested and receptive to sympathy and attention from a discreet and personable friend.

A sign father up the street was Martin's goal today and he hurried toward it. He glanced up at the narrow platform jutting out over the top of the doorway —on the platform rested a weathered spinning wheel. He rattled the knocker impatiently.

Quick footsteps sounded on the bare floor inside. A small Judas window in the top section of the door was opened cautiously. A key turned in the look and the door swung wide.

"Martin! I was afraid it was some more of those sightseers the art gallery sends down. I had four here yesterday. The next time they come I'm going to pretend I'm a Japanese houseboy and nobody else is at home. Come in, won't you?"

Martin stepped inside. "Greetings, Arnold. Hard at work, I suppose?"

Arnold Pfieffer smiled and adjusted his blue linen smock. "Busy as a bee. Three more orders came in today and no price limit on any of them. Tapestry weaving, as an art, is really coming into its own again you know."

He led the way through the empty hall. The corners of Martin's lips turned up mockingly as he followed the slender, swaying figure.

They entered a spacious brightly lighted room. There were shelves from floor to ceiling honeycombed with cubicles containing yarns and threads of every available color and texture.

Two handlooms stood near the vast windows, one was empty and the other contained almost a finished yard of gray and coral-colored cloth with an abstract design worked out in silver thread.

Arnold fussed about, dragging two maple chairs around into the sunlight and placing a small table between them. Martin lowered himself into one of the chairs.

Arnold seated himself and fitted a cigaret into his meerschaum and amber holder; he lighted the cigaret and leaned back, his eyes expectantly on Martin's face.

"Well, Arnold," Martin began "my expenses have been heavy lately and I find I could use a little extra cash." He watched Arnold's expression change, and chuckled. "Oh, don't look so trapped, dear boy. I'm not going to ask for a loan."

Arnold laughed depreciatingly and flourished his cigaret holder: "Why, I wasn't worried about that, Marty. You know I'd be only too glad—that is, I was just sorry to hear that things aren't prosperous for you."

"Nice of you. Anyhow, I was wondering if you'd do a little errand for me in San Francisco when you go up tomorrow. Tomorrow is the day, isn't it?"

"Yes. I have a tapestry to deliver."

"Mind you Arnold, this is confidential."

Arnold nodded gravely.

Martin drew out the silver box from his pocket, opened it and pushed it across the table.

Arnold reached for it, giving a gasp of surprise and pleasure: "Good heavens! What a perfectly gorgeous thing! I've never seen anything like this—it's exquisite!"

"t's worth an exquisite sum, too," Martin said flatly.

"I'm asking $10,000."

Arnold Pfieffer whistled. He turned the brooch over, fingering it gently. "What do you want me to do with it?" he asked Martin Falter.

"I want you to take it to a prospective buyer I have in San Francisco. Ask him for $12,000, but if you have to, take ten. I'll get a power of attorney notarized tonight and bring it over. Now let's see, I have his card somewhere. . ."

Arnold his lips pursed worriedly, watched Martin's search through his pockets. He gave a little cough:

"You know Marty, you're asking me to take a lot of responsibility. I wish you'd take it up yourself."

"I can't leave town right now. And, anyway, I'd rather not deal with this man in person."

"Oh, stop with the questions, Arnold—you fuss like an old woman. Now, here," he extended a card, "here's the man's name, address and phone number. I know I can depend on you to get me the best possible price."

Aronld frowned, evading Martin's eyes. He spoke hesitantly: "Where—where did you get this pin, Marty?"

"Where d'you think I got it? I suppose you think I stole it? It's mine and I'm going to sell it. I hate people who try to pry."

$40 Pension Without Test Recommended

Committee Favors Paying Needy Between 65 and 70

Suggests Cost of Plans Should be Borne Equally

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 28 — (CP) — A $40-a-month pension to persons 70 and over regardless of means was proposed today by the parliamentary committee on old-age security as the most suitable retirement plan for Canada.

The committee expressed the view that a pension of $40 a month also should be paid to needy persons between 65 and 70.

In a report tabled in the Commons, the joint Senate-Commons committee said it favored a "universal pay-as-you go system applicable to all persons in Canada, 70 and over.

It favored abolition of the means test fro mthe present old-age pension program, as far as those 79 and over are concerned, and the assumption by the federal government of full responsibility for financing and administering this project.

The committee suggested that part of the cost of the plan could be financed through contributions of employers and employees.

As for the 65-69 group, the committee "favored a joint arrangement in whic hthe provinces would co-operate both as to the administration of the program and as to sharing the costs involved." Only needy persons in this group would be given a pension.

At present, the federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost of $40-a-month pensions to needy persons 70 and over. The provinces pay the remainder. Some of them make a supplementary payment. brining the pensions in those provinces to $50 a month.

FREIGHT-TRAIN WRECK BLAMED ON ENTIRE CREW

Carleton Place, Ont., June 28 (CP) — A coroner's jury last night blamed the "bad judgment" of an entire train crew for the death of two men in a freight-train wreck at nearby Ashton station.

The wreck occurred during a heavy snowstorm last March 18 when a west-bound freight plowed into the rear cars of an east-bound train standing half-out of the Ashton siding. Two in and haf-out of the Ashton siding. Two Canadian Pacific Railway trains were involved.

Witnesses testified that the east-bound train had stopped with about 15 freight cars still on the main line in order to uncouple one car to be left at Ashton.

The inquest had been adjourned from March 21 to allow brakemen Thomas C. Gilmer of Ottawa, lone survivor of the west-bound's front-end crew, to testify. He suffered serious injuries in the wreck that claimed the lives of engineer Traverr Short and fireman George H. Hannan, both of Ottawa.

RISING COSTS, LUMBERSHORTAGE MAIN FACTORS

Home-Construction Program Bogs Down

Ottawa, June 28 (CP)—Canada's home-construction program has run into a two-pronged snag—a new upsurge in building costs and a shortage of lumber.

Resource Minister Winters told the Commons last night that the two factors are "likely" to reduce the number of homes constructed this year.

"Prices of lumber have increased sharply in all parts of the country," Mr. Winters said, "and there now is evidence that even at increased prices lumber is not readily available for House builders."

The increase had forced the Crown-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to postpone four projects for married quarters for defence personnel because the prices bid by contractors ranged from $800 to $1,300 a unit above prices for similar houses in 1949.

"The same trend is showing in private house building," he said.

Mr. Winters spoke as the chamber considered a $75,000,000 item in his departmental estimates to

"We face a serious situation," he said.

Premier Frost, Que. Ministers Officially Open Giant Power Development at Des Joachims

Des Joachims, Que., June 28—(CP)— The giant Des Joachims power development, second only to the Queenston plant in the Ontario Hydro network, was officially opened today.

Premiers Frost of Ontario, Provincial Treasurer Gagnon and Hydraulic Resources Minister Bourque of Quebec were on hand as two of Des Joachims' eight units were put in motion, with an immediate capacity of 120,000 horsepower.

Ultimate output of this $75,775,000 project on the Ottawa River, 38 miles upstream from Pembroke, is 480,000 horsepower.

Des Joachims is a third Ontario Hydro development put into service in 15 days. The 56,500 horsepower plant at Tunnel on the Mississagi River was brought in June 14. A week ago today the Nine Portage development on the Nipigon River started producing 80,000 of its 160,000 horsepower capacity.

Robert H. Saunders, Hydro Commission chairman, said the opening of the three projects in 15 days is unparalleled in 44 years of Ontario Hydro history.

The 216,500-horsepower initial capacity of Des Joachims, Pine Portage and Tunnel combined was more than twice as much power as had been made available from new construction on any previous occasion during a similar period.

All in Service in 1951

Four more of Des Joachims' units, providing an additional 240,000 horsepower, will be brought into service progressively during the rest of 1950. All eight will be in service early in 1951, Mr. Saunders said.

Des Joachims, built near the site of some of Champlain's early exploration—has an operating "head" of 130 feet.

The main dam, said Mr. Saunders, closes three channels of the Ottawa River and extends from the Ontario to the Quebec shoreline. The structure is 2,400 feet long, with a maximum height of 180 feet above sound rock. Nearby is an auxiliary dam, 1,300 feet long and 50 feet high, closing off a low spot on the new shoreline in order to maintain the headpond at 500 feet above sea level.

At nearby McConnell Lake is a 1,600 foot-long control dam which holds in check the flood discharge channel of the Ottawa north of the main stream.

3,100 Workers Employed

Twenty-three miles of the main transcontinental line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and 12 miles of Ontario Provincial Highway were moved clear of the area flooded by the project. Peak construction periods saw 3,100 workers at Des Joachims.

Power from the new plant will be generated at 60 cycles and transmitted over 230,000 volt lines to distributing points at Kipling (near Toronto), Burlington, Westminster (near London) and Essa (near Barrie). Part of this power will be fed into the 25 cycle areas through frequency changer stations at Scarborough and Westminster until standardization at 60 cycles is completed throughout Southern Ontario.

206 ARE KILLED IN FUEL DEPOT BLAST IN SYRIA

Material Loss Heavy, 16 Houses Destroyed

Damascus, Syria, June 28—(AP)— Rescue workers had uncovered 206 bodies Tuesday in wreckage from a fuel depot explosion near Homs, 100 miles north of Damascus A late count showed 382 persons injured in the blast Monday.

Reliable sources said 16 houses had been destroyed by the explosion and material loss was "very heavy".

A fire which swept through the fuel depot was reported to have caused the explosion.

An Arab news agency dispatch received in Cairo said the damage at Homs was estimated at the equivalent of $63,000.

The agency said fire broke out in tar stored in the warehouse. While firemen were fighting the blaze, the warehouse exploded, killing all the firemen.

S. Korean Capital Falls; New U.S. Bomb Attacks

American Foot Soldiers In Action for First Time

Tokyo, June 28—(CP)—North Korean spearheads which captured Seoul punched a wide gap in South Korean defences running across the peninsula, military sources said today.

The breakthrough decimated or cut off in the Imjin River area at least four South Korean divisions and outflanked two strongly pressed divisions holding the line from Chungchon, 60 miles northeast of Seoul, to the east coast.

Military sources said the rugged country in South Eastern Korea may make it possible for some new defence line to be established pivoting on Chungji 75 miles southeast of Seoul.

Meanwhile the first American foot soldiers went into the South Korean shooting war as U. S. airmen blasted six heavy Russian-built tanks and lost two planes in crashes. The first ground detachment was a signal corps outfit.

Seoul's airfield 16 miles to the west, was also reported in enemy hands.

Pilots returning from American bombing attacks on northern invaders said from all appearances the capital was in red hands.

Landing at a Southern Japan airbase the pilots said they saw heavy fighting but were unable to determine how the battle was going.

O. H. P. King, Associated Press correspondent who landed at Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul, said Kimpo airfield, 16 miles west and slightly north of Seoul, had been captured by the reds.

He said red forces were advancing on Suwon, the designated capital of the republic if Seoul fell.

Maj. A. E. Shook of Glovis, N. M., one of several pilots who knocked out six Russian - made heavy tanks, pictured Seoul as in the hands of the communists.

The fall of Seoul was first reported by the red radio from Pyongyang, Northern capital.

Swarming With Troops

(Reuters News Agency meanwhile quoted the crew of a U.S. transport plane which returned today to Itazuki air base from Suwon, South Korea, as saying that the city of Seoul is swarming with North Korean troops and the South Korean government already has evacuated Suwon, 25 miles south of Seoul.)

There was no indication from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters here that the Red radio claim of the fall of Seoul was true.

BROKERS WILL BE GIVEN HEARING BEFORE MAIL CUT

Ottawa, June 28 — (CP) — Brokers suspected of using the mails for fraudulent purposes will be given a hearing in the future by the past office before mailing privileges are denied to them, Postmaster-General Rinfret announced Tuesday in the commons.

A three-man board has been established by the post office department to investigate complaints that the mails are being used by brokers and stock promotion companies for illegal purposes.

The board, composed of the director of administration, the chief post office inspector and the department's solicitor, will hear evidence from alleged offenders before the Postmaster-General decides whether they should be denied mailing privileges.

Establishment of the board follows the department's recent action in denying use of the mails to a group of Toronto brokerage firms.

Supreme Court Ruling Challenged By Federation

London, June 28 — (CP) — A ruling by the Supreme Court of Canada that section 5A of the Dairy Industry Act involved civil rights within the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces was challenged Tuesday before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council by F. P. Varcoe, Canadian Deputy Minister of Justice.

The Supreme Court's ruling found, in effect, that a federal law banning the sale of margarine in Canada was invalid.

Varcoe, appearing in support of an appeal brought by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, contended that section 5A was covered by the ordinary meaning of "the regulation of trade and commerce" — a subject that was within the exclusive legislative authority of Parliament under the British North America Act.

The first question was whether any decided cases excluded that section. Secondly, if not, was there a cogent reason why the judicial committee should "take another slice" out of the regulation of trade?

"There is every reason not to do so," Varcoe said, "because it would take from Parliament the power to protect industry in this particular respect.

"This is legislation designed for the protection of the dairy industry inasmuch as it secures to the producers of milk fats a market in Canada for their products."

Canada Will Confer With UN Partners on Aid She Can Offer

- - Pearson

Ottawa, June 28 (CP)— External Affairs Minister Pearson, warmly applauded by the Commons, today vigorously supported American armed intervention in Korea and said Canada will confer with her United Nations partners to see what aid she herself can offer.

In his initial statement, made after a conference of key cabinet ministers, he made no mention of what Canada proposes to do other than to offer vocal support to the U.S. action and to the United Nations Security Council's support of it.

Both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Graydon expressed the hope the American action will produce a swift return to peace in Korea.

Mr. Graydon was applauded when he said that in any question of peace and war Canada's Parliament stood united and all party differences fade away.

His group would support any action that the present situation called for, "not by any one power but through the collective action of the United Nations, prompted by the desire for the maintenance of peace."

House Applauds Minister

Mr. Pearson's statement included both President Truman's announcement of intervention and the Security Council's call for support of that action by U.N. members. The House pounded desks in applause several times. once when the minister said he was sure "all members will applaud and support this action of high courage and firm statesmanship."

He stressed that the U.S. action, although taken on its own, is in accordance both with the U.N. charter and with the U.N. resolution of Sunday, calling for withdrawal of North Korean troops.

Mr. Pearson reviewed the developments in Korea since Sunday and the action taken by the United Nations Security Council which ordered the Communist forces to withdraw behind the 38th parallel.

He said it was obvious the invading forces would not obey the order. It was also a fact that the security council had no forces with which to back up its cease fire order.

In this case it was the responsibility of individual members of the U.N. to support the secur-

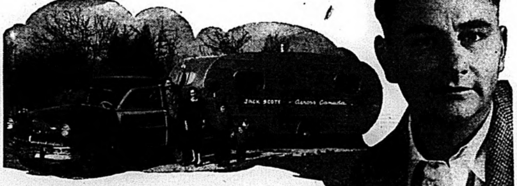
An Exciting New Series of Travel Stories



Jack Scott is going Trans-Canada. To many people, those words mean that the bright punster and writer of the West Coast is going to give blanket coverage to the immense stretch of country from Victoria to St. Johns

For the uninitiated, Jack Scott is a veteran of 17 years in the newspaper game, and during that time he has been a reporter, city editor, news editor, executive editor, managing editor, special correspondent and columnist. His witty pieces are read from coast to coast by people who have come to love his color and warmth of writing. From his home base at Vancouver, he has until now provided pungent reading for the people of ten provinces.

Accompanied by Family

Accompanied by his wife and two children, Scott is starting on a coast-to-coast trip in a new station wagon and trailer, ready to poke his sharp pen and bright humor into the odd corners of the Dominion. Each day, Scott's stories will have a different dateline, and each day he will tell you about the habits, the scenery, the way of life, the thoughts of the people of the place where he stops.

The wandering Scotts— Jack, his wife Grace and children Judy and Jill—will follow the Trans-Canada Highway and throw in side trips here and there to the smaller points. The grass-roots junket is a follow-up to trips that the Vancouver writer has taken in other years along the Alaska Highway and into Mexico. For the first time, the kids are going along, and Judy, who is 10, is as thrilled as her father and mother. Jill, now two years old, entered into the spirit of things by sleeping in the trailer in the Scotts back yard before they left home.

One of the highlights of the trip will be the mingling of the waters of the Pacific Ocean with the Atlantic. Jack and his family have a milk bottle full of the Pacific water, and plan to dump it into the Atlantic at the end of the journey.

Trailer for Home

The Scott home for the trip is a trailer 22 feet long and eight feet wide, and already the travellers are anticipating the comforts of aluminum over their heads when thunder, lightning and rain overtake them.

Readers of the Ontario Intelligencer, many of whom may know Scott from his clear columns on people in general and the West Coast in particular, will have the opportunity of going along with him as he writes his way across Canada. The series of articles will start tomorrow (Thursday) with the roving Scotts in Revelstoke, B.C. "Gypsies, Inc.", Scott's own name for the fun-loving foursome, will give you a new down-to-earth picture of the Canadian way of life.

King May Make Royal Visit To N.Z. in 1952

Wellington, N. Z., June 28 — (Reuters) — The King will probably make a Royal visit to New Zealand before June, 1952, Governor-General Sir Bernard Freyberg indicated today.

Reading the Speech from the Throne at the ceremonial opening of the Parliamentary session, the Governor-General said he had intended relinquishing his appointments after his normal 5-year term which ends next May.

However, the Prime Minister had asked him to remain for a further term "during the course of which it is earnestly hoped the Royal visit will take place."

The Throne Speech said there were reasons for optimism about New Zealand's economic future.

Conditions favored expansion of farm production, and increased exports would provide the necessary exchange to buy more imports both of consumer goods and raw materials for development of local manufactures.

WASTE PAPER NOT FOR COLLECTOR TAKEN

Collectors of waste paper are really on the bit with some taking papers and magazines from verandahs not intended for disposal, it is revealed by reports reaching the local police department.

Last week a resident on James Street complained that magazines and a scrap book valued as a keepsake had disappeared from her side verandah during her absence from home. It was believed that a paper collector was responsible.

Again today a similar complaint reached the police from a man in another part of the city. The man is making the round of local waste paper dealers in the chance that the collector may have disposed of his load.

District Masons Attend Service In Anglican Ch.

Stirling—Some one hundred and fifty members of the Masonic order paraded from the local Masonic Temple, North St., to St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday last for service at 7.30 p.m. with V. Worshipful Bro. Thos. W. Solmes acting as marshal. Included in the parade were representatives from lodges in Kingston, Bath, Belleville, Frankford, Marmora, Tweed and Stirling lodges A.F. and A.M. The service was in commemoration of the laying of the corner stone of St. John's Church under Masonic auspices in 1860. The church was filled to capacity and an overflow congregation in the Parish Hall heard the service over a public address system.

Brethren Welcomed

Rev. A. J. Anderson warmly welcomed the visiting brethren and was assisted in the service by Rev. J. Brownlie rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, and Rev. N. R. Burke B.A., rector of Christ Church Deer Park, Toronto.

Special music for the occasion included an anthem 'Bless the Lord O My Soul" which was sung unaccompanied by the choir and a solo "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" by Bro. William Reynolds. Mrs. Harry Morrow organist presided at the console of the organ for the service.

Thought-Provoking Sermon

A most appropriate and thought-provoking sermon was delivered by Rev. N. R. Burke.

Anniversaries are milestones in our history, but we don't observe them to glory in just how old we are," stated Rev. Burke. "There is no virtue in growing old, but it's what we do with our time that is the important thing. While paying tribute to those who have gone before let us look to the future.

Some people and some organizations think they are the whole church but they are mistaken continued the speaker. The church is the whole congregation of Christian people throughout the world. Referring to the Temple of King Solomon, as a magnificent building with meaning in all its parts, sermons, in its stones and books in its beams, the speaker stated the two pillars surmounted by lily-work, situated at its entrance represented strength and beauty, the very foundation of religion in any body carrying on the work of the church.

Eminent Marks

Strength and beauty were the eminent marks of the life of a Christian. There is nothing sissy about being a Christian, it demands virility and strength stated Rev. Burke. The strength of a Christian is derived from God. Many of us have only one talent but God uses what little we have and makes something out of it.

We as Christians must ever remember one of the greatest marks of a Christian in his happiness and we must endeavor to make all our services happy. This world needs God and it is our duty irrespective of whatever denomination we belong to make the church strong concluded Rev. Burke.

Following the service a reception was held for the Masonic brethren in the Legion Hall with sandwiches and coffee being served.

Black Squirrel Object of Attack By Cock Robin

Who killed Cock Robin?"

"Not I" squealed, chirped or whatever a black squirrel does when he is the object of an attack by one of the red-breasted harbingers of Spring.

Whether the long-tailed Hawkshaw was snooping around the robin's nest, is not known, but suffice it to say the red-vested feathered fighter was in no mood to serve afternoon tea to the inquisitive nutcracker.

It swooped down, a ruffled fury and landed abaft the squirrel's ears. Its beak pecked viciously in the general direction of the squirrel's head, with possibly the eyes being the target for the day.

The squirrel being in no mood to admit that the "Eyes have it" scampered along a branch of the tree where the the scuffle was taking place, down the trunk and along the pavement to another tree.

But it could not shake off the infuriated robin. The bird followed it and resumed the attack on the black intruder and when last seen was continuing a reasonable facsimile of a drummer in high gear on the squirrel's neck and head. The fight occurred near the Exhibition Grounds.

Drum and Trumpet Band Of R.C.A.F. Makes Splendid Showing at Music Festival

Made up of musically-minded members of the RCAF at Trenton Station and No. 6 Repair Depot, the Royal Canadian Air Force Drum and Trumpet Band captured the Dominion championship for their type of band at the Waterloo Musical Festival held on Saturday.

The band took first, second and third prizes in three contests of the senior drum and trumpet division in which bands from all across Canada competed. In the two remaining contests, bands tied for first place.

Members of the Trenton band are proud of their showing in the street parade in which bands marched three miles. Out of a possible 100 points for music, drill, deportment and march past, the band received 94.5 per cent. One hundred and sixty bands took part in the parade.

Last year in their initial entry at the Waterloo festival the Trenton band won second prize for music. Since then the band had entered ten competitions and has won ten firsts. For the band's current performance at Waterloo each of the members will receive a gold, silver and bronze medal.

All members of the band are volunteers and practice mainly after duty hours. Their musical director is AC1 George Raylor, a member of the Senior Air Staff Officers Branch at Training Command Headquarters. Cpl. W. Wilkinson is the leader of the percussion group, Flight Sergeant Noseworthy, drum major; LAC Shine, tenor trumpet leader and LAC Christiansen, leader of the baritone trumpets.

Kiwanis Club Members Taken On Hospital Tour

Members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club were taken on a guided tour of the Belleville General Hospital Tuesday afternoon following their regular weekly luncheon meeting held this week at the hospital.

The hospital, described by superintendent Harold Wakefield as "Belleville's largest laundry, largest restaurant, and largest hotel," provided many interesting moments for the touring Kiwanians.

The purpose of the tour, pointed out Bruce Lattimer, one of the governors, "is to let the taxpayer know what is being done with his money. You own this hospital and should be interested in it," he said.

Mr. Wakefield, prior to the tour, outlined the general structure of the hospital, the disposition of its facilities and the disbursement of its annual budget of $625,000.

"There are 10,000 X-rays taken at the hospital each year, and the hospital laboratories do 60,000 tests annually. Each day one and a half tons of laundry are done, 1,100 meals are served, and each night approximately 300 people, including the nurses, sleep in the hospital buildings," Mr. Wakefield told Kiwanias.

Shown The Contrast

Members were shown the old, antiquated laundry, and in contrast, were taken through the new laundry still in the process of being built. Instead of the cramped, hot, unsuitable facilities of the old laundry the bright, airy, new one is built on an assembly line basis with the latest and most modern equipment being installed.

Kiwanians were shown through the wards, each one filled to capacity. They were shown the older parts of the building in which the doors are not wide enough to admit a bed and for this reason present an extreme hazard in case of fire. So crowded are conditions that patients must be accommodated on beds placed out in the halls.

Perhaps the most interesting features of the tour were the operating rooms and the new X-ray machine. Volunteers were screened" by the fluoroscope as one of the staff doctors pointed out some interesting anatomical details.

Superintendent Introduced

In addition to the equipment it was pointed out the hospital has the services of a psychiatrist who comes up from Kingston for about a day and a half each week. It was also learned that there is no hospital pathologist and that all this work has to be sent out of town.

Equipment filling the corridors on the ground floor will be removed when the old laundry is converted to a proper store room.

Prior to the tour the superintendent was introduced to the club by Bruce Lattimer and the appreciation of the Kiwanis Club for the opportunity to take the tour was expressed by Harold Carruthers.

Regular Kiwanis business was conducted with President Taylor Franklin presiding.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 28 (CP)— Moderate support appeared lifting prices slowly upwards as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today following two days of sharp decline. Volume for the first three hours was 2,165,000 shares, about 551,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

The market opened on a strong note on moderately heavy buying but traders became wary and prices settled into a comparatively narrow price path.

Papers moved upwards in industrials and liquors also brightened. Refining oils were strong in early dealings but weakened as the session progressed. Leading utilities were higher and steels showed an almost solid list of declines. The advance, generally, was confined to key stocks like International Paper, Bell Telephone, Hiram Walker's and B.A. Oil.

Western oils jumped ahead strongly at the opening and spent the rest of the session holding the early advances. Gains ranged up to 25 cents in leaders.

Advances doubled losses in base metals. Consolidated Smelters, hard hit in previous markets this week when prices slumped following news of fighting in Korea, was the strongest issue.

Junior gold producers showed a broad list of gains ranging up to 10 cents.

Retail Prices For Coal Shows Little Change

Retail coal prices in Belleville may or may not increase, in accordance with higher prices from the mines. Word from local dealers this morning was that they have either received no information on new rises, or that they plan to absorb the increase of summer months until the fall, and then raise the retail price.

Dealers in Toronto plan to increase prices of coal from 35 to 50 cents per ton, CP reports say. On the heels of that announcement came one from London, Ont., that coal there would increase about 50 cents a ton within a week.

Local men emphasized this morning that they had heard nothing more on the situation than what they read in papers, and that for the most part they are sitting back to watch developments. If and when increases do come, they will be "pretty well comparable" with price rises in other areas.

Since May the dealers have been paying higher prices for coal from the mines, and some have adopted an absorption policy for the summer months. The policy works this way: the retail price of coal is pegged at the spring price, and any increases during the summer months are absorbed by the dealer. Then, in the fall, the increases are lumped and passed on to the customer. Purpose of the plan is to provide stability in price for a period of time and to encourage people to buy their coal at cheaper prices during the slack summer period.

Empire Press Union Declares Common Policy

Toronto, June 28 (CP) — A common policy on two basic issues affecting newspapers throughout the British Commonwealth has been set at the seventh Imperial Press Conference of the Empire Press Union.

Resolutions rejecting the United Nations draft covenant on freedom of information and urging retention of low-rate intra-Commonwealth press cable rates were passed during the 18-day conference, which ended yesterday.

R. A. Farquharson, editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail told the conference that getting trained reporters had been for years the main problem of Canadian newspapers.

He suggested an exchange of reporters between Commonwealth countries to improve the situation.

The Union urged that the U.N. draft covenant on freedom of information be rejected by Commonwealth countries.

Two Clauses Criticized

Specifically the Union criticized two clauses in the covenant.

They were: 1. Government would have the right of obtaining corrections in newspapers of other countries in cases where articles were published that reflected on them.

2. "National security" could be made the reason for withholding the transmission of material by foreign correspondents.

The resolution read in part: "The press should enjoy by right the full freedom of expression that is secured to every individual, which freedom should in no case be restricted save for specific transgression, proved to the satisfaction of a competent court.

One delegate described the resolution as a "direct answer to the covenant, scheduled for consideration by the U.N. Educational and Cultural Organization July 3 at Lake Success.

The resolution was sponsored by the Australian delegation. India and Pakistan registered the only objection, contending that absolute freedom was not practicable in all cases.

Sir Keith Murdoch, chairman of the directors of the Herald and Weekly Times, Ltd., of Melbourne, Australia told the conference that newsprint restrictions were necessary but governments should put newspapers on the level of "most essential' industries.

The conference urged delegates to press for lowered cable rates between groups of colonies, such as the British West Indies, which are closely associated geographically or politically.

Two Teen-Agers Rob Trucker and Tie Him to Tree

Galt, June 28 — (CP) — Two teen-age hitch-hikers last night tied Alvin J. Schmidt of R. R. 2 Milverton to a tree on the Galt highway and robbed him of his wallet containing $23. They escaped in the truck in which Schmidt gave them a lift. It was found today in a ditch four miles west of Galt.

Driving along No. 8 Highway about midnight, he was flagged by two youths. They rode with him but on the outskirts of Galt told him to stop and with wire and rope tied him to a tree.

Schmidt was able to release himself and report to police.

DROWNED IN QUARRY

Port Colborne, June 28 (CP)— John Allen Hoyle, 9, was drowned Tuesday in a quarry a few miles west of here. Police said he went to the quarry with a group of boys for a swim after school.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Colclough, North Front Street, Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Natives of England but residents of this city for the past 26 years, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Colclough, 200 North Front Street, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage over the weekend.

Saturday afternoon a reception was held in the Sunday School rooms at Bridge Street United Church where baskets of colorful peonies provided the decorative scheme. The happy couple cut a four-tiered wedding cake resting on a centre piece bed of chiffon and golden roses.

Guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Colclough assisted by Mrs. M. J. Howard. A granddaughter, Miss Sylvia Woodley, invited guests to sign the golden wedding guest book.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Colclough were "at home" to friends and relatives where a brief program of musical entertainment was enjoyed. A trumpet solo was played by Edwin Colclough, while Miss Woodley rendered a piano solo. Donald Smith sang "My Cathedral" and also played a piano solo.

During the program Rev. Don. C. Amos spoke briefly on the meaning of things "golden", especially at a golden wedding celebration.

Married in England

Mr. and Mrs. Colclough were married half a century ago on June 25th at Wolstanton Chapel, Staffordshire, England, by the Rev. Epworth Thompson. They came to Belleville 26 years ago, where Mr. Colclough for the past 20 years has been caretaker at Prince of Wales School. Mrs. Colclough was the former Florence May Lunt.

The happy couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts and roses, while cablegrams of congratulation were received from England and Paris.

Out of town guests attending the anniversary included Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Woodley and daughter Sylvia of Gananoque, Mrs. George Smith and son Donald of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Roberts of Peterborough and Mrs. Annie Underwood of Chesterton, England, the hometown of Mr. and Mrs. Colclough. Mrs. Underwood recently arrived in Canada to visit her daughter at St. Catharines.

Mr. and Mrs. Colclough have four children, Miss Ethel and Miss Eva Colclough, at home; William of Charlotte Street, and Mrs. Gerald Woodley of Gananoque.

On Sunday the out-of-town guests and family were entertained to dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Colclough.

ATOMIC AGE

When the Second World War came to an end, most people envisaged an atomic age, with the power manifested by the atom bomb put to peacetime uses. Scientists the world over were enthusiastic over its potentialities, and the average man had a picture of a home heated by atomic power, and atomic cars and a faster life tempo.

Now, five years after the first flush of hope, it appears that the program to commercialize nuclear energy is taking much longer than originally supposed. The head of Britain's atomic energy program, Sir John Cockcroft, told recently that it is impossible to predict the future of the atom in peacetime for at least ten years. During that time, he said, experimental nuclear energy plants must be built and operated.

In theory, prospects appear good, because the scientists know that the complete destruction of one ton of uranium by fission releases as much energy as the burning of three millions tons of coal. The main stumbling block in the process, according to the British director, is that the country engaging in such research would have to have uranium ore reserves to last several centuries. Again, the problem is not one of supply, since authorities feel that uranium is 20 times as abundant as silver, and is found in many minerals. Rather, the problem is to find paying methods of extracting the uranium from lower-grade ores.

Methods of extracting the uranium during wartime would have to be improved, the scientist says, so that there would be less waste in production.

It seems that the atomic age is farther away than most people believed, and its coming will be delayed by problems surmountable only with time.

VERY SLOW DRIVER A MENACE

The slow driver as a potential risk on the highways is indicated by the Fort William Times-Journal citing a case of a resident of the district who drove along the Nipigon highway at 20 miles an hour. Behind him was an ancient car. These two headed a slow procession members of which were growing impatient at the slow rate of progress they were able to make on the oad.

At last came an impatient driver who had about 250 miles of the highway to make before he settled down for the day. Impatience led him to grasp at what he thought was a chance to break through the slow parade. But as conditions would have it there came a speeding car and it looked as if the other man was trapped.

But there was at least one driver who saw a way out of the condition, he gave way to the passing motorist allowing him to get out of the way of the car meeting him. It was just in the nick of time that the man who was to blame got out of the line.

The man who tried to get by by a spurt of speed would have been caught between the two processions.

The man at the head of the motor procession was a selfish driver says the Times-Journal, a most dangerous driver. He was the one who deserves blame, "a most dangerous" one, the paper calls them.

TALE-BEARING

"No one loves to tell a scandal except to him who loves to hear it," some moralist has observed; "never make your ear the grave of another's good name." Refuse to be a listener and the evil practice is effectively discouraged, says a writer in Hamilton Spectator. It is well to discredit all damaging rumors. In law a person is deemed to be innocent until his guilt has been proved by legal process. So it should be in the ordinary relationships of life. Without knowing all the facts, no one is in a position to pass judgment. To think the best, and not the worst, of others is the way to cure this vicious habit of tale-bearing. What a commentary on the weakness of human nature it is that people should be more interested in hearing unfavorable reports than words of praise! But just because scandal may give a certain spice to conversation is no excuse for indulging in it. It is both cruel and degrading to do so.

When envy is at the bottom of malicious talk, it is only an aggravation of the offence. If there is cause for envy, the right attitude woul dbe to try to emulate the envied one, so as to become equally worthy of applause. Nothing is to be gained by belittling another's achievement; to make it a cause of criticism and ill will is as ridiculous as it is sinful. If tale-bearers could only be made to see the ugliness and folly of their conduct, their number would rapidly decline.

Public opinion is almost omnipotent. A single snowflake — who cares for that? But a whole day of snowflakes, drifting over everything, obliterating landmarks and gathering on the mountains to crash in avalanches— who does not care for that? — Henry Ward Beecher.

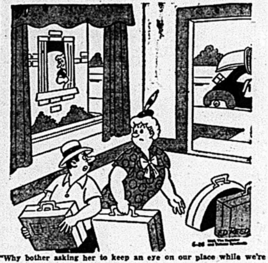
SUCCESS

Success, the business page extols
Is told in terms of profits made
By management that reaches goals
At which the dividends are paid.

In music, he achieves success
Who writes the most appealing song.
In sports, the daily papers stress
The triumphs of the fleet and strong.

But scanning life at fullest length,
From start until the journey ends,
On something more than skill or strength
Man's ultimate success depends.

Who has not once his trust berayed.
Though in no book his name appears,
If stout the home he built has stayed,
Triumphantly has lived the years.



"Why bother asking her to keep an eye on our place while we're gone? She couldn't break the habit anyway."

MODERNIZATION

One complaint sometimes made against the church in this country is that it is old fashioned— that it has not kept up with the times. We Americans seem to be especially interested in modernizing things, a fact which partially accounts for our high standards of comfort and convenience in living.

Actually, of course, the church has become modern in many ways. This is especially true of its physical plant—the buildings and equipment. New churches are likely to be built by the most modern methods, with the latest types of construction, heating systems, insulation, and occasionally even air-conditioning. Inside, worshippers sit on pews specially designed for comfortable posture and listen to a complicated electric organ or to a speaker using an amplifier in an auditorium with scientifically planned acoustic qualities. For the hard of hearing, special electronic aids are provided. Children attend Sunday School in well-lighted rooms with furniture and equipment undreamed of a few decades ago.

What has not changed is the church's message. It is, or should be the same message that Jesus preached nearly two thousand years ago in Palestine. This will never change. It is a message about the relationship of human beings to God, and human nature has not changed in two thousand years. And two thousand years is but a moment in the sight of God, who never changes, but is eternal.

Strong Deterrent Seen in Swift Action by U.N.

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

A powerful deterrent to another world war may well have been provided by the United States' quick compliance with the United Nations resolution calling on members to lend support to the peace organization's demand for a halt in the Korean fighting.

That forthright action by the United States also may have saved the U. N. from the same fate as the late League of Nations.

The League died from lack of support to deal with aggression such as was displayed by Japan in its assault on Manchuria in 1931, and by Mussolini in his attack on little Ethiopia in 1935.

Call of U. N. Heard

But the call of the U. N. hasn't fallen on unwilling ears. Had it done so, the usefulness of the U. N. would have been greatly impaired, if not destroyed.

There is no challenge to war in sending American air and naval forces to aid the Southern Korean Republic which is being attacked by the army of the Russian-sponsored communist government of Northern Korea. On the contrary, it is a move wholly dedicated to peace.

The future trend of the cold war, especially in the great Asiatic theatre, may pivot on this development. If this aggression isn't halted in its inception there is no telling to what ends it might lead.

We are not putting too fine a point on it in recognizing the obvious fact that this red aggression, if allowed to succeed without resistance, undoubtedly would inspire other aggression. It would be an invitation to militaristic communism to venture on similar programs in Indonesia, Burma, India, Tibet, and where not.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

THE BLACK LACE NEGLIGEE

The other day I got the following letter from a lady who is convalescing in a Montreal hospital:

Dear Mr. Rose:

Three weeks ago I was operated on for a leg infection, and since then I've been taking it easy, a little too sick to leave the hospital and a little too well to keep from having the fidgets. Consequently, I've been something of a busybody, wandering around rooms and corridors and passing the time of day with other patients. During my wheelchair travels I happened to come across a story which you might like to use in your column.

It has to do with a black lace negligee that I got for Christmas a couple of years ago — one of those lovely bits of peek-a-boo that every woman adores. Unfortunately, however, I'm more the pajama type, and so ever since I got it it's been packed away in a bureau drawer.

When I was rushed to the hospital last month, my sister stuffed everything that looked like bed-apparel into a valise and brought it around to my room, and sure enough, on top was the negligee. And sure enough again, it went right back into a bureau, this time a white one.

Recently, however, I finally got to use the negligee, and the way it happened was like this. A few doors down the corridor from me there was a Mrs. Benoise who was suffering from a disease with a long Latin name that I can't even remember, but what it amounted to was a creeping paralysis which had started at her toes, worked its way up to her abdomen and was steadily moving toward the heart. And as if that weren't enough trouble, shortly after the woman had checked into the hospital her husband had been badly hurt in an auto crash — he had driven his car head-on into a truck which was parked without lights.

Last week when the paralysis got up to within inches of Mrs. Benoise's heart the doctors decided to let the couple see each other for what would probably be the last time. I was in Mrs. Benoise's room when they told her about the visit, but instead of pepping her up it seemed to make her more miserable than ever. When I asked her what was the matter, she said it was probably silly but she knew she looked a sight and she hated for her husband to see her in hospital clothes with her hair and face not fixed.

I had a talk with the nurse, and with the permission of the doctor we brushed back Mrs. Benoise's hair and put some make-up on her face, and for a final touch I got out my black lace negligee and slit it up the back so we could put it on her without having to move her around. And I'm not exaggerating when I say that when the dying woman saw herself in a mirror she looked happy for the first time in weeks.

Of course, we all skedaddled when her husband was wheeled in, his head bandaged and most of his body in a cast. And a couple of hours later the doctor came and told me that Mrs. Benoise wanted to thank me for the use of the negligee. Well, she could hardly talk, she was that excited. Her husband, it seemed, had complimented her on how lovely she looked and told her that as soon as he got out of the hospital he was going to buy her a dozen negligees like the one she was wearing. And just before they wheeled him out he promised her that he would be around the next morning, and asked her to please wear the negligee again.

He didn't get back, however, because that night Mrs. Benoise died, and everything considered I guess it was just as well.

Yesterday, when the doctor came in to see me, we got to talking about Mrs. Benoise.

"I'm glad I finally found some use for that silly negligee," I said. "At least Mr. Benoise will always remember how pretty his wife looked the last time he saw her."

"I hate to disappoint you," the doctor said, "but Mr. Benoise couldn't see her. He lost his sight in that car smash-up, and before I brought him into his wife's room I carefully briefed him on her make-up and how she looked in your negligee."

Anyhow, that's the way it happened, Mr. Rose, and perhaps if you shuffle the facts around a bit it might make a story.

Sincerely,
Charlotte Ferguson.

PATIENT PEOPLE

We constantly hear, or read, of some unknown suddenly coming into his own—largely because of long patience in perfecting himself in some manner. Recently a jobless G.I., unknown to the country, entered a golf tournament, and scored a 63, which broke the course record! He won't be out of a job long now. Apparently he had a high aim in his mind.

"An imperturbable demeanour comes from perfect patience. Quiet minds cannot be perplexed or frightened, but go on in fortune or misfortune at their own pace, like a clock during a thunderstorm." So wrote Stevenson.

Usually it takes a long time to wait out fortune, but it pays off. The rewards are worth all the cares, discouragements, and setbacks. Blessed, indeed, are patient people, for they are an inspiration to all who know, or contact them, in everyday life.

It takes great patience to excel in any endeavor, as we all know so well. But, without it we get nowhere, so it's a fine investment. I am sure that patient people live longer — and happier. We can't stand still, however. We must keep moving toward some worthwhile objective. I am convinced that the lovers of freedom can prevent another cruel war if they will but have patience enough, and not keep pointing a gun at the other fellow.

When Jesus, in one of his beatitudes, said "Blessed are the meek," I am sure he didn't mean the people who sit around with folded hands, doing nothing—but the patient, hopeful, and cheerful, who keep going, doing the best they know, and then try to improve on that! Patient people—they should be called the "salt of the earth."

We see in nature plenty of examples of patience. Nothing that is lasting grows up quickly. It is only after years of patient plodding that the artist, writer, or scientist, begins to reap the rewards of his toil. Many of them have had to go through years of struggle, as well, and often hunger. I have noted that shut-ins and afflicted people exhibit unusual patience and cheer.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Summer is a good time to remember that the stomach, that homely old bag of tricks, is the centre and core of the whole business, as far as we are concerned. Everything—our beautiful brains, our hearty bodies, all our amusing bright gadgets like our eyes, ears, our tingling, swift nerves—everything depends first, last and all the time on that poor old sodden catch-bucket in our midriff, the stomach.

The heart keeps tap, tapping away all day and night, trying to impress us with its importance. Our lungs swell and fall, augustly, automatically, and with an air of precedence. But if the poor old stomach, the shape and form of which we had forgotten if we ever knew it, did not take in its fuel and go to work on it in its secret and appointed fashion, every other organ in the body would collapse like the dependent creature it is.

Yet we treat our stomachs like conveniences instead of like the basic or Number One organ. In summer especially, it is the victim of our whims. We love to astonish it, to startle it, to give it a jolt. We play tricks on it with ice. We shoot sour pickles, screeching salads, howling hot dogs into it. In summer more than in other seasons, we confound it— down there in the dark— with canned foods, processed meats, mechanized beer, technological whiskey and countless forms of five cent fizz.

To it we commit the mathematical problem of reducing all the junk we give it to the required amount of energy to keep all those bellows and alarm clocks of our system obediently performing.

We give far more attention to that gas that goes in the car tank than to the fuel that goes into our stomachs. It is a wonderful sight to see a man diligently straining the gas through a $2 filter funnel into his outboard engine in order to scoot across the bay to lunch with friends on food that would sting a snapping turtle.

VITE REQUIRES VITAMINS

A reader sends the label from a package of expensive hokum. According to the label the nostrum contains whopping portions of every vitamin I ever heard of and also several I have not yet heard about, not to mention a dozen or more minerals. . . .

To be sure, numerous factors or components of the B complex invariably occur in combination, for instance in wheat, liver, ham, alfalfa, dried beans. That scarcely warrants the practice of combining all vitamins in one shot.

An adequate daily ration or supply of vitamins is as necessary for health, vite, functional efficiency as is food and water. One can live longer without food than without water, and without vitamins and/or minerals, than without food, but one can't live indefinitely without vitamins and minerals nor can one enjoy good functional efficiency, good health, vite if one's daily ration of vitamins is deficient for an extended period—throughout childhood and youth, for example.

I must keep reminding you credulous customers that vitamins are not magic, not medicine at all, but just accessory nutritional factors. With rare exceptions no effects can be noticed or expected from taking vitamins until the daily ration has been taken without interruption for two or three months. It is absurd to imagine a "shot" or "dose" of vitamins can produce are restore "pep" in the course of a few hours or days. Try to get it through your head that any symptoms due to need of this or that vitamin have inevitably developed in consequence of prolonged deficiency in the daily intake of the vitamin in the diet and the gradual degeneration of cells, tissues or organs. This degeneration is known as nutritional deficiency disease. Some of the functioning cells are replaced by inert fatty or scar tissue instead of new functioning cells. If the degenerative process can be reversed or even arrested it will certainly take many months of supplemental vitamin feeding to achieve it. So you had better have some understanding of what you hope to do with vitamins if you take them at all. Don't expect immediate effects, as you might from medicine. First be sure which vitamin or vitamins you need, and then take an adequate daily ration of it for at least three months if at all.

In the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks (send stamped self addressed envelope for it) I give my belief about the nutritional deficiency of most Americans, young and old, who live on refined food. To supplement my own everyday food I eat at lunch a suitable ration of the three vitamins and three minerals which are lacking in our modern refined food — namely, thiamine (B1), riboflavin and D; calcium, phosphorus and iodine. Just enough of each to keep my daily intake adequate for good nutrition, I think.

From time to time some old timer, irked by the popular abuse of vitamins, asserts that a balanced diet, whatever that may mean, will provide all the vitamins one needs. But rarely does such a doctor or health authority specify which foods for breakfast, lunch and dinner will provide the needed vitamins.

The corrective, protective or basic health diet outlined in The 7 Keys to Vite (for this booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope) includes the best food sources of minerals and vitamins — milk, eggs, fresh fruit, leafy vegetables, fresh greens, cheese, nuts.

People with enough brains and gumption to surmount the popular obsession against it may greatly improve their ordinary diet by substituting plain wheat for part of the white flour in bread and other items. On written request, accompanied with stamped self-addressed envelope, I'll send a pamphlet titled Wheat to Eat which suggests various ways of using plain wheat in the family diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tony's Tail Still Wags

No. No. Not a pill—the thing you might have given your beloved Tony the Wirish Terror an hours before you took him to the veterinary for execution, but some of that same medicine you have suggested that the physician or dentist give a patient who has excessive dread of dental treatment. (M. C.)

Answer—Thank you. But, after all, Tony hardly suspected why I was handing him over to the kindly veterinary—not till the very last moment, when he faltered just a bit with that wag. I still think the veterinary's opinion was a wise one—that an injection of strychnine into the heart is the most merciful way to execute an animal.

Glandular Deficiency

Could thyroid deficiency keep a woman from having children? (Mrs. H. S.)

Answer—Yes.

Husband Deserves Paddling

Our five months old son has crying spells like any other baby, especially when we put him to bed. My husband says I spoil him, and what he deserves is a good paddling. (T. J. M.)

Answer—Maybe he does. Any one who would whip or otherwise punish an infant deserves more than a good paddling—he deserves to have his teeth kicked out. The baby probably cries for a little love and mothering, a lullaby and nursing or at least his bottle to comfort him at bedtime.

ASSISTANT EDITOR DIES

Majority Local Merchants Decide to Hold Holiday On Day Set by Council

Trenton—(Special)— Saturday, July 1st, will be the 83rd anniversary of Confederation . The first of July has come to have particular significance in Canada as a national holiday. While there are not the spectacular celebrations in Canada that there are in the United States on the Fourth of July, Dominion Day is observed quietly as a holiday right across the country.

Trenton independent food merchants have decided to ignore both historical tradition and a council decision to observe Dominion Day on Saturday, July 1st, by announcing they intend to stay open for business on Saturday and remain closed Monday, July 3rd.

The Ontario Intelligencer conducted a thorough survey of retail merchants on Dundas and Front Streets on Tuesday and found that the majority were in favor of closing Saturday. This conclusion was confirmed officially later in the day by a Chamber of Commerce poll, which revealed that 74 per cent of the merchants who are members of the Chamber of Commerce were in favor of observing the holiday Saturday.

Many to Close

Hardware, jewellery, clothing, electrical and the two large chain food stores all stated they would be closed on Saturday in accordance with the council decision. The only persons who are emphatic in their opposition to closing on Saturday are the small butcher and grocery stores.

An independent grocer on Dundas Street East said he was not going to follow the lead of the independent food merchants but was going along with the majority and closing Saturday.

Everyone in favor of closing on Monday recited the same reasons. They would lose all their Saturday business and besides, Belleville independent grocers had decided to do the same.

Stock Answer Given

When asked why they insist on flouting the council decision, the stock answer was "the council did not discuss the matter with us or the Chamber of Commerce so why should we pay any attention to it?"

Acting Mayor W. C. Saylor said in an interview "We did not take an arbitrary attitude. We did not care either way. After checking with Belleville, we found they were observing July 1st and we simply decided to do the same."

Mr. Saylor warned that if individual merchants ignored this council resolution they would be setting a dangerous precedent because it would probably encourage a few merchants to violate the practice of closing Wednesday afternoons.

The most consistent argument of the merchants who have decided to stay open on Saturday is that they will lose business. "We will not lose any business," said Mr. Saylor. "That is just a ridiculous and childish argument."

Similar Controversy

W. B. McClung recalled that a similar controversy occurred the last time Dominion Day fell on a Saturday. "We held it on Monday," said Mr. McClung, "and we were sorry afterwards, because we were the only town in this part of the country that did."

In announcing the results of the Chamber of Commerce poll, President T. L. McNeill said "The majority of merchants are agreeable to closing on Saturday and the Chamber of Commerce is asking everyone to go along with it."

Earlier in the day before the poll was completed, Mr. McNeill stated he was certain the results would show the majority were in favor of Saturday and that the people who were complaining that they had not been consulted and were ignoring the council declaration would be in the minority. Mr. McNeill's opinion was subsequently proved by the results of the survey.

Board to Meet Ont. Department On New School

Trenton—(Special) — Trenton Board of Education held their last regular meeting until September in College Street School on Monday evening.

Following the meeting, it was announced that representatives of the board will meet with officials of the Department of Education in Toronto on Wednesday. The primary purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for the proposed new school in Trenton and get the Department's tentative approval of the plans before the board meets with Mayor Couch.

The Board of Education has been asked to undertake the high school education of children of air force personnel. This matter will also be discussed with the Department.

Within the next few weeks, representatives of the Board of Education will have a special meeting with Mayor Couch to discuss the whole problem of education and school accommodation.

A resolution was passed at the meeting to have College Street School painted.

Close Plant For Holidays

Trenton—(Special)— The Bata Shoe Company's Frankford plant will be closed down from July 8th to 16th for the annual summer vacation company officials announced Tuesday.

Workers in the shoe division will have an additional week's holidays as the machinery in this department is being changed over from summer to fall and winter production lines.

2nd Thurlow— Several friends of this community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stolicker on Monday night, in honor of their son, George and his bride. Mr. Bill Leeming read the address, expressing the good wishes of all.

After opening the gifts, suitable replies were made. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

WEDDINGS

FENNELL—SEELEY

Picton—One of the season's loveliest weddings was that on Sunday afternoon, June 25th, when Mildred Edith Seeley, became the bride of Douglas Brunssen Fennell. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Seeley, and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Fennell, both of Cherry Valley. The ceremony in Cherry Valley United Church was performed by Rev. A. E. McCutcheon and Rev. V. C. Lewis. The altar and choir loft were banked with pink and white peonies and orange blossoms with tall, graceful wood ferns. White bows marked the guest pews. Mr. Carl Euler played the traditional wedding music at the organ, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Gordon L. Bell sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a pretty picture in a gown of white satin made with full skirt, and tiered peplum. Embroidery and brilliants adorned the neckline. Her floor-length veil fell from a tiered headdress of the same material encrusted with brilliants. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses with white streamers.

Mrs. Morden Walker was her sister's attendant. She chose a floor-length gown of mauve taffeta made with full skirt caught with flowers in matching shades at the hemline, and short, puffed sleeves. A three-quarter length veil fell from a matching headdress, and she carried pink roses and carnations.

Clifford Fennell was his brother's groomsman, and the ushers were Morden Walker and James Sayers.

The reception for 40 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was brightened with bouquets of pink and white peonies. The bride's table was covered with a linen cloth, with pink and white streamers suspended to each corner, and centred by the wedding cake. The assistants were Mrs. Allan Brooks, Oshawa; Miss Ruth Leavitt, Miss Maryanne Josling of Hamilton, Mrs. Leonard Thomas of Welland; Mrs. Ralph Dodds, Mrs. Joseph Wiggins and Mrs. Leighton Fennemore.

Receiving with the bridal party were the bride's mother in blue sheer with navy and white hat and corsage of red roses, and the groom's mother, who chose blue figured sheer with black hat, with blue flowers and corsage of pink roses.

Four generations were represented at the wedding, little Joanne Seeley; her father, Lloyd Seeley; his father, J. C. Seeley, and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Seeley of Renfrew.

For travelling to Toronto, Niagara and other points, the bride donned a dress of poudre blue shantung with matching hat, corsage of roses and cinnamon accessories. The bride's bouquet was caught by Miss Nettie Zimmerman of Picton.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. F. E. Rice and sons, David and Alfred, of Perth; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fennell, of Thorold; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rosseau of Whitby; Mr. and Mrs. Allan Brooks, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thomas, Welland; Mr. and Mrs. Graham Seeley, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Colin Seeley, of Renfrew.

Mrs. S. J. Hibbard Entertains at Trousseau Tea

Mrs. S. J. Hibbard recently entertained at a trousseau tea at her home, 99 Bridge Street East, in honor of her daughter, Miss Muriel May Hibbard, whose marriage took place on Saturday, June 24th at Bridge Street United Church.

Little Miss Margaret Ann Clark opened the door to the guests, while receiving with the hostess. Mrs. S. Hibbard, and guest of honor, Miss Muriel Hibbard, were Mrs. W. H. Finkle and Miss Hilda McLaren.

White sweet peas and gypsophelia in a pale-pink antique bowl flanked by tall-pink candles in silver candelabras centred the tea table with its lovely cutwork lines cloth. Presiding at the table were Mrs. W. H. Ackerman, Mrs. F. S. Deacon, Mrs. G S. Cronk and Mrs. Howard Clarke.

Those assisting were Mrs. Bert Howard, Mrs. Russell Wotten, Mrs. Charles Hyde, Mrs. Grant Proctor, Mrs. William McCreary, Jr., Mrs. Ralph Davenport, Misses Eleanor and Charlotte, Frances Finkle, Mrs. W. H. McMillan and Mrs. J. P. Clark.

Mrs. Earl Elliott showed the trousseau, and Mrs. Ralph Clapp, the many gifts.

NO ACTION TAKEN

Durban, South Africa, June 28—(Reuters)—About 200 Indians and 50 Africans were fired by a Durban firm yesterday for staying away from work in "day-of-protest" demonstrations against the treatment of non-whites in South Africa. No action was taken against Durban municipal workers who stayed away from work in large numbers.

Black Favorite For Fall Elegance

New York, June 28 (CP)—Elegance is the keynote of the Fall fashion symphony.

With the basic silhouette holding to the sleek, reed-slim line, at least for daytime hours, designers have turned to rich fabrics, and to such details as a low-placed flounce, a wrapped effect or almond overskirt, to lend distinction to the season's mode.

Black velvet is a high favorite. It appears on collar, cuffs and pockets of suits, in applique touches at dress necklines or on jacket lapels, in suits for the cocktail hour, and in long, slim sheaths for evening. Double-surfaced fabrics, fur fabrics, all-over embroidered wools and crepes, rich satins and silk brocades all their quota to the season's elegance.

First color choice is black. Others vying for popularity will be red and blue tones, brilliant orange, yellow, grays, browns and parma violet.

Highlights of a fall showing by the New York fashion group included a strapless black fur dinner dress outlined in black lace; a suit with cutaway jacket in the Edwardian style; a short dinner dress, half-skirt and half culottes; a long-skirted ball gown in the grand manner.

Latest in Coats

In coats the newest look was provided by a three-quarter-length mannish topcoat. Full length coats ranged through straight and fitted styles to the full, loose silhouette.

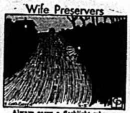
Notable in fall suits were longer jackets, lower necklines, arched hip lines and use of velvet and braid trimming. Sheath dress and jacket combinations were much in evidence for late day wear.

Expectation of a swing back to the long evening and dinner gown was evident.

A novelty of interest to the college set or for country wear was a fur sweater, which appeared teamed with plaid piper slacks.

Fur coats showed unusual variety in length. Large collars and convertible short sleeves were featured. A revival of popularity for fox and lynx scarves was predicted.

Wife Preservers



Always carry a flashlight when you walk on highways at night, for safety's sake.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

You won't be able to tell the difference between canned and fresh foods if subtilin, one of the new wonder drugs, lives up to expectations.

Almost all canned food, as you know, has a "tinny" or canned flavor because of the high temperature at which it is cooked in order to preserve it. Subtilin may take the place of heat in canning if experiments now being carried out by government scientists continue to prove successful.

It is practically tasteless since little more than a half ounce is needed to destroy the micro-organisms in a ton of food. Although a small amount of heat is still needed to can food with subitilin, it is applied at temperatures so low that the canned vegetables taste as though they had just come from the garden. Continued tests are necessary to establish that the new preservative is entirely harmless.

The one canned food that best approximates fresh is canned whole kernel corn.

Use whole kernel canned corn pudding to be served in place of potatoes with the dinner.

Corn Bread Pudding: Serves 4-5.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Drain the contents of a 12-ounce can of whole kernel corn.

Add to the juice enough milk to make 1 cup of liquid.

Beat 2 eggs slightly and mix with milk. Add 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Butter 2 slices of stale bread. Cut bread into 1-2 inch squares. Place bread in a greased baking dish. Chop 1-4 cup green peppers and sprinkle over bread. Place corn over bread.

Pour egg mixture over corn. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Place baking dish in a larger pan of hot water. Bake for 30-40 minutes or until a silver knife inserted in pudding comes out clean.

Cooked fresh corn cut off cob, or cooked frozen kernel corn may be used in place of canned corn.

cover advances to C.M.H.C., the government operated lending institution.

Other developments during the day included:

1. Postmaster General Rinfret announced that brokers using the mails for allegedly fraudulent purposes will be given a hearing in the future by a three-man board before mailing privileges are denied to them.

New Commission Formed

2. Justice Minister Garson announced that a four-man commission, headed by Mr. Justice J. H. MacQuarrie of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, has been appointed to overhaul Canada's combines legislation.

3. A report of the Commons External Affairs Committee called for immediate re-examination of the policy of allowing communists to hold Canadian passports.

4. Trade Minister Howe announced that government intervention with the railways has resulted in a nine-months' deferment of a proposed increase in the freight rate on coal moving from Alberta to eastern Canada.

5. Mr. Howe suggested it would be unwise to spend money expanding western coal production when oil produced in that area was undercutting coal.

In the housing discussion, Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said that if the rise in building costs continued the benefits of the National Housing Act would be nullified unless the government raised the amount of loans available under the act.

Won't Adjust Loans

Mr. Winters said the government did not intend to adjust loans to take care of "marked increases in cost both to the builder and the home owner resulting from the increase in the price of lumber."

"We deem it better," he added, "to face a decline in the number of starts rather than add to the inflationary trend."

The minister recalled that the Housing Act was amended at the last session of parliament to permit the federal government and the provinces to enter agreements leading to public assistance in the housing field.

Since then, the federal government has discussed with the provinces "activity in some 20 or 30 municipalities." Over-all agreements with Ontario and British Columbia have been concluded.

Lack of Serviced Land

In Ontario, there is a lack of serviced land within the large municipalities. The federal government is working with the Ontario government towards a "substantial" number of land-assembly projects under which land will be served and made available to private builders prepared to build homes of a type at a price satisfactory to the two governments.

New Brunswick is "actively" considering proposals for housing in Saint John and the federal government yesterday received a proposal from New Brunswick for a housing project in that city.

Preliminary discussions with Manitoba were suspended because of flood conditions.

In British Columbia, negotiations were under way and Mr. Winters hoped that "before long" it would be possible to announce projects to be undertaken in that province.

Preliminary conversations also had been started with Saskatchewan, though the point had not yet been reached where specific projects were under consideration.

An agreement had been signed with Newfoundland for a subsidized low-rental housing project in St. John's involving 140 units. Negotiations were under way with that province for the servicing of 100 acres of land suitable for home construction.

Under such projects the federal government paid 75 per cent of the cost and the province the remainder.

BROKERS WILL BE

Mr. Rinfret said he and Justice Minister Garson conferred with C. P. McTague, counsel for the Ontario Brokers Association, and discussed a new procedure to consider charges of misuse of the mails. Mr. McTague agreed to the suggestion that a departmental board be established to investigate complaints and report to the Postmaster-General.

Could Not Apply Formula to All

Mr. Rinfret said that while the procedure had been worked out with respect to use of the mails by brokers and others in similar business, the same formula could not be applied to service and other clubs whose mailing privileges were stopped because of the sending of lottery tickets.

A relaxation here would mean that lottery tickets could continue to be mailed until after the lottery date.

Mr. Rinfret, speaking during study of his department's 1950-51 estimates, made his announcement after A. L. Smith (PC—Toronto after A. L. Smith (PC—Calgary West) and D. Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) protested suspension of mail privileges to Calgary Stampeders Football club and the Lions Club of Leaside, Ont., a Toronto suburb.

The minister said both clubs were conducting lotteries considered illegal under the terms of the Criminal Code.

the Ashton siding and that the east-bound engine flashed its headlights signalling that the main line was clear as the west-bound train approached.

The west-bound freight, travelling at about 20 miles an hour, began to pick up speed after receiving the clear signal just before the crash.

Under cross-examination, Mr Gilmer said the conductor of a train must signal with lighted fuses 1,500 feet ahead on a clear night and 300 feet under foggy conditions "or have the rear brakeman carry this out."

Previous evidence was that the conductor on the east-bound train left his rear van and noticed his train was not clear of the main line. He was unable to signal his engineer as the engine was not in sight and returned to the caboose to get a fuse signal but was unable to light it before the west-bound train arrived.

COMMITTEE

Must Prove Need

To obtain a pension, a person must prove his need and show that he has lived in Canada for 20 years. The committee said it would not recommend any change in the residence requirement.

The 100-page report, tabled by Jean Lesage (L—Montmagny-L'Islet), joint chairman of the Commons - Senate Committee, summarized more than 1,000,000 words of evidence heard by the committee in meetings from early April to last week.

In what was described as the most comprehensive review of old-age security ever undertaken, the committee studied the pension plans of other countries. They involved: :

1. Old-age assistance paid to the needy.
2. Pensions based on the insurance system.
3. A universal pay-as-you-go system.

The committee defined the universal pay-as-you-go system "as a method by which pensions are paid to all persons at a given age on the basis of a fat uniform benefit out of funds currenty raised from year to year."

High Estimated Cost

The committee estimated that universal pensions to all Canadians 70 and over would cost about $324,000,000 in 1951, with payments going to about 675,000 persons. The estimated cost of old-age assistance to the 65-69 group would amount to about $64,000,000 in 1951, with pensions going to about 141,000 persons.

More than 290,000 Canadians are receiving pensions under the present system which costs the federal government and the provinces about $136,000,000 annually.

The committee suggested that the federal government's present annual contribution of $106,000,000 could be absorbed in the universal pay-as-you-go plan. The remaining $250,000,000 to finance the federal share of the program could be obtained through contributions from employers and employees.

No Interference

"If the ideal of universal contribution is to be approached, if not fully attained, it would be necessary to require contributions from individuals who now are exempt from the payment of income tax," said the report.

The committee advised that any plan considered should not interfere with employee pension plans, the purchase of governmental or private annuities, or private saving.

Health Minister Martin has announced that the committee's views will be placed before the Dominion-Provincial Conference to be held either in September or October.

Under existing legislation, the federal government cannot cancel the present old-age pensions payments without giving the provinces 10 years notice. However, if it could constitutionally start a universal pay-as-you-go system for all over 70, the provinces might be ready to agree to change in existing agreements.

WASHABLE CHAMOIS GLOVES: "Please tell me how chamois (cream) gloves may be washed without shrinkage. Washing in water soon makes them too small to wear."

Wash the gloves on the hand with mild soap suds. Rinse using one tablespoon of epsom salts to one quart of water in the rinse water. Pat dry with bath towels. Pull into shape. As gloves dry blow into them so that the fingers do not stick together. When thoroughly dry put on the hands and rub with bath towel.

DOG BEAUTICIAN: "Can you give me any information on becoming a dog beautician? I am very fond of dogs and other small animals and believe I would enjoy this work immensely."

Mr. R. C. Curtain, who operates the Mobile Dog Service and who has just opened the Canine Beauty Salon, 454 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, suggests that you get in touch with the breeders of the various kinds of dogs and arrange to spend whatever time you can learning to clip dogs. I am sure if you were to write to Mr. Curtain or call on him some time when you are in Toronto he will be glad to discuss this matter with you.

LEATHERETTE CHAIRS: "Could you please tell me how to clean leatherette chairs. I am afraid they might crack and peel."

Sponge the leather with saddle soap and water. Then rub with liquid wax. Buff gently with a soft cloth.

U.N. Calls on Members To Use Military Force To Halt Korean Conflict

Lake Success, N.Y., June 28—(AP)— The United Nations embarked upon an historic venture today by calling upon its members to use military force to back up a cease-fire order defied by communist North Korea.

The decision was taken late last night by the Russian-boycotted Security Council, a few hours after President Truman announced that the United States was ordering planes and ships to support the invaded Republic of (South) Korea.

The vote was 7-1, the minimum number of affirmative votes required. India and Egypt asked to be recorded as not participating because they had not received instructions. Yugoslavia cast the negative vote.

The council's action was momentous in several ways:

1. It gave its stamp of approval to Truman's bold plan of direct action to stop communist aggression. This was the first time in its history that the council had authorized the military sanctions provided by the U.N. charter.

2. It was a warning to Russia, although Russia was not mentioned in the U.S. resolution, that the U.N. would not permit the seizure of countries by force.

3. It may have made the Russians angry enough that they will decide to make permanent their boycott which they started last Jan. 1 to protest over the presence of Chinese Nationalist delegates.

Apart from the council's action, there is another factor which may prolong the China-representation deadlock indefinitely. That is Truman's new policy on Formosa.

The President announced yesterday that he had ordered the seventh fleet to prevent any attack on Formosa and said the future status of Formosa will await restoration of security in the Pacific, a peace settlement with Japan or consideration by the U.N.

This declaration plus the Korean Communist attack on South Korea seemed to rule out any chance that the Chinese Reds would get a U.N. seat in the near future.

The council rejected 7-1 a Yugoslav proposal that the U.N. try to initiate mediation of the Korean conflict.

Donald Hogarth, Industrialist, Dies in Toronto

Toronto, June 28 — (CP) — Maj.-Gen. Donald M. Hogarth, one of Canada's leading industrialists and financiers, died Tuesday, aged 72.

The illness, cancer, which caused his death, started about the time, 12 years ago, that he embarked on his greatest project, that of uncovering the iron ore which lay beneath steep Rock Lake in northwestern Ontario, and bringing it into a producing company.

Operations stayed the disease and did little to restrain the robust character which had made him a promoter and developer all his life

He finished his life as president of Steep Rock Iron Mines, Ltd., and virtually his last active interest was to read a telegram stating that the Port Arthur ore docks would load within the week the largest single cargo of iron ore ever shipped from that port—16,300 tons.

That was June 15, his 72nd. birthday, and he had been confined to his home since, unconscious for the last few days.

He was a native of the Ottawa valley who spent most of his life developing mineral, timber and power resources in northern and northwestern Ontario and in the Lakehead district of Port Arthur-Fort William. He had many setbacks and many successes, with successes predominant in his later years.

He enlisted in 1914, went overseas as a Captain, rose to Quartermaster-General, overseas Canadian military forces, and was promoted to major-general.

He represented Port Arthur as conservative member in the Ontario legislature for five terms between 1911 and 1929.

He is survived by his widow, the former Madge Patterson of Winnipeg; two sons, Donald David and Richard McRae, of Toronto; one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Lucile Bedell of California; two brothers, W. L. of Timmins and Harry of Port Arthur; and three sisters, Mrs Chauncey Lough and Mrs. J Simpson, of Toronto, and Mrs. John Hurdman of Ottawa.

Funeral services will be held here Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at Grace Church-On-The-Hill, and at the Crematorium.

Clues Unearthed In Piecing Escape Story of Bandit

Simcoe, Ont., June 28 (CP)— A new $1 bill, a shirt hanging from an apple tree and a stolen suitcoat Tuesday enabled searching police to fit further pieces into the escape story of the bank bandit who slew two pursuers south of Langton, Ont., last Wednesday.

George Walker, 37, was charged Sunday with the murder of the two men, Art Lierman and William Goddyn, both of Langton.

The clues were unearthed in a police search of bushland near the spot where Lierman and Goddyn met their death.

The bank note, found 400 yards from the scene of the slaying, was part of the bandit's $23,000 loot, police said. They identified it by the serial number.

The shirt was found near a barn where the suspect was seen sleeping. Police said the appearance of the shirt indicated it might have been discarded after last Friday's rainstorm.

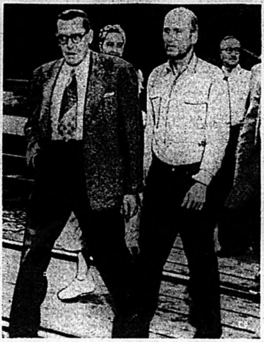
The suitcoat was stolen from a tobacco curer's house on the farm of Mrs. Ethel Biro in the same vicinity. Police believe the killer was the thief.

No trace was found of the gun used in the slaying. Police were continuing their search of the area, using a mine detector.

RAPIDLY DYING OUT

Washington, June 28 — (AP)— The Smithsonian Institution reported today that a little-known people in Northern Alaska is rapidly dying out, chiefly because of "great epidemics of influenza and measles." The people, generally known as the Nunatagmiut Eskimo, numbered 3,000 nomad caribou hunters two or three generations ago, the report said. It added: "Now a single group of less than 40 is left alive."

HANDCUFFED SUSPECT



Thomas Rossler, 45-year-old former convict suspected of murdering R.C.M.P. Constable Alexandre Gamman in Montreal May 25, is shown being brought back to Montreal. He was captured at Whitetail, Mont., June 17. Gamman was fatally injured by a gunman who robbed a Bank of Toronto branch in Montreal. — (CP Photo.)

MINISTER DROPS SUIT

Chicago, June 28 — (AP)— A (Negro) minister dropped his $500,000 alienation-of-affections suit against ex-heavyweight champion Joe Louis yesterday. He said a "satisfactory settlement" has been reached. Settlement terms were not divulged. The suit was filed by Rev. Matthew C. Faulkner, 33, who charged Louis stole the love of his wife.

SAVES BOY'S LIFE

Tacoma, Wash., June 28—(AP) —An unidentified truck driver, standing on the running board of his moving vehicle Monday grabbed a eight-year-old boy from the back of a runaway horse. Dennis Lytle was rescued after a hectic 10-block gallop, which started when he climbed on the horse at the home of his grandfather.

Silver Dollars For Tourists Is New Scheme

Ottawa, June 28 — (CP) — Niagara Falls' "Silver Dollars for Tourists" campaign got its official launching Tuesday—with five silver dollars from a cabinet minister.

A. W. S. Bennett, secretary-manager of the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commece and J. McGlashan, head of the "special project" committee, came up to Ottawa to see the government about it.

The government likes the idea that Canadian border city merchants make change for American tourists in as many Canadian silver dollars as they can cart away. At current exchange rates the U. S. tourist would pay only 90 cents for the Canadian dollars—that is one American dollar would get him a Canadian silver dollar and 10 cents change besides.

In addition, argue the sponsors, he'd have a nice souvenir. The government, thinking about it's treasury's need of those American bucks, agrees.

So Tuesday Trade Minister Howe, subbing for the absent finance minister Abbott through whom arrangements were made, held a little ceremony in his office. While press cameras flashed, he handed over five silver dollars to Mr. McGlashan by way of a little official shove for the campaign.

The Bank of Canada has promised to make all the required silver dollars available to Niagara Falls and any other border city where the idea catches.

TRENTON WOMAN INJURED

New Glasgow, N.S., June 28 — (CP)— Mrs. Clyde Markham of Trenton, Ont., is in hospital here Tuesday night recovering from injuries received in a car accident near New Glasgow. Mrs. Markham suffered face and leg cuts and her husband and 17-month old child suffered shock.

Any Pension Plan Should Not Interfere With Private Saving Committee Report to House

Ottawa, June 28 — (CP) — The Parliamentary Committee on old-age security, placing new pensions proposals before the Commons, suggested today that any plan considered should not interfere with employee pension plans, purchase of government or private annuities or with private savings.

The committee recommended that any scheme conceived under public auspices should be "such as to place a floor under these private or collective provisions for retirement security."

"This would make possible," it said, "the development under private initiative of supplemental programs which, taken together with governmental provisions, would result in more adequate retirement security for the largest possible number of Canadians."

The committee drew attention to the development of "well-organized" health and medical care programs in a number of provinces and noted that, as a result of its proposals for old-age security, the provinces might be enabled to develop more adequate health and hospital services for the aged.

It commended the rapidly-developing movement for employee pensions plans in industry.

Bank Cashier Indentifies Man As Robber

Montreal, June 28 — (P) — A 19-year-old bank cashier last night said that Thomas Rosaler is the man who last month shot and killed an R.C.M.P. constable during an attempted bank hold-up here.

"I'm sure that's the man," cashier Doris Paris said when confronted with the 45-year-old ex-convict at police headquarters.

Twelve other witnesses also paraded before the identification line-up and picked Rossler as the murder suspect. They included bank employees and bystanders who saw the gunman run out of the bank and shoot two men who tried to cut off his path of escape.

One of them, Constable Alex Gamman, died 35 hours later from a single bullet wound above the heart. The other, bank manager Stanley Bickley, was shot in the left leg.

Rossler was captured in Whitetail, Mont., last week. He has not yet been charged with murder.

Girls With Circus Now Lithe and Lovely

LOU JACOBS, world famous clown and Jean Sleeter, beautiful young aerialist with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

They don't come bulky in the big top anymore. Not the girls of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, coming to Belleville, Monday, July 3.

They are lithe, lovely and talented, in the air, and on the ground. They flaunt no bulging biceps or corrugated calves.

Gone are the Varicose Veras of the Acrobatic Atlases. The girls of the 1950 performance move, dance and soar in beauty.

There's a reason. Theatre-minded girls in an off season turn to the Big Show, and in February they roll down to rehearsals at the Sarasota, Florida Winter quarters for experience, circus excitements and a year on the road.

This year's four great extravaganzas, including the $300,000 super-spectacle, "When Dreams Come True," require more girls than ever, even with the scores of new acts and features from Europe adding many good lookers to the ensembles.

Performances of The Greatest Show on Earth will begin at 2.15 and 8.15 p.m., with the doors opening at 1 and 7 for the public inspection of the mammoth menagerie, featuring Toto, world famous gorilla mate of the late Gargantua the Great and two recently imported infant gorillas.

CORBYVILLE

Corbyville — A community shower was recently held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rupert, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rupert in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Murney Huffman, recent bride and bridegroom.

About 90 guests were present from Bethany neighborhood, including Mr. Alex. McGuire; Deputy Reeve, Fred Mitchell; councillors, Mr. Alfred Wickett, and Mr. Harry Pound, with their wives and many others.

The evening was spent in a social get-together, after which Mr. Horace Casey read an address, welcoming the new bride into the neighborhood. The presentation of an occasional, silver-brocaded, plush chair and smoker-stand was made to Murney and Violet by the community. Mr. A. McGuire, on behalf of the employees of Thurlow Township, also presented them with an electric tea kettle, and egg poacher.

Murney and Violet graciously expressed their appreciative thanks to the donors, both for their kindly wishes and for their lovely gifts, extending a cordial invitation for all to visit them in their new home.

Refreshments were served later bringing to a close a happy and memorable evening.

Last Friday evening a large number of relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Huffman to spend a social evening and to get acquainted with Murney and his bride.

Mr. Frank Walker acted as chairman of a brief program which was enjoyed by all. This consisted of community singing, led by Mrs. Douglas Tummon; readings by Mrs. Walter Treverton, Mrs. Horace Casey, Mrs. M. Mitchell and Willehemine Huffman.

The young couple were called to a seat of honor, and after reading an address, Mrs. Nelson Welsh presented them with a miscellaneous shower of pretty and useful gifts from the relatives.

After the presentation of the gifts, and the heartfelt thanks of the bride and bridegroom, to all for their kindnesses, delightful refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, all departed for their homes, wishing Murney and Violet good luck and many years of happiness.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON

New York, June 28—(AP)—Vincent Richards, who might claim to be the olympic tennis champion because nobody has won the title since he did in 1924, would like to see tennis restored to the Olympic program. . . Now a 48-year-old, slightly pudgy executive, Vinnie has been trying to promote the professional game and has found it rough going. . . His idea to give everybody a fair shake in this: An Olmpic tournament every four years for the individual amateur stars; Davis Cup competition every two years instead of annually and in the years when there is no Davis Cup play a world open championship.

Costly Sport

"It's too expensive for some countries to compete in the Davis Cup every year and it keeps the players away from home too long," says Richards.

Moving Day

After a lengthy delay, Lehigh University's new $800,000 gymnasium was completed this spring. Upon receiving the keys, university president Dr. Martin D. Whitaker looked at coaches and instructors who had been using make-shift quarters for some five months and remarked: "The first thing I'll do is let the athletic staff move their desks in from the street."

Shorts and Shells

Report from West Virginia says Art Lewis has 22 footballers over 200 pounds (program weights) including a 293-pound tackle. . .

HOCKEY GREAT

One of the most colorful players ever to don a Montreal Canadiens' hockey sweater, 62-year-old Edouard (Newsy) LaLonde of Montreal has been named to Hockey's Hall of Fame at Kingston, Ont. He gained his fame in the National Hockey Association, later named the National Hockey League. — (CP Photo.)

Warehouse Team Easy Winners Over Planters

The front-running Brewer's Warehouse team met the tail-end Stephen's Adamson crew last evening in a Commercial Softball League A game at the Alemite Field, and when the game was over nohting had been changed in the standings as the Brewers steamrollered the planters 21-1.

Youthful Bob Green returned to the softball wars for the first time this season and had all his old magic on the hill for the Brewers as he chucked a nifty two-hitter, claiming thirteen strikeouts and walking two. He was coasting along with a one-hitter in the seventh, when the Brewers had a mental lapse and let Stephens Adamson register their shutout breaker.

Truman led off the inning with Green's first walk. He went to second when Glen Young was forced to throw to first to put out Sinclair who had taken a third strike. A passed ball put Truman on third and then Page fouled out to the catcher. Temple then claimed Green's second walk. With two strikes on Rivers, Temple started for second. Young threw to second to cut off Temple who danced up and down the baseline long enough to let Truman come in from third with the planters lone tally. Temple eventually reached second base safely. Green then threw a third strike past Rivers but his shutout had vanished.

Orr and Frain registered the two hits given up by Green.

Six in First

Brewers counted six runs in the first and fifth frames as 11 men came to the plate. They counted three each in the second, fourth, and sixth as they hammered out 21 hits off two Adamson hurlers who were rushed into the breach when their three regulars failed to appear.

Jim Barriage with five singles in five trips led the batters but Leo Goyer's base loaded home run in the fifth was the most potent blow of the whole evening. Vic Halsey had four for five and Locke three for five for the winners.

Dr. Hutton, director of the Brant county health unit, said the rate has been 41.5 deaths in a thousand this year, while in other years it has been in the 30s.

Red Sox Cooled Off by Kitchener

.(By The Canadian Press)

The Red Hot Brantford Red Sox cooled off Wednesday night when the sixth place Kitchener Legionnaires turned the tables on them 1-0 in an Intercounty senior game.

For 10 1-2 innings the game was a scoreless pitching duel between Brantford's Alf Gavey and Kitchener's Wally Beggs. The break came in the last of the 11th with two out when Russ Doherty's single off Gavey drove in Alex Sichewski with the winning run.

It was a heartbreaker for Gavey, who gave up only five hits in the 11 innings, but he paved the way for his own downfall with nine walks. Beggs allowed six hits, whiffing eight and walking three.

At that, it took a sensational spear of Bob Bloxam's liner in the ninth by Brantford shortstop Pedro Juarez to keep his mates in the running. The bases were loaded with Legionnaires at the time.

The only other game of the night, London Majors at Stratford Nats, was postponed due to bad weather. The game had been postponed from May 26.

Former Speaker, James A. Glen, Dies in Ottawa

Ottawa, June 28 (CP)—James Allison Glen, 72, a Scotsman who emigrated to Canada and ruled over the Dominion's Parliamentary debates for five years died at his home here last night.

Four times elected to the House of Commons, the former Russell, Man., barrister was chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission at the time of his death.

He was Speaker of the House of Commons during the critical war years from 1940 until 1945, when he entered the Cabinet as Minister of Mines and Resources. He resigned his seat in 1947 due to ill health.

Son of a Renton, Dumbartonshire, boot and shoe merchant, Mr. Glen graduated in law from Glasgow University and emigrated to Canada in 1911. He went straight to Winnipeg where he had friends and business contacts and later set up a law practice at Russell, where he resided until taking up residence in Ottawa in the 1940s.

A keen interest in education problems prompted Mr. Glen to become a member of the Russell School Board and in 1920, he was elected president of the Manitoba School Trustees position, a post he held for four years. In 1924 he was chosen head of the Manitoba Economic Conference.

Early Member

He was an early member of the Progressive party in Manitoba. When the party entered the 1921 general election under the leadership of T. A. Crerar, now Senator Crerar, Mr. Glen served as election agent for his chief. He also won his first seat in the Commons.

Defeated in 1930, he returned to the Commons as Progressive-Liberal member for the Manitoba constituency of Marquette in 1935 and was re-elected in 1940 and 1945.

In the Commons Mr. Glen distinguished himself by his independence and aggressive attitude as well as by the gifts of of logic and persuasiveness that had made him one of the Prairie Provinces' best-known lawyers.

In failing health in 1946, he was forced to give up the Mines and Resources portfolio the following year and was subsequently appointed Canadian chairman of the International Commission.

His survivors include his widow, here, and a son, David Paul Glen, a commercial airline pilot.

UP AND AT 'EM!

The upsurging Smith's Falls' Royals and Batawa Shoemen have given or are starting to give the Central Ontario Baseball League a new face-do. The Royals and the Shoemen apparently have taken a new lease on life during the past week or so and are tramping along the victory trail with an eclat that has been missing for some time.

The Shoemen, victims of one-run defeat margins and ninth innings gremelins have struck something of a stride during their last three starts and with a new resurgence at the plate are beginning to look up as a definite threat to the top rung dwellers. Their bludgeons have tasted the blood of opposing hurlers and it seemed that hitting was one of their urgent needs. Wright, Muffitt and Peacock, albeit the latter hasn't been used much to date, have been giving the team good enough flinging but the boys of the garden and the outer pastures haven't been coming through with anything that resembled consistent clouting.

In the last pair of tussles the Batawa knobkerries boomed out some neat clutch hitting and the result was the ninth inning gremlins took a powder and the scales of victory listed to the opposite side as the Shoemen came through with some needed wins. During the past week, the Royals from Knotty Lee's balliwick have dislodged the perky Gibbardville squad of Napanee from the top perch on the loop ladder while the Shoemen have hurdled the Picton Athletics and vaulted into a "shove-over-bud" spot with the Brockville Memos. Tonight Napanee goes to the mat with the Royals and the Picton visits Brockville. The results might have some bearing on the league standing.

* * *

The league is definitely beginning to "tighten" unless of course the sudden flashes of form are nothing more than a counterpart in the legendary pan. Picton are strengthening but have not as yet shown any great degree of consistency. Napanee which swept into the league leadership and held it until a night or so ago have been absorbing defeats by the lower brackets squads. In fact almost anything can happen at this stage of the game. But as things look now, with the squads getting into near midseason stride the fans may well anticipate some hard fought diamond battles, unless of course, as was said before, the sudden upsurge of the cellar dwellers and the fall-from-gra ce, so to speak, of the league leaders, is something of a temporary nature.

CUBS - NAPANEE TONIGHT

The Belleville Cubs, smarting under that 7-2 defeat at the hands of the Sixardee Belleville District Baseball League leaders, play hosts to Napanee tonight at the Exhibition Grounds. Just who will get the pitching assignment is a deep dark secret but our guess is Chuck Barriage or Gabby Moynes. Bobby Bunion hurled a fine game against the air crew on Monday night and he deserved a better fate. True, he allowed three hits which combined with an error and a walk accounted for five runs in the second innings, but apart from that the tall righthander pitched a calibre of baseball that would have won under any other circumstances.

* * *

The Cubs were surprised and disappointed at the line score as handed into the radio and press. They claimed that Vern Goyer banged out two hits, Neilson one and Galbraith another, while the score only credited them with a pair. In any event, they are not in any kittenish mood tonight and they will be out to avenge that Sixardee setback at the expense of the Gibbardville squad.

A FINE MOVE!

A National Sports Development Plan proposed by Sports College to develop athletes for the Olympic and British Empire Games is gathering favor with the authorities who govern Canada's athletic program.

Officials of the Amateur Athletic Union, the British Empire Games Association and the Olympic Association have indicated their interest in letters to Lloyd Percival, Sports College director.

"I can assure you that the A. A. U. is very interested in the general problem and your specific proposal," said Robert F. Osborne of Vancouver, A. A. U. president.

In close cooperation with sports governing bodies such as the A. A. U. and Olympic Association, Sports College proposed to develop and administer a program which would build strong teams in all sports for international competition. The College, a sports a nd fitness research and instruction public service with more than 400,000 members, has the necessary facilities to operate such a scheme, and Percival believed proper training would remedy this country's athletic ills.

* * *

"I am very concerned about our standards generally, and I feel that the time has come when it is imperative that something be done." Osborne said. A national sports development fund would be one of the logical ways to go about it, he said. The Sports College plan would be discussed at the next A.A.U. meeting, Osborne added.

Lt. Col. G. C. Machum, President of the British Empire Games Association, and T. D. Lord, Chairman of the A. A. U. Track and Field Committee, also offered support.

THIS ONE FOR MOE!

They're going to win this one for "Moe" quoth the sprightly lassies of the Northern Electric Ladies Softball team which battles Grafton at the Stewart Warner field tonight. The girls are currently leading the eastern section of the Lakeshore Ladies Softball League and hope to extend their win percentage tonight. Their coach, Moe Fogarty, who has brought the team to the top of the loop, has been transferred to Montreal and will sever his connections with the squad this week. The Electrics queens play a smart brand of softball and fans should get out there and give them some support. Game gets under way at 7 o'clock.

Chandler Harper New PGA Champ

Columbus, O., June 28 — (AP) — Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., won the Professional Golfers Association title yesterday. He defeated the little-known Hank Williams of Secane, Pa., 4 and 3, in the 36-hole finale over the rangy Scioto Country Club course.

At 36 Harper became the oldest player to win the crown since Jock Hutchison won in 1920 at the same age.

Harper picked up $3,500 for winning yesterday, as much as he had pocketed in nine previous tournaments this season. His only tournament victory before was the 1950 Tuscon open.

In five previous attempts in the National P.G.A., he never has emerged beyond the third round.

"I'll probably start playing more of the tourney tour now," said Harper, a pro at the Public Fee course of Glensheallah in Portsmouth.

Boston Red Sox are Finding Formula for Winning on Road Under New Boss Steve O'Neill

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The citizens of Minooka, Pa., haven't been so excited since Oct. 2, 1945.

That was the day Detroit won the American League flag and went on to whip Chicago Cubs in the World Series.

Today they are all aglow over the five game winning streak of Boston Red Sox.

Minooka is beside itself over the success of a native son — stout Steve O'Neill, the smiling Irishman.

The 59-year-old O'Neill, who managed that '45 pennant-winning Tiger team, is the only big league manager with an unsullied slate. Since he took over the management of the Red Sox last Friday following the resignation of Joe McCarthy, the Red Sox haven't tasted defeat.

Boston has turned in five straight victories—all on the road. Before O'Neill took charge the Sox had dropped 11 of their previous 13 games.

O'Neill had to wait until the 11th inning last night to find out whether he was still unbeaten as a manager this year. Two walks, a hit batsman and singles by Al Zarilla and pitcher Joe Dobson pushed across two runs to enable Boston to defeat Philadelphia Athletics 7-5. The A's had rallied for a run in the ninth to deadlock the score 5-5.

Williams Sparks Attack

Ted Williams sparked the Red Sox' 16-hit attack, knocking in two runs on his 22nd home run and two doubles. The victory boosted the Sox to within one game of the third place Cleveland Indians who dropped a 4-3 decision to St. Louis Browns.

Boston, however, failed gain on the American League-leading Detroit Tigers who rallied for five runs in the sixth inning to defeat Chicago White Sox 9-3. The second-place New York Yankees, beaten by Washington's Senators in 12 innings, fell 4 1-2 games behind Detroit.

Philadelphia Phillies took over first place in the National League replacing Brooklyn which dropped to third. A seventh-inning two-run homer by Dick Sisler earned the Phils a 3-2 decision over Boston and gave them a .003 percentage point over St. Louis Cardinals. The Red Birds thrashed Chicago Cubs in both ends of an afternoon doubleheader 3-2 and 4-1.

The Dodgers fell two notches in absorbing a 10-3 lacing by New York Giants.

Cincinnati trounced Pittsburgh 8-3 to round out the National League schedule.

Rochester Wings Back in First Place of Loop

By The Associated Press

Rochester's forte is its awesome batting power. But the Red Wings are back in first place in the International League today because of two left-handed pitchers named Jack and Mike.

These hurlers—Jack Collum and Mike Schultz—stopped Stan Hack's slumping Springfield Cubs 3-0 and 8-6, last night.

Schultz, making his first start of the season, peeled off a one-hitter in the first game. Collum hurled six scoreless relief innings as Rochester dealt Springfield its eighth straight loss in the nightcap.

Baltimore Orioles, aided by walks, tumbled Montreal from the league lead by frimming the Royals 7-5. Baltimore scored four runs in the first innings on only two hits. Montreal starter, George Thomas, walked four men—and three of them scored.

Jersey City edged to within 1 1-2 games of first place by twice defeating Toronto 4-1 and 8-5. The opener was the completion of a game started May 7. Jersey City had built up a 4-1 bulge in three innings when play was halted by Toronto's Sunday curfew law.

Syracuse tallied two runs in the ninth inning to shade Buffalo 7-5. Bob Sanders, in relief, gained his second victory. The winners put across the deciding tallies with the aid of a bunt, three walks and a hit batsman.

So far, Steve is batting 1.000 as a Boston manager. His Red Sox outfought Philadelphia Athletics 7-5 in 11-inning struggle last night to score their fifth straight victory under O'Neill.

Steve O'Neill Given Support By Front Office

Philadelphia, June 28 — (AP) — If Steve O'Neill's big Irish grin is a bit broader today, there's plenty of reason for it.

Last night, in addition to seeing his Boston Red Sox score their fifth straight victory under his leadership, Steve received an unqualified vote of confidence from the Boston front office.

Joe Cronin, Red Sox general manager, paid a surprise visit to Philadelphia to speak with O'Neill, promoted from coach to manager last week when Joe McCarthy resigned.

O'Neill, Cronin told reporters, "is going to handle the club until further notice. We don't want to keep getting a new manager every year."

Ted Williams of Red Sox Is Game's Biggest Enigma

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston, June 28 — (AP)—Ted Williams says he would rather swing a bat than do anything else. In the next breath he says he would quit playing today if he had enough money.

The Boston Red Sox slugger says re doesn't give a hoot for the fans. Then he talks about "my pals, the kids," or of this or that cab driver, fireman, doorman or policeman.

Williams speaks with startling fierceness of his hatred for baseball writers. Then he talks with pride of his friendship with some.

Let him hear of a family in distress, a down-and-out person or a stricken youngster in a hospital and he'll do everything in his power to help — as long as it doesn't get publicized.

Williams vows he doesn't care what the newspapers print about him. Then he recalls a favorable article or moans about a critical one.

He claims that the fans' reaction is of no concern to him but boos burn him up and he can't help hearing every taunt in the bleachers. There is no doubt that he asks for the boos since he refuses to acknowledge the cheers.

All of which simply shows that Williams, while baseball's greatest slugger and highest-paid performer, also is the game's biggest enigma.

Hates Front Runners

Here is the testimony of Johnny Orlando, who takes care of the Boston club's equipment:

"It ain't that he don't want to be friendly. It's just that he hates front runners . . .

"Ted don't hang out with the big shots, like some guys do. He hangs out with the kids in the clubhouse, the cops, firemen and taxi-drivers.'"

Seys: Tom Dowd, travelling secretary of the Red Sox:

"In the five years I've taken this club on the road he's never objected to his room location, never been critical of his rail space and never offered anycomplaints about the way he's been treated. Williams is always easy to get along with."

Williams, born Oct. 30, 1918, was brought up by his mother, a Salvation Army worker, who maintained herself, Ted and his kid brother, Danny, in a modest frame house in San Diego.

In grade school, where he looked peaked, it was discovered he had been sharing his 30-cents-a-day allowance with kids who were less fortunate. That was the first of a long line of anonymous charities.

Muir of Toronto Scores TKO In Second Round

Toronto, June 28 — (CP) — Ronnie Muir of Toronto Tuesday night scored a technical knockout over Bob Kopec of Niagara Falls after 55 seconds of the second round of the scheduled five-round feature match of an outdoor amateur boxing show. Owen Sounders Consolidate Hold On First Place

By The Canadian Press

Owen Sound Crescents consolidated their hold on first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series Tuesday when they defeated Peterborough Petes 10-5.

The win moved Crescents four points ahead of St. Catharines Athletics and Brampton Excelsiors, both of whom were idle. Each have two games in hand on Crescents who have won nine and lost one.

Rusty Slater paced Crescents in a free-wheeling tilt, potting two vital second-period goals and scoring another in the third quarter. Doug Gillespie, Jack Foote and Marlow Woods each nabbed a pair, and Pack Mason added the other.

For Petes, high-scoring Dootch Vitarelli notched two goals and Jerry Fitzgerald, Jim Kinna and Arn Dugan one apiece.

In Weston, the Lions defeated Toronto Riverdales 19-16 in a wide-open tilt. It was Weston's second win of the year and Toronto's eighth straight loss.

Four Toronto penalties early in the game proved costly, allowing Weston to pour in five goals without reply. Ted Downer scored four for the winners and Sonny Rowntree, Jesse James and Johnny Lumley had three each.

Bruce Webster hit four goals for Toronto. Wimpy Timpson and J. J. Hill each got the hat trick.

Highly-Secret Equipment Will Be Used on Boat

(By The Canadian Press)

Donald Campbell announced in England Tuesday night that he is starting experiments with "highly-secret equipment" now on the way to his camp at Lake Coniston, England, for an attempt to wrest the latest water speed record from the United States with his father's old speedboat, Bluebird II.

Experiments may begin today, he said, but he could not yet say if and when he might be able to run Bluebird for a record attempt on the 160.32-mile-an-hour mark achieved by Stanley Sayre on Lake Washington, Seattle, Monday.

Campbell, 29-year-old son of the late speed King Sir Malcolm Campbell, earlier said that the safety limit of his boat was 155 miles an hour, making it impossible for him to tackle Sayre's record with Bluebird.

But Tuesday night he said: "I have had a brainwave of considerable magnitude. It may or may not work. Though trials may be held, no information will be divulged for the time being. . .so long as we have the power we shall try to wrest the record from the Americans."

Garth Boesch, 29-year-old Toronto Maple Leaf defenceman has decided to retire from hockey. Boesch, now at his home in Ricetón, Sask., says his decision is partly due to the death earlier this month of his father. He now handles all the work on their wheat farm.

Marlin Stuart, a stringy right-hander, tossed a no-hitter as Toledo turned back league-leading Indianapolis 1-0 in an American Association game at Toledo Tuesday night.

The Ontario Racing Commission has exonerated trainer Anthony Graffagnini of charges in connection with the inconsistent running of his horse, Hey Hay, in the recent meeting at Thorncliffe race track, Toronto.

The commission — meeting in Hamilton — also heard appeals by jockeys Charles Bright and Vic Polk against suspensions handed out in connection with the performances of Hey Hay and another horse, Youville.

No announcement was made by the commission on the case of Bright and Polk. The meetings will continue in Toronto Thursday.

Ald. B. M. Sparling has told Toronto City Council that Conn Smythe is planning Sunday hockey at Maple Leaf Gardens next season. The Alderman said he heard the Gardens' management has given this information to several Toronto figure-skating Clubs. Smythe was not available for comment.

More than 60 entries have already been received for the Ontario amateur golf championships in Toronto July 8. Entries close June 30. About 150 are expected to compete in the championships.

Sugar Ray Robinson will defend his welterweight title for $1 against Charlie Fusari of Irvington, N.J., Aug. 7 in a 15-round bout at Jersey City for the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Promoter Andy Niederreiter announced the bout in New York Tuesday. The Cancer Fund will share in the receipts.

Robinson is fighting for the nominal sum of $1 as the result of a promise made to columnist Walter Winchell, treasurer of the cancer fund, to donate his share of the purse.

George Graves, chairman of the Quebec division of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association announced esday night that the Canadian sprint championships will be held in Montreal June 30, July 1. Entries have already been received from a number of the country's leading riders. Races will be run off in heats from distances ranging from 1-4 mile to 25 miles.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Elva Tyme is smarter than she looks. I tell her: "Lead the king from K Q J or K Q 10, also king from A K with others. Thus, a lead of king shows either ace or queen." This puts a crafty gleam in her eye.

"Then there is no telling which it is," she throws up at me. And I say: "Yes, dear. Take a look at dummy. If acey is there, partner has the queen. If queenie is there, partner has the ace."

A fleeting grin comes over her puss. But it changes suddenly to a frowned querry: "What if the ace or queen is not in the dummy?" As if bridge had become a complicated problem right there.

So I tell her: "If you are still comfortable, dear, take a look at your own hand. If you have the ace, partner has the queen. If you have the queen, partner has the ace." And she beams.

Suddenly her mood changes to defiance: "But the ace or queen might not be in the dummy or in my own hand" and she settles back dusting off her hands as if that settled it.

So, it is up to me to advise her: "Wait until the declarer plays. If he takes your partner's king with the ace, you know partner has the queen." And the world looks rosy again.

The clubs in a deal are as you see them here:

NORTH
♣Q 9 3

WEST ♣A K 6 4
EAST ♣7 2

SOUTH
♣J 10 8 5

West leads the king. If you are east, take a look at the dummy, north cards. What do you see there? The club queen. This tells you at once that your partner in west holds the ace.

Suppose the queen of clubs was not in the dummy hand. Or in your own east hand. You would not know at once whether west held the ace or the queen. At least, not until queen or ace showed up somewhere.

Then you would have to wait until south played to that trick. If south won the trick with the ace you would know partner held the queen. Know what to look for and bridge is easy.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 28 (AP) — His many fans may be surprised to know that Mr. Belvedere is at present engaged in portraying an angel and a cowboy.

Mr. Belvedere, to whom nothing is impossible, is Clifton Webb, of course.

"In films there is a tendency for an actor to be identified with the role he plays," commented Webb. "I revolt against this."

"I realized I was being typed as Belvedere. That is the reason I played the father of 12 in 'Cheaper by the Dozen.' And that is the reason for this present picture."

"Magnificent"

He was referring to "For Heaven's Sake," which is a drastic change of pace from the sharp-tongued Belvedere. He plays an angel who comes down to earth to aid a theatrical couple in having a child.

"My friends think it's riotous that I am playing an angel," he snorted. "Magnificent."

In one sequence he takes the form of a cowboy and he made extensive preparations for the portrayal.

Webb said he had warned his friend Gary Cooper to watch his laurel, Webb having perfected the Cooper-like "yup." Can he roll a cigarette?

"I can up to a certain point," Webb replied. "Then all the tobacco falls out."

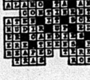
Answer to Saturday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

[illegible] came home from the bewty [illegible] with her hair kind of looking as if it was painted on her head instead of combed and brushed, and she waited for pop to say something about it, which he didn't, so ma said something ferst, saying, I went to Jules and Jack's for a hair do this afternoon, William.

I noticed it, it's quite a change pop said, and ma said, I'm afraid it may be a little extreeme what do you think, William?

Oh, I wouldn't say that, pop said. It'll probably loosen up in a day or so, he said, and ma said, I had to make the appointment 2 weeks ago to be sure of Mr. Jack's personel attention and he spent 2 exhawsting hours on it, but William if you think it's conspicuous and exaggerated, I want you to come rite out and say so without any evasions or beetings around the bush.

Do you meen you want my honest opinion? pop said, and ma said, Well of course, what elts do I ever want?

Then I'll give it to you, my dear, even though you probably wont like it, pop said. My dear, I hardly reckonized you at ferst You looked like a picture out of a fashion magazine, and the only reason I refrained from saying so was because I know you're inclined to be conservative in your personel taists and unduly sensitive about attracting attention to yourself, but now that you've forced me to speak out, I want to say that you can wear an ultra modern hair do with the best of them. There, I've had my say and I guess I'm in the dog house, but you brawt it on yourself, he said, and ma said, Dont be silly and abserd, you know very well I always want you to speek freely.

Being the happy end.

Dead Man Phones To Tell Police He is Still Alive

Montreal, June 28 (CP)—Hard bitten Montreal police got a shock Tuesday—a "dead man phoned them to tell them he was still alive.

The "deceased," Andrew McConnell of Montreal, phoned police after reading that his body was found Monday hanging in a Kingston, Ont., picnic ground. Police said identification was made from an identification card. The name given on it was Bernard McConnell, but occupation and address were the same as those of Andrew McConnell.

McConnell, in his phone call Tuesday, agreed with police findings, even the motive, that he was despondent over his son's death overseas. However, he insisted he was still alive.

Police now are wondering who the body is, how he got Andrew McConnell's address on his identification and who "Bernard McConnell" is.

Police said here later the body definitely has been identified by relatives as that of Bernard McConnell of Kingston.

Police are still puzzled over the case. They wonder how the wrong identfication was found on Bernard McConnell's body. Ontario Provincial Police are reported mystified too because an autopsy showed that Bernard McConnell had been dead two years. They are at a loss to explain how the body remained undiscovered at a picnic ground which is well attended.

HIT LOW SPOT

Orillia, June 28 — (CP) Cabbages, lettuce, celery and cucumbers were mixed up in a giant salad on an intersection here Tuesday when a 10-wheel tractor-trailer transport truck overturned. The driver, William Clifford of Kingsville, said the truck, bound for New Liskeard from Leamington, hit a low spot in the road.

FATALLY INJURED

Whitby, June 28 — (CP) Mary Ruth Horton, 3½, of nearby Ajax, was fatally injured Tuesday when she ran into the side of a moving automobile while on the way to the town park for a swing. She died in hospital without regaining consciousness.

Imperial Press Conference Ends With Banquet

Toronto, June 28 (CP) — The seventh Imperial Press Conference ended last night with a dinner at which overseas delegates said farewell to the Canadian section of the Empire Press Union. For three weeks, representatives of the leading newspapers of 15 countries have been meeting in Canada.

During that time, conference sessions have moved from Quebec City to Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Niagara Falls and Muskoka.

On behalf of the Canadian hosts, Senator W. Rupert Davies of Kingston, Ont., said the final meeting aroused sorrow at parting but joy at having established deep and lasting friendships.

He said the social aspect of the tour was as important as the business conferences in that exchanges of opinion found expression during the informal gatherings. For example, he said, apart from the contributions in formal conference, the attendance of delegates from Pakistan, Indian and Ceylon broadened the knowledge of delegates from other countries.

Gifts of silverware were made to Senator Davies, conference chairman; to Col. Victory Sifton, chairman of the committee of arrangements, and to his senior assistant, Brig. Dick Malone; to W. A. Craick, long-time secretary of the Canadian section; and to Sheila MacLeod and Douglas Smith, who handled details of tour arrangements.

S. KOREAN CAPITAL

Radio Pyongyang broadcast from the northern capital that Seoul had been occupied by northern troops after street fighting. It asserted that banks, public buildings and the provincial government had been taken over.

MacArthur's last summary said the South Korean army seemed to have recovered from the "surprise and shock action" of Sunday's invasion and the front "remains substantially unchanged."

All previous indications were that the Russian-trained North Koreans had been hurled back from Seoul to Uijongbu, 12 miles to the north, and beyond.

MacArthur's summary said the staying powers of both armies were "being put to the test."

Will Counter Any Attack

On the high seas American naval forces manoeuvred to counter any amphibious operation by the communists. Their patrols covered Formosa, the Nationalist China bastion 100 miles off the Chinese coast.

Swift jets and light bombers were thrown into the battle on the orders of President Truman to save the young South Korean republic from being overrun by the Russian - armed northern forces.

An earlier statement from headquarters said an undetermined number of these sky raiders from Japan had loosed 500-pound bombs on communist targets in bombing and strafing missions. The jets carry two 500-pounders on bombing missions.

The latest summary made no further mention of aerial attacks.

It noted that for the last 24 hours "the situation in Seoul has been fluid with movement on both sides."

An American informant said the invaders had been thrown back to Uijongbu. He reported that this information came from the South Korean army.

Commands Valley

Uijongbu commands the valley down which the main communist invasion force drove to Seoul. By most accounts the invaders twice reached Seoul and twice were thrown back.

The headquarters summary said the southerners "apparently are continuing a stiff resistance" in the vicinity of Kimpo Airfield, 16 miles northwest of Seoul. The invaders previously were reported to have established a bridgehead on the south bank of the Han River near the airfield.

Some fighting also was reported on the outskirts of the port of Inchon (Jinsen), 20 miles southwest of Seoul. The summary did not elaborate, but the northerners here may be irregulars. There have been no reports of regular troops reaching that far south.

Junks Sighted

The summary said several hundred junks and other light craft were sighted about 10 miles off Inchon. They were believed to be carrying the southern garrison which abandoned Ongjin peninsula, northwest of Seoul.

President Truman also ordered various U.S. naval units based in Japan to go into action south of the 38th parallel, the line which divides the south from the Communist north. Aerial operations also are restricted to the area south of this line.

(Reuters News Agency said Royal Navy warships—including the aircraft carrier Triumph and the cruiser Jamaica—were standing by in Japanese ports early today for "humanitarian work" in the evacuation of British and American citizens from South Korea. The destroyers Cossack and Consort, and the frigates Black Swan, Alacrity and Hart, and other ships in the Royal Navy group.)

New Landing Made

Kim Yong Ju, Korean minister to Tokyo, said the northerners had made a new landing on the southeast coast. He did not say where. The northerners previously made at least five diversionary landings on the east coast.

Presumably, it is the navy's job to prevent such landings from the sea.

MacArthur's headquarters took on the appearance of wartime. High officers were in continuous conference. All information was being screened for security angles.

An advanced echelon of general headquarters was set up somewhere in South Korea.

Air bases in Japan were operating with all the precautions of wartime.

Anti - aircraft guns, fully manned, pointed to the sky Pilots, ground crews and all officers were on wartime alerts.

Korean Crisis At a Glance

(By The Canadian Press)

Tokyo— Pilots back from air mission report Seoul captured by Red, supporting communist radio claim. American planes bomb and strafe advancing communists. U.S. naval units prepare to counter communist seaborne moves as new communist landing on coast is reported.

Lake Success— Security council, Russia absent, calls on United Nations members use military force to back cease-fire defied by North Korean communists.

Taipei, Formosa— Chiang Kai-Shek heeds American cease-fire demand, orders planes, warships halt attacks on communist Chinese mainland.

Pearl Harbor—U.S. Navy readies second task force for Pacific duty as seventh fleet prepares to sail to defend Formosa.

Moscow—Pravda suggests U.S. "gone too far" with military aid to South Korea, Chinese nationalists. Gives no hint of what Soviet government will do.

Washington— Political factions close ranks in support of President Truman's new far-east policy declaration.

London—Britain reported offering United States 10 warships for "mercy work"—presumably for such operations as evacuation American, other foreign nations—in Korean operations.

War Materials Poured into East By United States

(By John M. Hightower)

Washington, June 28—(AP) — The United States poured an increasing volume of war materials into its Pacific pipelines today to re-enforce the new fighting front drawn against communist aggression in Asia.

Now that American planes and warships are in combat action around Korea, arms have been urgently dispatched to Indo-China and the Philippines and Formosa is being screened by the U.S. navy. The next major move in the grim contest over spreading Soviet communism is clearly up to the Kremlin.

Administration officials agreed that as the situation now stands, following President Truman's decision to meet the Korean challenge head-on, the little group of powerful men who run Russia and its satellites holds the key to world war or peace.

There appeared to be no doubt among top officials that whatever theoutcome of the present crisis, they had done the right thing in deciding to go to the support of South Korea, once the United Nations Security Council had ordered the northern invaders out.

And while Truman took a calculated risk of war with Russia in making the decision on Korea, advisers argued that any policy smacking of appeasement would have been even riskier by encouraging the Kremlin to count on American weakness not only in Korea but elsewhere.

Gin Rummy Game Ends in Death For Cab Driver

Toronto, June 28 — (CP)—A "friendly" gin rummy game in a west-end taxi office ended in death today for Keith Hunter, 31-year-old cab driver, and a murder charge against Jack Robertson, 28. Robertson was remanded to July 5.

Hunter, a native of Pennfield Ridge, N. B., died from three stab wounds in the chest and back.

Hunter was reported to have died because of the turn of the jack of spades and a disputed $3 "pot." Police arrested Robertson at his home an hour after the incident. The accused man produced from the inside of his kitchen stove a bloody hunting knife believed to have been the death weapon, police said.

Cab drivers said they began the card game about 3 a. m. in the back of the taxi office at Gwynne and Queen Streets. Despite the insistence of the drivers that it was a "private" game, Robertson insisted on sitting in.

The argument ensued as Robertson dealt the cards two at a time and faced up the jack of spades, which Hunter claimed should have been dealt to his hand. The dispute carried out into the street and ended in a scuffle. Robertson left.

ity council with armed forces if necessary.

U. S. Recognizes Responsibility

Initially, at least, it seemed necessary that any such action would have to be taken by individual nations independently and it was this responsibility which the United States had recognized.

Canada was not a security council member and therefore was not called upon for any decision but he was sure the country would support the council's call to action because it represented a search for peace through collective action.

It was the government's firm hope that such action would "soon" end the conflict.

THE CAMEO

By Virginia Teale

Arnold compressed his mouth into a firm line:

"I'm not going to take it up to San Francisco. I just don't like the idea, that's all!"

Martin leaned back lazily. "That's tough, because you're going to. You'll do anything I ask, I think—this time or any other time."

Arnold stared at him: "What did you say, Martin?"

"You heard me. You owe me something of a debt, Arnold. Fortunately for your little bank balance, I've decided not to ask payment in money."

"I owe you debt?" Arnold laughed nervously. "I'd say that statement was slightly cart-before-the-horse."

"We're talking at cross-purposes." Martin tilted his chair and teetered back and forth. The coldness of his eyes belied his indolent attitude and drawling voice: "I feel that I've proved myself quite a friend of yours, quite a good friend, Arnold, by keeping certain things to myself."

Arnold's body went rigid. "Go on," he said.

"I will. Now the way I see it —you like it here Dolorosa. You like the reputation you've built for yourself out west as a master weaver. You like the money it brings in, you like the pilgrimages to your door by artists and sightseers. You'd hate to give it up and move away and begin again, wouldn't you?"

Arnold's face went white.

Martin laughed. "Oh, don't look so petrified. It all boils down to this—you take the cameo to San Francisco for me, and we'll forget all about Baltimore."

Color shot back into Arnold's face, turning it a deep, purple-red. He jumped to his feet and sprang at Martin, raining futile blows on the bigger man's arms and chest. Martin struggled out of his chair, grabbed Arnold's shoulder's and held him at arm's length:

"Now, now, Arnold," he panted. "Temper, temper!"

Arnold kicked at him sobbing, then turned and sank into a chair and buried his face in his hands.

"You're despicable, Martin Falter!" he spat.

Martin shrugged. "But interesting," he amended. "At least no one could call me a milksop. Now, if you're over the little tantrum, I'll give you the cameo. Put it away somewhere while I go out and see about getting that power of attorney. I probably won't get back here until around 9 or 10 this evening." He paused in the doorway, "try a little lavender salts Arnold, they'll give your vapors no end of a lift." He laughed and was gone.

Arnold, his head buzzing, pushed back his chair and walked to the windows.

His thoughts centred on Martin, reviewing their friendship from its beginning on Dolorosa's sun-baked beach one summer afternoon about two years ago.

Martin had been one of his first acquaintances. He had met him informally on the beach only because Martin's cigaret lighter hadn't worked. Arnold had given him a match. They had gotten on well, and presently, Arnold had told Martin all about his work—his art weaving. Arnold had become almost garrulous. But he'd been careful not to discuss his past life, careful not to mention anything that might lead to questions about Baltimore.

All of that Martin had somehow stumbled upon by himself.

Arnold cringed as he stood at the window. Baltimore! That dreadful scandal.

He turned from the window and paced the room. He stopped once and fitted a cigaret into his holder. What Martin Falter had just said to him amounted to blackmail! Blackmail from a man he'd thought of as a friend!

Arnold suddenly dispised himself for a fool. A naive fool, for confiding in Martin, making an intimate of him, occasionally lending him money. And asking nothing, nothing whatsover in return.

They had spent a good deal of time together until Martin had got mixed up with that O'Neill woman.

Blowsy, obvious creature! Nell O'Neill had money of course and that appealed to Marty. And he didn't even care that Nell's purse was filled by Tom, her good-natured husband.

Martin's financial graph was a familiar one to Arnold. Way up and then, way down. During his prosperous interludes, he would make vague and airy reference to having "disposed of a picture." Though why, thought Arnold, anyone would pay money for one of Falter's pictures was a folly beyond understanding.

Up to now, he had considered that if Martin wanted to pose as an artist and loaf out his days in Dolorosa, it was nobody's business—was, in fact, rather amusing. But today's events had thrown a different light on the matter.

He got up restlessly and walked over to the steel cabinet where he had locked up the cameo. He unlocked a drawer, took out the silver box and opened it. He stared for a long while at the small winking diamonds, the smooth pale luster of the pearls and the exquisitely carved weeping woman on the carnelian.

He gave a nervous start as the knocker on his front door clacked a staccato summons. He hastily closed the cameo box put it back in the drawer and locked the cabinet. It might be Martin returning—maybe to tell him he needn't take the cameo to San Francisco after all!"

He made for the hall, paused, then tiptoed swiftly down to the front door. Stealthily, he opened the Judas window a crack and peered out. Standing on his doorstep, big and brash as ever, was Nell O'Neill!

"Let me in, Arnold!" she rattled the knob rudely. "Hurry up!"

Arnold slammed the window—he'd opened it too far, Nell had seen him! If he didn't let her in would she bang on the door or cause some other kind of disturbance? Undoubtedly she would. He released the lock.

Nell brushed past him and swept down the hall and into the studio. Arnold trotted after her.

She took a brisk look around. Where is he?"

"Who?"

"Don't be stupid! Martin Falter. I saw him come in here!"

"You should have kept your eye to the knot-hole—you'd have seen him leave."

"Did he say where he was going?"

"I didn't ask him. It was none of my business."

Nell gave him a scathing look. "Got a cigaret little man?" She sank into one of the maple chairs

Arnold Pfieffer tossed an unopened pack of cigarets into Nell O'Neill's lap. She picked them up, giving him a mocking smile.

"Genuine old world courtesy always rampant at the Pfieffer weaving studio," she remarked in her hoarse, unpleasing voice.

Arnold bowed elaborately.

"Did Martin say anything to you about going away? About taking a trip or anything like that?"

"Trip? Him, or me?" Arnold kept his eyes on the cigaret he was fitting into his holder.

"Don't be funny, Arnold," she rasped, "Did he say anything about going away by himself?"

Arnold lighted his cigaret. "Not that I remember."

She tapped her long nails on the arm of the chair. Arnold stared at her hand as he would at a beached jellyfish. It was long, with narrow palm and slender fingers oddly squared off at the ends.

Nell stood up abruptly. She surveyed him from her almost six foot height, her flat blue eyes meeting his contemptuously. She adjusted her leopard coat and tucked her hands into the wide sleeves:

"If you see Martin before I do tell him I want to see him immediately. Immediately got that?'

Arnold turned his back on her. He heard her go down the hall and slam the front door. He whirled and spat out a word that was not in his everyday vocabulary.

When his temper had simmered down he went again to the cabinet and took out the cameo. Was the pin actually Martin's property? What if he had stolen it? And who was this prospective buyer in San Francisco? An honest man or a fence? Arnold bit his lips—he could ill afford to bring himself to the attention of the police!

The best thing to do right now was to take this wretched bauble up to Hagar Blair, the old scarecrow who ran the Three Wishes Gift Shop. She owned quite a famous cameo collection —there had even been an illustrated story about it in a recent Sunday supplement of a Los Angeles newspaper. She certainly would know whether such a cameo had been reported stolen.

He ripped off his smock and plunged into a flannel jacket. He dug around in a drawer, pulled out a sample square of tapestry wrapped the silver box and thrust it into his pocket.

Locking his front door behind him, Arnold stood for a moment then struck out toward Ocean Highway. As he neared the studio of the O'Neill's he saw Nell and her husband Tom emerge in the company of a short dark man who wore a turtleneck sweater and baggy pants. They climbed into a car at the curb—Arnold noticed that it wasn't the O'Neill car. He slowed his steps so he wouldn't be called upon to exchange greetings with them.

As Andrey Yakov's car pulled away from the curb in front of the O'Neill studio, Tom O'Neill wedged between the door and his wife, freed an arm and waved it out the window.

Nell watched. "He doesn't see you," she told Tom, "or at least he's pretending he doesn't."

Tom gave her a look of ponderous disdain. "Why should he pretend he doesn't see me, his good old friend? Little old Arnold is a nice feller. Minds his own business. Wouldn't hurt a flea."

Nell snorted. "Why don't you send him an orchid tomorrow?"

Andrey's lips curved upward beneath his narrow, black mustache. "This man, Arnold? He is a fellow artist?"

"You bet he's an artist!" Tom nodded enthusiastically. "A wonderful little old weaver, he weaves tapestries fit for the Metropolitan, that's what he does!" Suddenly he leaned forward. "Hey, wait, Pull up, Andreyvitch! That's the place!"

Yakov took his foot off the accelertor: "What place?"

"I told you about it," Tom said petulantly. "Bob's Place— best bartender in Dolorosa, makes the best Moscow Mules in the whole country."

Australian Naval Units to Support U.S. in Korea

3,000 Aussie Soldiers Will be Kept in Japan

Canberra, June 29 — (CP) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced today that Australian naval units in Japanese waters will support United States forces fighting in South Korea.

Ships immediately concerned are the frigate Shoal Haven and the destroyer Bataan.

An authoritative government source said that until the Korean situation is clarified, the 3,000 Australian soldiers now in Japan probably will be kept there. They had been scheduled for early withdrawal.

Menzies in a statement said his government had informed the United Nations Security Council and the United States that it would support the Council resolution calling for military support of the South Korean government.

Australia's decision also has been communicated to the British government, Menzies said.

No decision has been reached on the use of the Royal Australian Air Force fighter squadron in Japan, reliable sources said.

In Auckland Prime Minister Sydney C. Holland of New Zealand said his government was prepared to make units of the Royal New Zealand Navy available to the United States also.

His government, Holland said, would do all in its power to fulfill its U.N. obligations and was consulting with the British government on the mater.

Holland added: "The New Zealand government welcomes the measures promptly taken by the Security Council and fully approves the terms of the Council resolution.

SECOND SESSION 21ST PARLIAMENT QUIET AFFAIR

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 29 — (CP) Lack of a major controversial issue made the second session of Canada's 21st Parliament one of the most unexciting since the end of the war.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, set the trend toward quiet, serious discussion.

Progressive Conservatives and C. C. F. parties attempted to reintroduce the combines controversy of the last session, but interest lagged and it was soon dropped.

Resigns as Investigator

The controversy started after Justice Minister Garson disclosed that a report of an alleged price-fixing combine in flour-milling was withheld from publication for 10 months when the law required that it be published in 15 days. The car is a 1910 Russell which he picked up two weeks ago from an estate. Now he is waiting for offers.

Says Scotch Were Never Better Off, Foolish to Disturb With Home Rule

Toronto, June 29 —(CP) — Gilbert Carmichael of Minneapolis, Royal Chief of the Loyal Order of Scottish clans in United States and Canada, said today many North Americans of Scottish descent are afraid the fight for home rule in Scotland will divide the United Kingdom with "another Irish question."

The leader of 50,000 North American Scots was commenting on a speech to the Ladies Auxiliary of the Scottish clans today by John M. MacCormick, head of a four-man delegation of Scottish covenanters now touring the United States and Canada.

The Covenant Movement, representing 1,500,000 Scotsmen, is pledged to fight "for home rule in Scotland within the framework of the United Kingdom."

Mr. MacCormick told the auxiliary, in convention here, that there is a "malaise in the national life of Scotland which can only be overcome by the restoration of a national identity through a home rule parliament."

Mr. Carmichael, who has made several trips to Scotland to report on conditions there to Paul Hoffman, U. S. economic co-operation administration chief, said in an interview that "economic conditions in Scotland were never better."

"It would be foolish to disturb them with another Irish question now."

CANADA BENEFITS BY PROCEEDING SLOWLY--McCANN

Television Stations Discussed in House

Ottawa, June 29 — (CP) — Revenue Minister McCann yesterday told the Commons that private industry has "not been in too great a hurry" to establish television stations in Canada.

Replying to charges by Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) that the government has been dilatory in announcing a television policy and in carrying it out. Dr. McCann said Canada has benefited by proceeding slowly.

To Mr. Fleming's statement that Canada would have had television long ago had private stations been allowed to enter the field, Dr. McCann replied:

"Private industry has not been in too great a hurry to get into this business . . . it costs approximately $500,000 to set up a station and you must be prepared to take a loss of $500,000 before commercial advertising will place you on an earning basis.

"We have guarded the Canadian people against the granting of licences to people who are not prepared to go ahead . . ."

A. L. Smith (PC — Calgary West) drew no comment from the minister when he said he could not see why anyone who wanted to lose $500,000 in television development was not allowed to go ahead.

The discussion occurred as the Chamber studied the estimates of the Revenue Department which reports to Parliament for the publicly-owned CBC.

Wounded Man Says Short Did Not Shoot Him

Windsor, June 29 (CP)—Gerald Beland, critically wounded in a Windsor apartment two weeks ago, denied from his hospital bed yesterday that he was shot by John Shortt, 44, of Windsor, and today Crown authorities said the charge of wounding laid against Shortt would be withdrawn.

Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan heard evidence at the bedside of the 32-year-old Toronto man after hospital authorities said Beland may not live because of infection in the bullet wound in his side.

Beland refused to name the man who shot him but said the third man in the apartment when the shooting occurred was a man known as John Dobson.

Police are searching for Dobson, who has since been identified as a former convict named Haelers.

When he was first taken to hospital Beland gave his name as Owen Thompson, but fingerprints showed he was Gerald Beland, who escaped from guards while being taken to Kingston penitentiary after conviction on a narcotics charge.

Six Hollywood Writers Sent To Jail for One Year and Fined Refused to Answer Questions

Washington, June 29 — (AP)— Six Hollywood writers were convicted today of contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions about communism.

Fined $1,000 and led off to serve one-year jail terms were director Edward Dmytryk, Ring Lardner, Jr., Lester Cole, Albert Maltz, Alvah Bessie and Herman Bisberman. The court referred sentencing of writer-producer Adrian Scott and screen writer Samuel Ornitz.

Dmytryk is formerly of Grand Forks, B.C.

In brief statements to the court those sentenced today renewed their defiance of the House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities.

Lardner asserted "there is only a minor difference of degree between forcing a man to say what his opinions are, and dictating what those opinions should be."

The defendants are among the so-called "Hollywood Ten" cited by the House Committee for refusal to answer questions at a hearing on alleged communist influences in the film industry.

Writers Dalton Trumbo and John Howard Lawson — already have been sentenced to one year in jail and fined $1,000 each, the maximum penalty for contempt of Congress. They started serving their terms June 9.

U.S. Switchmen's Walkout Widens With 47,100 Men Out

Chicago, June 29 (AP)—Effects of a switchmen's walkout in the United States became more widespread today as the strike against five big railroads entered its 5th day. There was no hint of a settlement.

At least 47,100 men are idle, with more due to be lopped off payrolls today, and additional thousands tomorrow if the strike continues.

Some 4,000 members of the Switchmen's Union of North America (A. F. L.) left their posts Sunday morning on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Great Northern, the Chicago Great Western, the Denver and Rio Grande Western, and the Western Pacific railroads.

They went on strike in protest to a presidential fact - finding board's recommendations. The Board turned down demands by 79,000 yard workers for a 40-hour week at 48 hours' pay. The fact-finders recommended instead a 40-hour week with an 18-cent-an-hour pay increase.

Ottawa Refuses Visa Applications For Russian Group

Ottawa, June 29 (CP)— External Affairs Minister Pearson said today applications for visas had been refused a Russian cultural delegation headed by Lt-Gen. Alexander Gundorov to attend a "Slav congress" beginning today in Toronto.

"They play the kind of music we don't want to hear," the minister said amid cheers from all sides of the Commons. He was answering a question by John Decore (L-Vegreville).

Mr. Decore said the Canadian Tribune, "a communist publication," announced opening of the congress. He said a delegation headed by Gundorov was coming and added the Russian general was "on ordinary individual."

He was chairman of the All-Slav conference held in Moscow in 1941 and presided over similar conferences in countries behind the iron curtain and in the United States. He had a reputation as a first-class organizer.

Indian Paper Opposed to U.S. Intervention

Bombay, June 29 (Reuters) — The Independent Times of India today expresses opposition to the United States intervention in Korea and demands that Asian countries "uncompromisingly fight all foreign intervention, direct or indirect, in their affairs".

Civil strife and foreign intervention were laying waste many rich regions of southeast Asia and an international war would only pile up new horrors, the Times says.

The Nationalist Bombay Chronicle supports the suggestion by Benegal Naasing Rau, India's representative to the United Nations, for a meeting between President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin on the Korean problem.

"With the Soviet Union still silent about American intervention, it is perhaps the only ray of hope to save humanity from a global war," the Chronicle says.

(The government of India has not yet expressed its views on the Korean conflict.)

COMMONS WILL DEBATE WAR IN KOREA WEDNESDAY

Cheers From Members When Canada Mentioned

London, June 29 — (Reuters)— The House of Commons will debate war in Korea next Wednesday, the deputy Prime Minister, Herbert Morrison announced today.

Prime Minister Attlee briefly took the floor to tell the House about Australian and New Zealand naval forces joining the Americans in support of South Korea.

There were loud cheers when Attlee referred to an announcement by the Canadian External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson, that Canada, too, was deciding on what action she could and should take to lend a hand.

Labor left-winger James Hudson asked Attlee is he was "quite sure that the United States is acting within the directions of the security council."

Attlee did not reply, but there were some cheers from his side of the house.

The prime minister fended off labor member Woodrow Wyatt who wanted Britain to start work on an Asiatic defence pact right away. Said the prime minister: "I don't think that arises."

Say 7 Admitted They Were Spying For Turkey

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 29 (AP)—Seven persons accused in a Romanian military court in Bucharest of spying for Turkey with the help of the Vatican representative there have "confessed their guilt", Prague radio said today.

One of the defendants was Nicolau Popescu, chauffeur for Papal Nuncio (Vatican ambassador) Bishop Gerald P. O'Hara. The indictment said Bishop O'Hara, who is from the Savannah-Atlanta (Ga.) Roman Catholic diocese, had hired Popescu to spy for him.

(A high diplomatic source at the Vatican said there is no indication that the bishop himself has been arrested.)

Offer $750,000 for 200-Room Hotel

The hotel now is owned by the French government which took it over as enemy property. It formerly was owned by Michael Solnikoff, a known collaborator who was mysteriously killed in Spain a year after the war.

Mrs. Babette Parent who owns a hotel in the Laurentians of Quebec said she was representing a Canadian group which planned to buy the hotel as a tourist hostel "catering to North Americans."

Committee of Privy Council Reserves Judgment in Margarine Issue

London, June 29 — (CP) —The Judicial committee of the Privy Council today reserved judgment in the Canadian margarine case.

In hearings extended oyer six days, the committee has been hearing legal arguments in an appeal brought by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture against a supreme court judgment permitting the sale of margarine in Canada.

The supreme court found that section 5A of the dairy industry act, prohibiting the manufacture, sale or possesion of margarine or other substitutes for butter, was ultra vires of the Canadian parliament.

Five of seven supreme court judges held it was legislation in relation to civil rights and thus within exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces.

Two provinces—Quebec and Prince Edward Island—subsequently enacted legislation banning the sale and manufacture of margarine within their boundries. The remaining eight provinces permit its sale and manufacture but some have made it illegal to sell margarine colored to resemble butter.

Strong Offensive Behind Pounding Of U.S. Superforts

Battleline Along Han R. Ordered Held at All Costs

Tokyo, June 29 — (CP) — Behind the pounding of United States B-29 superforts, South Korean forces today stormed back on the offensive and reoccupied strategic Kimpo airport, 16 miles northwest of fallen Seoul, their capital.

While American bombers were blasting communist North Korean invaders went out of the field, U.S. and Korean strategists drew their main battle line along the Han River and ordered it held at all costs. About 25,000 troops on each side face each other along the line, which extends from a point just southeast of Seoul westward to the Yellow Sea and communist-held Inchon. The communist drive southward has not yet crossed the river.

The 75-mile battle line protects the American air beachhead in Korea and field headquarters of Gen. MacArthur's officers. MacArthur's officers said they believe the South Koreans can hold it now.

Back in Tokyo

MacArthur, back in Tokyo after a 15-hour flying visit to the front, appeared heartened by the stiffening resistance he saw and the morale of the Koreans, who cheered him. The southerners apparently were recovering from the initial shock of the communist invasion. Infantry units once cut off by the red tank attack which enveloped Seoul were being regrouped swifly to join the counter-offensive, U.S. military observers said.

The South Koreans moved in—at least temporarily—on Kimpo airfield just after American bombers blasted the comunists out of the field. Seoul appeared for the present firmly in red hands, with street fighting virtually at an end.

American bombing and supply operations were stepped up with the entrance of B-29 superforts into the mounting offensive. Other B-29s bombed targets near Inchon and Seoul and along the 38th parallel. Behind the assault the resurgent defenders drove back into Kimpo field and to the north, engaged the reds at captured Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul.

MacArthur Commander-in-chief of the U.S. Pacific forces, who is leading the United Nations in determined measures to stop the red invasion, drove by automobile to the edge of Seoul and saw the toughening resistance behind the American air strength. After 15 hours at the front, he returned to Tokyo. Communist planes dogged him and one which tried to attack his unarmed transport was driven off by an American fighter escort.

MacArthur ordered the heavy U.S. bombers to knock out three vital bridges to prevent North Korean tanks from resuming their southward drive.

Omaha, June 29 — (AP)—Police are hunting for safe-crackers who introduced a refinement to crime in Omaha.

Breaking into a cigar store, the burglars used a spray gun to blacken a plate glass door with paint, screening their sledgehammer attack on a large safe just inside the door. The amount of their loot was not disclosed.

SOVIET CONDEMNS U.N. COUNCIL'S CALL FOR SUPPORT

London, June 29 (AP) —Russia today condemned as illegal the United Nations Security Council's call for armed support of invaded South Korea.

A Russian note to Trygve Lie, U.N. Secretary-General broadcast by Moscow Radio, was the first official statement by the Soviet government on Korea since fighting started there Sunday.

The council resolution was illegal, the note said, because:

1. Unanimous approval of the five permanent council members was needed. "Two permanent members, the U.S.S.R. and China were absent."

(The Russians have refused to recognize the Chinese Nationalist delegation as legal representatives of China in the U.N. and have boycotted, since January, all U.N. meetings at which Nationalists China was represented.)

2. Seven votes were needed for adoption of the resolution. It was adopted "by six votes with the participation of a 7th, Kuomintangite Tsiang Ting Fu, who had no lawful right to represent China."

Lord Vansittart said he would ask the government in the House of Lords:

"Whether, seeing that the invasion of Korea has taken place in defiance of the authority of the United Nations, they (the government) will inform Mr. Trygve Lie that a visit by him to London for any purpose of appeasement would meet with strong public disapproval."

Masonic members in the Prince Edward District saw the cornerstone of their new Masonic Temple on Foster Ave. officially laid Wednesday afternoon with the Grand Master of the Masonic Order and other ranking lodge officials taking part in the ceremony. Shown left to right are The Grand Master, M. W. Bro. Jas. P. Maher; Deputy Grand Master, G. D. Crosby, Grand Jr. Warden, A. L. Hill, and Grand Chaplain, Rt. W. Bro. C. E. Kenny.

Masonic Grand Master Well And Truly Lays Cornerstone Of Temple on Foster Avenue

More than 500 Masons from Prince Edward District and about 200 spectators braved the elements Wednesday afternoon as the cornerstone was laid for the new Masonic Temple on Foster Ave.

Only 15 minutes prior to the service, the sun shone brightly, but as soon as the Masons taking an active part in the ceremony had mounted the special platform erected for the occasion, the sky clouded over and the rains came. Singing of hymns and most of the ceremony were shortened as the brethren on the stage got wetter and wetter.

The procession started from Ann Street Public School, moved to Bridge Street, and thence to Foster Ave. It was led by the Salvation Army band. When the participating Masons had moved to the stand, the other Masons lined up on Foster Ave., to take part in the responsive prayers of the ceremony.

Grand Master Participates

The Grand Master, M. W. Bro. James P. Maher, laid the cornerstone. Mr. Maher, while cutting his speech short because of the rain, congratulated the members of the Belleville lodges in their undertaking, and said that it involved "a great deal of work and a great deal of effort." At the conclusion of his address, the Grand Chaplain, Rt. W. Bro. C. E. Kenny, implored a blessing on the building.

Immediately after the prayer, the Grand Master called on the Grand Superintendent of Works, Rt. Wor. Bro. H. J. Clarke, to read the inscription on the scroll, and to deposit it in the cavity of the stone. The scroll, bearing the names of the Governor-General of Canada, the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, the Premier of Canada, the Premier of Ontario, the Mayor of Belleville, the Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, the date and site of the laying of the cornerstone, was then put into a copper tube and laid in the cavity.

Coins Deposited

Then the Grand Master called on the Grand Treasurer, Rt. Wor. Bro. D. Diamond to place a phial containing the coins of Canada in the cavity.

With this completed, the stone was lowered and the plumb-rule level and square were all applied to the stone. It was found true, and the Grand Master, with three taps of a gavel, declared the stone laid with the words, "Well Made, Truly Laid, Well Proved, True and Trusty."

The Grand Master then strewed corn on the stone as an emblem of plenty, poured wine on it as an emblem of joy and cheerfulness, and anointed it with oil as an emblem of comfort and consolation — "that it may serve for generations to come the purposes for which it is intended."

Plans Presented

After the Grand Honors had been given, William A. Watson, architect, presented the plans of the building to the Grand Master.

The ceremony drew to a close with the singing of the One Hundreth Psalm, and a blessing from the Grand Chaplain. Following that the National Anthem was sung.

Grand Director of Ceremonies was Rt. Wor. Bro. Wm. Coulby. Others on the platform, and their ranks, were as follows: Grand Tyler, Very W. Bro. F. G. Chamberlain; Grand Organist, W. Bro. C. Baragar; Ass't. Grand Organist, W. Bro. E. P. Smith; Ass't. Grand Director of Ceremonies, W. Bro. C. E. Meyers; Ass't. Grand Secretary, Very Wor. Bro. W. J. Attig; Grand Superintendent of Works, Rt. Accidents May Jump 50 P.C. Holiday Weekend is Warning

Why are motorists always in such a hurry to get from the front of one traffic jam to the tail end of the next one?

A good answer to this would help to save countless lives and limbs (not to mention fenders and radiators), especially on holiday weekends, say Department of Highways officials. They point out that very heavy traffic actually slows drivers down, making accidents less severe; while at the same time it generates impatient attitudes that can cause real tragedies whenever gaps in traffic allow for bursts of faster, less careful driving.

From Saturday, July 1st., to Tuesday, July 4th, highway hazards will be greatly increased for two reasons, officials say. With July 1st, Canada's 83rd birthday, this first public holiday of summer will see Canadians of all ages on the road in huge numbers. From the U.S.A. tens of thousands of visitors celebrating their own nation's birthday, July 4th, will add to the teeming volume of traffic.

Far too many holidayers are likely to make headlines in next week's newspapers—as accident victims. The Department of Highways warns that last July, on the same four-day weekend, motorists were involved in 543 accidents in Ontario, killing 11 people and injuring hundreds more. Per day, this averaged 136 accidents, or nearly 1½ times as many as the normal daily average in June or July last year. The Department's records also show that nearly one third of the traffic offences contributing to fatal accidents are shown 'as speed too fast for road or traffic conditions.'

Charles Burkitt New President Of T&L Council

Charles Burkitt of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Jointers, was named president with J. Browning of Firefighters International, being named vice president. G. Edwards of the carpenters' union was named secretary-treasurer and A. Firth, plumbers and steam-fitters, corresponding secretary.

Traffic Charges Predominate In County Court

Traffic charges predominated in county magistrate's court this morning as no less than 24 such cases came up for disposal before Magistrate T. Y. Wills. Twenty of the cases were settled out of court, while a number of others were enlarged for a later court.

One motorist pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving and will spend the next seven days in jail. Other motorists paid fines and costs from $8 to $13 for traffic offences ranging from speeding, careless driving and for driving with inadequate brakes.

Harold McGuire, city, was given suspended sentence with orders to pay costs and recognizance on a fraud charge involving non payment of a board bill.

Sicard Flusher Used in City For Demonstration

Demonstration of the Sicard street flusher which this morning flushed several of the main streets in the city went for nought as the weatherman followed with several heavy showers to repeat the operation.

But the showers merely did over again a street flushing job which had already been done to satisfaction. Mounted on a white truck the flushing equipment showed fine coverage of the entire pavement as spray nozzles spouted water ahead and to both sides of the vehicle.

Several members of city council watched the demonstration of the flusher as it passed up several of the main streets.

Transient Killed In C.N.R. Yards, Run Over by Car

With both legs severed at the hips and the left arm off at the shoulder, the body of an unidentified man, aged about 65 to 70, was found in the Canadian National Railways yards a few minutes before seven o'clock this morning.

Police believe the man was a transient who apparently had slipped under the wheels of a freight as he attempted to board a train out of the yards.

The man carried no identification but had a packsack tied to his shoulders, the bag containing a few buns, shaving equipment and other articles. Two Oshawa street car tickets were found in the man's purse, which also held a few cents in change.

Provincial police investigated the accident and reported they had identified the freight car which ran over the man. The car was located at Corbyville. Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott has ordered an inquest.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 29 — (CP) —A fresh wave of selling halted a recovery movement on the Toronto stock exchange today and sent prices reeling backwards in continuation of Monday and Tuesday's declines. Volume for the first three hours was 1,457,000 shares.

The sudden decline followed a sharp setback in New York. Leading industrials showed losses ranging from fractions to more than three points. Activity slowed in mid-session and the market paused for breath. Interlisted issues were hardest hit.

Losses ranging up to 35 cents in key junior gold producers depressed that list to new low level for the year. Activity was practically at a standstill in the recently brisk-trading low-priced stocks.

Base metals sagged over a broad front following news of a cut in the price of lead. Consolidated Smelters and Noranda were down $1.

Western Oils made the best early recovery but leaders in this group were also pushed lower.

Electric Girls Trim Baltimore By 20-8 Score

The Northern Electric Ladies' Softball team gave coach Moe Fogarty a royal sendoff last evening as they consolidated first place in the eastern division of the Lakeshore Ladies Softball League with a convincing 20-8 win over Baltimore in a twilight tilt at the Alemite Field.

The likeable Moe departs this weekend for new duties with the company in Montreal and he can leave with the knowledge that while he was here he has erected a formidable challenger for league honors.

After blanking Baltimore in the top of the first frame the Electrics pounced on the slants of Slater for four hits and three runs and were never headed. In the second frame they matched Grafton with two more tallies, and in the third, after Baltimore had counted twice, came back with a four run rally on two walks, two errors and two hits.

Day's home run blast to lead off the fourth was the most potent blow of the evening and stretched Northern's lead even further.

Baltimore counted one in the fifth on a walk and an error but went down in order in the sixth.

Northern rolled out the artillery in the sixth cracking out two doubles and two triples in an 8-hit barrage that netted them nine runs.

Three runs by Baltimore in the seventh failed to close the huge Northern lead.

McGrath went all the way for Northern, walking four, striking out seven and being nicked for seven safeties and eight runs. Slater toiled the first four innings for Baltimore, walking four, striking out four, and being victimized by nine hits and 11 runs for the loss. Reliefer Smith went two innings giving up eight hits for nine runs.

Line ups:—

Baltimore: B. Slater, Davey, Jibb, Hogg, Hebert, Wall, Buttars, Hircock, S. Slater, L. Mossey, Smith.

Northern Electric: B. Reeves, B. Young, I. Seguin, K. Mills, H. Reeves, C. Waite, S. Day, B. Robson, A. McGrath, A. Atkinson.

Pupil of School 78 Years Ago Attends Banquet

Brantford, June 29 (CP)—More than 150 members of the alumni association of the Ontario School for the Blind gathered at the school last night for a banquet which concluded the first day of the association's 13th biennial meeting.

Sandford Leppart of Toronto, only member of the association who attended the school's first session in 1872, was among those in attendance.

Mr. Deppart attended the school for 10 years, and was the first graduate to find employment, when he was hired as a piano tuner by the firm of Mason and Risch. For the last 25 years he has operated a piano tuning business of his own in Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Leppard will celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary next week.

Merchants Discuss Feasibility Of Establishing Parking Lot On North Section Victoria Park

At a special meeting of the Retail Merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce in Lattimer's Town Room Thursday morning, it was decided that the parking committee of the association will meet with the Parks Board and the city engineer to survey the north section of Victoria Park and estimate the costs of a parking lot there.

General feeling of the group was that Belleville, to retain its title of "The Friendly City", must provide better parking facilities for out-of-town shoppers. In addition, it was felt that the supervised playgrounds in the city will help to take the burden off visitors by providing a place for them to leave their children, while they shop. On the motion by Jimmy Walker and seconded by Stewart Martin, the association voted to investigate the possibilities of the lot at Victoria Park and to take advantage of it as soon as possible.

Three Available

This move will make available three parking lots for the tourist trade primarily—the Riverside parking area, the north section of Victoria Park, both daily, and the Corbin Lock parking area on Saturdays. The Corbin lot is equipped with picnic tables and benches. Mr. H. N. Becker, chairman of the Parks Board, said that an effort would be made to have visitors take advantage of the city's playgrounds at the same time, by letting them know that they could take their lunches there.

Take Gravel From Island

It was suggested that gravel for the parking areas be obtained from Zwick's Island, with a private contractor hired to do the trucking.

Freeman Burrows, Chamber of Commerce manager, suggested the printing of handbills with a map showing the parking areas available in the city, to be distributed to visitors. This was held over in favor of the erection of signs on the city's outskirts advertising the location of the areas and inviting tourists to take advantage of them. Members of the group felt this a more permanent method of advertising.

Second project discussed during the meeting was the recreation week being sponsored by the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L., branch No. 99, in conjunction with the Parks Board of the city. On a motion by H. W. Gourley and seconded by Stewart Martin, it was decided that each trade association within the division should contribute $5 towards sponsoring an advertisement for Recreation Week.

Record Crowd Expected

H. N. Becker reported that a crowd of 10,000 is expected at the show Friday, July 7 and that during the week, the three senior playgrounds, East Hill, West Hill and King George, will be opened. All supervised, the playgrounds will open Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, in that order.

Mr. Becker said that out-of-town support for the effort has been very good, and that the Northern Electric and American Optical parking lots have been secured for the evening. All proceeds from the effort will go towards playground maintenance and equipment.

The meeting wound up with a discussion on whether or not the organization composed of the independent grocers in the city should be invited to join the group. The representative of the grocers was invited to join in February, Freeman Burrows said, but refused. There was no definite decision made.

Also discussed was the power of the group, with regard to members who chose not to obey decisions of the division. "We're wasting our time here, with no power," one member said. The reply was that there will always be individualists, and that they would do as they pleased, regardless. A suggestion from the floor that members not abiding by regulations be written and asked whether or not they wished to stay in the group was left in abeyance.

USE OR NON-USE OF A-BOMB

The statement by a Conservative member of the British Parliament that Britain should urge the United Nations to use the atomic bomb to control the communist invaders of South Korea could possibly be the start of a new trend of thought.

Heretofore, men of peace have considered that harsh weapons using the atom and hydrogen should be kept for peacetime use only. Memories of the horrible damage to property and injuries to civilians caused when the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan have led leaders of democracy the world over to the plea for the non-use of the atomic terror.

Peter Geoffrey Roberts, a wartime major in the Coldstream Guards, asked the question "Will the Prime Minister advise his representatives in the United Nations to ask for the use of the atomic bomb?" He asked that this be done only if the Korean government refused to obey the United Nations resolution forbidding war, and that the bomb be used on the capital of Northern Korea.

Admittedly, the Korean situation is tense, and the United Nations is facing a problem that may possibly affect every region of the world. But should the democratic nations in U.N. ask for the lighting of the atomic fuse — the fuse under the powder keg of civilization? Those people who are inclined to look upon the United Nations as a body already moving towards its demise are the people who also felt that the League of Nations was almost useless. Political scientists agree that the machinery of U.N. is adequate, but that the application of that machinery to end disputes, if not handled in a proper manner, may lead to another world conflict.

Thus, it is decisions of the United Nations such as the one involving Korea that may or may not be the guiding factors in the path of civilization.

ADOPTION CASE

The precedent set by the Supreme Court of Canada in an adoption case this past week may have far-reaching effects on the status of adopted children. The Court awarded custody of an illegitimate child to its mother after two years of legal fighting. The child had been adopted by a couple, and as the foster parents, they were attempting to keep the boy.

Spokesmen for the court said after the decision that such an action could not be contemplated if final adoption papers had been issued after the legal two-year period, but that it would set a precedent for cases where a final order has not yet been obtained. This particular case had first been taken to the Ontario Surrogate Court, where custody of the child was given to the foster parents. When the decision was appealed, the Ontario Court of Appeal awarded the child to the mother. The foster parents then appealed, and the Appeal Court's decision was sustained.

According to law, a two-year period must elapse between the time of adoption and the granting of the final order. Thus, it might be that a way has been opened for mothers to regain their children, if their characters and conduct are good. Further, the court decided that no mother of an illegitimate child can bind herself in any agreement to give over her child to a stranger.

The extent to which this decision will be felt can be marked only by the suffering attendant on it, if any. In such a case, the future welfare of the child must be considered above all else, and the court's decision must be based on what is best for all parties concerned. It will be interesting to watch the results of the action, but more interesting still will be the effects of the decision on the child.

ROYAL VISIT TO N.Z.

More than usually important to the people of New Zealand is news of the possibility that that Dominion will have the happiness of welcoming His Majesty the King in the not distant future. News from Wellington suggests that the King will pay a royal visit to the Commonwealth before June 1952.

Canada still has memories of the visit of Their Majesties to the Dominion about eleven years ago. People recall the time of their long journey from coast to coast, the King and Queen being received with demonstrations all along the line of their great journey. At the same time they paid a visit to President Roosevelt of the United States, where they were received with such fervor as the American people of the Republic can put into a welcome.

The transatlantic visit of the rulers in 1939 was an event in the Anglo-Saxon world.

The people of this country can appreciate the interest with which the New Zealanders will look forward to the royal visit.

Psychiatry has proved that, through active and sympathetic treatment, mental disorders can be cured. Its practitioners have shown that the sick mind can more often than not be healed just as successfully as the sick body can be restored to physical health. The regrettable circumstance is that some members of society still have to be convinced of that psychiatric truth. It is time they freed themselves of such benighted prejudices. — Hamilton Spectator.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 29th., 1930

Nearly nineteen hundred "transients" have been given accommodation at the local police station since the first of this year. Since May 8th. last six hundred and sixty seven of these wanderers have spent the night at the police station. Some of these men "ride the rods" and others hitch-hike.

Frank Adams, grocer on East Bridge Street, between Charles and Albert Streets, was held up by an armed man Saturday night when he was alone in the store and was preparing to close up. The thug pointed the gun at Mr. Adams and ordered him to hand over all his cash; this he did not do, but seizing a fruit crate he struck the man over the head, knocking the gun from his hand. A tussle followed and Mr. Adams threw the hold-up man out the door. He and an accomplice, who was outside, lost no time in making a getaway.

PATTERNS OF THOUGHT

It is hard to make us realize that this generation, with all its scientific advances, is making just as many mistakes—and in fact very much the same type of mistake—as people have made in the past.

The person today who advocates a course of action contrary to the customs, tastes and intellectual pattern of his day is just as much ridiculed and hated as reformers and heretics have been in other ages. Galileo challenged the science of his day, and he was compelled to recant on bended knee. Pasteur worked with the full knowledge that most of the scientists of his day hated and despised him and would clap him into jail if they had legal justification for so doing.

Anyone today who tries to stem the onward rush of modern thought is met with contempt and vilification. Today's pattern of thought is scientific—at least allegedly so. But when Einstein, fifty years ago, challenged this pattern, most people dismissed him as a dreamer and crack-pot. The men who run our government manage our education, write most of the books, and control the literary output of the nation sing the same song, scratch one another's backs, and take part enthusiastically in a mutual admiration program.

And the dissenter is just as bitterly hated today as he ever was.

Auto Industry Ready to Build Arms for War

Detroit, June 29 (AP)— The United States' giant automobile industry built $29,000,000,000 worth of armament in the Second World War. It could build much more, much faster if another emergency arose.

That's the view of high industry sources today.

They don't talk about war-production possibilities excepting in generalities. Yet it probably isn't much of a secret that just about every auto industry plant has been surveyed as to its adaptability to armament production and that every manufacturer knows what he will be asked to make.

One executive, preferring to remain unidentified, said recently:

"Of course we have some military work under way; right now it is mainly replacement work on parts and materials for vehicles in the field. The volume isn't great—it couldn't be while we are turning out close to 200,000 peace-time vehicles a week. But we are working closely with the military."

The automobile industry in the Second World War made almost every type of armament from bullets to 60 ton tanks. Before the war's end it had one plant alone turning out airplane bombers at the rate of one every hour.

The industry also had a share in development work on the atom bomb. This secret work was carried out in what appeared to be a department store building in the process of alteration in the heart of downtown Detroit.

The industry's productive capacity has been greatly expanded since the Second World War.

Informed sources say that if another emergency arises the conversion to arms production will be quick.

Mackenzie's Column:

Britain's Action Strengthens Hand Of Democracy

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Britain's quick action in offering the United States powerful naval support in the Korean crisis vastly strengthens the hand of democracy in dealing with this fresh communist aggression.

Whether the U.S. actually needs this extra naval aid is of far less importance than the fact that we have here another striking exhibition of solidarity between these two great world powers. That's a potent warning against further Red aggression.

Not all the democracies have been so quick to stand up and be counted. Many have been proceeding more cautiously, with a weather eye on Moscow.

Self-preservation is a natural impulse, but this is a crisis in which outspoken unity among the democracies is badly needed. It's no time to hedge.

The communist world, headed by Russia, is in process of assaying the position — of figuring out whether the western powers mean business or are just blustering. Moscow's first reactions, as displayed in editorial comment, charged aggression but were comparatively mild. The Bolshevists are feeling their way.

Truman Gives Warning

Meantime the Northern Korean armed forces continue their attack on the South Korean Republic, and the defenders have lost their capital, Seoul, along with some other key points. American planes are in action against the aggressors.

President Truman has warned that "we face a serious situation." However, he expresed the hope that his decision to use American force will bring peace in the world ultimately.

I believe that hope is well founded. We may have to fight another world war if things go badly—but it is not true that such a war in inevitable.

A firm stand by democracy is likely to discourage communist aggression. A display of weakness by democracy at this crucial juncture would be inviting further aggressions like that now directed at Korea, with the certainty that another world war would have to be fought.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

This week the schools all across the land close. The chance now presents itself to the parents of Canada to mend and undo, in two brief months, the damage done to their children by an enlightened educational system.

Two months is little enough in which to beat it into your children's heads that life is not at all amusing, exciting, entertaining adventure that the modern school is. Only a generation ago, school was a dull and forbidding treadmill of learning which prepared a child in some measure for the realities of life. Now the poor little souls are deluded and defrauded into expecting of life all the attention, the consideration, and the charming entertainment they find in school.

The latest conviction of our pedagogues is that the school child should be freed of frustrations, and to this end a whole system of education has been erected in which a child can find exercise for his energies and talents no matter how cock-eyed they may be. We parents have only two months as against the schools' ten months in wihch to teach the little brats that life consists almost ninety-five per cent of frustrations. As for inhibitions, they are only outnumbered, in real life, by the prohibitions with which the law, written and unwritten, surrounds us all the instant we quit the blessed sanctuary of the school and enter into the brawl of life.

Summer holidays, in days gone by, were little spells of heaven. In July and August, the innocent children, liberated from the treadmill of school, were afforded a few weeks of joyous freedom from reality.

Now that you can spend ten months of the year in joyous reality, it becomes their kind and tender parents who use the summer holidays as a period of stern correction. The children should be given jobs, the meaner the better. Their little noses should be held to some sort of grindstone. If nothing better can be devised, they might all be put to spending July and August carrying heavy stones from one end of the backyard to the other. They must somehow be prepared for real life. But what is this screaming I hear——? Ah, school's out! Oh, well......

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WORK FUN

Don Herold is a New York City advertising man — and one of the very best. He has been my inspiring friend, as well, for many years. He was once my associate in business, and here is something else about him — he is one of America's top humorists, author of half a dozen books that leave you "in high," and running smoothly, after each reading.

It is this man's clean and sensible philosophy of life, however, that I wish to mention, for it has paid out big for him. He says that he never takes a vacation — "except everyday," and he says that he goes to "places where work in fun and fun is fun!" So he accomplishes a great deal of work that others only dream about.

You don't find Don Herold at his desk in the city every day, but he can always be located — working somewhere — at home, in Florida, during the Winter, or in some quiet spot, where his thoughts move in rhythmic style, like the working of a perfect motor. He is a hard worker, but keeps making work-fun.

Getting fun out of your work will increase your efficiency, no matter what it is that your mind, hands, or feet, engage in. Worries won't trouble you. Work fun won't let them enter, or bother you. You are then too far up on solid ground. Did you ever hear of a man or woman, happy in his or her work, who wanted to change it?

People who wear out early do so because the machinery of their mind gets rusty. Judicious fun would have kept it clean in perfect running order. Mark Twain had troubles, during a good part of his life, that would have floored most men, but fun kept creeping into his mind and soul — and he shared that fun with millions. Fun was his job.

If you don't get fun out of what you do there is something wrong with the work you do, or with you. It doesn't matter much where we work so long as we are happy there, and get fun and inspiration out of what we do. Take my friend's suggestion. Go 'where work is fun and fun is fun!'

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address: Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

FORTY AND LOVELY

If a woman has a reasonable knowledge of physiology and hygiene she should be at her best in every way at forty.

Trouble with so many of the credulous creatures is that they take seriously all the fishwives' yarns pertaining to the dreadful things that will happen with "change of life."

In the pamphlet of The Menopause, available on written request if you provide stamped self-addressed envelope, the simple truth about the matter, as attested by millions of women today, is stated thus:

> The normal woman suffers no disability or inconvenience from the "change of life." There is simply a cessation of the function of menstruation, usually gradual, not abrupt, through a cycle of several months. The sensible woman who experiences or notices or even fears anything out of the ordinary, any new symptom, will promptly submit the complaint to her physician, just as though there were no such thing as menstruation of sex.

Millions of women who have passed the menopause know from experience that it brings no particular physical or mental "change," no impairment of health and certainly no loss of good looks.

Both men and women who are potential diabetics (have the inherited tendency, some 25 per cent of our entire population, according to Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, take on superfluous flesh and carry the excess for ten years or more before they finally achieve diabetes — carry it because they refuse to (1) limit their daily intake of refined carbohydrate food to a reasonable or adequate quantity and/or (2) take sufficient moderate general exercise daily, such as three to six miles of oxygen on the hoof, to maintain normal metabolism or utilization of carbohydrate in the body. This is another good reason why a woman of forty should consider more seriously than ever before the advisability of an annual medical examination or check-up (as simple minded folk call it). Keep your subscription paid up if health interests you as an asset. In another article I'll describe a typical case with a happy outcome or at least a course most satisfactorily moderated by intelligent control of the daily carbohydrate intake.

Not that there is any special relation between the menopause or "change of life," if you are simple-minded about it, and the development of diabetes. I mention diabetes here only because, in my opinion, it is one manifestation of the physical degeneration which awaits every one who lives long enough.

I am reluctant to refer at all to another reason why a woman, even though at her best at forty, should seriously consider the wisdom of having an examination by her physician once a year. Ten thousand women attending university hospital clinics and women under treatment by private physicians for one ailment or another were examined for cancer of the womb. Two hundred and fifty of them had cancer, and of these 105 had not yet noticed any symptoms which would even suggest cancer. The diagnosis hinged on the discovery of cancer cells in the microscopic examination of material taken from the lining of the neck of the womb.

Even the physicians who carried on this work doubted the advisability of employing it in routine practice. The method is still under study.

But every woman who, at the time of the menopause, suffers any sort of trouble which older women may assure her is merely the "change of life", should have the advice of her physician about it. This is especially so if there is any abnormal or unusual bleeding, discharge or odor. Remember that in 105 cases of cancer of the cervix (neck of the womb) among the 250 cases mentioned, there was as yet no complaint of pain or other symptom.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

What You Don't Know

Had I known at the age of 21 or 22 that a potential diabetic should follow certain special rules...but I did not learn I was diabetic until I was nearly forty, and then only because I read about it in your column. (Mrs. M. H. M.)

Answer—According to Joslin and other authorities at least 25 million persons in America are potential diabetics—have the tendency to develop diabetes. It is for these that the booklet Training for Diabetes is intended. For a copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope. A potential diabetic is a person who has inherited the tendency and nevertheless lives dangerously—avoids daily exercise, overeats, accumulates superfluous flesh.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

Gypsies, Inc.

Tomorrow morning, at an hour when human vitality is said to be at its lowest ebb, a large new station wagon will haul a large new house trailer through the streets of Vancouver, across the big span over the Fraser River and then up through the first of a thousand green Canadian valleys.

No one is more surprised than I that it will be me at the wheel, or that the caravan towing out behind will be home for four peripatetic Scotts during the coming months.

In these last weeks of preparation for a coast-to-coast junket all our friends and acquaintances have been envious of our assignment. Nearly everyone these days seems to have an urge to escape from the routine of day-to-day living. We've had applications from more than a hundred would-be gypsies to join our expedition. From baby-sitters to cooks.

Me. I'm the last one to be surprised at this. I'm at an age when the rules of the game call for a certain settling down. But that restlessness to peep over new horizons seems to be getting stronger than ever. I've been all hopped up since the afternoon when the man said to get out and have a look at Canada.

But tonight, on the eve of departure and sitting before the familiar fireplace in the familiar shack and with the familiar surf on the Gulf of Georgia breathing at our door, well, it sobers you up. A lot of questions come to mind.

Will four of us be able to get along in a home 22 feet long by eight feet wide? Will we adapt ourselves to the new life on the open road after the old life in the snug safety of suburbia? What do you do in the Rockies if a bear knocks on your door? How does a Coleman lamp work? How, indeed?

Judy and Jill

Several Canadian papers across the country have invited their readers to come along with us on our cross-Canada safari. Our friends in Vancouver, Edmonton and Ottawa have been with us on less ambitious trips before, but I suppose we ought to introduce ourselves to those of you who just came in.

Brown Eyes and I have made several trips for the Vancouver Sun, which is our home paper, including a jaunt up the Alaska Highway to Fairbanks and, a year later, down into Mexico. But this is the first time it's been a family affair.

I don't want to be too folksly about this. It isn't on account of the Bobbsy Twins across Canada, but I think if you know the kids it may encourage you to come along in spirit on our trip.

Well, Judy is 10 and as attractively dark-eyed as her mother. She is the complete tomboy. For her the trip means a chance to swim in a whole bunch of new lakes, ride a whole bunch of new horses, climb a whole bunch of new trees.

The trip meant taking her out of school, which was okay with Judy. We are to hold "classes" each day so that she can take her tests later this month. Quite a few of our friends think this is a crime. Maybe so. But I have a hunch our Judy will get an education this way that will help her in the classroom later on.

The other member of the junior team is Jill, who will be two next Monday. Jill is the antithesis of her sister. She's the Dresden doll type. Head of golden curls. Blue-grey eyes. Altogether feminine. Talks her own language morning until night. A confirmed flirt with a mind of her own.

Both the kids have taken to the trailer while it sits incongruously in our back yard. They've tested it out by playing "house" in it all day and sleeping out there at night. They've pinned up their own map of Canada above their bed with a red crayon tied on a string to mark their progress from day to day.

Where Away

Now about our itinerary and what we intend to do. Well, we're hoping to cross the country by the all-Canadian route as a kind of preview of what the real, honest-to-goodness trans - Canada highway will mean.

We don't know for sure where that route will take us except, of course, that it will be through the south. We know that tomorrow our objective is just 70-odd miles east at the pleasant Cultus Lake up near the head of the Fraser Valley.

We may be there a week or more within carrier pigeon's distance of home, while we test out our new roving villa for livability. I expect you'll hear a lot about that for a few days because the problems it presents are pretty comical. This week, too, I'd like to describe the caravan to you so that you'll have an idea what it's like.

Then it's on to the Okanagan Valley and north over the Big Bend Highway to Lake Louise, Banff and Jasper and all points east to write about the people we meet on the main highway and in the back roads, the places we see and the adventures that come our way.

We hope that you'll come along with us five days a week on this magic carpet of type and share with us the happy times and the other kind. And if you see a large, ungainly, aluminum van creeping down the road your way, pull well over to the curb, will you? The express must go through.

WEDDINGS

EDWARDS—HIBBARD

Tall standards of pink and white peonies, white gladioli, and ferns banked the chancel of Bridge Street United Church on Saturday, June 24th., at 3.30 p.m. for a lovely double-ring ceremony when Muriel May Hibbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel John Hibbard, of Belleville, became the bride of Reginald William Edwards, Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Edwards, of Timmins, Ont., and nephew of Miss Hilda McLaren of Belleville. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Dr. James Semple, of Peterborough, former pastor of the church, assisted by the Reverend Donald C. Amos, pastor.

Appropriate wedding music was rendered by Mr. Alec Gordon, church organist, and the soloists, Mr. Alex. Cunningham, of Belleville, and Miss Margaret Semple, of Peterborough, sang, "The Lord's Prayer", and "Through the Years", before the ceremony, and during the signing of the register, respectively.

Owing to the illness of her father, the bride was given in marriage by Dr. George S. Cronk, life-long friend, and family physician, and was radiant in her exquisite bridal gown of white-mist-shadow, imported Chantilly lace over an organdy and taffeta foundation, fashioned with a moulded bodice, tight-fitting sleeves, ending in lily-points over the hands, wide, portrait-neckline framed by a cuff of Chantilly lace deepening to a wide point at the back. The full, shirred skirt hung in soft folds gracefully flowing into a scalloped cathedral train. Her full-length veil of silk tulle illusion was caught to a scalloped halo of matching Chantilly lace, and she carried a cascade bouquet of blush-pink Butterfly roses, white feathered carnations, intermingled with white maline net and tied with imported lace ribbons.

The guest pews were designated by bows of blush-pink and tiny sprays of orange blossoms.

Miss Muriel Semple, of Toronto, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Joan Summerville, of South Porcupine and Miss Eleanor Sandercock, of Belleville. All were gowned alike in blush-pink nylon marquisite over rose taffeta, featuring off-the-shoulder necklines, nylon yokes, moulded bodices and floor-length, bouffant skirts. Matching nylon marquisite picture hats and mitts, and crescent bouquets of pale-pink gladioli, feathered, blue carnations and cornflowers, completed their ensembles.

MARMORA

Mr., Mrs. W. Lavender Quietly Celebrate 22nd Anniversary

Marmora — Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lavender quietly celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary on Tuesday. They were married at St. Margaret's Glanmire, by Canon J. Grant Sparling (now rector of Christ Church, Belleville) and have been residents of Marmora for the past 14 years.

Mr. Lavender was village constable for nine years and people's warden of St. Paul's Anglican Church for a number of years. He has identified himself closely with all movements for the welfare of his adopted village.

Mrs. Lavender, too, has been most active in church work, being a member of the choir and a Sunday School teacher for several years. She is a past president of Marmora Women's Institute, and of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild, rendering both many years of active service. At present she is the president of St. Paul's W.A. and secretary of the Ladies' Guild.

Their son Ivan is a member of the choir and has officiated as server at the services of Holy Communion at his church.

Their many friends join in hearty congratulations in this anniversary.

Fashion Flashes

A NICE COMPROMISE between utter sleevelessness and the long sleeve is the deep capelet sleeve. In some frocks, the capelet sleeve is finely pleated; in others it is flounced or rippled, and is worked in with the bodice. White rayon jersey — printed in green, pink and purple — makes a neat little frock buttoned to below the waist, with capelet sleeves that ripple loosely just above the elbow. Cool, and a nice cover-up for a fleshy upper-arm.

COMPLETE ACCEPTANCE of velvet trimming for Summer millinery seems certain, since this detail appears in bargain basements as well as fine French Room designs. Color is brought into a group of white panama hats with bright red and green velvet crown bands, brim edging and veil borders.

EASY UPKEEP for a nice group of shoulder and handbags of nylon straw lined with linen. Base and strap are of washable leather. Nice in glistening white, with red or navy leather trim.

Tourists Travelling up Trent Find Leo Auger Real Help

Trenton — (Special — When it comes to extending a friendly greeting to visitors, New York City has nothing on Trenton. The Manhattan metropolis has its well known one man welcoming committee, Grover Whalen, Trenton, gateway to the Trent Valley system of lakes, rivers and canals, has Leo Auger.

Located at the mouth of the Trent River, Trenton's attractive and recently improved dock facilities are attracting increasing numbers of pleasure yachts from all points of the compass each y[illegible] On arrival in the Air Force City, the water-borne tourist is met at the dock by Leo Auger, personal representative of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

Leo's introductory card supplied by the Chamber of Commerce states that he "will render every assistance possible in quickly placing at your disposal the facilities of the town. Information with regards to repairs, supplies of all kinds and general information concerning the town will be gladly furnished by our representative. You are urged to 'make yourself at home.' We hope your stay in Trenton will be a pleasant one and that you will visit us again."

Does a Good Job

Proof that Leo lives up to his advertising was furnished only last week when Lieut. C. H. Aharan, commander of a naval training craft that put in at Trenton overnight, told the press "the man who looks after the dock was most helpful in looking after us and finding us a fine place to dock."

A familiar figure about town, Leo has been helping yachting vacationists procure supplies ever since 1931. Often, as a pleasure craft is pulling into the dock, someone on deck will shout "Here we are again Leo, how about a good place to tie up?" This is further evidence that Leo Auger goes out of his way to make their stay in Trenton so pleasant they will remember it and want to come back.

Everybody who has been here before is commenting on the improvement in the dock and surroundings," Leo said when interviewed Wednesday afternoon. He added pointing across to Senator Fraser Park, "A year or so ago that was nothing but swamp almost back to Albert Street. Today, this former breeding place for flies and mosquitoes has been turned into one of the most scenic sites in Trenton.

Fraser Park Big Improvement

The neatly trimmed lawn extends like a green carpet from the edge of the breakwater to the Memorial Gates on Albert Street. Trees have been planted and by midsummer, the flower beds on either side of the gravel paths will be blooming in all their spectral colors, providing an eye pleasing background for the dock area that will be second to none anywhere in Ontario.

Leo pointed out that "all the American boats going up the Trent River have to pass through customs here first and they usually want to take on supplies also. I take them around town, show them where the customs office is and fill their boats up with gasoline." Until recently, Leo sold gas to the tourists on a commission basis at so much a gallon but for the last few years, he has had his own gasoline handling licence and gas pump at the dockside, which enables him to provide more rapid and efficient service.

A Statute of Champlain?

A flag pole was being set up on the dock while Leo was being interviewed and now the only thing the park-dock area needs to make it a really impressive point of interest is a statue of Champlain. This is a spot of historic significance because in 1615 the famous French explorer came down the Trent in a Huron war canoe and paddled into Lake Ontario on his way to the Iroquois country in what is now northern New York state. Leo commented humorously that if he "had been born a few years earlier" he would probably have been on hand to furnish Champlain with a new paddle.

Leo said he believes "that water tourist traffic is just beginning to pick up since the war" and expects a record number of pleasure boats to pass through Trenton this year. "I always look forward to plenty of business on the fourth of July," he said. "The races at Presqu'ile usually bring quite a few from Buffalo and Rochester.

Canal Should be Open Sunday

As for complaints about his work, he has none but he did suggest that what he needed on the dock was an office because "it is rather unhandy doing business in the open" and his papers get ruined in the small locker every time it rains. Leo also feels that since the tourist season only lasts about four months and "most of the yachts arrive over the weekend," it would be a good idea if the Trent Canal would operate on Sunday during the summer. "There is a big traffic in here in July and August and any boat that arrives Saturday night or Sunday is held up as much aos 8 hours.

Another thing that many visitors comment on according to Leo is the excellent drinking water in Trenton and he has a tap and hose at the dock so the pleasure craft can replenish their supply.

No Idea of Size or Climate

"Many Americans have no conception of the size of Canada or the climate and they often arrive with winter clothing and everything but a dog team and ask if I know their aunt Minnie who lives over in Vancouver," commented Leo drily. When asked if the typical tourist was a generous tipper, he replied. "the big shots with the fancy outfits expect a lot of service but sometimes all they give me is a pat on the back, while others with a dilapidated craft will leave me a couple of dollars."

Leo Auger really enjoys "tinkering around the dock" and by providing efficient courteous service to the floating tourist traffic, he is doing a good public relations job for the Chamber of Commerce, the town of Trenton and the Canadian tourist industry as a whole.

Unus is Man Of Distinction In Big Top World

When Unus came to America and the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus two years [illegible] he achieved a sensational [illegible]cess.

Unus is billed as "the man who stands on his forefinger," and he set New York talking as New York has not talked since the Florodora Sextette raised the temperature of "the 400" to 105 degrees, male.

Unus really stands on his forefinger, in perfect balance, his feet skyward. People see him do it, they rave, they tell their friends and everybody says it's impossible, but Unus just keeps on doing it. He's 43 years of age, and his name is Franz Furtner. He's Viennese born and bred.

Great newspapers have editorialized Unus. The Washington Star said of him:—"It is beyond belief. Yet the man does it. He does [illegible]very day—there is one thing at [illegible]t that he can do that no other human being has yet been known to do. He has something on the rest of us there. He is a genuine man of distinction."

That's Unus, one of the preeminent stars of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, coming to Belleville, Monday, July 3, with an amazing array of European features, never before seen in America; an opulent and breath-taking beautiful new super-spectacle, "When Dreams Come True," produced by John Ringling North and staged by John Murray Anderson, highlighting the greatest assemblage of headline attractions, including new performing wild animal groups, The Greatest Show on Earth has never boasted .

Performances begin at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m., with doors open at 1 and 7. Besides the Big Show's [illegible]er-spectacle, there are three [illegible]er gorgeous extravaganzas and a rousing, pulse-quickening, patriotic finale.

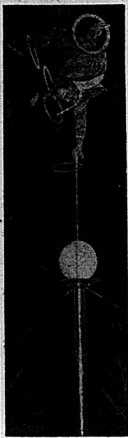
SENSATIONAL



SECOND SESSION

The legislative program of the government was largely noncontroversial in character.

The government obtained quick passage of a bill providing supplementary unemployment insurance benefits to some of those out of work. The measure extended coverage to new categories of workers and brought within insurance groups persons earning $4,800 a year or less. Previously the ceiling was $3,120.

Extend Controls

Unemployment reached a peak of about 383,000 and then began to drop with the return of good weather.

Following a Supreme Court ruling that federal rent controls were valid, the government obtained approval of a bill extending the controls until May 1, 1951.

Bills giving permanent effect to the Agricultural Prices Support Act were approved.

In the 1950-51 budget, Finance Minister Abbott provided only minor tax relief. There were no income tax changes.

Mr. Abbott forecast a budgetary surplus of $20,000,000 for 1950-51 compared with $11,000,000 in 1949-50.

While fighting raged in Korea, members voted $425,000,000 for defence purposes.

A controversy threatened over a bill to provide a new charter for Canada's 135,000 Indians. But the government withdrew the measure until next session to permit study of the proposed changes by Indian bands.

Amend Act

The Dominion Elections Act was amended to extend the vote to Eskimos, and to Indians willing to give up exemption from income tax.

From the opening of the session until June 1, members of different parties carried on a filibuster against bills incorporating Alberta Natural Gas Company and Prairie Transmission Lines Limited. The two companies plan natural gas pipelines from Alberta fields to the Pacific coast. Some members objected to their incorporation because they would not undertake to build their lines on all-Canadian routes.

The measures finally passed both houses.

Much of the session's work was done without fanfare by more than a score of committees established by the Senate and the Commons to deal with various topics.

SOVIET CONDEMNS

"It is quite plain that said decision of the Security Council on the Korean problem has no legal force," the Soviet note concluded.

The council voted 7 to 1 at Lake Success Tuesday to ask all U.N. member countries to take military action against the Russian-trained forces of the Soviet-sponsored North Korean government.

Those voting for the resolution in addition to its U.S. proposer, were Britain, France, China, Cuba, Norway and Ecuador. India and Egypt abstained. Yugoslavia, former Russian satellite, cast the only dissenting vote.

The council action gave international endorsement to President Truman's previously-announced plan to send U.S. military forces to aid the South Koreans. After passage of the resolution Britain, and later Australia, announced naval aid would be furnished.

Canada has asked the U.N. what aid she can give.

N. R Crump, vice-president of the Canadian National Railway, has announced the transfers of vice-presidents of the company's three operating regions. William Manson (left), now in Winnipeg as vice-president of the Prairie region, becomes vice-president of the road's Pacific region at Vancouver; D. S. Thomson (centre), vice-president of the Eastern region, Toronto, becomes vice-president of the Prairie region and transfers to Winnipeg; and G. H. Baillie (right), vice-president of the Pacific region, becomes vice-president of the Eastern region with headquarters at Toronto. The changes are effective July 1.

CANADA BENEFITS

In the opening stages, External Affairs Minister Pearson signified Canada's willingness to help in the fight against Korean aggression but expressed a hope that the war there will come to a swift end.

No Set Floor Price

Fisheries Minister Mayhew announced that the government is not planning to set a floor price under this year's catch of eastern cod but will buy salt cod still being held by Newfoundland fishermen from last year.

A Parliamentary committee on old-age security said in a report that it favors a $40 a month pension, payable at 70 and financed largely out of employer-employee contributions. It also favored a $40-a-month pension for the needy in the 65-69 age group.

In study of transport department estimates, members voted down 53 to 32 an opposition motion that in effect would have eliminated the Board of Transport Commissioners. The motion, moved by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, charged the board with incompetence in the handling of freight-rate increases. Opposition members urged that the freight rate-burden be equalized across the country.

In the debate on radio and television, Dr. McCann said that in the last two years about $50,000,000 has been spent in the United States on experimental television work. Canada now was able "to start in with no cost at all and take advantage of the advances that have been made."

Members approved a $650,000 advance to the CBC to cover its cash deficit for the current fiscal year. Dr. McCann said the Royal Commission on arts and science is to report to the government this fall and probably will recommend ways of financing CBC operations in the future.

ASKED TO INDICT

Havana, Cuba, June 29—(AP)—Prosecuters in a case charging misapplication of $175,000,000 in government funds have asked a court to indict Ramon Grau San Martin, president from 1944 to 1948.

Bob Hope Faces $100,000 Libel And Slander Suit

New York, June 29 — (AP) — Bob Hope faces a $100,000 libel and slander suit because of a wisecrack about a Manhattan Hotel.

The Nesa Realty Corporation, which owns the Forrest Hotel on West 49th Street, sued Leslie Towne Hope—the commedian's real name—and the Paramount Pictures Theatres Corporation, which operates the Paramount Theatre.

The suit involves a remark Hope made during a personal appearance on the stage of the theatre. The complaint in the suit said that the remark was as follows.

"I got into town today and the mayor met me and gave me the key to the city and I checked in at the Forest Hotel on 49th Street, where they gave me a cell—the maid changes the rats every day."

TALMADGE RE-ELECTED

Atlanta, Ga., June 29—Georgia yesterday re-elected Herman Talmadge as governor although he failed to get the most votes. Former governor M. E. Thompson held a steady lead in popular votes but in Georgia county, unit votes are decisive. In returns from 154 of 159 counties, Talmadge led in 116 counties with 272 unit votes; Thompson led in 38 counties with 126 unit votes. Thompson's popular vote margin was 175,751 to 165,678.

Heavy Traffic Expected on Dominion Day

By The Canadian Press

Canadians across the country will put work to one side Saturday and celebrate the Dominion's 83rd birthday.

Saturday is Dominion Day.

City dwellers will don overalls, slacks and sweaters and head out for the country. Country dwellers will don suits and dresses and head in for the city.

Highways, waterways, and airways are expected to be jammed with travellers.

But it will be no holiday for police, who predict a heavy run of holiday accidents and smashups, a Canadian Press survey shows.

Ontario residents steeled themselves for a heavy run of traffic from the nothern United States border officials in Windsor predicted the Detroit-Windsor tunnel and bridges will be jammed.

Added incentive is that July 1 marks the Beginning of open season on black bass and maskinonge in the province.

Regattas are planned in Toronto, Hamilton and Cornwall. Old home week opens in the town of Cochrane and Mitchell, and 1,500 residents of Recumseh, Mich., will pay a neighborly visit to Tecumseh, Ont., in return for a similar trip the other way last year.

Parliament at a Glance

(By The Canadian Press)

External Affairs Minister Pearson said the government supported United States intervention in Korea.

State Secretary Bradley said every effort is being made to speed patents applications.

Fisheries Minister Mayhew said the government is not planning to set a floor under this year's cod catch.

The Commons defeated by a vote of 53 to 32 a Progressive Conservative motion to reduce expenditures for the Board of Transport Commissioners to $1.

Revenue Minister McCann said the CBC is profiting from television experimental work in the United States.

Senator W. D. Euler (L—Ontario) proposed a meeting to discuss the principles of federal union and how it might be applied.

Today

The Commons will consider government estimates. The Senate will sit.

PICTON

Business Men's Bowling League Closes Season

Picton — Members of the Business Men's Bowling League of Prince Edward Alleys held a get-together at the Yacht Club Tuesday night, to mark the close of a successful season and to present awards. Forty enjoyed the buffet supper served by the Business Girls' Association.

President Norman Mallett along with team captains Gordon Order, Clare Scott, Vernon Lockwood, Jack Walters, Nick Welsh, Dick Stewart, Joe Walmsley, were seated at the head table and spoke briefly.

The suggestion was advanced that a branch of the Canadian Bowling Association be formed here, to take in both alleys. President-elect K. I. Mitchell named Pat Hodgson, Dick Stewart and Gordon Order as a committee to approach the other teams with this idea. C.B.A. rules would govern. It was also mooted that next year there be playoffs between champions on the different alleys to decide the claims of each having the "best" players.

New Officers Named

New officers chosen were K. I. Mitchell, president, and Art Atkin, secretary-treasurer.

Tuesday was favored as bowling night, with captains having the final say after all team members have been contacted. A meeting will be held in August to complete plans for next season.

The gold trophy, presented by Louis Garison and Son, was won by the Canadian Bank of Commerce team. Its members received individual trophies in the form of ash trays with bowling figures. Members were Dick Stewart, Art Atkin, Ross Wilson, Frank Dunning, Howard Seeley, and Neil Love. These were presented by Mr. Mitchell.

Awards Presented

Art Atkin won the award for the high triple, with 843; Gus Turpin that for the high single with 384. Capt Al Platt had the high average of 230.80 with Art Atkin a close second with 230.01.

Secretary-treasurer Stewart gave a report of the season, scores indicating good progress and improvement in the game. Russ Attersley and Art Atkin had taken part in each of 84 games.

President Mallett and Mr. Mitchell expressed appreciation to Mr. Stewart for the great deal of work he had done as secretary-treasurer, and made the presentation of a pencil to match the pen presented last year.

Vernon Lockwood and Mr. Mitchell spoke in appreciation of the co-operation given by Tommy Kostoff during the season and he was given a hearty vote of thanks. In reply, the proprietor stressed the importance of good sportsmanship which had been evident during the season.

A suggestion that the ladies be invited to next year's get-together was voted down.

EXPECT HEAVY DEATH TOLL

Chicago, June 29—(AP)—Three hundred and eighty five persons may die in the United States and the biggest traffic jam in history will pile up in the 102 holiday hours between Friday evening and midnight of July 4, the National Safety Council predicted today.

Horse Destroyed After Colliding With Transport

Picton — A horse owned by Everett C. Scott had to be shot yesterday after it had collided with a Smith Transport tractor. The horse crossed the road in front of Mr. Scott's home on Picton-Bloomfield road and was struck by the tractor. It was so seriously hurt it had to be shot. Front of the tractor was badly damaged.

Charge Is Laid

A charge of careless driving and another of reckless driving were preferred against Howard Cooper, 21, of Brighton, following a collision between a light panel truck he was driving, and a car driven by Leonard Vancleif, R. 1, Wellington. At Magistrate's Court Wednesday, Cooper was remanded for two weeks.

The collision occurred about seven o'clock Tuesday night at the top of Palmer's hill, near Hillier. The truck, with a load of ball fans, was enroute to that village to attend a game between Carrying Place and Hillier. About $300 damage was done to each vehicle as they crashed head on.

With Cooper were Frank Cobell, Clarence Lumley, Tommy Payne and Harold Lumley. Cobell received medical attention while the others received cuts and abrasions. Mr. Vancleaf was alone in the car.

Cub Bludgeons Blast Napanee For 12-3 Win

The blasting bludgeons of the Belleville Cubs came into their own at the Exhibition Grounds last night. With little or no regard for whatever the Napanee pitchers had to offer, they went on a batting rampage to pound out 18 solid clouts to win going away by a 12-3 score over the District Baseball League entry from Gibbardville.

And while they had the Napanee outfielders and inner garden occupants running around in circles, so to speak, young Gabby Moynes tossed one of the best hurling efforts of the season, and had the visitors eating out of his hand. He extended his generosity to the point of five scattered hits while striking out the same number.

Gabby was never in serious trouble. His infield went a trifle wacky in the fifth when they committed three errors but the youngster pulled them together with a fine display of clutch hurling. Napanee scored two of their three runs during this relapse from fielding grace.

Just Pitchers

Two Napanee flingers essayed the task of stopping the thunder of the Cub bats, but both were just pitchers to the rampaging Tigerlets. Robinson, a lefthander started the chore and lasted four innings giving up nine hits for five runs. Brady, a righthander took over, but failed to stop the barrage of clouts. He stayed in there for the balance of the game and was pounded for nine safeties for seven tallies.

Every Cub with the exception of Huck Reeves mushroomed his batting average. Russ Soules pounded out a homer, triple and double. Galbraith smashed out four singles. Garry Shreider hit a double and single. Moynes got a pair. Peter Jones connected for a triple and single with Jack Elliott getting a brace of bingles. Bobby Bunton lined out a triple and single and Mulvihill helped himself to one.

STIRLING

54-Mill Rate Set by Council At Meeting

Stirling — The tax rate for the current year for the village of Stirling, was struck at 54 mills at a special meeting of the council held in the council chambers on Monday night.

Arrangements were made for the payment of taxes in two installments as in other years with the first installment being due on or before August 9th. and the second on or before December 15th.

The 54 mill rate is two mills higher than last year and is accounted for by an increase in the high school costs in the Centre Hastings High School Area and the county rate. The general and the Board of Health rates are down a little while the debentures rate dropped 3.15 mills. The public school requsition of $6,500 is the same as last year.

A comparative table of the mill rate for 1950 and 1949 is as follows:

	1950	1949
County	10.50	9.40
High School Area	4.00
Public School	9.00	9.00
Library	1.50	1.50
Town Rate	20.50	20.80
Hydrant Rentals	1.80	1.80
Board of Health	.70	.80
Debentures	1.50	4.20
Street Lighting	4.00	4.00
Band Tax	.50	.50
	54.00	52.00

The total assesment is $496,096.09 and the amount of money to be raised in taxes is $26,786.49.

Choir, Sunday School Honor Mrs. F. McCoy For Faithful Service

Tweed — On Thursday evening, the choir of St. John's United Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Connor for their final rehearsal until after the summer holidays. They took advantage of the occasion to present Mrs. F. McCoy, a faithful member of the choir for the past 18 years, with a little token of remembrance. Mrs. C. Sharpe and Mrs. Connor spoke and in their remarks they paid a tribute to Mrs. McCoy's faithful service, both in the choir and church work. She was then presented with a piece of stainless steel kitchen ware.

Jr. Dales had his tape recorder on hand and made a recording of choir anthems which may be used some Sunday at church. This number was played back to the choir and gave them quite a thrill to hear their own voices. He has also made a number of recordings of the junior choirs' anthems. Dainty refreshments were served by the members of the choir.

Mr. John Sager, superintendent of the school called on Mr. W. S. Gordon, who until recently, had acted as superintendent of the Sunday school for a great many years, to address Mrs. McCoy, and in his remarks he spoke of how well Mrs. McCoy had taken care of the finances of the school. Her keen interest in the welfare of the children, and Mrs. P. C. Barnett expressed her regrets at Mrs. McCoy's leaving.

Mrs. H. Foster presented Mrs. McCoy with a beautiful motor rug. She was taken completely by surprise, but replied in a very fitting manner and paid a tribute to her late mother, Mrs. Blaney, whom she said always took good care that they attended Sunday School when they were children. She gave the children of the school some good advice to follow.

Rev. A. L. Sisco also spoke briefly.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A TEST OF SPORTSMANSHIP

On Saturday July bass fishermen of the city and district will gird their loins, for the season's activities against one of the gamest fish that ever tossed a lure.

The fighting small-mouth however has natural characteristics that could hasten serious depletion, and which are more noticeable in seasons when certain atmospheric conditions exist. And 1950 happens to be one of them.

Veteran anglers know that the bass prepares a "nest" some time before the season opens, and stands guard over the young deposited in it. This period of "guarding" lasts usually ten days or two weeks after the official season opens.

The male bass, a fanatic about the well-being of his offspring, stands watch over the nest until the eggs have hatched and the young bass are ready to go on their own, so to speak. And Old Man Bass, a belligerent cuss at the most, will battle anything and everything that threatens, or appears to threaten, the well-being of his family.

He will hit or strike at anything that hovers in the vicinity of the young and that includes lures of all descriptions. He will battle anything, and in a lot of cases, it means his downfall, and free access to a sizzling skillet. In other words, Joe Bass, during this period is a sucker for any kind of bait.

The loss of the parent fish means that thousands of young bass, unable to project themselves immediately become the prey of scavenger fish. In other words the taking of a guardian bass may cause the destruction of fish that in three or four years, will reproduce thousands of others.

Weather conditions this year delayed the spawning and hatching of the bass babies, and as a result the guarding period will continue for a longer period than usual after the official season opens.

And this condition should prove a real test to the sportsmanship of anglers. There are those conversant with the natural characteristics of the fighting small-mouth who will disdain to haul in Ole Black Joe who is busy doing his family duties. Then there are others who will haul in anything from a four-inch minnow to a gar-pike or even a deceased sardine, as long as it resembles a member of the piscatorial family.

Existing conditions could mean a wholesale slaughter of the bass, if anglers persist in hooking the guardian fish with no regard or thought of conservation. As we said before, veteran anglers and those with at least some conception of sportsmanship will realize what damage can be done to the bass family, and refrain from hooking the fighting small-mouth until the period of guardianship is over.

This piece, however, is being written as an appeal to the sportsmanship of the eager beaver angler who would haul in his grandmother if she resembled anything piscatorial.

Conservation officers of the Department of Lands and Forests have come up with some sane precaution measures which should be heeded by all bass fishermen. Here they are:

"During the first two weeks of the season, play the bass until it is exhausted, then bring it slowly to the surface. If you have caught a parent bass guarding its young, the fry will be observed following him in a compact mass. If such is the case, carefully free him from the hook and let him return to his family. By doing this, you will be saving not just one fish, but large numbers; for the baby bass will soon grow into adults and provide better fishing for the future."

That is fine advice — and advice which will be heeded by eevery sportsman worthy of the name.

TWEED GOES TURK-ISH

Out in Curryville (Tweed to youse guys and gals) Turk Broda and his merry mushballers are holding forth in an exhibition tilt on Monday, July 3, against the best mid-Hastings can produce. The game is the feature of a fine holiday progr m being sponsored by the Legion, we believe, and a good time is promised to all. The big little village is going all out to give visitors the glad hand of welcome and entertainment that is tops. Tweed hospitality is well-known even if one of its leading citizens is known in metropolitan circles as "The Man from Lower Canada".

With the Turk will be the softball stars of the National Hockey League who made a tremendous hit here a few weeks ago. So here is an excel lent chance for those who missed the game in Belleville to get a close-up of these internationally-known luminaries of the professional hockey ice-lanes.

Williams, Sports Writers, Fans Always at Loggerheads

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Boston, June 29— (AP)—Most baseball players seek to win the favor of fans and sports writers.

Not so Ted Williams. He is at sword's point with all but a few Boston newspaper men. And the exchange of insults between Williams and Fenway Park's left-field bleacher crowd has already caused an explosion.

"I don't give a damn about the fans," says the Boston Red Sox outfielder. "Most of them can go to hell.

"The majority of the fans are all right but those bums in left field are just plain morons."

Why doesn't he get along with writers?

"They can go to hell, too. Not all. But most of them . . . All they are interested in is digging up dirt."

A Boston newspaper man, Al Hershberg, of the Post, says:

"He'll do anything for the underdog. But for some reason he'll not get along with a fellow who can help him, such as newspaper men.

"He just doesn't want people to see he's a nice guy. He's great with people individually but hates people collectively."

Few Boston writers talk to Williams except when necessary. And that's the way Ted wants it.

What about those gestures he made in the direction of the fans during a doubleheader with Detroit Tigers late in May?

"I'd rather forget about that. I've regretted that incident ever since. I was sincere when I apologized publicly to the fans."

In writing about the incident that Williams would like to forget, Rev. John S. Kennedy, who writes for the Catholic Transcript of Hartford, Conn., said:

"What Williams did was disgusting. But what about the good old fans? They were like a pack of animals, howling, bellowing, screeching, yelping, yowling in a way not even remotely human".

New York June 29 (AP)—Have you noticed how many kids have been signing "non-bonus" baseball contracts lately?. . .We don't know whether the clubs or the athletes are getting smart. . for instance, Billy Hoeft, the Oshkosh, Wis., high school pitching whiz, took "just under $6,000" from the Tigers though he was reported to have offers above $30,000. . Recent issues of the Sporting News list 46 college players and 27 high schoolers as turning pro and while now figures are mentioned, it may be noteworthy that most signatures are going on contracts to the higher class farms and then the kids are being shipped to class C or D teams for seasoning.

Major Leagues '20-Win Club' Headed for Big Year With 3 Pitchers Nearly Halfway There

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Rabbit ball or no, the 20-victory-club for pitchers is headed for a big year.

Johnny Sain of Boston Braves, Bob Lemon of Cleveland and Art Houtteman of Detroit hit the 10-triumph mark yesterday, and the season won't be half over until July 9.

Eight more are one step back. Another dozen still have a chance to crack the exclusive lodge.

Now 10 victories in June are no guarantee of 20 come October. But it's a good bet. Only seven made it last year, five in the American and two in the National.

Sain, staging the "comeback of the year" for the Braves, made No. 10 a big one. He knocked Philadelphia Phillies out of first place in the National League with his 3-1 decision, spacing eight hits. Brooklyn, a 5-3 winner over New York, slid back into the lead when the Phillies bowed.

Sain flopped last season when he dipped to a 10-17 record. Now he is ahead of his 1948-pennant-winning pace. That year he won 24 games.

Roe Wins Ninth

Preacher Roe, a 20-game candidate, won his ninth for Brooklyn on Gene Hermanski's homer that broke a 3-3 seven-inning tie.

Carl Furillo, hit on the head by a Sheldon Jones pitch in the eighth inning. Hammered a two-run homer and single in earlier appearances. Furillo suffered no serious injury.

Chicago massacred St. Louis Cardinals 15-3, the Cubs' biggest total of the season. Roy Smalley was high man for the Cubs with his 12th homer, a triple, double and single in five trips.

Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 6-5.

Houtteman, Detroit's fine 22-year-old righthander, actually was the first major leaguer to win his 10th. He did it in the afternoon, whipping Chicago 6-2. Both Sain and Lemon joined him at night.

Detroit needed the victory to protect a 4½-game American League edge over New York Yankees. Hoot Evers' 420-foot inside-the-park homer with a man an, broke a 1-1 tie. Don Kolloway added two more in the sixth with a homer.

Cleveland ran up a whopping 18-2 score against St. Louis Browns, scoring 11 runs in the seventh inning. That made it easy for Lemon to ride home for victory No. 10.

Rosen Hits 20th Homer

The Indians gave Lemon a four-run cushion in the first inning on Al Rosen's 20th homer, two doubles and a single. Luke Easter and Jim Hegan homered in the big seventh when 15 men paraded to the plate.

Boston Red Sox won their sixth straight under the direction of manager Steve O'Neill, drubbing Philadelphia, 6-2. Ted Williams hit his 23rd homer, Vern Stephens his 17th and Dom Dimaggio his third in the attack on Lou Brissie.

Allie Reynolds cut down Washington with three hits as the Yanks won 5-1.

Two dynamoes of the squared circle, Whipper Billy Watson and Ray Villmer clash in what should be a whirlwind bout in Memorial Arena Friday night. Watson and Villmer depend on speed and agility to wear down the opposition and Friday's bout should be a whirling dervish of a go with the accent on speed. In the semi-final Timmy Geohagen, the popular Irisher tangles with scowling Bob (Strangler) Wagner and that should be quite a brawl. Clapper Elected Board Member Of Boston Bruins

(By The Canadian Press)

Aubrey (Dit) Clapper of Peterborough has been elected a member of the Board of Directors of Boston Bruins.

Clapper, who starred for the Bruins for 20 seasons after joining the club as a 20-year-old rookie in 1927, resigned as coach after the 1948-49 season to devote full time to his sports goods business in Peterborough.

A star right winger and defenceman, Clapper became the only active player to be elected to the International Hockey Hall of Fame in 1947.

The Bruins have been without a coach since George (Buck) Boucher severed his connections with the club at the close of last season and there has been much speculation that Adams and General Manager Art Ross desired Clapper to return to their bench for the 1950-51 season.

"We are unable to name our new coach at this time," a club spokesman said, "and we can not indicate just when we will be able to do so."

Charlie Conacher, who quit Chicaga Black Hawks at the close of last season, also has been named as a Boston coaching possibility.

Brazil, one of the favorites to win the world soccer cup, was unexpectedly held to a 2-2 draw by Switzerland at Sao Paulo. Brazil Wednesday. The Brazilians will have to beat Yugoslavia at Rio Saturday if they are to reach the final playoffs.

Yugoslavia easily defeated Mexico 4-1 in the other pool A match and leads by one point in this pool.

Beau Jack, former lightweight champion, stopped 22-year-old Ronnie Harper of Detroit Wednesday night in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout at Indianapolis.

The former shoe shine boy had an edge of 5½ pounds at 141, plus a lot of experience. The fight was stopped at 2:13 of the fifth.

The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association has completed its 1950 Davis Cup team with the selection of George Robinson of Montreal, a recognized double star.

Canada's four-man representation against Australia in the first-round American zone tie here July 14-16 will be made up of Robinson and two other Montrealers—Henri Rochon and Brendan Macken—and the young Vancouver star Lorne Main.

Philadelphia Phillies of the National League will hold a four-day baseball try-out school at Wright Hargreaves Park in Kirkland Lake July 10-13.

Age limit for the school is 16-22 and Philadelphia scouts Dale Jones and Pat Colgan will be in charge.

Three professional hockey clubs of the Chicago Hawk organization will train in Northern Ontario next September.

The Black Hawks of the National Hockey League will work out at North Bay, along with their American Hockey League farm team, the St. Louis Flyers. And the Milwaukee team of the United States League is to train at New Liskeard.

All three teams move into their training camps Sept. 10.

Many members of the Galt Black Hawks, Ontario Hockey Association junior team, are expected to be on hand when the workouts start at North Bay.

The Canadian junior track and field championships this year will include junior girl events, meet officials announced Wednesday night.

More than 300 entries are expected in the meet, scheduled to be run in Toronto July 7-8.

Don Richmond Is Best Clutch Hitter in Loop

By The Associated Press

Don Richmond, veteran third baseman of Rochester Red Wings, is a manager's delight.

The bespectacled infielder, one of the best clutch hitters in the International League, always is in top shape. He doesn't smoke or drink. There's little chance that he will be tossed out of a game by an umpire. Richmond doesn't use profanity.

Richmond, who once had a whirl with Philadelphia Athletics, is enjoying one of the finest years at bat and attributes his improved hitting to playing winter ball in Cuba.

Last night Richmond socked his ninth home run of the season to give the league-leading Wings a 5-4 10-inning victory over the slumping Springfield Cubs. The Cubs now have lost nine straight games.

The second-place Montreal Royals remained a game behind the Wings by defeating Baltimore Orioles 5-1.

Lefty Irv Medlinger had the Royals shut out 1-0 going into the eighth inning when the roof caved in. The Royals shoved across all their runs on three walks with five hits. Don Thompson and Johnny Welaj drove home two runs apiece Clyde King, lifted for a pinch-hitter in the big eighth, gained his seventh victory.

Jersey City's third-place Giants knocked off Toronto Maple Leafs 9-6 to stay 1 1-2 games back of the Red Wings.

The Giants scored three runs in the first inning and were never headed although the Leafs threatened several times.

Lefty Kent Peterson turned in his first victory in six decisions as he pitched Syracuse Chiefs to a 5-2 victory over the last-place Buffalo Bisons.

Peterson allowed six hits and walked seven, but pitched brilliantly after the fourth inning, yielding only one hit and one walk over the last five rounds. Peterson also fanned seven.

London Majors Moving up Fast In Intercounty

By The Canadian Press

London Majors, slowly gathering strength after a long string of losses, moved another notch up the senior intercounty ladder Wednesday.

Majors made the most of eight hits to defeat St. Thomas Legion 8-2. They sprang into an early lead with two runs in the first and another in the second, and were never headed. Ted Alexander, second London pitcher, was the star of the game, hurling the last 4 2-3 innings without giving up a hit.

St. Thomas got only two hits off Alexander and Duane Gottschell, who started for Majors. London sewed up the game in the sixth inning when they scored five runs.

Joe Bechard, London first baseman, drove in four runs with four hits, including a double.

In Waterloo, the home-town Tigers just kept rolling along on the victory trail.

They exploded for three runs in the last of the eighth to hand Galt Terriers their seventh straight defeat, 8-5. Larry Archambault, Augie Herchenratter and Chuck Fornari led Tigers with two hits apiece.

Jack Griffen, who relieved young Mike Kvasnak in the top of the eighth, was winning pitcher. Alex Martin went the route for Galt and was tagged with the loss.

In Guelph, the last-place Maple Leafs were defeated 8-6 when Stratford Nats staged a six-run rally in the eighth to come from behind a 6-2 deficit.

Bill McCarthy started for Leafs and pitched good ball until the fatefull eighth, when he was relieved by Marty Philip. Two errors and five straight hits gave Nats their six runs.

Nick Ciani, Guelph right fielder led both teams in batting, knocking out three hits in four trips to the plate.

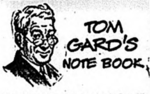
Around the Home . . .



"And what is so rare as a day in June?" rings through my mind on these first beautiful days of summer. "Then, if ever, come perfect days" has been true again this year. I don't suppose those lines will ever go from my memory, impressed there by being written out twenty times back in my public school days!

Rustic Table

I was finally bullied into leaving my garden long enough to take the family on a picnic yesterday. We journeyed to a secluded spot not far from the city and had a thoroughly enjoyable time. The highlight of the day for me was finding a rustic picnic table I could copy. I have been wanting to build one in front of the barbecue I finished early this month. If my first table turns out successfully I'll be making one for the cottage.

Garden Ornaments

The indiscriminate use of garden ornaments always bothers me. One house we passed on our way home from the picnic brought this whole subject back to my mind. The yard was so cluttered up with wooden ducks, dogs, girls with bright parasols and statues it looked more like a graveyard than a garden. Properly chosen and placed, ornaments do add to the beauty of the surroundings; especially if they are out of the ordinary—a carboy, sundial or painted butterfly.

No garden is complete without suitable pathways to carry the traffic. The type of material used in construction can be as varied as the shapes the path can be given. The subject is important enough to require lengthy treatment but a few ideas are given here.

The Abused Tin Can

Next week I must brush up on my tin-can craft as today's mail brought a request to help with handicraft at a summer camp for boys. No hobby is easier to master nor the equipment required more easily found. One or two suggestions are offered but you will find more in the booklet "Around The Home" now ready for distribution.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

At a bridge partner I get the sorest when his bonnet is swarming with bees. He insists on ignoring the forest while his mind is exploring the trees.

What irks me is to have some partner make an individual problem out of each and every hand. While he is figuring out an intricate handling of a situation, he is leaving me entirely at sea.

There is no need to make a spot invention for every detail in every hand. One overall rule usually covers each subject. From this can be determined any necessary variation that partner understands.

Take the case of a holding that includes the ace and king of a suit from which a lead is made. The length or brevity of the suit is disclosed to partner by application of the rule.

The lead of an ace shows no more cards or only one more card in that suit. When holding in a suit the ace and the king with one or more others, rule says to lead the king.

These are two of the three types of top card leads. From this does a player conclude what partner holds in the suit. Also from this does a player know why one or the other is led.

With south as declarer at four spades west holds this hand:

♠J 6 3
♥A K
♦9 6 4 2
♣7 5 3 2

The lead from west is the heart ace. What is he telling partner? That he can later ruff hearts either on the next round or the third round of that suit, depending on his next lead.

West cashes his heart ace and then leads heart king. East knows from this that west started with an original holding of only these two hearts. West promises to ruff the third round of hearts.

How does east know this? With one or more additional hearts, west would have led the king; not the ace. A simple rule conclusion. Throwing partner curves is awful on the nerves.

Movie Column

By Bob Thomas

Hollywood, June 29—(AP) — Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are back from the east after a remarkable achievement—topping Milton Berle.

Berle is the recognized master of the flip quip, the fast squelch and the upstage technique.

That's why the trade marvelled when two such newcomers as Martin and Lewis whipped Berle at his own game. On his television show he often seemed bewildered by their wild antics.

I asked Lewis, the funny man of the duo, how he was able to beat Berle.

"Very simple," he replied. "I didn't try to play smart. I was very humble—just the funny little kid who did crazy things. That threw him off completely."

Lewis said he has used other tactics when he has met Berle on night club floors: "I've taken him on three times and cut him to ribbons," he said.

Lewis admitted he has feuded with Berle for some time. "I like Milton, but I don't like the way he treats other performers," he remarked.

Good Money

Then why do Martin and Lewis appear on his TV show?

"It pays good money," Lewis answered. "and besides, you get an audience of 31,000,000. That's too good to pass up."

CONVICTION QUASHED

Toronto, June 29—(CP)—Ontario Appeal Court Wednesday quashed a conviction and $4,000 damage award against Charles Brown, 45, Whitby contractor, and ruled he was innocent of alienating the affections of the wife of Fitzroy Welstead of Pickering, Ont.

Brown was alleged to have alientated the woman's affections over a period in which he drove her to work in his car. Welstead charged that Brown was father of a daughter borne by his wife.

AT THE DRIVE-IN

White Heat Starring James Cagney and Virginia Mayo

To return James Cagney to the screen under its banner, Warners had concocted a story which cast the star in the type of role which first made him famous. Into that yarn went the best from virtually every high-budget, G-man, big house, mobster, cops-and-robbers feature ever filmed. And they are welded together with sufficient adroitness to bring forth nearly two hours of lightning-paced, suspenseful, action-laden entertainment. To those patrons who relish such fare the picture will be a delight. Cagney was never better. He brings to his part of a ruthless, pathologic, murdering gang chief all of the hard-boiled, convincing energy which for years kept him to the forefront of screen badmen. Virginia Mayo's co-starring contribution is comparably excellent as is the work of the supporting cast. Skillfully directed by Raoul Walsh.

WILL AUCTION PAINTINGS

Oshawa, June 29 (CP)— More than $15,000 worth of paintings by Toronto and Oshawa artists are to be displayed here for three days and then auctioned July 5. A large part of the proceeds will go to aid victims of the Red River floods and of the Rimouski and Cabano fires.

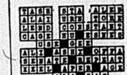
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

[illegible]p came home before luntch t[illegible] on account of being Satturday, and I was sitting on the frunt steps when he came up, saying, Well, young offspring, any news from the home frunt since last we met?

No sir, except some lady called ma up on the telefone and she's coming this afternoon with another lady and they're going to drink tea with ma, I said, and pop said, Well, I'm sure that will be very pleasant for those directly concerned.

Meening not including him and while we were eating luntch pop said to ma, By the way, my dear, I've decided to put the rest of the screens in this afternoon.

That's good news, I dont know why you suspended operations after you got the downstairs screens in, ma said, and pop said, I'm sure I must of had a good reason. Anyway, if anybody should happen to drop in, please dont call me downstairs, because I'll look like a mess in my old werk clothes, he said.

Dont worry, I wont disterb you while you're engaged in any sutch good cause, ma said. I'm glad Gladdis Bond called up again and said she'll be unable to bring her out of town sister over for tea after all. Otherwise you'd of simply had to come in and say hello to them, she said, and pop said, By gollies, I think I'll wait till the flies get really trublesome before I put the rest of the screens in. It'll seem like a more useful job then. Besides, I promised Benny I'd take him to the ball game one of these Satturdays, and this just happens to be one of these Satturdays, he said.

Sutch a man, you can finish with the screens in a half an hour and then go to the game with a cleer conscience, and if I have any voice and authority around here, that's what you'll do, ma said.

Whitehall Notebook:

Liberals Plan to be Force In Britain's Next Election

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 29. — (CP) — Equipped with new headquarters, a new press officer and a bigger and better publicity journal, the Liberal party remains doggedly determined to become a fighting force in Britain's next general election.

The indefatigable-optimistic Liberals have already adopted 150 candidates for the next vote, whenever it comes. Spokesmen say the number may be doubled or trebled in the months ahead.

The Liberals, in short, just won't admit they are beaten. Banished from memory are the harrowing experiences of the election last February, when only nine of 474 candidates were successful.

Again, all is cheerful confidence among Liberal leader Clement Davies and his cohorts. Instead of quietly licking their wounds at their old headquarters at Gayfere Street, the Liberals threw a housewarming party in their new Victoria Street headquarters and it was made known that:

1. Phyllis Preston, for eight years on the headquarters staff, has been appointed full - time officer. She succeeds the late James Sinclair, who died suddenly during the election.

2. The weekly Liberal News, founded in 1946 by Edward Martell (now one of the nine Liberals in the House of Commons), it being enlarged. The circulation now is 30,000.

3. A fresh appeal for funds will be launched in the next few weeks.

ARENA MANAGER DIES

Toledo, O., June 29—Jack Dent, 36, formerly a professional hockey player in Canada and England, died here last night. He was manager of the Toledo Sports Arena.

Dent was a native of Stratford, Ont. He last played hockey for Windsor in the Michigan-Ontario League. Five years ago he was named manager of the sports arena in Windsor and came to Toledo in 1948.

Funeral services will be Saturday in Stratford.

CONVICTED OF RAPE

Capetown, South Africa, June 29—(Reuters) — A white taxi driver was convicted yesterday of raping a Negro woman whom he had kept chained to his bed for more than nine months. Leslie Sampson, 40, was sentenced to two years' hard labor, but was released on $560 bail pending an appeal.

THE CAMEO

By Virginia Teale

"Oh, Tom!" Nell snapped. "Pay no attention to him, Andrey. If we're going to Martin's studio before we see Hagar Blair's cameos, we haven't much time—she closes shop at 5:30."

Tom slouched down, muttering. A lock of his surprising snow-white hair fell over one eye.

"I see no reason," he said, making an obvious effort to control his enunciation, "to take our new and valued friend, Mr. Yakov, a fine artist like he is, up to Martin Falter's so-called studio. I can think of a thousand better ways of entertaining a stranger in our midst than to take him to see a lot of claptrap junk that masquerades as art."

Andrey gave Nell a secret, understanding smile. "The studio of our artist friend," he asked cheerfully, "which house?"

Leaning forward, Nell pointed to a small house with a redwood shingle exterior.

Yakov turned off the ignition and set the handbrake against the incline of the hill.

Yakov climbed out on the other side, and waited for Nell and Tom. He looked up at the drawn blinds and fingered his mustache.

Nell led them up the splintery gray steps, across the narrow porch to the door. Grasping the handle of a brass knocker, she struck it clatteringly against its base. She impatiently tried the knob and the door swung open.

"Martin?" she called. "Martin, are you in there?" She turned to the two men with a disappointed gesture, "well, he's not here, but he must be coming right back or he wouldn't have left the door open. Let's wait."

Tom shuffled in and Yakov followed. The Russian's eyes darted interestedly over the interior of Falter's cluttered studio: The paint-spattered but vacant easel, the table nearby — its top piled with brushes, paint rags and tubes of color. A pullman-type table was unfolded from the wall and propped on its one leg—on it was a raffia-wrapped bottle of wine, a half loaf of French bread, a block of cheese on which a fly had settled and an empty sardine tin.

Tom came to stand beside Andrey. "Props," he said "He thinks this is the way artists are supposed to live. How long do we sit in this den of iniquity and wait for the iniquitous?"

Nell tilted her chin and looked down at Tom through narrowed eyes. She opened her mouth to speak, then, glancing at Yakov, she closed it. She walked to a curtained corner cupboard, parted the fabric and drew out a box of book matches. She helped herself to two books, carelessly tossing one to Tom.

His face glowed dull red as he beetled down at the initials on the cover. On a background of gold, the initials N. O'N were inscribed in clear satiny black. His upper lip twisted back against his teeth:

"So? You even supply him with matches?"

Nell exhaled cigaret smoke slowly so that it partially obscured her face with a moving gray veil:

"You bore me today, Tom O'Neill," she drawled.

"I bore you today," Tom mimicked. "That funny. I can't understand that at all. How could you be bored, even by me, here in these familiar and beloved surroundings."

Nell O'Neill's voice commenced a low staccato of words. Tom interrupted her angrily. Andrey Yakov strolled into the next room, closing the door, quietly. Martin Falter's bedroom was quite different from the outer one. Most significant was the fastidious order here. The low, wide couch bed with its heavy linen spread and bolstered pillows, smooth and precise.

A handsome desk clock set in pigskin registered the time 4:35. Beside the clock was a letter. Yakov picked it up and looked at the San Francisco postmark. In the upper left corner he saw a small engraved crest above the address of a well-known art dealer. Slipping the letter from the envelope Yakov began to read. Halfway down the page he gave a surprised grunt— his eyes raced through the remainder of the letter. Hurriedly he returned the paper to the envelope and placed it where he had found it. His attitude had abruptly changed, his next movements were quick and smooth like those of a hunting cat.

But he was gazing out the window, apparently in idle contemplation, when Nell opened the door.

He turned to her, smiling, "the delicate colors of the western ocean at sunset, I shall never tire of them."

He turned and continued talking casually: "I look forward to seeing Miss Blair's cameo collection. It may be that we can negotiate an exchange of pieces, perhaps she has something that will ease my disappointment concerning your wonderful cameo."

Nell's eyes focused on his face "you'll see my cameo."

"Aha! You have then remembered where it is?"

"Yes. Yes I have remembered."

He looked at her intently, folding his lower lip between thumb and forefinger: "Then perhaps, if it should be the piece I am looking for you will consent to sell it?"

"Perhaps."

Yakov's eyes narrowed, but he was still smiling as he said. "It would be to your advantage — in many ways."

As they left the bedroom, Yakov looked around for Tom: "Your husband? He is waiting outside?"

Nell's lips tightened. "No. He's down at Bob's drinking again."

Yakov looked concerned. "A pity."

They had closed Martin's front door and were descending the steps when Nell stopped abruptly. She gripped Yakov's arm and pointed down the hill to the corner on the opposite side of the street.

He saw the figure of Tom O'Neill. Standing opposite him, feet apart, in a careless attitude, was a tall man.

Nell exploded. "He's got hold of Martin. No telling what he'll say to him."

Yakov, noting the creases of worry and annoyance around her large blue eyes, suggested soothingly: "Perhaps he will tell our friend Martin Falter that we are here seeking his company."

Nell, staring intently down the hill, did not answer. As she watched, Martin turned from Tom as though to start up the hill. Tom followed and grabbed Martin's arm, the two men faced each other once more and seemed to be arguing. Martin turned his face toward the top of the hill and lifted a hand in salute. He gave no further sign of recognition, however.

"Do we go in pursuit?" Andrey Yakov asked with a half smile.

"No!" she answered with suppressed fury. "It would only give Tom a chance to make a big scene. We'll go on to Hagar Blair's."

Nell kept silent as they drove to the Three Wishes Shop. She was reviewing, bitterly, the many other occasions when Tom had made an ugly issue of certain friendships of hers. She cringed inwardly as she recalled the lashings he'd given her with that fiendish tongue of his. Always during their violent quarrels he'd bring up her former career, taunting her with his favorite epithet, "stag party prima donna." She'd been serious about her dancing, had tried to be artistic about it. She might have made something of herself, if she had not given up her career to marry Tom. At that time, however, marrying rich Tom O'Neill had not seemed a bad idea. She needed money desperately at the time they met and had sold him the cameo, weeping pathetically and telling him it was a precious family heirloom. Tom had wept in his champagne and had given her a large sum for the brooch. Then, on their wedding day, he'd made a great ceremony of giving it back.

He told her it had been a lifelong ambition to install a beautiful wife in a cozy studio home and live out his life among sympathetic creative friends. He qualified himself for this group by calling himself a "ceramist."

Once she had hoped to persuade Tom to give up Dolorosa. But right at the crucial moments one of his miserable clay pots had won a minor prize at the Laguna Beach Festival of Arts. He had conducted a three day celebration and had vowed to dedicate the rest of his days to "his art." In Dolorosa!

So now the cameo was her only means of escape. Provided it turned out to be the rare piece Yakov was looking for. And, provided she could get it back, somehow from Martin Falter.

Andrey Yakov was Tom O'Neill's latest trophy for his creative people collection. He had met Yakov at the local art gallery and had borne him home to exhibit to Nell and the pseudo-Bohemians and artists who usually were clustered around the O'Neill liquor cabinet. The bold oils Yakov had shown as his and been slavishly received by Tom and his satellites.

Yakov turned his head slightly and smiled at Nell.

REACH FOR A RENNIE

Here's Good Advice For All STOMACH SUFFERERS

This Man Tells How He Got Relief from Indigestion, Awful Gas, Sour Acidity by Taking Syntona, "Now Enjoys Every Meal." He Says:....

To all sufferers from common stomach disorders including gas, gassy pains in stomach, heartburn, sour stomach and associated symptoms such as poor appetite, nervous irritability and fatigued, rundown feeling, here is sound, sensible advice. It is taken from the actual experiences of thousands of similar sufferers like Mr. Frank Miller, 515 Princess Avenue, London, Ontario, who said in a recent report:

"If I had known before what a good medicine Syntona is for the stomach I could have saved myself a lot of distress and suffering. As it was: I suffered with gas pains and indigestion for two years. Even after eating just the lightest meal I would get a full, heavy, distressed feeling in my stomach and chest. I would belch up hot, sour liquids, felt tired and wornout all the time and had no appetite when mealtime came around.

"After a friend told me about Syntona I got some right away and this medicine has cleared up all the distress in my stomach. Now I enjoy every meal, can eat just about anything I want and am not troubled with gas, sourness or distress afterwards. I feel lots better, too, and whereas I used to have pains down through my limbs all the time, these are now gone away.

"I earnestly recommend Syntona to every person who suffers as I did."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

CANADIAN WARSHIPS TO HEAD FOR PEARL HARBOR

Vital Defence Line Pierced 15 Miles

Reds Threaten U.S. Headquarters South of Han R.

American Bombers Range Far Into North Korea

Tokyo, July 1 (Saturday) —(CP)— An armored column of North Korean communists has penetrated at least 15 miles south of the Han River, vital defence line in North Korea, it was reported tonight.

The drive is threatening the American headquarters position at Suwon, about 20 miles south of the river, an authoritative military source here reported.

The reverse came as Southern troops fought desperately to stem the invasion until they received aid promised on an ever-growing stage by the United Nations.

As American bombers ranged far into North Korea to strike at air bases and military installations, a further pledge of all-out assistance came from President Truman at Washington.

He announced that American ground troops will be used against the communists, that U.S. bombers would keep up assaults on military objectives in North Korea, and that a naval blockade of all Korean coasts would be maintained.

Unofficial reports said General MacArthur will begin flying troops to Suwon from Kyushu today.

It was believed the first troops to be flown into action would be specialists, such as anti-tank gunners and engineers to bolster South Korean defences against armor.

(At Ottawa Defence Minister Claxton said two or three Canadian destroyers now based on the Pacific Coast would leave next week, probably for Pearl Harbor, to be ready for action in Korean waters if needed.)

Probably Closer

Authoritative informants claim the reds were no farther than eight miles from Suwon by 1 a.m. today and probably were closer.

There was no information whether American field headquarters has left Suwon. Loss of Suwon would deprive the defence of the last remaining good-sized air strip north of Pusan, in extreme south-east Korea 175 miles away.

The broad Han River is the principal natural barrier between the red-captured capital of Seoul and the temporary southern capital of Taejon, 90 miles south of Seoul.

An earlier South Korean report said southern troops had re-entered the suburbs of Seoul on the heels of the fleeing communists. It was not clear whether this report still stood, although it did not necessarily conflict with the news of a red breakthrough southwest of the city.

Hard American blows were being directed against North Korean bases and installations.

Crossed by Reds

Military informants said the Han River apparently was crossed by the reds during darkness after two small advance bands of invaders had been wiped out by the South Korean defence. The red armor was apparently ferried accross, as all bridges were reported destroyed.

A MacArthur headquarters spokesman said 40 or 50 North Korean tanks have crossed the Han River.

The highway route from the river to Suwon and for a great distance on southward cuts there are no fixed defences.

Loss of Suwon would seriously cripple the American ability to supply the South Koreans with arms, for no other strip north of Pusan can handle big transports.

The main barrier to a deep southward sweep by the invader's armor at present appeared to be American war planes.

May Have Re-entered Suburbs

Earlier reports from the battle-front itself had not referred to the communist penetration. In fact, Clarence Ryee, Korean director of public information, had reported that southern troops had re-entered the southern suburbs of Seoul, the fallen capital.

Tom Lambert, an Associated Press correspondent writing from Suwon, air base south of the front line, described "a thin, worried line of South Koreans" attempting to reorganize their forces. He said that enemy tanks were the main fear of the defenders, but did not report any crossing of the Han.

The South Koreans' main preoccupation seemed to be to hang on until aid promised by the United Nations materialized. An Australian order placing a squadron of Mustang fighters at MacArthur's disposal was expected to have a tangible effect.

Naval forces for use along the coast were growing rapidly. Admiral Sir Patrick (Daddy) Brind, Commander-in-Chief of the Royal Navy's Far East naval station, said at Singapore that units under his command already had taken part in operations, but did not specify how.

Will Counter Attack

American air support now extends into North Korea, where enemy aircraft are being attacked "wherever they are." A Reuters correspondent who accompanied MacArthur on his visit to the front yesterday quoted the General as saying:

"I'm not going to have their planes killing my airmen without hitting them where they should be hit."

The South Korean commander, Maj.-Gen. Chey Byong Duk, was said to have attempted suicide at one point in the fighting. He now has resigned, and has been succeeded by Brig.-Gen. Chung Ill Kwa.

Says Stalin Suffered Heart Attack On Plane Trip to China on June 2

Salem, Mass., June 30 (AP)—Roland W. Estey, writing today in the Salem Evening News, says Prime Minster Stalin suffered a heart attack June 2 while on a plane bound for China.

Estey says he received the information from sources in Europe and that it had been turned over to the United States Intelligence agency. Estey writes that the plane was en route for a conference in the town of Chita, approximately 100 miles north of the Chinese border.

"The heart attack apparently was of such a nature," Estey writes, "it seemed wise to return him to Moscow and permit his impersonator to proceed on the trip."

A former U.S. intelligence officer, Estey says that during the May 31 demonstration in Moscow Stalin fatigued and his double again took his place.

Estey says he received a letter June 21 from Europe containing this message: "Watch Formosa or Chosen before one July."

Chosen is the Japanese name for Korea.

Estey says his friend had the information six days before the aggression leading to the belief the communists in Northern Korea jumped the gun.

ALL PARTIES URGE BETTER PENSIONS FOR CANADIANS

Committee's Report Will Receive Study

Ottawa, June 30 (CP) — All parties in the Commons last night advocated better pensions for Canada's aged.

Clearing the way for prorogation, members in 13 hours disposed of the remaining estimates of expenditures for the 1950-51 fiscal year. In the drive attention turned briefly to the report of the Parliamentary Committee on old-age security.

That report advocated a $40-a-month pension to all persons 70 and over regardless of means and financed largely out of employer-employee contributions. The report also suggested a $40-a-month pension to needy persons in the 65-69 age group.

At present, the Federal Government pays 75 percent of the cost of pensions up to $40 a month and the provinces pay the balance. Some provinces pay supplements, bringing the pension in those provinces up to $50 a month To qualify a person must be 70 or over, a resident of Canada for 20 years and without any other source of support.

Health Minister Martin promised that the committee's report will receive "thorough" study from the Federal Government. He indicated that it will be submitted to the Dominion-Provincial Conference scheduled this fall.

C.C.F. and Social spokesman supported the report as far as it went, but suggested it should have gone farther. George Drew Progressive Conservative leader, said his party will continue to press for an over-all contributory old-age pension program which would provide pensions for all at 65 regardless of means.

Other Developments

During the busy sitting, there were these other developments:

1. External Affairs Minister Pearson said Canada is sending two military observers to serve on the United Nations Commission in Korea, but he was not yet in a position to say what other aid this country will put into the fight against North Korean aggression.

2. James Sinclair, parliamentary assistance to Finance Minister Abbott, said Canada has recovered about 59 percent of her claims on European countries for $75,000,000 worth of supplies furnished to civilian populations following their liberation by allied armies.

3. Immigration Minister Harris announced that immigration barriers are being relaxed in an effort to increase the flow of new citizens to this country.

In the pensions debate, Mr. Drew said his party had opposed establishment of the joint Senate Commons on the grounds that it would only delay implementation of the government's previous promises on old-age pensions.

Excommunication Decree Seen Major Move by Pope Against Red Governments of E. Europe

Vatican City, June 30 (Reuters) — Pope Pius today decreed excommunication of all who "plot against legitimate ecclesiastical authorities."

Observers here regarded this as a major move by the Pope against the communist governments of East Europe.

By a pronouncement of the Vatican's congregation of the council, the Pope declared automatically excommunicated those who:

1. "Plot against legitimate ecclesiastical authorities or who try to subvert their power."

2. "Occupy an ecclesiastical office, benefice or dignity, without canonical provision made in accordance with the Sacred Canons, or who allowed themselves to be so installed or who illegally retain them."

3. "Participate directly or indirectly in these two crimes."

The Pope's measure was taken to be directly aimed at Eastern Europe communist government and the Roman Catholic clergy who co-operate with them beyond a certain limit.

It came as the struggle between the governments and the estimated 60,000,000 Catholics behind the "iron curtain" was reaching a new pitch, with intensified persecution reported here from many countries.

The move was believed to be particularly directed at governments such as that of Czechoslovakia which recently nominated 'administrators' to each Bishopric.

The decision was announced in the Vatican's usual form, without comment or explanation. It was dated June 29.

On June 28 last year the Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Vatican — the Vatican's highest tribunal on matters of faith and morals — pronounced automatic excommunication against active communists.

Today's announcement was regarded here as completing the line-up of the world's 400,000,000 Roman Catholics against communism.

TRUMAN ORDERS USE OF GROUND FORCES IN KOREA

Washington, June 30—(AP)—President Truman today authorized the use of American ground troops in Korea.

The president announced he has authorized:

1. The United States air force to fly specific military missions into Northern Korea wherever necessary.

2. "A naval blockade of the entire Korean Coasts."

3. Gen. Douglas MacArthur "to use certain supporting ground units" in the efforts to turn back the communist invaders of Southern Korea.

These new moves were announced after a cabinet-congressional conference at the White House.

There was no immediate elaboration here as to what these "certain supporting ground units" might be.

Dispatches from Korea have made it plain, however, that the South Koreans are particularly in need of artillery and anti-tank weapons.

MacArthur has in his far east command an army strength of 123,500 men.

Truman's decisions presumably were taken on recommendation of Gen. MacArthur.

On the basis of yesterday's reports of the Korean fighting, there had been strong hopes here that there would be no necessity—at least not for the immediate future — of adding to the military strength already put into the effort to turn communist invaders back from South Korea.

Leaves Bequest Of One Week's Rent To His Tenants

West Warwick, R. I., June 30—(AP) — An Italian immigrant who became a large landholder died yesterday and as a memorial to himself he left all of his tenants one week's free rent.

Guiseppe Pastore, about 80, gave a note to an undertaker last month, instructing:

"That the week that I will pass to a better life my tenants shall have that week free of rent and, in case any of them shall be one week in arrears, that week also shall be free and forgiven for my memory. This I demand from my heirs and assigns."

GUEST OF HONOR

London, June 30—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was guest of honor at a dinner given last night by women members of parliament of all political parties.

21ST PARLIAMENT IS PROROGUED UNTIL AUGUST 9

Ottawa, June 30 —(CP)— The second session of Canada's 21st parliament was prorogued today at 12:44 p.m. EDT.

The two Houses were prorogued by Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin, deputy to the Governor-General, to Wednesday, Aug. 9.

This date, however, is merely a formal date and parliament, in normal circumstances, will not meet until early in 1951.

The prorogation ceremony brought to an end a session which began Feb. 17 and was one of the quietest in recent years.

Thirty Senators and 70 commoners gathered in the stately Senate Chamber shortly after noon to hear Mr. Justice Kerwin read a Speech from the Throne which reviewed legislation passed during the session and referred to the "serious threat to peace" in Korea.

The last piece of legislation to go through the two Chambers was the traditional appropriation bill to cover monies voted to the government for expenditures in the current fiscal year. This year, it totalled approximately $2,400,000,000.

Wants Commons To Do Right By Its Speaker

Ottawa, June 30—(CP)—A. L. Smith (PC—Calgary West) wants the Commons to do right by its speaker.

As the chamber neared prorogation, he suggested Thursday amid applause, that the government provide a $5,000 annual entertainment allowance for the Chamber's presiding officer, Ross Macdonald (L—Brantford).

He said the speaker, a man of "fairness and good judgment," discharged his responsibilities "better than any other individual I know." He received $3,000 a year in lieu of an official residence and, said Mr. Smith, he was sure the speaker had to spend two-thirds of that in entertainment costs.

The House should see to it that the presiding officer could entertain with dignity and without paying for it out of his own pocket. Both the British parliament and the United States Congress provided their speakers with funds.

RUSSIA REJECTS U.S. REQUEST TO ESTABLISH PEACE

Claims South Korea To Blame for Fighting

Moscow, June 30 (AP)—Russia last night rejected a United States request for her help in getting north Korean forces out of south Korea.

A note said Russia does not approve of the "interference of foreign powers in the internal affairs of Korea."

The U.S. had also asked for assurance that Russia would "not take upon itself the responsibility for this unprovoked and unjustified attack."

Russia replied that responsibility for the fighting in Korea "lies with the south Korean authorities and with those who stand behind them."

There was no elaboration of the phrase "those who stand behind them."

"The events which are going on in Korea were provoked by the attack of the troops of the south Korean authorities on the frontier areas of northern Korea" the Soviet message added.

Russia said it had "confirmed its traditional principle of non-interference in the internal affairs of other states" by withdrawing its troops from Korea "earlier than did the U.S. government."

Previously-announced United Nations findings showed that north Korea began the hostilities last Sunday by invading the southern area.

The Russians Dec. 31, 1948, announced that they had withdrawn all their occupation troops from north Korea, but a U.N. commission later was refused permission to visit communist-dominated northern area. The U.S. last July 1 announced withdrawal of all its troops from south Korea except for about 500 military advisors requested by the south Korea government.

LIFE SENTENCE IMPOSED

Berlin, June 30 — (Reuters)—A special East German court at Waldheim, Saxony, today ordered a life sentence on 47-year-old Walter Schmidt, former upper burgomaster of Chemnitz, Saxony, for crimes against humanity.

Numerous eye-witnesses gave evidence that Schmidt, who was also a Nazi stormtroop leader, ordered the arrest of more than 7,000 Jewish citizens of Chemnitz in 1938.

U.S., Canada Agree to Eliminate Red Tape Which Slows up Travel

Ottawa, June 30—(CP)—Canada and the United States today agreed to eliminate some of the red tape which slows up travel between the two countries.

In a move designed to make international travel by air and sea easier, the two countries agreed to put a halt to "double" quarantine inspection formerly necessary for ships and aircraft visiting both Canadian and U. S. ports.

The health department announced today that under new regulations, the quarantine will need to be carried out in one country only. A craft that receives an inspection certificate in the United States, for example, will not have to go through another inspection in Canada.

The new procedure goes into effect July 1 and covers all ships and aircraft arriving in Canada and the United States from other countries.

Public health quarantine inspections are performed at ports of entry to prevent introduction of communicable diseases by persons or by ships, aircraft or other things arriving from infected countries.

Of chief concern to health authorities are the "quarantinable diseases,' such as smallpox, cholera, plague, typhus and yellow fever.'

Previously ships and aircraft receiving quarantine inspection in Canada had to undergo another inspection on arrival in the United States.

The only exceptions were for vessels coming up the St. Lawrence River destined for United States ports on the Great Lakes and for vessels entering the straits of Juan de Fuca bound for ports in both Canada and the United States.

In these cases quarantine clearance issued by Canadian authorities in Montreal was accepted by United States authorities in the port of destination.

On the West Coast the quarantine clearance given at the first port of entry, whether Canadian or American has been accepted by health authorites of the other country. The new undertaking makes this procedure general so that a ship or aircraft arriving at any port in either of the two countries will be exempt from inspection — if it presents a duplicate certificate of inspection issued at any continental port in the other country.

Ships to be Ready To Sail for Korea If U.N. Asks Aid

Will be Used Only in Event Police Action by UN Needed

Ottawa, June 30 (CP) — The government today ordered the navy to speed three west coast-based destroyers towards Pearl Harbor to be ready to head for Korea if the United Nations asks for their aid in its police action against North Korean aggression.

Defence Minster Claxton said they will leave the Esquimalt, B.C., naval base within the next week—naval sources said probably Monday—and that their movements from Pearl Harbor will depend on U.N. directions. It will take them about a week to reach Pearl Harbor.

The navy said the destroyers going are the Athabaskan, the Cayuga and the Sioux and said they each carry 200 to 225 men, are fully armed and "ready to go." A naval spokesman said they will exercise in the Pearl Harbor area anyway if the call to Korean action does not come.

If they are ordered into Korean action—it would take at least three weeks to get there if they went direct—it would be Canada's first peacetime military action, her first part in a collective international effort to restore peace through fighting aggression.

P.M. Statement in House

Meanwhile, Mr. Claxton elaborated on a statement by Prime Minister St. Laurent in the Commons. Mr. St. Laurent said plans to send Canadian naval units to Europe on a training cruise have been suspended.

Mr. Claxton said the cruise has been suspended for the three Pacific Coast ships and that they will sail west instead of east. But he said the three east coast ships including the aircraft carrier Magnificent will still go to Europe, as planned, late in August unless the world situation forces a change.

Naval sources confirmed that this is so.

The disclosure of Canada's act came in the Commons shortly before prorogation. Mr. St. Laurent said the three ships will only be used if the U.N. feels they should be used and that that would not mean Canada would be involved in a war against another state but in collective U.N. police action to restore peace.

In a statement to the Commons, shortly before prorogation he promised that parliament will be immediately called back if the international situation deteriorates.

He said Canada's aid, as part of United Nations police action against north Korean aggression, might take the form of destroyers and then announced that the plan to send the three ships into European waters on a training cruise next month has been suspended.

Instead they would remain in the Pacific area where they would be close at hand if their assistance is required.

Mr. St. Laurent pointed out that the destroyers, now at the big Esquimalt naval base on Vancouver Island, could not reach Korea for at least three weeks. He said they would operate with other U.N. naval units if they went into action.

Canada's Responsibility

Mr. St. Laurent said Canada's responsibility in Korea arises entirely from her membership in the U.N. and from U.N.'s call, through the security council, for collective action by all members to contain the aggression.

It would not be a war against states but part of a collective police action to restore peace.

Canada would participate in Korea if she were informed that her contribution to a U.N. operation under a U.N. commander would be important to achieve the ends of peace.

If she got that information, the government would immediately make such contributions.

Mr. St. Laurent said he believed peace could be preserved in Korea.

If that were done, he said, "then the chance of preserving peace over a far wider area of the world than Korea will be immensely increased."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, rose immediately after the prime minister finished to say the House welcomed his announcement that parliament would be summoned if the situation deteriorated.

He declared that a government supply bill to be passed today would permit the administration to make greater defence expenditures than were specifically authorized in the bill, and in the light of world events he was sure all members would support such action as was necessary to bring defence forces to the highest state of effectiveness.

Mr. Drew said the world now was seeing the first real effort to make the collective principle of the United Nations charter effective in the form of sanctions in a case of clear-cut aggression.

Far from feeling depressed by the gravity of current events, he said, "all should be greatly encouraged by the hope that is offered that the steady wave of aggression of the last few years may at last be stemmed by the vigorous joint action of free men throughout the world."

Belleville Cadet Completes Course At London

London, Ont., June 30 (CP)— About 20 flight cadets Thursday participated in a ceremony at London city airport which marks their first step towards commissions in the Royal Canadian air force.

The university reserve training school, only one of its kind in Canada, turned out its first graduates. Drawn from nine universities across the nation, they marched across the parade square as Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of the air staff, took their salutes.

The Cadets completed an eight-week indoctrination course at London's air force headquarters before continuing their summer training along specialized lines. They are members of the various university air training flights —undergraduates at universities of McGill, Montreal, Queen's, Toronto, Western Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

The men will continue training for two more summers, then receive commissions and either join the active air force or be placed on the reserve:

Cadets included: G. R. Hasselfelt, Owen Sound; D. N. Morris, Hespeler, R. L. Wilson, St. Thomas; H. C. Ackerman, Enterprise, J. R. Barr, Acton; S. C. Blodgett, Colborne; J. B. Erskine, Almonte; J. D. Daytime Meetings Of City Council Are Proposed

Daytime meetings for city council instead of the night meetings which have been the custom for years, may come into being during the next year, if a recommendation passed by council members Thursday evening comes into effect.

Council agreed to the recommendation calling for a committee to investigate re-adjustment of council members salaries and also to consider the holding of daytime council meetings.

In introducing the motion Alderman Thomas stated that council business was taking more and more of the time of its members who necessarily had to take time from their business to carry out the work.

"Also," he said, "under the present system of holding council meetings at night, such meetings were coming after a full day in business with members already being tired, full justice was not being given to city business.

Alderman Duffy said he favored the recommendation but in the event the recommendation failed to carry suggested that the chairmen of the committees entailing the most work be allowed extra salaries.

At the present time councillors receive $300 per annum with $5 taken off for each meeting missed.

Alderman Tice said he felt councillors were worth as much as members of the public utilities commission who now receive $400 per year with the chairman getting $500. "Councill," he said "had voted for the commission members to receive an increase but at the same time turned down a motion to increase their own salaries."

Churches Combine For Services During Summer

During the months of July and August and commencing this coming Sunday several of the city churches will unite for services. The Rev. Canon J. Grant Sparling will be in charge of St. Thomas Parish in addition to his own parish of Christ Church during July and all services will be held in Christ Church with the exception of the celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a.m. each Sunday which will be held in St. Thomas' Church.

Bridge Street United Church and the Tabernacle United Church will also unite and all services commencing this Sunday will be held in the Tabernacle Church with the Rev. D. C. Amos, minister of Bridge Street Church, in charge during July.

During the summer months and commencing this Sunday there will be only the morning service conducted in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Fire Department Purchases Two Scott Air Pax

Purchase of two Scott Air Pak units with an additional air cylinder, for the use of members of the local fire department, was authorized last night by members of city council. Cost of the equipment is $241 for each complete unit.

Prior to the council meeting the Scott Air Pak was demonstrated to members of the fire department and to members of city council at the local Y.M.C.A when firemen wearing the pak were able to swim under water with breathing unhampered.

The air cylinder is strapped to the back while a partial mask is applied over the face, the mask having flexible breathing tube attached to the cylinder.

Representatives of the firm supplying the equipment stated the Air Pak had been developed for working in smoke and petroleum atmosphere, the underwater test being given merely to demonstrate its effectiveness.

Alderman Angus Duffy in introducing the recommendation said such equipment was in use by most of the fire departments in larger centres.

Death Accident Jury's Verdict

A verdict of accidental death through being run over by a railway tank car was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury at the inquest looking into the death of the transient who was found dead beside the tracks in the C.N.R. yard. The man had both legs and left arm severed.

Remaining unidentified for several hours by provincial police, the man was later identified by Sgt. Clarence Arnott, of the city police as being David Logan of no fixed address. Sgt. Arnott said Logan had been stopping at the city police station for overnight shelter for the past 16 years.

The inquest was held before Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott. Provincial Police Constable James Driscoll investigated.

Are Children Unhappy Because School Closed?

Great gloom settled on all primary schools in the city yesterday afternoon when the pupils were informed that the 1949-50 school year was about to come to a close.

The appalling suddenness with which the fateful day had crept up unawares on the younger students in the city served only to deepen the sad feelings, as the children realized that for the next two months they would be unable to spend five and a half hours, five days a week in the cheerful confines of their classrooms. The horrible prospect of swimming, going to camp, to the cottage, to the country, and to the dogs, had finally come home to the poor little tykes, who filled the streets with their tears, for did it really rain yesterday after all? when they heard their names read from the past list and realized that next year they would have to move into another grade and therefore would not be with their former teacher.

All this was as nothing to the sorrow of the teachers, many of whom hated to see the holidays approaching because fifty little boys and girls would no longer present their angelic faces each week-day morning at the fount of all knowledge. They knew that they would miss the eager enthusiasm of their great hunger for knowlege.

Stoics at the secondary schools in the city had their sad, but dry-eyed farewells last week when the upper school students finished their examinatons. Grades 9 to 12, with varying degrees of success concealed their true feelings earlier in the month.

The one great thought that made parting "such sweet sorrow" was the consoling truth that they would all be happily reunited on Tuesday, September 5th. One for the road.

Council Approves Removal Of Sur-charge on Patients In Hospital Outside City

The controversial question regarding the differential rate for county patients at the Belleville General Hospital seemed all but settled today as result of city council Thursday evening giving its stamp of approval for the removal of the sur-charge.

Mayor H. J. Allin told his councillors that the special committee from county council and the committee from the city had met with result that the county had agreed to pay $4.25 per day for indigent patients, instead of the $2.50 which had previously been paid. Also the county would let the hospital know promptly whether a county patient was classed as indigent.

As result of the agreement with the county Mayor Allin recommended that the city council concur in the recommendation of the hospital board asking for removal of the sur-charge, and did not go along with the Board so far as suggesting that room rates be increased to make up for the loss of revenue.

The question of room rates was a matter for the hospital board to decide, it was felt by council.

Considerable Debate

There was considerable discussion on the part of council members as to whether the new agreement would realize the hospital as much money as the surcharge. Council was told by Alderman Lattimer that this would not be the case. He noted there were 3,200 indigent patient days at the hospital for county patients and figuring the increase of $1.75 per day this would amount to less than $7,000. In contrast the sur-charge had netted the hospital an estimated $23,000 per year.

Here however Mayor Allin pointed out that it had been the unanimous feeling of county council members that the county wanted to pay its way with respect to hospital costs.

Alderman Lattimer noted that the new county payment of $4.25 plus the provincial payment of 54 cents would bring the total county indigent rate to $4.79, which he said was close to the hospital ward rate of $5 per day. The per patient day cost at the Hospital was $7.04 but this was not broken down.

County Should Pay Share

"If the indigent costs is $6 per day, then the county should pay its share," pointed out Alderman Armstrong. "The city should not be called upon to subsidize outside patients."

Just before the mayor's recommendation to remove the surcharge was put to vote Alderman Butler said he felt there might be some merit in giving consideration for a special hospital tax in the city. "Many of the residents were not directly effected through a property tax and all residents should share in any hospital deficit," he said.

"The renter also pays when he pays his rent," returned Alderman Thomas. This was endorsed by Ald. Tice.

Re-organization of Works Department Approved After Lengthy Debate by Council

Re-organization of the city public works administration system to provide additional full and part time engineering assistance, superintendent of works and separate foremen for sewers, roads and sidewalks was approved by members of city council Thursday evening at their last meeting before the summer recess.

It was estimated that hiring of the additional staff would cost the city approximately $11,000 annually, but much of this would be recovered through charging back engineering fees to specific jobs.

The recommendation for re-organization was introduced by Alderman Donald Thomas, chairman of public works, who said that he was confident the change would actually save the city money as it would permit the completion of local improvements which are piling up in the engineering department. It was stated the department was now behind in approximately $700,000 worth of such work.

Chairman Thomas said the change would also do away with much of the engineering work which is now being "farmed" out to Gore and Storrie of Toronto.

City Hall Under-staffed, Claim

Alderman Haig also spoke in favor of the change stating that the public works department, as well as the entire city hall, was badly under-staffed. Through being under-staffed costly errors were creeping in, he said.

"We just simply will have to raise our sights and run the city in a more business-like manner." he stressed.

He pointed out it would cost nothing like the estimated $11,000 in the general rate to effect the suggested changes in the engineering department. Much of the engineering costs could be charged back against the work.

Alderman Opposed

Alderman Hyde said he was opposed to the change claiming the city could not afford it this year. Mayor H. J. Allin thought the $11,000 amount could be pared slightly by hiring two student engineers for this year, but agreed that the change would be beneficial.

The re - organization would place 11 officials in the administration department of the public works, but even this number was below that in like departments of other cities the size of Belleville.

FERTILIZING DIRECTIONS

The home that is shaded by attractive and flourishing trees reflects the care and attention of the owner. Trees are more than a thing of beauty. They are an investment which pays dividends through the years and for this reason they should be fed, pruned and watered. Few people realize that a tree is, after all, just a big plant. As your roses, shrubs, perennials and annuals need fertilizer so, too, do your trees in proportion to their size. Large trees need two to four pounds of standard commercial fertilizer such as Vigoro or Milorganite for each inch of trunk diameter measured four feet off the ground. Smaller trees about six inches in diameter should receive half the above amount. The best time to apply is when the growing season starts in Spring. The condition of the soil on your property should govern how often to fertilize, but usually once every three years should be adequate.

Using a crowbar, punch holes about 18" apart and 18" deep (see diagram) not less than six feet from the trunk for the outside circle of holes. With a garden trowel apply ¼ cup per hole for trees up to 8" diameter and a half cup for larger trees. At the bottom and top of each hole pack in some peat moss. This permits water and air to be carried to the fibrous root system. The result of this treatment will be quickly apparent in the color and vigor of the foliage. Through the hot months, water frequently. A fair sized tree contains about 40 gallons of water which needs frequent renewing.

The Feather Trade of New Guinea

Birds of paradise have always paid a heavy penalty for being beautiful. The natives of New Guinea killed them in order to use the feathers for ornaments, and later, when European women discovered their beauty, there sprang up a notorious trade.

* * *

By DR. A. J. MARSHALL
(In London Calling)

It is a far cry from the West End of London to the rain-forests of New Guinea, but I was rather shocked to see a woman in Bond Street with the best part of a bird of paradise on her head. I am scientist by profession, and not very fashion-conscious, but I started to look at other hats, and, it is certainly true feathers have become incredibly popular in London.

However, I do not want to talk about fashion: it is the plume trade that has adways interested me. A newspaper clipping sent to me from Australia suggests that other people are interested in the plume trade, too—for it seems that the Australian Ornithologists' Union have been conferring solemnly on the matter, as they fear, and rightly so probably, that there may be an altogether regrettable revival of the appalling slaughter of birds of paradise that went on before and after the first world war.

Head Dress for Ceremonials

Birds of paradise have always paid a heavy penalty for being beautiful. They have a fabulous history, dating from the time the first bold, Spanish conquisadores burst into the jungles of New Guinea and the Spice Islands: a fabulous history, quite in keeping with their own 'out-of-this-world' type of beauty.

In the eighteenth century many people believed that birds of paradise came from Paradise —that they really were heavenly birds. The way of it was this: long before the white man came to the Spice Islands (the Moluccas) and New Guinea, the native skin them roughly, and use their glorious sunset-gold and red and used to shoot birds of paradise royal-blue plumes as head-dresses during times of feast, dance and other ceremonial. They still do it today, as any district officer or miner who has been in the wilder areas of New Guinea will tell you. The natives could not—or probably did not bother to—preserve the birds' legs.

Then came the early Spanish and Dutch explorers across the Pacific, and soon the sailors were exchanging rusty nails and pieces of clothing for beautiful feathers to take back to their wives and girls. The birds had no legs, and, helped by their unearthly beauty, there sprang up the sailormen's legend that the birds had no terrestrial home—that they were birds of paradise.

An early Spanish manuscript describing them said: 'They live in the air, turning always towards the sun, never alighting on the earth till they die, for they have no legs.' And when the first skinned specimens reached Europe, the great Swedish naturalist, Linneaus, actually named them Paradisea a-poda—a-poda meaning 'without legs'. And that is still the name of one lovely plumed bird today.

After these early Spaniards and Dutch, the British came; and not a sailing ship returned from the East Indies without a rich collection of gold-and-scarlet feathers amid its spicy cargo. Then came the days of steam, and the women of Europe discovered the beauty of paradise plumes. Overnight, there sprang up the notorious feather trade from the Indies.

Fortunes were made in feathers. In the early days of this century, many New Guinea copra-planters came to regard their coco-nut groves merely as a profitable side-line—for they obtained £5 for a single bird-skin. They paid native shooters a few shillings a week, and cartridges were cheap and birds apparently limitless in numbers. The brilliant male birds, hampered by their heavy, trailing plumes, flew slowly and were easy marks.

Damaged by Shot

Many birds were damaged by shot, of course, but the Chinese traders at Hollandia and other coastal settlements would buy them, just the same. With soap and a soft toothbrush, blood and jungle mud could be washed from the feathers, and they could be straightened to a perfect condition by dexterous, oriental fingers.

Also, these crafty oriental traders were such clever needle-workers that they could take fragments of several battered birds, and, with almost invisible stitches make up a composite bird that looked like a natural skin.

They went even further: they might take the body of Paradisea minor, and with the tail of a scintillating, long-tailed bird and the plumes of the famous blue-bird of paradise make it up into a single creature even more dazzling than the most dazzling natural animal.

With all the indiscriminate slaughter of beautiful birds one would think that very soon there would not be a single paradise bird in New Guinea or the Indies. The numbers did shrink alarmingly, but the species was saved by one thing: the males alone have the beautiful plumage and they do not grow it, it is thought, until they are several years old. So the hen birds were never shot, and neither were the young males. It is probable that before the male reached the beautiful, dangerous age it had produced a family or two, at least, and so the species, if not individual birds, continued to exist.

However, it was obvious that this evil trade would not be permitted to go unchecked for ever. Reports of the mass slaughter of beautiful creatures came to the notice of human people, and a great agitation arose for its abolition.

The Australians made plume trading illegal in their colony, Papua, and likewise in German New Guinea, which Australian troops captured in the early days of the first world war. It was made an offence to bring plumes into Australia, which had been formerly a clearing house for the trade with the U.S.A. Also, in 1921, Britain passed an Importation of Plumage (Prohibition) Act and that put an end to the trade here. The U.S.A. was the most sensible of all: there the trade was wiped out merely by making it an offence to wear a single plume unless the owner could prove it was imported before 1913.

Unfortunately, the Dutch Government did not come into line. Dutch New Guinea has always lagged far behind the rest of the country in exploration and development, and the plume-trade supplied about the only revenue the Netherlands got from their end of New Guinea. So the trade continued in the Netherlands East Indies, and a great smuggling racket sprang up in the early 1920s.

Close Watch Stops Trade

The vigilance of the Australian customs stopped the southern trade, but between the largely unsettled and almost entirely unpoliced Australia-Dutch New Guinea frontier, there was scarcely a pause in it. Malay shooters still went deep into the unexplored hinterland, traded with the fuzzy-haired Melanesians, and came out with cargoes of forbidden feathers.

At the same time, an even more pernicious trade sprang up, the trade in egrets' feathers. The lovely white egret is a heron, and it develops in plumes in the mating season. So most of the slaughter of these birds went on in the breeding season, and the eggs or young were often left to rot in the nests. In order to cloak the nastiness of this business the dealers called the delicate egret-plumes osprey-plumes. (The osprey is a fish-hawk; it has not a single plume that any woman could possibly wear.) Soon this too, was exposed, but still the trade went on. Osprey-plumes fetched £100 per lb, of feathers in Hollandia in Dutch New Guinea just after the first world war. Later, the price dropped to a mere £70 but is was profit enough for most men.

I have talked to some of the white traders who have now grown respectable in their old age, and having made a pile of copra and feathers, live in quiet old age at home. They tell fascinating stories of the smuggling days. Some of them took up land and planted great areas with coco-nuts, and then settled down and made a lucrative living from birds' bodies until their plantations came into production.

Civilized Woman Changed Mind

Ten years after the Australians declared the feather-trade illegal, the Dutch followed suit, and the last easy outlet for stolen plumes was blocked. By now however, the bottom had dropped out of the feather-market, and it is doubtful whether the Dutch action really saved the lives of a great number of birds. The real reason was the civilized woman changed her mind. From time to time, there have been minor feather revivals, but nothing like the scale of the old days. And even if paradise plumes do come right back into favor today, it may be a long time before a single bird need be illegally shot. For there are—or were, just before the last war—stacks of plumes lying in London warehouses, unused and apparently a dead loss to the unlucky importers who bought them before the bottom fell out of the market about the time of the 1929 depression.

Perhaps, however, these stored plumes will not be a loss, after all: for, today, a single egret (so-called osprey) plume costs five guineas in London. And every fashion-conscious woman I see seems to be sprouting at least the tail of a rooster.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.G.

St. Andrew's Women's Guild met in the church hall for the final meeting before the holidays.

The president, Mrs. Elvidge, opened the meeting. The scripture reading was followed by roll call and the treasurer's statement.

Miss Cunningham treasurer, reported opening an account at the bank known as the Fund for Church Decoration, and it is hoped that more will be added from time to time.

Mrs. Taylor, bazaar convener, reported on the progress of arrangements, and asked the members to prepare articles for the various booths during the holiday months.

Arrangements were made for placing flowers in the church each Sunday. Anyone having garden flowers to notify the flower secretary.

After the meeting closed all enjoyed a social hour, refreshments being served by Mrs. Kane's group.

SENIOR WOMEN'S M.C.

On Tuesday evening last, about 30 members of the Senior Women's Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church met for their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hay, Rednersville Road.

The president, Mrs. C. Campbell, presided, with Mrs. Post at the piano. An interesting and helpful program was enjoyed, which included; scripture reading by Mrs. Berry; devotional meditation by Mrs. Carr; "The Watch Tower" by Mrs. Eastman; a report of the convention held recently in London, Ontario by Miss Lounsberry, a duet by Mrs. Welbanks and Mrs. Eastman and a reading, illustrated by a blackboard chart by Mrs Robson.

A gratifying report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Hales, showing that the allocation for the fiscal year has been met and exceeded. It was decided to donate the $20 special offering from the pageant to the Bolivian Christmas Fund. Miss Lounsberry was named head of a contact committee, and Mrs. Robson in charge of publicity. Mrs. A. Cranston invited the Circle to hold the July picnic on her lawn.

Mrs. Carr conducted a contest concerning missionaries, and their stations, the prize winners being Mrs. Gordon, and Mrs. R. Craston.

CANADA CELEBRATES

Eighty-three years ago the Dominion of Canada came into being, one of the great facts in not only the history of the British possessions in the New World but of the entire globe. Four Provinces, Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia with their romantic histories which cannot fail to appeal to Canadian hearts united to form the Dominion of Canada. Witn this event Confederation became one of the major steps of history on this Continent. Since then there have come into Confederation the other six Provinces, making Canada now a Confederation of ten Provinces. The last British possession to enter was Newfoundland which came in last year.

The early history of the British possessions in North America led naturally to the creation of this confederated country. As a nation the Dominion of Canada is now in the company of world powers. She is but young yet, her resources and possibilities not fully developed and yet this nation stands in the company of the great nations of the earth.

Her future rests with the years. The people of Canada with their natural heritage of freedom are a progressive people. The greatness of her future is patent to every eye for she possesses the elements which make a future of mark. That she is destined to be a great nation for good is acknowledged. Her sturdy people, her land and waters favored with wealth which are an inspiration to continued progress and to happiness assure her future. Today she is known among the Great Powers. Her citizens have therefore unrivalled opportunity of service to Canada and the world.

Her history is romantic, really one of the most appealing in all history for the fine traits it reveals in those who were the founders and the early inhabitants of the country.

Leaders of more than four-score years ago saw the supreme importance of a united nation made up of the Provinces in North America. Steadily the process has gone on down the years until today she stands greater than she ever was. Since Confederation growth has been phenomenal from the Atlantic to the Pacific and her interest goes far into the north.

With her sturdy ancestry and her noble political traditions, with her record of growth and development and the high place she has taken among the nations of the globe, Canada can look with pride on her progress and with the brightest hopes for the coming generations.

In these days the Old World which has suffered the throes of countless wars and the Far East which is coming forward to a place of greatest importance can well look across the seas to North America and there see the rising tide of Canada's greatness. People from the war-devastated fields and lands of historic Europe with its noble history look to Canada and like pilgrims of old come here and are welcomed to become citizens in whom Canada places her trust. She has received from other parts of the world newcomers who will be citizens who will add to her greatness. Canada like the United States knows the importance of the new citizens whose qualities bear assurance that some day their contribution towards the greater Canada will be seen. In this new world of opportunity, new citizens soon find their way and come to understand our ways and as a result no finer citizens can be than new citizens who are filled with the inspiration which a new nation holds for them.

This Dominion Day is another milestone on the way of the Canadian people and nation. The future looks bright as it should look for a young people with the spirit of youth and the fine examples in the racial origins of her people which have gone into the making of Canada.

This year Canada rejoices from the coast of Newfoundland to the coast of British Columbia.

Canada has earned world responsibility. She has won her place in the counsels of the great and small peoples of the earth. She occupies a state of no mean rank among the nations of not only the Americas but also of the rest of the earth. She comes with her contribution to the welfare and progress of all peoples.

So on her national birthday her people join in singing "God Save the King" and "O Canada." Her course down the generations to come looks bright and fair as one of the growing and great nations of the earth.

The Russians now claim they were the first to use printing. If they mean they were the first to use baloney with moveable type, then okay, says the Hamilton Spectator.

There is no royal road to anything. One thing at a time and all things in succession. That which grows slowly endures. — Holland.

Our headstrong passions shut the door of our souls against God. — Confucius.

The earnestness of life is the only passport to the satisfaction of life. — Theodore Parker.

JUST FOLKS

FOOLISH DRIVER

He knows there is danger in rocking the boat;
The labels on bottles he'll carefully note.
What's poisonous plainly the death's head will mark
So he knows that he mustn't take drugs in the dark.

He has given up the habit of smoking in bed;
Too many who've done that have ended up dead.
When the odor of gas indicates there's a leak
He won't light a match in the furnace to peek.

He's aware of the dangers that all men beset,
But the peril of driving he hasn't learned yet.
He forgets, since it carries no
label to read,
That his car is a bottle of poison called: "Speed."

He whizzes round corners and cuts in and out,
Never looking to see are there children about.
While driving, all others he races to pass.
He won't drink in the dark, but he'll step on the gas.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

During the holiday months ahead, the weather will be a subject of some concern and much discussion. A good thing to remember therefore is that no matter what kind of a day it is, it always suits somebody.

There are going to be a good many brilliant, warm, typical summer days with no breeze blowing. These are the most popular. They suit the older folk who like to sit on shady cottage verandahs and smile vacantly at the scene. They suit the type of young people whose idea of a summer holiday is to loaf and flirt around a summer hotel in their bathing suits, going in swiming, four or five times between rising in the morning and going to bed at night. For surf board and water skiing, they are perfection.

But such golden days are a terrible trial to all who love sailing, or who like to drive speed boats over a nicely churned lake. Fishermen detest these bright, smooth days. Golfers do not much care for them. Campers and canoe-trippers are inclined to cancel all programs on such days and spend them snoozing in the tent—just a day lost.

The brisk westerly days, with white clouds scuddling and a zip in the air are a terrible disappointment to picnickers. Everything is blown all over, and sand gets in the salad and sandwiches. The older folk find these westerly days tiresome too much wind on the shady verandah; and the moving waves and the white caps make them restless and nervous. But the dinghy sailors and the anglers are in their element. Even the young loafers around summer hotel wharves and springboards enjoy a little breeze, though you can't do your best flirting in a wind.

When the wet, eastish days of summer come, when all the summer cottages and the hotels appear to shrink back into the landscape, you might think nobody is pleased. But on such days, the anglers are in glory. And the bridge fiends at last can find a full table. And here is at least one day in the week that no blamed neighbors, in their afternoon frocks, will come trooping, with cherry yoo-hoos, up the cottage path.

Truman's Orders Tend to Freeze Chinese Conflict

(By DEWITT MACKENZIE)
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The United States' revised far eastern policy has given to China's civil conflict a queer twist which undoubtedly will cause heart-burnings in both warring camps.

President Truman's new orders tend in effect to freeze the conflict in its present position. They are calculated to prevent a Red invasion of the big island of Formosa, held by Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist government, and at the same time preclude attacks by Chiang against communist-held continental China.

What amounts to a cease-fire order found both sides girded for fresh action.

Mao Tze-Tung, head of the Chinese communist government, and foreign minister Chou En-Lai made a broadcast from Peiping yesterday charging that American protection of Formosa was "intervention."

On the other hand, Truman's order to the seventh fleet to protect Formosa was welcomed by the Nationalist Foreign Minister, George Yeh, as "a most welcome sign of comradeship in the fight against communism."

However, observers took it for granted that Chiang would find it difficult to bind himself not to invade China. Dr. T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist China's chief delegate to the United Nations, commented on the problem:

"China can agree to a temporary cessation of military operations against the mainland but cannot give up the struggle to recover territorial integrity and political freedom. To expect China to do othewise is to expect China to commit suicide."

One can well believe that Nationalist headquarters are deeply concerned about the future. Chiang can't even say that the final settlement of formosa's status will leave him a place in the sun.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

THREE OLD FLAMES

For the next four weeks, readers gentle and otherwise, you're going to have to get along as best you can without my rickety rhetoric. Yup, for the first time in 14 months your Uncle Willie is throwing caution and deadlines to the winds and is a-goin' off to get his tegument tanned and his think-tank relined.

Y The old man went down

How do I expect to spend the next 30 days? Well, in case you really care, the answer in simple as sin: I'm going to look up three old sweeties of mine . . .

The first is a gal named Mollie Midway — a right - purty dish I used to keep company with in Ft. Worth, Cleveland, New York and San Francisco. Her new address, I understand, is San Diego, California, where they're planning an exposition for 1953, and maybe '54 as well.

The directors of this whoopty-do have invited me to come oue and have a look at their fairgrounds, and by the time this piece appears in your paper I should be up to my eardrums in big talk about loop-the-loops, water shows, parachute jumps and pink lemonade. I haven't smelled sawdust or popcorn since 1940, and it'll be a nice change of pace to forget about paragraphs and concentrate on pinwheels again . . .

From San Diego I expect to mosey up to Hollywood for a few turns of the clock, look in on my sister Polly, and do a little gadding and gabbing with some old chum-buddies — Harry Ruby, Groucho Marx and Joe Schenck, among others. It's a cinch that nothing mountain - moving will come of these corned - beef klatches, but they figure to be pleasant and, perhaps, even jokeworthy.

The California jaunt will eat up about ten days of the thirty, and when I get back to New York I expect to look up sweetie No. 2—a fancy frail named June Moon who used to keep me in convertibles and cup cakes. Yes, you guessed it — I'm going to take a crack at writing songs again.

Currently, thanks to Patti Andrews and Billy Eckstine, an old ditty of mine called "I Wanna Be Loved" is playing footsie with the Hit Parade, and ever since it began erupting over the kilocycles I've had a powerful hankering to see if I can't come up again with a couple of those corny couplets which hit 'em where they yodel. As a consequence, I plan to spend part of my vacation in the underground delicatessens, nipping at a bottle of celery tonic and trying to find a rhyme for "April" . . .

The third sweetie I hope to catch up with is a tilt-nose named Eleanor who recently said she wished they would combine television and telephone so she could see me once in a while — and from the day she said it I knew she was kidding on the level. What with the column, theatre and nightclub, I've only been seeing my missus week ends since the summer started, and so about 30 minutes from now I aim to motor up to a certain house in Mt. Kisco, ring the bell and say to the lady who answers, "Beg pardon, ma'am, but I've long been an admirer of yours and I think we ought to get to know each other better."

Hope she doesn't throw me out.

Come to think of it, there's no bigger chump than the guy who knocks himself out working so he ccan buy baby a pair of new shoes, and then never gets around to taking baby out dancing so she can use them. Suiting deep to this thought, I'm determined to devote most of my free-wheeling sabbatical to one-stepping around town. The lady you'll be seeing me with will be my wife, and the shoes she'll be wearing will be the ones I've been working for the past 14 months . . .

What's that you say?

Why, thanks, pal. That's downright decent of you.

Have one yourself.

Manhattan Waterfront Glamorous

Science with all its spangles and refinements has imparted to airports an antiseptic air of mechanical efficiency, a friend of ours—a man who finds enjoyment in the cluttered past rather than in the ordered present—declared the other day. But waterfronts, he said, remain immune to the blandishments of those who yearn for a chromium-trimmed sight-seeing Mecca, writes a New York Times columnist.

A stroll along the North River waterfront from Forty-second Street north through the lower Fifties confirms, with adequate clamor and confusion, this observation. This neighborhood is the show-window of things maritime. The largest ships afloat—the most ambitious marine projects executed by man—pause briefly at their berths before beginning their hasty gallop eastward across the Atlantic. Probably more people leave for foreign parts from this area than from any other similar stretch of waterfront in the world.

Goods From Abroad

Despite the modernity and activity that all this bespeaks, the surface appearance of the area conveys an appearance of total disorder and meaningless movement, with none of the spotless well-rehearsed motion our friend deprecates so much as the flying fields. Well shielded by the elevated highway from sunlight and fresh air, Twelfth Avenue exudes an atmosphere or commercial bustle and drive that conjures up visions of those mystic instruments of trade—manifests bills of lading, clearances and invoices. Strewn the length of the waterfront is cargo—merchandise for Western Europe the Mediterranean, Africa and Latin America. There are huge crates with machine parts for France; there are automobiles for South America; there are countless items for Casablanca Tangiers, Basra, Ras Tanura, Penang, London and Lourenco Marques.

Cargoes for Everywhere

Slingloads of produce swings shoreward, earning much-needed dollars for economically precarious governments abroad. The large plaza north of Forty-second Street is well stocked with drums of olives from Italy; to the north, whiskey from Scotland is loaded onto trucks; newsprint from Canada is rolled aboard specially built vehicles that rush it to newspaper presses; small English automobiles rock nervously in their first contact with American soil, as mechanics service and fuel them for their maiden voyage to the distributor

North of 43rd

North of Forty-third Street begins a strange and different world for the curious New Yorker. A block to the south, to be sure, tourists en route to the boats that circumnavigate Manhattan cautiously thread their way through the angry traffic of the street that the more seasoned ferry commuters from New Jersey cross with a swagger. Only a few feet away is the throng waiting for an Italian liner. A dozen Latin dialects shrill out over the slip as the stately white steamer draws up to her assigned position at the pier with poise and dignity.

Much to See

The vignettes multiply as you walk uptown. Here is a "shape-up", with a hundred husky longshoremen waiting to be chosen for work in a large American freighter lying at the pier There is a French liner gathering momentum as she slips into the stream. Across the street is life, too. Dungaree - clad seamen shop in a grocery for edibles that they can bring home with them. French sailors haggle volubly with the clerks in a large ice cream parlor over the price of a cigarette lighter or some other knick-knack. A snatch of song emanates from a near-by cafe where British tars from one of the "Queens" are showing their colleagues of half a dozen different nations how to do the "ease-up," an informal but lively dance done to best advantage in the pubs of London's East End.

Interrupting the waterfront's industrial functionalism is De Witt Clinton Park at Fifty-second Street—well remembered by crewmen of the ill-fated Normandie, as well as by those of several Italian liners who found a soccer game there a good outlet for nervous energy stored up during those vessels' enforced idleness in New York at the beginning of the war. But business as usual has returned to Twelfth Avenue, and the ships come and go without any noticing the crack of bats or the call of the umpire on the green.

THE DETECTION OF CANCER

Cancer is a curable disease—if it is treated early. The entire question of cure depends upon how early treatment is started. While other methods of treatment hold promise for the future, surgery and radium or X-ray are the weapons of choice today.

Throughout the land the public has been importuned to seek early attention for sores that do not heal, for bleeding that appears without apparent cause, for change in bowel habit and for "lumps" that may appear anywhere in the body.

Unfortunately, in some locations cancer becomes well established before giving rise to symptoms of its presence. This is particularly true in cancer of the bowel. One of the earliest indications of cancer of the bowel is a change in the "bowel habit,"—the usual "pattern" of bowel function.

Along with the emphasis on early attention to suspicious symptoms, there have appeared throughout the country "cancer detection clinics," to which persons who seek examination are directed by various means. These clinics, when properly manned and organized under the direction of ethical medical organizations, serve a useful purpose.

An undesirable development is the "flooding" of cancer detection clinics by large numbers of persons who for some queer reason believe that the services rendered by a clinic are superior to those provided by the physician in private practice.

So great has this trend become that in many centres a waiting list has developed, necessitating a delay of from two to six months before examination can be carried out.

Obviously, this delay defeats the purpose of the entire idea, which is early examination. A delay of two months could readily prove fatal.

There is no reason for anyone to suspect or believe that the physicians who donate their services to a cancer detection clinic are superior to physicians who do not. Insofar as the "clinic" itself is concerned, it is nothing but four walls. The only value of a clinic is determined by the doctors who staff it. The notion that "clinics" have better doctors than are to be found in private practice is one for the birds.

A new slogan has recently appeared: "Every Doctor's Office Is A Cancer Centre." This slogan makes sense. The local doctor is in a position to see a case without undue delay, and is qualified either to pass judgment on the case or to refer the case to competent hands if some special examination is required for which he is not equipped.

The process of waiting around from two to six months to be examined for cancer is not only ridiculous, it is fantastic.

It should always be borne in mind that only a doctor can practice medicine. Only a doctor can make a diagnosis. The services rendered in clinics are rendered by doctors. The doctor who serves in a clinic today, serves in private practice tomorrow. No clinic can practice medicine.

You would do well to get this straightened out in your mind. From the standpoint of rationality, time-saving and economy, the local doctor is your man.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Child Eats Mud

Son, 3, continually eats mud. He gets a mouthful and runs from me in order to be able to eat it. He is well built, healthy, chubby and full of mischief. He also eats chalk and likes to chew on plaster. He drinks more milk than most children. (Mrs. R. D. E.)

Answer—Sure it will do him no harm. Pay no further attention to it and presently he will tire of the game.

Reducing Suits

Please give me your opinion of those reducing suits and trousers. Is there any danger in wearing them to bed so as to reduce during the night? (Mrs. F. L.)

Answer—No danger. All the weight you may lose from sweating is merely the weight of the salt and water lost—and it will be restored in the next day or so by your intake of more salt and water.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON READING

Americans are the greatest readers in the world. They are forever, as well, searching out for new entertainment and instruction for their minds. And this has brought about the greatest array of books on every conceivable subject.

I write a great deal about books in this space because I am such a lover of books, and know what they do to a person. You may have friends who may desert you, but never a good book. It will come to your aid in periods of mental confusion, when most discouraged, and when sorrow comes. Good reading consoles as nothing else. And I know of no reading so comforting as the Sermon on the Mount, to be found in the New Testament.

For many years a favorite writer of mine has been the late Logan Pearsall Smith, an American writer, but who spent most of his life in England. He once referred to reading as "this joy not dulled by Age, this polite and unpunished vice, this selfish, serene, life-long intoxication."

I once knew a retired railroad man who had as a hobby the reading of many publications. Whenever he came across an inspiring piece he would clip it. And after he had a great many clippings, he made out a list of friends, and people whose names he knew, as those possible to be interested, and would send them these clippings, thus dividing his personal happiness. For many years I was on his list, and correponded with him until he died. A fine and useful member of society.

Carefully selected reading, over a few years, can make a well informed person out of anyone. It is by intelligent reading that we take an interest in all things, local and world wide. People listen to a well read person, and find him far more interesting than one who reads next to nothing. Such a person can go anywhere and attract conversation,, and friends as well.

The late President Roosevelt once called upon the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, when he was in his ninetieth year, and found him reading—translating a classic—and he was asked why he did it. The great Justice smiled and replied that he was doing it to "exercise his mind."

WIPING OUT ENEMIES

The Chinese tell the story of one of their ancient emperors who, confronting insurrection on the part of some of his people, took his vow that he would go forth and destroy them. There was a quick and successful military campaign, but to the astonishment of his generals, the emperor punished no one. "Is this the manner in which you fulfill your promise?" cried his first minister with considerable asperity. "Your royal word was given that your enemies should be destroyed; and, behold, you have pardoned them all, and even caressed some of them!"

"I promised," replied the emperor, "to destroy my enemies; I have fulfilled my word, for, see, they are enemies no longer; I have changed them into friends."

Certainly the most effective way to slay one's enemies is to slay the enmity which causes them to be enemies. And it happened in olden days and still continues to happen, that when an enemy is thus treated, he usually becomes a friend, who can be relied upon under all circumstances.

Don't waste your time trying to get even. Don't spoil your peace and happiness thinking of how deeply you dislike someone. Assail your "enemies" with courtesy and kindness. This is the surest way to exterminate them.

New Radio Studio Will Commence Operations Sun.

Trenton — (Special) — CJBQ's opening broadcast from their new Trenton studio will hit the air waves on Sunday evening and will originate on the stage of the Trent Theatre. This week, workmen completed the new studio and branch offices of the Voice of the Bay of Quinte, which are located in the Trent Theatre building.

The opening broadcast will be a stage concert featuring local amateur artists. G. W. Martin, manager of the Trent Theatre, volunteered the use of the theatre for the concert broadcast. Proceeds will go to the Trenton Recreation Commission to help provide better recreation facilities for the town.

Mr. Martin in co-operation with Phil Flagler, manager of the Trenton CJBQ studio, have arranged a program of the best local and R.C.A.F. Station talent they could obtain.

The ever popular Bill Navin, currently playing at Toronto's Club Norman, will be on hand to entertain with his vocal impersonations of famous stage, screen and radio stars. Another outstanding event on the program will be the R.C.A.F. Glee Club Quartet and there will also be several solo vocal, comedy and musical numbers.

In addition to this impressive line up of entertainment, station manager Phil Flagler promises a surprise event before the program goes on the air. Tickets for the Sunday show are now on sale. They are available at the Trent Theatre box office, Vic Auger's, Bardy's Restaurant, Ketcheson's Confectionery, Spotless Cleaners or any member of the Recreation Commission.

Starting Monday afternoon, regular broadcasting will begin from the Trenton studio. Monday through Friday between 3 and 4 p.m., Phil Flagler will emcee the new Trenton show, "What's New?" which he describes as "a brand new program and a brand new broadcasting idea."

Grafton Girls Lose After Being Well in Lead

Trenton (Special) — Spotless Cleaners defeated Grafton 19-12 in a free scoring Ladies Softball League twilight game at Bayshore Park Wednesday evening.

In the last half of the sixth inning, Grafton was leading 11-6 but that was before the local lassies went on a 13-run scoring spree that changed the picture completely.

Grafton's disastrous collapse was due to a whole series of errors and poor pitching. Trenton girls took advantage of the situation to overhaul their vistors' big lead and went away out in front themselves.

In their half of the sixth, Trenton pitcher Sally Twigg was in difficulty as she walked four straight and her teammates committed four errors, permitting Grafton to score 5 runs without collecting one safe hit.

However Grafton's impressive lead was short lived. Barb Whitley started the Spotless' parade with a single. The next two hitters were safe at first as the result of two fielding miscues by Grafton. Jean Robertson swept the bases with a grand slam homer. DuVargney followed with another single and Sally Twigg was saved by another error. Barb Smith hit safely and Pat Kernaghan threw in the towel and strode off the Trenton mound.

Tries Luck at Hurling

Kernaghan took over the second sack from Florine Lawless who tried her luck in the hurling department. By this time, Trenton was again at the top of their batting order and there was still nobody out.

The Grafton relief pitcher started off by walking Barb Whitley, then second sacker Kernaghan bobbled Thornhill's infield drive and centre fielder Carswell followed with a single. Three more Trenton runs scored as clean up hitter Robertson slammed out a ground hugging line drive triple. After that Lawless put out the fire as the next two batters flied out and Barb Smith went down swinging.

For awhile in the seventh it looked as if Grafton might rally and pull the game out of the fire, when Sally Twigg walked in a run with the bases loaded and only one away. However Twigg settled down and the next two hitters were retired in order.

It was a tough loss for Grafton as they needed the win to get into the playoffs.

Special Pilots From Station Will Take Part

Trenton (Special) — On Saturday, Trenton RCAF Station will be represented at an Air Show being held in Welland. There will also be other aircraft taking part from the 420th City of London fighter squadron led by Wing Commander Haylett, squadron CO.

During the next three months, six pilots from the local RCAF station, five of them with the Central Flying School, piloting Vampire, Mitchell and Harvard aircraft, will be taking part in flying exhibitions at Orillia, Clinton, Goderich, Windsor, London and Toronto.

This month, these six pilots, in co-operation with RCAF Reserve squadrons have staged several air shows at Brantford, Hamilton and Toronto. Several shows scheduled for other Ontario centres have been "washed out," owing to bad weather conditions.

The three Vampire pilots taking part in the air displays are all from Ontario. FO. Hal Knight hails from Cobourg and flew Hurricane fighters with the RCAF Desert Air Force after receiving his wings in 1941 and returned to Canada a year later. FO. Knight went overseas again in 1944 and ferried all types of RCAF aircraft in the United Kingdom.

After being discharged in 1945, FO. Knight rejoined the airforce in the fall of 1948 and has been an instructor at Central Flying School since that time.

The other two jet pilots are FO. Gerald Billing of Essex, Ontario, and FO. Bob Ayres who originally came from Norfolk, Virginia but now considers himself a Torontonian.

The Mitchell aircraft being used in the air shows is piloted by FO. Don Lewis of Barrie and FO. Bruce Olson whose home is in Lethbridge, Alberta.

Flight-lieutenant E. Grey is leader of the Harvard aircraft from Trenton participating in the air shows. Until recently, Flight-Lieutenant Gray was an instructor and officer commanding one of Central Flying School's two flights and is now with the Examining flight testing RCAF pilots for flying proficiency.

SL. George Sutherland, Officer Commanding Central Flying School, is acting as co-ordinator of all air shows which originate from Trenton.

Taylor Franklin, president of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, is shown presenting Miss Barbara Diment with a bouquet of roses following a dance recital staged by Miss Diment's pupils in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium, Thursday evening, June 22.

The show, well received by a large audience, included forty-one separate acts ranging from Miss Diment's final solo, Valse de Ballet, to slapstick comedy. A tiny tots review consisting of six numbers preceded the main show.

Solo and production numbers featuring as many as twenty dancers, tripped through a highly entertaining evening. All profits from the show were turned over to the Kiwanis Club who provided the dancers with a practice room throughout the winter season.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

Revelstoke, B.C., —Some notes from our four Canadian wayfarers:

The kindness and generosity of people in the constant delight. Today, when my wife was in the town shopping, fellow came out of a store with a loaf of bread warm from the oven. Said he'd recognized her picture in the paper and would like to keep us in fresh bread while we're here.

The Danish people in a small farm near where we've parked our vagabonding villa sent over a whole quart of fresh cream, a dozen eggs apparently snatched from under the chickens and two pounds of freshly churned butter. You don't know what butter is until you've had the real McCoy.

And tonight, just as I was sitting down to write this, a fellow came up from the local brewery and presented us with a case of his special lager. Very nice it is, too.

Before we left we dreamed of secluded hideaways where we could commune with old lady Nature. We've found them too right the way through British Columbia. But we've had all the privacy of a goldfish in a bowl.

Seems we've hardly turned the engine off before the cars begin to roll up with visitors and just plain sightseers curious about how a family lives in one of these aluminum packing cases.

We'll never be lonely.

We had a peach of a thunder and lightning storm last night. Our trailer never felt so much like home. The thunder exploded off the mountain peaks that rim this valley and seem almost to lean over you. Then the rains came with a wet roar on the roof.

It was snug and comfortable in our two small rooms, a retreat from the wild elements. It's a curious fact that the only times we've been homesick were when everything in the trailer was working and the weather was fine.

Met up with our first mosquitoes here. Isn't it strange that the human race will spend billions of dollars figuring out ways to eliminate each other without ever doing much about this smart winged torment? Yes, it is.

The camaraderie of strangers on the open road is something to marvel at.

Two parties, one from Alberta the other from British Columbia, are camped near us, each with a gentleman of advanced years. The old boys kept at arm's length all yesterday while the younger members of the parties mingled together. But last night we heard some lively music outside, went out and found that the old birds were teamed up, one with a fiddle the other with an accordion.

They played until midnight with the younger people sitting around in a circle in the moonlight. It wasn't what you'd call polished music, but with the breeze in the pines and the soft song of the river below us it sounded mighty sweet. Judy stoutly insists it's the best music she ever heard.

The number of California cars on the road, even this early in the season, is phenomenal. Makes you wonder if California is really all they say when so many of its dwellerrs are clearly determined to get away from it.

The sights you see on the road: A pleasant cottage in from the road with a sign saying: "Bird Sanctuary," and curled up peacefully under it, the fattest sleekest cat I ever saw. . .The elderly bicycle rider pumping slowly along the gravel road with a large piece of cardboard suspended from the seat and the inscription: "Going to Calgary — Need a Lift." We did a 20-mile double take on that one. When we turned and went back to talk to him, he'd gone. Got his lift, I guess. . . The Indians in the ancient wagon drawn by the ancient nag. a study in slow motion. . .The startling change as you come out of the province's dry belt. One moment you drive through the naked sagebrush hills, the next you're in the cool, evergreen forest.

We're beginning to understand why so many people who've tried the trailer life hate to go back to an orthodox way of living.

When your front yard becomes a new and fascinating vista from day to day there's a strong invitation to live out-of-doors whenever the weather permits. That's exactly what we're doing. We set the Coleman stove up on the card table outside and have our meals out there under our fancy awning. Yet there's none of the rigors of tent camping when you've got a gas refrigerator and a tank full of hot water along with you.

The only real drawback is that it's a devil of a job for me to settle down to work when the whole wide, wonderful world is just outside the door. Like most newspapermen I work best in a noisy office or an airless hotel room. It's tough to chain yourself to a typewriter when the hammock is visible through the door swaying gently in the summer breeze and with its arms open.

Speaking of the gifts that folks have given us, the most original of all came from Mrs. Earl Dickey here in Revelstoke. It's a small sachet of balsam needles from Mount Revelstoke and it has a wonderful woodsy fragrance. Mrs. Dickey made up hundreds of them during the war and sent them to Revelstoke boys who were overseas. Many wrote to her that they sleep with the little bag of home under their pillows and dreamed of being back in their beloved mountains.

Ace High

Tennis facilities are ace high in Ontario. Good courts, clubs and competition draw U.S. teams for match play; provide U.S. visitors with exercising fun. Let's hope our Ontario hospitality scores "ace high." Every visitor we welcome goes home a booster. That means a bigger tourist traffic next season. And more guests from U.S. is everybody's gain. WEDDINGS

DALEY—THOMPSON

A quiet wedding took place at Bridge Street United Church Parsonage, Belleville, Saturday afternoon June 24th, at one-thirty, when Helen Cecile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Thompson, Big Island, became the bride of Fred Daley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daley, Belleville. The Rev. D. C. Amos performed the ceremony.

The bride wore powder blue crepe with sweetheart neckline, tunic skirt, white hat and accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Mrs. Ross Johnson, the bride's sister, of Belleville, was matron of honor, wearing a dress of eggshell jersey crepe trimmed with pearl buttons. Her accessories were brown, and her corsage pink roses.

Vern Ferguson, of Belleville, was best man.

The happy couple left for Niagara Falls and points west immediately following the ceremony. For travelling the bride donned a green gabardine suit and matching accessories. On their return they will reside at 373 MacDonald Avenue, Belleville.

Prior to their marriage, Deacon Bros. of Belleville, presented them with a teakettle, a white candlewick bedspread and blue Kenwood blanket.

A reception will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Big Island, Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Daley.

PARSONS—ROBSON

Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, June 28th, at 3 p.m. when, before a background of tall, white standards of pink and white gladioli, pink carnations, and white Princess feather, Marian Eleanor, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Robson, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Robson, was united in marriage to William Aubrey Parsons, of Downsview, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Parsons. The Reverend F. R. Harback, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mrs. M. P. Duff, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and Miss Helen Cook, soloist, sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "Because."

The charming bride, who was escorted up the aisle by her uncle, Mr. A. W. Lent, of Port Hope, and given in marriage by her mother, wore a gown of frost-white eyelet organdy over crisp taffeta, fashioned with a fitted basque, and buttoned to the high, round neckline which was framed with a demure Peter Pan collar. Lily-pointed accents were marked at the waist and in the long, tight sleeves. The skirt flared gracefully to a full sweep. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a taffeta cloche brim. She carried a shower bouquet of white gladioli with rose-adorned streamers.

Mrs. C. F. Lowther, of Belleville, was matron of honor, gowned in twilight-blue taffeta. Miss H. Jean Parsons, of Downsview, and sister of the bridegroom, in periwinkle-blue taffeta, and Miss Elaine M. Lent, of Port Hope, cousin of the bride, in sky-blue taffeta, were bridesmaids. All wore gowns of similar design, fashioned with buttoned bodices, Elizabethan collars and brief, tucked sleeves. The full skirts were gathered to the corded waistline, and featured tucked side paniers. They wore matching Mary Queen of Scots, halos.

Mr. M. C. Gardiner, of Haileybury, Ontario, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. J. G. Parsons, Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Owen F. Lent, of Port Hope, cousin of the bride.

At the wedding reception which was held in the church parlors, the bride's mother, becomingly gowned in heaven-blue silk, with black accessories and corsage of red roses, was assisted in receiving the numerous guests by the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. J. E. Parsons who was attractively gowned in navy blue, with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Gaspe Peninsula, the bride chose pure printed silk with black picture hat and black accessories, and wore a corsage of red roses. Upon their return, the young couple will reside at Port Credit, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were present from Haileybury, Port Hope, Toronto, Downsview, Markham, Unionville and Port Credit.

Women's Guild Elects Officers For Ensuing Year

"All the World's Children" was the theme of the June meeting of the Women's Guild, held on Monday at the home of Mrs. George Wishart, Dufferin Ave.

The work of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund and the heart-rending condition of masses of children in many parts of the world, was vividly and sympathetically demonstrated by means of a film obtained from U.N.I.C.E.F.

During the business part of the meeting, donations were made to U.N.I.C.E.F. and to the Belleville Playgrounds fund.

Annual reports of the societies' activities were given by the retiring conveners, a review of the programs showing how varied had been the topics.

In her remarks as retiring president, Miss Hazel Thompson commented that since the women are few in numbers more persons take part in the programs and consequently more persons benefit.

Elections resulted in the following officers for the coming year:

President, Mrs. H. R. Gibson; vice-president, Miss J. Tickell; secretary, Mrs. E. A. Risto; treasurer, Mrs. A. Wilkes; pianist, Mrs. Don Stanton; and press reporter, Miss Rachael Fox.

The worship service, led by Mrs. R. G. Coulter, on the topic, "Gardens", was very beautiful and appropriate, as this meeting began by the members joining in a pot-luck supper in the quiet secluded garden of the hostess of the evening, Mrs. Wishart.

RAWDON

Interesting English Letter Tells Of Sugar Shortage

Rawdon—On Monday last, Mrs. Percy MacMullen received an interesting letter from Mrs. Mollie Mallard, of Abbot's Leigh, Bristol Women's Institute, which was written June 20th.

Mrs. Mallard gave a graphic picture of her newly planted shrubs and climbers, and hoped they would have a lovely show of flowers another year and so repay them for all their hard work, as it had been a very neglected garden, before she and her husband took over.

She said, on July 17th, Abbot's Leigh Institute are planning a tour through Oxford and a visit to Denman College. The group leave at 7:30 a.m. and will return home late that evening. Mrs. Mallard has booked a special dinner and a fish tea for the members enroute and all hope to have an enjoyable trip.

On July 29th, Abbot's Leigh are holding their annual Institute garden fete. Various stalls will be arranged for farm produce, flowers, all kinds of needlework. There will be games, side shows and a variety of attractions.

Mrs. Mallard said they reserved four pounds of the very acceptable sugar sent by River Valley Women's Institute for this event, and they weighed the rest of the cube sugar into half pound parcels. Then they drew names out of a hat to see who would be lucky enough to receive it.

At the July regular meeting, Abbot's Leigh members are having a canning demonstration, and if accommodation is available, they hope to buy a canning machine. This would be a great boom in canning vegetables and fruit.

Canned in Water

She said "This year the fruit will have to be canned in water because of the sugar shortage but we always (since 1939) have bottled our fruit in water so it won't be any different.

Give my kind regards to all River Valley Institute members and thank them very much for the sugar.

I have written an official letter of thanks to Mrs. Utman. This is a lovely old country and I love it, but I also wish it were more progressive like Canada."

SISTERS ALL

Have you heard the story about the woman who paused to look into a real estate agent's window advertising homes for sale? The agent came out to ask her if she wanted to buy a home . . . The woman said: "I was born in a hospital, reared in a nursery, educated in a boarding school, courted in a car, married in a banquet hall. And I suppose when I die, I shall be buried from a funeral parlor. I do not need a home — what I need is a garage."

We belong to a wonderful club in our town which costs us 5 cents a year. You can drop into it for 10 minutes, or stay a whole evening. There are comfortable chairs, good light for reading. It is warm in winter and cherry on rainy days. ....It is possible to take up any interest from making kitchen cupboards to atomic energy. But you must take up some interest. Could be detective stories.

No refreshments are served. No smoking is allowed, which means you cannot spend money even if you try. Nobody in this club is ever bored. For here, there are interesting, delightful people of all ages from all parts of the world.

They have many interests.

The members come and go, browsing unhurriedly through the book shelves—absolutely absorbed in the quest of the moment. The hands of the clock fairly spin around. Some people make a habit of spending at least one night a week in this club which is open to all people.......... And like church, the Public Library is a place where husbands and wives, children and friends, should attend together. Pick a free night next week to visit the Public Library in your town.

There was one red-faced furnace man this week. He spent three hours cleaning out a furnace and an oil burner in one home, and when it came to hand the householder the bill, he noticed the address was 102 Chudleigh Boulevard instead of 102 Cheltenham .... The party of the first part had installed his oil burner during the year and was of course entitled to a free cleaning by his own dealer a competitive firm. Oh, oh.

New promotion angle being used by a finance company gives householders a short-lived thrill. A letter is received through the mail notifying the householder that $600 is waiting for him. All he has to do is fill in his signature and address and the cheque will be returned immediately—— It turns out that the $600 is a loan at current interest rates.

Circus Girls Limber Up Aloft

PRETTY AERIALISTS with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus in practice on outdoor riggings.

In the good old days of wooden ships and iron men, these agile girls would have been rated as "light yardmen" on any smart man of war, for they're all young and coming aerialists with the Ringling Bros and Barnum and Bailey Circus, coming to Belleville, Monday, July 3, and they work out on the practice shrouds and ratlines like Stephen Decatur's nimble main royal lads used to do.

These Big Show belles are to be seen this season in the stunning new aerial tour de force, "Marimba," during which the upper reaches of the world's largest big top are alive with the flights, color and loops of sixty girls.

They are experts, too, for no novice could be allowed to work in this number's tricky riggings.

Other spectacles in the performance of The Greatest Show on Earth are: "When Dreams Come True," "In Old Vienna," and "Voodoo Drums." The first named is the overall feature, employing more than 2,000 people and animals.

With hundreds upon hundreds of globally renowned circus stars and a host of sensational new features from Europe, the Big Show will exhibit at 2:15 and 8.15 p.m., with doors to the mammoth menagerie and the world's largest big top open at 1 and 7.

BEAUTY

HAIR CARE IN THE SUMMERTIME

Now and then a woman will get a permanent wave that is wonderful and gorgeous. Undulations are just right, and they survive. Ringleted ends remain in tight coils. But it is not always like that. Fine, thin hair is especially temperamental. And if it is to have tantrums, this is the season for them.

Warm days mean that the scalp is moist. Shampoos must be more frequent than in the winter season. A rousing old head washing once a week is not too often. It is no great task if the tresses are short. If you prefer a liquid soap, rinse the hair first to remove surface dust; dilute the liquid one half. Have three applications, with plenty of friction, each one followed by a prolonged rinsing with a strong current of warm water flowing from a bath spray. The shower does not rinse as well as the spray.

If you make pin curls, part the hair evenly, see that the end of each strand is inside of the coil, and fasten the coil with invisible hairpins. A strong permanent does not require the use of a wave-set lotion. If a lotion is used it should be a thin one; a heavy lotion is likely to cause the shafts to become dry and brittle.

Brushing puts life in the most discouraged-looking mop, gives it a healthy, springy appearance. Do at least fifty strokes at bedtime. Your hair will be cleaner, will have lustre, and it will be so grateful for these attentions that it will develop a gracious disposition, stay where you put it.

Brush strand by strang, holding the hair away from your head. Brush it up at the back. Spread fingers and thumbs over your scalp; give it a three-minute friction. The flesh will glow, showing that the blood streams are bringing nourishment to the hair.

As you protect your skin from sunburn, so must you protect your hair. Repeated exposure to strong sunlight will not only make the growth dry and crisp but may change the color.

White hair will show yellow streaks. Blonde hair will be darkened. Brown hair may take on red glints, that are no help. If the hair is naturally dry, a little brilliantine should be passed over the bristles of the brush and the teeth of the comb.

Should you be lucky enough to go swimming in salt water, and your hair gets wet, be sure to rinse it with clear water. The salt will cling to the shafts, weaken your wave.

GOOD MANNERS

Thank-You Notes for Presents to New Baby.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My first baby has just been born, and we have received many gifts for her. Will you please tell me how to write a thank-you note for these presents?

2. A few of the gifts have been money. Would the thank-you for these gifts be worded differently?. — R.E.

1. For these notes of thanks, it's a good idea to keep in mind the basic 'recipe' for all thank-you notes for gifts: (1) thank first for the kind thought that prompted the sending of the gift .. this gives your note a 'good head-start'; then (2) mention the gift specifically by name (not vaguely "your gift'); and (3) comment appreciatively and enthusiastically about its attractive and/or useful features, just as if you were chatting with the giver. Include your husband's thanks too, of course, and make some comment on a meeting between the relative and friend and your new baby.

Somewhat like this, for example:

Dear Sallie:

How kind you are, how thoughtful and generous, to send such a beautiful gift to our baby! The lovely pink sacque is a delight to her, a snuggly comfort, and I'm sure she already knows how becoming it is to her, for she wears it with such pride! Bob just came in to admire the sacque you sent Nancy, and he says she's waving her little hand to try to thank you too.

Bob and I hope that you are coming this way soon so that you can come to "make the acquaintance of" this new member of our family.

Dearest love and deepest thanks to you from Bob and me —and from our new daughter.

Affectionately,

2. Yes, the thank-you notes for gifts of money would be worded differently, for in these you would write either what gift for the baby you have bought with the money or are planning to buy. For example:

Dear Betty:

How good you and John were to have such kind, kind thoughts for our baby's happiness! Bob and I were so touched by your plan.. and with your generous gift, I am planning to choose, as soon as I am able to shop, something that our little Nancy will delight in wearing. As soon as I 'achieve' this, you dear friends, I will write you all about it and say again our heartiest thanks to you both. We are all so grateful to you, for your goodness to us.

Please come soon to see us — will you? — and to give our new Nancy the chance to "meet" you two dear friends.

Dearest love to you both from both of us, and from the new member of the Eliot family.

—Affectionately,

If Bride's Parents Cannot Pay Expenses, Bride Herself Pays Them.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Are there any exceptions to the general rule that the bride's family pays the expenses of the wedding? For instance, supposing the bride-to-be has been self-supporting for a number of years and intends to be married away from home? —Lu.

In this circumstance, if the family of the bride is not able to contribute to the expenses of the wedding, the bride herself pays the expenses and plans her wedding accordingly. As a matter of fact, today this is quite often the case. Or if her parents can contribute something toward the expenses, but not all, a wedding to meet this plan can be planned. The most important point is that the wedding must not be given or paid for by either the prospective groom or his family.

PERENNIAL

Long before Hollywood claimed to be the "gam capital," Mistinguette, French night club chanteuse, was famed for "the most beautiful legs in the world." Anyone who wants to know what became of her has merely to look at this photo, taken during a recent performance in Rome. She's still going strong. — Central Press Canadian.

Fashion Flashes

LUCKY TEENSTERS find plenty of style in budget fashions! Consider the charms of a full skirt in blue denim, scalloped at the hem and embroidered with white daisies. With it a short-sleeved blouse of matching denim, or, for dress-up, a similar blouse of showy dotted Swiss with matching apron. In the budget department, too!

THE LITTLE FUR is going big this Summer, what with mink stole sand cape-jackets good sellers all over the country. Silver-blue mink makes a beautiful cape-stole worked in five rows that finish at the ends in deep cuff folds.

SHEER NONSENSE items are here to add delight to simple clothes. For instance, a sheath of a frock in black linen or crepe becomes all dressed up with the addition of a tie-on overskirt or apron of stiffened silk organza, printed in a delicate, misty flower design on a white or black ground. Easy to make at home, too!

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

About Your Letters and My Answers

A numbers of readers have written asking questions about how their letters can be answered. Others lay down conditions under which they wish the answers printed. I would like, therefore, to clear up some of these points at this time.

One reader asks if I publish every letter I get. The answer is that I certainly do not, for several reasons. One is that there would not be sufficient space in my newspaper column; another, that many readers ask for a direct reply by mail, which I am always glad to send. In such a case, it simplifies matters if a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed for the reply.

A third reason why I do not publish every letter is that a great many of them deal with problems so similar that replying to one of them gives an answer to all dealing with that particular subject.

Where a reader lays down certain conditions about the publishing of a letter, it is rarely possible for me to comply. Typical of this sort of thing is a letter just received, signed by "A Broken-Hearted Mother," who asks that it be withheld from publication and only an answer to it printed. This I cannot do, since it would not be fair to other readers of the column who, because the letter was not printed, would have no way of knowing what the answer was all about. The whole point of such a column as this is to give the people who read it suggestions on how to solve different types of problems, and unless the problems are stated, the column fails in its purpose. If "A Broken-Hearted Mother," and any of the many others who have made similar requests about withholding their letters and printing only an answer, will write me again, enclosing a stamped addressed envelope, I will gladly write them personally.

Another condition it is impossible for me to meet is when readers ask to have their letter printed by a certain date, usually specifying a day immediately after what they believe will be the receipt of their communications. Inevitably, in a column of this sort, some time must elapse between the receipt of a letter and its appearance in the paper, so that I cannot give any quick replies in print. Here again, if the problem is urgent, I will send a personal reply if one is requested. This matter of the time lapse between the receipt of letters and the printed replies will also serve as an explanation to those who do not see their letters in the paper as soon as they think they should, and so write again.

I should like to be of as much service to readers of this column as possible, and if there still is anything not clear about how to get an answer to a letter, please write and state your question.

Thanks for Gifts Of Shawl, Fruit

London, June 28 (CP) — Knitted black shawls sent by the "Ladies of Quebec" and canned apricots from the Canadian government are warmly remembered by one London woman.

In a letter accompanying a small gift to the Thanksgiving Fund started by the Lord Mayor of London, Mrs. H. Hayes, of Chiswick, London, spoke of her "grateful remembrance of so many things!"

Among them were small black shawls from Quebec "thankfully" worn by British Nuns, and tins of apricots sent to "our small, remote hospital."

The Lord Mayor's fund is designed to raise funds for a permanent memorial to Commonwealth countries and the United States, which among them have sent £80,000,000 ($248,000,000) worth of food gifts since 1940.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 30 — (CP) — Market leaders edged ahead slightly as prices attempted a slight recovery movement of yesterday's losses. Opening prices were best and interee lagged as the session progressed. Some easiness developed in leading base metals in mid-session. Volume for the first three hours was 1,618,000 shares.

Gains ranged from fractions to more than a full point in leading industrials. Activity slowed to a comparative crawl as selling orders dried up.

Bridge St. United Church Y.P.U. Holds Pot-Luck Supper

A pot-luck supper held last Monday at the scene of camp Quin-mo-lac, with 28 members of Bridge Street Young People's Union present, concluded a happy useful year for this group.

Situated on the picturesque shores of Moira Lake, the camp promises to be a meeting place of innumerable boys and girls, and their teachers. They will undoubtedly find inspiration together, surrounded by the beauty of verdant hills, and peaceful waters.

On the completion of their outdoor meal, the young people enjoyed baseball, and boating. At sunset, a camp fire was lit, and Miss Loretta MacDougall led everybody in a final singsong of favorites learned during the year. The president, Miss Betty McGowan, expressed the wish that all would return in September, to carry out as successful a time as 1949 had proved to be.

The singing of 'Taps' and a prayer of thanks ended the evening, and another year of fellowship for the young people.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Ruston, Dundas St. W., Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

It's a long way from the Otley Rd. Methodist Church, in Shipley, Yorkshire, England, to 120 Dundas St. W. in Belleville, but the distance can be measured in more than statute miles. In this case, it's measured by a golden wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Ruston on Thursday, June 29.

Fifty years ago yesterday Lillian Hewitt was married to Thomas D. Ruston, and nine years after they left for Canada on the Empress of Ireland. In their honor, neighbors arranged a welcome home and anniversary party on their return from their latest jaunt to England this week. Friends and neighbors gathered Wednesday evening at the Ruston home to offer congratulations and present a short program for their benefit.

Brigadier R. W. Gage was master of ceremonies, Miss Grace Etchells presented Mrs. Ruston with a corsage of gold roses, and Mr. Ruston with a boutonnier to match. Mr. A. Ayling, on behalf of the men, extended "welcome home" to the Rustons, and Mrs. B. W. Brown did likewise on behalf of the ladies. The golden couple were presented with an electric kettle on behalf of the group.

The evening was concluded with a lunch during which the Rustons were called upon to cut an anniversary cake with the good wishes of all their friends.

Pack 2 and 4 Belleville Brownies

As a finish to a very successful year the Brownies of the 2nd and 4th Packs packed their bale to the Grenfell Mission at Labrador. This bale contained 93 items of toys, such as balls, irons, books, trucks, boats and 16 stuffed cats and 19 stuffed dolls—the dolls and cats being made by the Brownies themselves. In addition to the above the bale had in it a large number of Sunday School papers, used nylon stockings, and children's used clothing. This bale is expressed to Montreal, where it is picked up by the Mission Boat. Another item from Pack 2, is that of the presentation to Gwen Hopkins, by Mr. C. I. Frederick, of a miniature toadstool. Gwen Hopkins is leaving Belleville to take up residence in Toronto, and having been a Brownie for some time was given this memento, in order that she might cherish in her memory her happy times with Brown Owl Samuels, Tawny Owl Coles and all her sister Brownies of Pack 2 and of Belleville. Keep the Brownie Smile on Gwen.

Co. 3 Girl Guides

The last enrollment of the year was held on a recent hike, when Ardelle Hunter became an official member of the sisterhood of Girl Guides. Pansy Sampson has completed her Second Class and the badge was awarded at the last meeting. The meeting took the form of a scavenger hunt, with the Guides tracking down such treasure as a bus timetable, a picture of the King, and which highways ran down Pinnacle St. We feel we have had a very good year, in spite of the fact that we only started in February. We appreciate very much the use of the Armouries as our weekly meeting place.

Chips From Company 7's Log

Well, Guides are over for another year, at least as far as regular weekly meetings are concerned, but it is hoped that several picnics or hikes will be held. The regular meetings will be resumed in September. At a recent meeting the Company played outdoor stalking games and then, by Patrols, followed a map to the campfire site, where a marshmallow roast was held. At this time Blazer Badges were presented to the winning Patrols—Trillium, under P. L. Eleanor Clarke, for earning the highest number of points during the year and Rose, under P. L. Frances Adams for selling the most cookies on Cookie Day. At another meeting the Company played a softball game against Troop 2 Boy Scouts. The girls put up a good fight, but the boys won the game. The badges earned since the last report are Cook and Reader—Frances Adams and Second Class Jacqueline Day. Two Guides, C. L. Barbara Dix of Company 7 and P. L. Barbara Bennett of Company 3, are going as swimming instructresses to a Guide Camp near Carleton Place.

Kingston Presbyterial Holds W.M.S. Rally At Amherst Island

The summer rally of the Kingston Presbyterial of the W.M.S. was held in St. Paul's Church, Stella, on Amherst Island, last Tuesday. The sun shone its brightest, the waves of Lake Ontario sparkled and danced as the crossing was made to the island on the ferry from Millhaven.

An executive meeting was held in Victoria Hall where the president, Mrs. D. L. Fleming, presided, and Mrs. R. J. Roth, of Kingston, took the devotions.

Two important items of business were discussed, which were to be brought to the afternoon meeting. The first item was that the next annual meeting should be held next January on the third Monday in Belleville, and the executive meeting to be held in Kingston in December same time as presbytery. Second item was that the time and place of the next summer rally is to be decided at the January meeting. These items received the approval of the afternoon meeting.

Delicious refreshments were prepared by the Amherst Island ladies in the hall.

The regular meeting met at 1 p.m. in St. Paul's Church. The president opened with prayer, and called upon the Amherst Island auxiliary to take the devotions. Mrs. Bruce Caughey read the scripture and Mrs. McCaugherty the prayer. The secretary, Mrs. H. Rollins, took the roll call.

Rev. Mr. Earls welcomed the rally on its first visit to St Paul's Church, and gave a most interesting account of the origin of the church in 1822 when the first Presbyterians came to the island.

The present church was built in 1883, by stones hewn from the rocks by the convicts, while the islanders hauled them across the ice. Mrs. Fleming asked for silent prayer to be offered for the missionaries overseas.

Miss Mary Nesbitt, Kingston, the treasurer, read an encouraging report of the funds. Mrs. Ian Gollan reported for supplies.

The guest speaker, was Mrs. W. Heslip, Madoc, who gave an address on "God's Strength for our Shortcomings." He uses us for His Honor and glory if we let Him, our smiles, voice, music even our hands and our feet can be of help to Him in various ways. But we must not make excuses. There should be more mission bands to help train the little ones to become shining lights in the church. The parents, the minister and our own societies, can help to make this work a success."

A solo was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Bell of Belleville, "Strength for Today."

Mrs. J. W. MacDonald gave an excellent report of the synodical meeting in Belleville and emphasized "Our Commission."

Mrs. C. A. Smart, Kingston, thanked the ladies of the island auxiliary for their most gracious hospitality and Miss M. P. M. Henry, Kingston, gave a brief summary of the pre-general assembly congress, held in Montreal on June 5, 6, 7th which she attended as a delegate.

Mrs. Smart was asked to announce that the ladies extended an invitation to tea at four o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Sarles closed the meeting.

A delightful drive around the island was thoroughly enjoyed, and a perfect day ended happily

Reutlingen, Germany, June 30 —(Reuters)—At least one person was killed and 30 others were severely injured in the collision of a passenger train with a freight train near here yesterday.

Sixardee Edges Point Anne In 11 Innings

Coursol's squeeze bunt in the eleventh inning broke up a seesaw ball game last evening as No. 6 R.D. pushed over two runs to keep their Belleville and District League record of seven wins intact with a tight 10-8 win over the Point Anne Cementmen at Point Anne.

It was the closest the repairmen had come to defeat this season and at one point they were trailing, also a new experience for the members this year.

Sixardee jumped into an early lead banging over four runs in the first frame on a walk, two singles, a double and a triple. They picked up another in the third on two singles and Strahan's error.

The Cementmen, weary of being sandbagged in such a shameful fashion rebounded for three runs in the bottom of the third to chase starter Garrett. Ellis came in with one away and retired the side without more damage being done.

Two unearned runs in the fourth knotted the count at 5-5 and Point Anne took over the lead in the fifth scoring two runs on a walk, a single and a double.

Sixardee picked up one counter in the seventh and took a one run lead in the eighth when doubles by Baziot, Gibson and pinch hitter Don Maloney went for two runs. Point Anne tied it up in the eighth and the teams went into the eleventh inning before Coursol dumped a bunt that scored Ellis. An error to Green permitted Christie to score the insurance run as the repairmen escaped with closest call to date.

Score by innings:

Sixardee	40100012002—	10	14	7
Point Anne	00322001000—	8	12	6

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

God and The Imperfect

By ROY L. SMITH

It is a common thing to hear it said of someone who has exhibited his imperfections in some disheartening style, "Well, he is just human like the rest of us," as though to be low and evil is characteristic of humanity.

It is true, of course, that the seeds of evil are in all of us. Rare indeed is the individual who does not manifest small and mean tendencies at times. But it is also true that the seeds of greatness are in all of us. Equally rare is the individual who does not manifest capacity for nobility at times.

Hypocrites in the Churches

A certain type of unthinking individual is often heard to say, "I would not belong to a church because there are so many hypocrites in it." Yet in the very next breath he will probably admit that the church does not teach hypocrisy, and that the hypocrite is not the one who has too much religion, but the one who has too little. The hypocrite in the church is one in whose life the work of the church is not yet completed.

Any institution must be tested by what it achieves in the lives of unpromising men. It is the claim of the church that it will make noble and splendid people out of the ignoble and the wretched, if they will but give it a chance. The hypocrite is not a hypocrite because of the church but in spite of it.

The Bible and the Imperfect

It is one of the identifications of the greatness of the Bible that it rests its case for religion on the record of the imperfect who have been made better persons because of its teachings.

From the very beginning of the Old Testament record we are introduced to a series of imperfect people. The list is a long one. In fact, there is not one perfect one in all the record. Not until we come to Jesus of Nazareth do we meet perfection.

In the case of Jacob, whose life story forms the base for this week's Sunday school lesson, we see two characters exhibited — one praiseworthy and admirable the other contemptible and despicable. It is extremely interesting, however, that in the end the better Jacob survived and the conniver and schemer seemed to succumb.

This Man Jacob

According to the Biblical account this man Jacob began as a conniver. As a youth he deceived even the members of his own family. The ties of brotherhood rested lightly upon his conscience and his devotion to his father was secondary to his own greed.

For many years he went through life as a schemer, a deceiver, a wily individual, a smooth customer, a smart trader, and a clever crook. Then something seemed to happen inside his own soul. The better qualities began to come to the surface. In the end he became one of those who was used in a significant fashion in the building of the Hebrew nation.

Out of the Depths

It is not unusual for a certain type of superficial thinker to cast aspersions on religion because of its lowly origins. "It all began with jungle superstitions," is the way one such "scholar" expressed it. But so also did music begin in humility. The greatest symphony traces its origins back to the forest tom-tom. And the noblest art quite possible goes back to crude carvings on the rocks which lined the primitive grave.

> The Sunday School lesson for July 2: "Jacob a Man of Striking Contrasts," Genesis 25:27-34; 27—29; 32:1—33:16; 35:1-15;37:29-36; 46:1, 20-34; 47:1-10.

Good religion need offer no apology so long as it is able to make purposeful men out of the purposeless.. useful men out of the dregs; and sober men out of drunkards. It is highly significant that many of the most valuable characters in history have been persons who attributed their great service to humanity to the fact that they had been faithful to their religious convictions.

What Ever Became of Esau?

"I know he is a reckless sort but he is a lovable devil, and I'm for him." So said a man about town concerning a young sophisticate whose ready wit and loose morals were about his only commendations. Esau was something of that sort. Reckless impetuous, lusty, uninhibited, he took life as he found it, gambled with all his tomorrows, and finally was cheated out of his natural inheritance by his scheming brother. Usually the sympathies are with Esau.

But what ever became of Esau anyhow? What happened to the short-sighted young man about-town? Much as we must condemn the conniving Jacob, we must mourn the reckless Esau.

In spite of his cunning, there was a certain far-sightedness about Jacob that eventually redeemed him. Esau went almost nameless into history because his thinking consisted of short, short thoughts.

The difference between the two was a very simple and a very common one. Esau forever closed his mind and heart against all things great and noble, because he wanted to live for the moment. Jacob floundered for a good many years, and lived meanly, but he kept his mind open toward the noble and the good.

There is always hope for the man who continues able to appreciate the true and the honest.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

RACIAL TRAITS

Anthropologists divide the human race roughly into three groups: the descendants of Shem, Ham and Japheth. The task of the ornithologist is not quite so simple though the ancestry of every bird can be traced to the Archaeopteryx. Nevertheless, there are certain definite groups into which birds fall, as distinct from each other as a Chinaman and an Englishman.

This may sound too scientific for an amateur bird lover, but even a beginner should learn to identify the various members of the same family.

Let us take merely a few outstanding examples. Instead of trying so hard to know a Wood Thrush when you see and hear one, try to learn to recognize any Thrush. Notice the bright, black eye, with a perfect ring around it which gives the bird the appearance of staring, the general brownish coloring with more or less distinctly spotted breast, the size, smaller than a robin (really a Thrush also) and the appealing melodious voice. Later you may know the Wood Thrush by its distinct breast markings, the Hermit by its red-brown tail, and the Veery by its general chestnut coloration.

Their songs and calls will be learned by experience.

As sparrows belong to the large group known as seed eaters their stout, conical shaped bills are designed for cracking this food. Brown is the main color of the 30 or so varieties which can roughly be divided between those with and those without streaked breasts. Fortunately, the locality in which one is seen helps immensely: for instance the Savannah sparrow is always found in a meadow or on a prairie.

Warblers are a very difficult group to learn. There are approximately 40 varieties averaging about 5 1-4 inches in length, with tiny, dark bills. Many have at least some white about them, many have some black, and a very large majority have yellow. They are very sprightly in their movements, with bright little voices.

When you come across a new bird, watch it as long as possible, making careful notes as to its surroundings, the kind of food it seems to be looking for, the way it flies, whether its bill is long like a woodpecker's or very short and flat like a swallow's, its chief colors, if it has any especially significant mark—as a crest, a white rump, or wing bars. Then try to decide into which of the main divisions it should go. The pictures in a good bird guide should then give you your answer.

BELIEVE AIRLINER EXPLODED, KILLING 58

U.S. coastguardsmen are shown as they fished a woman's coat and men's apparel from the waters of Lake Michigan, where a passenger plane, carrying 58 persons, disappeared during a violent storm early last Saturday. Debris and parts of bodies were also found and authorities believes the airliner probably exploded. Members of the coast guard said it must have been a terrific explosion to disintegrate the bodies so badly, adding that they doubted whether there was a piece of the ship big enough to be worth diving for." — Central Press Canadian.

Abandon Scheme To Trap Mosquitoes With Loud Speakers

Newark, N.J., June 30 (AP)—The Essex county mosquito extermination committee tried to lure mosquitoes that didn't bite.

The commission yesterday abandoned a proposed scheme to outfit electric traps with loud-speakers that would buzz sweet nothings in mosquito language.

Preliminary tests didn't work, except for a relatively few mosquitoes. It turned out that there are 15 different species of mosquitoes here, and each answers only to its own special call.

14 Great Dane Pups in Litter

St. Catharines, June 30 (CP)—"Doing fine" is the verdict of 14 Great Dane puppies born here this week in what is believed to be a record litter for this area of the seven black and seven blond pups, only three are males.

Tourist Season Promising at Crowe Lake

Marmora—The tourist season at Crowe Lake looks promising this year. The road into the lake from No. 7 Highway is good and dustless due to a recent tar sprinkling. At Tipperary Hotel originally the only resort at the lake, bookings for the season are heavy. Proprietor, Jim McGrath, has added another to his fine cluster of cottages.

Registered at Tipperary are six American guests: Mrs. P. Heslom and Mrs. D. Shrewsbury, of Buffalo, N.Y.; J. and E. Ashfield, J. Larsen, of North Bergen, N.J., and Charles Paul of Union City, N.J.

New Cottages

Four more cottage rooms have been added at Marble Point Lodge by Don Gunn to bring the guest accommodation up to 50. The Lodge is filled up with reservations.

Guests opening the season there are Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Ellis, Miss Ann Pritchard, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Thomas, and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Davis, all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Arter, Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Day and family, Rochester, N.Y. Both of these resorts will welcome a good influx this coming weekend.

Fred Eastwood of Toronto, former Marmora boy, has erected three spacious cabins on his lot near Parker's Cove.

Indications are Bonter's Camp and Booster Park, will be well filled on the holiday weekend which will also be marked by the opening of James Eady's refreshment bar on No. 7 Highway, close to the turn to Booster Park.

Mr. Eady, who has been operating a service station for some weeks, has erected an attractive building which will shortly be used as an up-to-date restaurant, with an every day service.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JUNE 30, 1950.

Council Authorizes Police To Enforce Provisions Of the Local Smoke By-Law

The city police department will be authorized to take whatever action is necessary to enforce the provisions of the local smoke by-law, it has been decided by the city council.

Acting on a communication received from the city solicitor to the effect that there was no necessity for the smoke by-law to be revised, council voted that the police department be instructed to take the necessary action to bring a halt to the smoke nuisance which has caused many complaints.

According to the provisions of the by-law commercial chimneys may belch smoke for six minutes each hour. Council noted that it was not sufficient for police to check a chimney for only a few minutes. A chimney on which complaints have been lodged should be checked for three hours if necessary, it was stated.

Given Authority

The police department will also be given authority to deal with the selling of raffle tickets in the city. Action by council followed a letter from Police Chief Walter Probert stating that selling raffle tickets was an unlawful act and permission could not be given for their sale.

"The sale of raffle tickets on cars is getting so ridiculous that people are being badgered to buy tickets every time they go down town," said one councillor. "Even the judge and the magistrate are being buttonholed to buy them."

It was suggested that after the draw for the Kinsmen car on which tickets are now being sold, no more raffle tickets be allowed to be sold in the city. In their recommendation council members concurred in the principle of the police chief's letter.

Recommendation Defeated

A recommendation by Alderman Liddle asking that the traffic committee instruct the police department to check ball playing on residential streets, was turned down when several councillors noted there was not sufficient playgrounds in the city. The alderman's recommendation pointed to the danger of windows being broken and also to the danger of children being hurt by the traffic.

The British Empire Dairy Show annually held in the city will be held this year in the city hall market, it was recommended.

Alderman Butler noted that the matter had been given some consideration, also stating there had been some objection by city hall employees to the smell of the cheese. It was pointed out that prompt decision on the matter was necessary as plans were now being made for holding the show. If the city market was not available there was a possibility the show would be cancelled.

Submit Report

The market and city property committee, in conjunction with the fire committee, submitted a report to council to the effect that it would not be feasible to repair the Front Street fire hall, and recommended that a new fire station be constructed. The fire chief was authorized to seek a new site for the construction of the suggested fire hall.

The market and city property committee, through its chairman, Alderman Butler, also reported on the feasibility of installing a master telephone switchboard to service the city hall, police and fire departments. Such a switchboard would be more efficient, but in view of the fact that the present operator at the city hall doubles as clerical assistant in the welfare department, it was recommended that the present set-up be retained.

Protest Delay

A storm of protest is reaching the ears of councillors regarding the slowness of completion of repairs to the police station. Plastering and painting remain to be finished but the contractor was stated to have left the job and the work remained at a standstill. Alderman Butler said he would investigate the matter in an effort to get action.

The traffic committee will proceed with negotiations with the railroad for widening of the overhead bridge on North Front St. A traffic survey recently taken for 10 hours per day indicated that a total of 16,366 vehicles had passed over the bridge in a six-day period.

Council agreed there should be no parking on the south side of Dundas Street from MacDonald, east along the Bay View section, also that there be no parking on the west side of North Front St. from Moira to overhead bridge.

Paint Standards

Traffic lights and standards in the city will be painted yellow for easier visibility, it was decided.

The boulevard on Victoria Ave. from the radio station office to Pinnacle Street will be removed to widen the street at this point. Cost was estimated at $300.

Council also approved the construction of sanitary sewers in the Stanley, Russell and North MacDonald Ave. areas with installation of a pumping station.

Council voted for the purchase of a new street sweeper with debentures to be spread over a period of ten years. It was pointed out that the cost of the sweeper is not charged against the general rate but is assessed against property owners on paved streets. where the sweeper is used. Council accepted the offer of two firms to pay expenses of a committee to go to Detroit where both sweepers may be seen in operation.

Voting for the purchase of the sweeper were Alderman Allen, Armstrong, Butler, Deacon, Duffy, Haig, Lattimer, Thomas and Tice. Opposing were Mayor Allin, and Aldermen Argue, Clarke, Hyde and Liddle.

Korean Briefs

Canberra, June 30 — (Reuters) — Australia today announced that the R.A.A.F. 77th fighter squadron based in Japan has been made available for the Korean campaign. The squadron has about 40 mustangs.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said the decision answered a request by Gen. MacArthur and followed day-long talks by telephone and radio with ministers scattered throughout the commonwealth and with the British and United States governments.

The fighers would be placed at the service of the United Nations through the U.S. authorities.

"The United Nations, having decided to support the republic of Korea, the commonwealth, as a signatory to the charter is determined to honor its obligations to do what it can to support the security council's decision," he said.

In the meantime, plans for the return to Australia of Anglo-Australian commonwealth occupation troops in Japan were were in abeyance.

Taipei, June 30 — (AP) — Nationalist China today informed the United Nations it is taking steps to furnish "such assistance as is within" its power to the republic of Korea.

Trustworthy sources said the Chinese contribution would be three divisions and an unspecified number of air units.

London, June 30 — (Reuters)— Pakistan is expected to announce acceptance soon of the United Nations Security Council's resolution calling for assistance to South Korea, usually reliable sources said here today.

Strike Averted At McIntyre Gold Mine

Timmins, June 30—(CP)— A threatened strike at the McIntyre Porcupine gold mine at nearby Schumacher was averted Thursday when agreement was reached in a contract dispute between the mining company and the Porcupine Mine Workers Union (C.C.L.).

The union dropped a demand for a voluntary revocable dues checkoff, a major issue in the two-month dispute. The company agreed to changes in the pay structure to provide for wage increases and extended its holiday benefits.

Union officials said the company's 1,200 employees approved the pact at a mass meeting soon after the terms were announced.

A 15-cent hourly cost-of-living bonus now being paid will be incorporated into the wage structure, boosting the miners' rate from 85 cents to $1. The company agreed to pay an additional cost-of-living sum of up to seven cents according to a scale based on any future rise in the oficial cost-of-living index.

The contact also provides for a week's vacation for employees after one year's service and two weeks after five years. The company and union will explore jointly the possibility of setting up a pension plan to give retired employees $50 a month.

The miners will have four statutory holidays — Dominion Day, Christmas, New Year's and Labor Day—with double pay for any statutory holiday worked.

The wage, vacation, pension-study and holiday points were recommended by a conciliation board which studied the contract dispute. No agreement was reached on the issue of voluntary revocable checkoff of union dues, also recommended by the board.

The agreement was reached at a meeting called by municipal officials of Timmins and neighboring townships. It was attended by Balmer Neilly, president of McIntyre-Porcupine, and C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), which has C.C.L. jurisdiction for the Porcupine miners.

Police Believe Walker Leader Counterfeit Ring

Windsor, June 30—(CP)—Police said today they believe the man accused of the Langton bank-robbery murders was leader of a gang which turned out counterfeit 50-cent pieces in a downtown Windsor house.

They raided the house yesterday and seized several pails of the bogus coins. Equipment valued at between $5,000 and $10,000 also was carted to headquarters. The raid netted no suspects.

But police said investigation links the counterfeiting plant to a 37-year-old man named Herbert James McAuliffe. They said he is the man held at Simcoe on charges of robbing the Langton, Ont., branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada June 21 and of slaying Arthur Lierman and William Goddyn, farmers who overtook the killer as he fled.

The suspect, arrested last Saturday after a full-scale manhunt, game his name as Frank West. In court at Simcoe yesterday, as he was remanded to July 6, he identified himself as George Walker. Windsor authorities now say his real name is Herbert James McAuliffe.

Guns, Ammunition Found

Police said they also found seven pistols and automatic weapons in a barrel partly filled with sawdust, together with hundreds of rounds of ammunition. Some of the live shells were said to be the same calibre as the slugs which killed the two Langton farmers.

The investigation started when Emile Lezure, owner of a rooming house, recognized a picture of the man arrested for the Langton robbery and murder.

Lezure told police the man was McAuliffe, who had roomed at his home for the last 2½ months. Lezure told police that the man left June 19, two days before the murders, saying he was going to work at Colchester.

Police have not indicated that any arrests will be made as a result of the raid on the counterfeiting plant.

No estimate has been made on the number of coins seized. Police said none has been passed in Windsor and no reports of bogus 50-cent pieces have been received from other centres.

Campbellford Mayor Given Life Membership in Shrine Club at Social Evening

Mayor Ernie Ayrhart of Campbellford "the man who helped the club get its new home" was signally honored by the Belleville Shrine Club at a stag party last night, when he was presented with a life membership in the club.

The presentation was made in the Shrine's well-appointed club rooms on Highland Avenue before upwards of 200 Shriners of the city and district, and their guests.

Noble Lionel Crawford, Deloro, chairman of the board, who introduced Mayor Ayrhart, and made the presentation, said he had helped the club emerge from its humble abode on Campbell Street to its present fine building. "Club directors," he said, "felt they would be remiss not to show some sort of appreciation." He then presented Mayor Ayrhart with the life membership card.

Replying, the mayor reviewed the activities that preceded the acquisition of the present fine building saying that its success was due mainly to the driving force and spirit of its members." He was proud of the welcome he had received," he said, and "this is the proudest moment of my life. I will do anything I can to help the Belleville Shrine Club and the work it is doing for crippled children."

The clubrooms rang with "For He's a Jolly Goodfellow" and the conventional three cheers.

Carry on Work

Past President D. L. Storey acted as chairman for the party. Noble Russell Scott reminded members that the club's work with crippled children will be carried on to the fullest extent. He requested members to report deserving cases to the club officials. The annual caravans of crippled and underprivileged children to Toronto to see the Shrine circus will be undertaken again this year. He also reminded members that funds were needed, and any amount large or small will be gratefully accepted.

Noble Orliff Lloyd one of the party of Shriners who attended the recent Shrine Convention in Los Angeles gave the club and guests a brief outline of the trip.

"It was," he said, "the largest convention ever held in Shrinedom, consisting of business sessions, parades and a finale in the form of a splendid show staged in the huge Los Angeles Coliseum in which many leading film stars from Hollywood took part."

Visiting Nobles and their wives were greatly impressed by the splendor of the conference and the hospitality of "our American brothers."

Included in the party from Belleville were the following Shriners their wives and citizens. Noble and Mrs. Stan Lowe; Noble and Mrs. William Painter; Noble and Mrs. Jack Baker; Nobles, Charles Cawker, Fred Rawson, Tom Lewis, Doug. Maybe, Orliff Lloyd and Bert Farrar.

Many Stories Told

Ernie Bruce, well-known Toronto entertainer headed the show that followed the presentation and addresses. Bruce told several amusing stories and played instruments ranging from the bagpipes to a plastic whistle. He even turned a non-musical guest of the club into a temporary artist. His versatility along musical and entertainment lines was marked and he received a well-deserved ovation at the conclusion of the performance. Noble Charles Cawker's piano mastery was another highlight of the evening.

Refreshments were served following the entertainment.

Watchers Have Field Day As 'I' Beam Placed In Position

Sidewalk superintendents on Front St. had a field day Thursday afternoon. They watched a 1900 lb., 18 ft. "I" beam unloaded from a tractor trailer, and daintily dropped into the north doorway of the Ontario Intelligencer.

The beam, 24 inches deep through the "I" was shipped here from Gananoque for reconstruction inside the Ontario Intelligencer building. Part of the wall of the present newspaper front office is being knocked out so that office facilities can be expanded, and the beam will be used to strengthen the wall.

At the first stage on Front St., the beam was inside the trailer of a transport, resting on four-by-fours. Fifteen minutes later, it had been gently lifted and swung on to rollers inside the doorway.

Two clamps were slipped on either side of the top of the "I"; into the steel ring at the join of the clamps went a hook, and on the end of the hook was the boom of the huge Crane and Transit service truck. And just as easy as you lift your fork, the beam was lifted from the floor of the trailer and the crane moved it into the open. The trailer was driven away and while the pavement experts muttered in their beards, the beam hung in the air. "Got it slung wrong, hasn't he?" said one. "Nope, but the boom's too high," replied another.

And while the comments flew thick and fast, the crane was manouvered at right angles to the street and the beam aimed for the door. "He's going to smash that doorway all to pieces." "Still got the boom too high." "First thing he knows he'll knock that parking meter right into the river."

Inside the building, a roller was placed under the front end of the beam, the clamps were moved closer to the rear end, and 1900 lbs. slid just as easy as a knife through hot butter into the room.

Things were complicated considerably when a flustered lady driver tried to park her car close to the spot of unloading. She finally gave up and left the car across the driveway. Police supervision kept the traffic moving along the street, but motorists were all eyes on the way by.

A second roller was put under the steel, and the job was finished. Those who couldn't see that the beam was on rollers had the situation all solved. "Get a couple of crowbars, why dontcha?"

Last caustic comment heard was "How's a person supposed to get by on the street?" Nobody bothered to answer that one.

Toledo Couples Shaken up in Car Accident

Two Toledo, Ohio, couples were delayed in an intended flight to Scotland yesterday when they were involved in a motor accident near the Trenton Air Station. The party were driving to Montreal from where they expected to catch a Trans-Atlantic plane.

The accident occurred at the east end of the air station, when a car driven by John Bath of Toledo, with his wife and Mr and Mrs. F. Ross, also of Toledo as passengers, was in collision with a car driven by Stephen E. Schuweiler, member of the RCAF. Both cars were eastbound when Schuweiler turned left as the American car attempted to pass.

Second Escape From Burwash Brings Term

Sudbury, June 30 — (CP)—A second escape from Burwash Industrial Farm yesterday brought 23-year-old Henry Lariche a two-year sentence in Kingston Penitentiary. The term will run consecutively with a two-year sentence imposed in Sault Ste. Marie for breaking, entering and theft.

Escaping from the prison farm June 10 he was recaptured by guards 24 hours later on the shore of Lake Nepewassi, some six miles east of the jail farm.

Refusing to halt after a number of warning shots had been fired over his head, Lariche was brought down with a bullet in his right thigh. The wound was not serious.

He had previously escaped from Burwash in 1947 and was recaptured one month later in Toronto.

FLOW OF NAVAL HELP MAY AFFECT CANADA'S AID

Ottawa, June 30 — (CP) — A steady flow of naval contributions to the pool of United Nations armed forces for Korea today emerged as a potential new factor that may affect the form of any military aid Canada puts up. The see-saw battle itself is another.

Meanwhile, parliament prepared to prorogue today with assurance from External Affairs Minister Pearson that it will be recalled if the government thinks the international situation justifies recall. Probably only the imminence of general war would promote such a step.

One of the Commons' last debates of the session was a foreign-affairs discussion yesterday that heard strong new opposition support for the government's offer of aid to fight Northern Korean aggression. Mr. Pearson also announced that Canada's first step will be to send two military observers to serve on the U.N.'s Korean commission.

A high official source said last night that Canada has made no offer of specific military aid to her U.N. partners but is trying to find out from them what she could best provide. It is no secret that dispatch of several Pacific coast destroyers is one logical step under consideration.

Naval Help Piles Up

But as country after country announced its plan to contribute to the U.N. force to fight Northern Korean aggression, the naval contributions piled up. Not only elements of the fleets of the United States and Britain are involved but Australia, New Zealand and The Netherlands have pitched in that way too.

Further, they are near at hand. Canada's destroyers, three of them ready to sail soon on a European cruise, are thousands of miles away. It all adds up to a possibility that Canada's destroyers may not be wanted.

In Korea, the battle front has tended to quick and radical changes. It is the sort of war that could change military needs quickly.

The tenor of Commons debate was unanimous approval of Canaian intervention — with one emphatic exception.

Jean Francois Pouliot (L-Temiscouata) said Mr. Pearson shouldn't have "run to" the Security Council to offer Canada's aid. He blasted Canada's "warmongering" press.

Mayor Ayrhart to Develop New Gold-Mining Property In Northern Quebec District

The man who mushroomed $1,000 into more than a cool million in 14 months in the gold-fertile areas of Northern Quebec is back in harness again.

He is 50-year-old Stirling-born Ernie Ayrhart, mayor of Campbellford, whose meteoric rise from a "mucker" in a gold mine to a millionaire made the headlines from coast to coast a few years ago.

Some years ago, he relinquished his holdings in Northern Quebec and returned to his adopted village where he became its mayor.

But the call of the gold 'wild' has proved too strong. Now he is back at the job that brought him face and fortune — the development of mining properties.

Outlines Plans

In an exclusive interview with the Ontario Intelligencer last night, Mayor Ayrhart outlined his plans for what he believes will be a large development in Northern Quebec.

He has acquired holdings in the Chicougama district, situated northwest of Quebec City and 300 miles from the Val d'Or mine, a familiar name to Ayrhart. He has organized two companies which will start operations in the immediate future.

"In fact," he said, "my brother Harry Ayrhart and Lyle Hendrix, a mining engineer formerly of Campbellford, will fly full equipment from Val d'Or into Chicougama on Saturday."

He predicted that by the end of summer over sixty diamond drills will be in action in the Chicougama district.

Big Development

The present world situation, he said. with its threat of war, has resulted in the biggest development of all resources in Quebec with the spotlight of gold-mining activities centred on Chicougama.

Development of this area, Ayrhart said, was aided immeasurably by the construction of a 4 1-2 million dollar highway 195 miles in length, stretching from Quebec city to Ste. Feliciene. Formerly inaccessibility of the district except by air and broken trail, prevented any large-scale development activities completely. The new provincial highway cuts directly through the Chicougama district. Plans are under way for the construction of another highway from the west which will link the area with Chicougama.

Continues Municipal Duties

Asked if his new activities would interfere with his municipal duties in Campbellford, Mayor Ayrhart said, "I still have and always will have an outstanding interest in the people of Campbellford and my duties as their mayor. I have not missed a council meeting this year, and I do not intend to."

The story of Ernie Ayrhart reads, perhaps, like a script from a movie. Born in Stirling 50 years ago, he moved with his parents to Campbellford when he was twelve years of age.

Later he became associated with the Aluminum Company of Canada, remaining with it for eight years. Then he took the distributing rights for Northern Quebec for a certain product — and went broke.

That was in 1932 and in order to keep the wolf from the door he obtained a job as a "mucker" in a gold mine. Little did he know at the time, that the pick-and shovel job was to lead him to wealth.

Rose Steadily

From the humble mucker he steadily rose to timbering, machining and pump man. Then he took a header at prospecting and he was on his way. His next step was financing.

His choice of all these jobs, he says, is prospecting. "You meet all kinds of people and get to know the ground and what is in it. It is said that the mining fraternity in Quebec dubbed Ayrhart and the late Jim Norrie of East Malartic, as "the only two men in Quebec who could smell gold."

Speaking of present world conditions, Ayrhart said he could not realize why a disturbance such as that in Korea should start a little panic and cause people to liquidate their assets and depress the market. "To me," he said, "they are selling themselves and their country short."

Not Lost Faith

He intends, he went on, to go ahead as if nothing had happened. "I have not lost faith in the country because of a disturbance in the Far East."

"The natural resources of the country are worth as much now as they ever were. Copper, gold and base metals are in abundance and without these things wars cannot be won. So why lose faith?" he said.

Mayor Ayrhart flew to Belleville in a chartered plane from Montreal last night to attend a party given in his honor by the Belleville Shrine Club which presented him with a life membership. He returned to Montreal this morning.

British People Well-Fed And Well-Clothed Says T.D. Ruston in Describing Trip

Coincident with their 50th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Ruston recently returned from their latest trip to England. For Mrs. Ruston, it was the fifth trip "over 'ome," and for Mr. Ruston, this made the third time. Since coming to Canada in 1909, Mrs. Ruston has made trips across the Atlantic in 1913, 1914, 1923, 1934, and 1950. Mr. Ruston's jaunts came in 1912 1937, and 1950.

This time, the trip took three months. The Rustons left from New York early in April by H.M.S. Franconia, landing in Liverpool. The return trip was made on R.M.S. Ascania, docking in Montreal. While in England, the Rustons visited their birthplace to visit with relatives and old friends, and both found "not much change" in their old stamping grounds. "Biggest changes were in London and the larger cities," Mr. Ruston said, "where effects of the blitz were still in evidence."

One of the hazards of the trip, strangely enough, came as they docked in Canada. Each had to have a vaccination because of smallpox, and both still sport great sore lumps on their upper arms.

Mr. Ruston emphasized that they could find no evidence that the British people were hard put. "They are well-fed and well-clothed," he said, "and rationing doesn't interfere too much with their lives." He added that only butter, tea, meat, sugar and sweets are rationed now.

Not as High

Offsetting the decrease in rationing hardships are the terrific prices of semi-luxuries. Pipe tobacco, Mr. Ruston said, is about $1.25 per ounce, one quarter of a pound of candies costs what a pound does in Canada, but the standard of living does not compare with Canada's.

Only family affairs will make them go to England again, the Ruston's say. Mr. Ruston has an 81-year-old sister there, and he says that misfortune to her will be his only reason for returning. Mrs. Ruston echoed with "England's beautiful beyond description, but Canada's the best by far."

"Rail service in England has deteriorated and fares have skyrocketed until train travel is out of the question," Mr. Ruston said. They travelled by bus over most of the country and found the service fine. "You can describe the trains in England in four words," they said, "dark, dreary, dismal and dirty."

Most striking thing to Mr. Ruston was that "England is going pagan." "Churches are deserted on Sunday," he said, with everyone moving to the beaches, the races, football matches and theatres. He recalled his childhood when the polishing of shoes on Sunday was a sin and a call for punishment. "Now it's wide open," he said.

Sparing Rod May Send Junior To Hospital

Montreal — (CP) — Sparing the rod and spoiling the child is probably the greatest source of children's accidents, doctors at the Montreal Children's Memorial Hospital say.

The doctors said that usually more than 60 per cent of the hospital's 174 beds are occupied by victims of preventable accidents—creating a dangerous shortage of beds for regular functions.

The doctors, Dudley Ross, chief surgeon; Alton Goldbloom, chief physician and W. G. Breckenridge, orthopdeic specialist, are unanimous in support of spanking to emphasize parents' advice if accidents are to be prevented.

Policemen should scold children now and then if they do potentially dangerous things, the doctors said.

"Some times the man in blue has more influence than parents," Dr. Breckenridge noted.

The doctors said their advice to spank would probably be disregarded anyway and outlined a few precautions to minimize children's accidents.

Already Read Labels

"Read the label on any bottle before giving a child some of its contents," cautioned Dr. Goldbloom.

"If a child swallows lye get him to hospital immediately," said Dr. Ross. "Sometimes parents feel the child will recover because there is little pain and swallowing is possible. The very opposite is true."

"Don't let children run with pencils or pointed objects in their mouths," warned Dr. Breckenridge. "A fall means a perforated palate."

Dr. F. M. Woolhouse, plastic surgeon, urged parents to make children wear protective masks when catching at baseball and similar sports.

All agreed that galleries, roofs and windows should be screened or fenced to protect youngsters from falls.

"And watch electrical outlets where they can poke things into them," they warned.

"The only thing we can do is urge parents to be careful and recommend the axiom "spare the rod and spoil the child," the doctors concluded.

MAY REVISE POLICY

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, June 30—(Reuters) — Lt. Gen. Harold Briggs, Britain's anti-guerrilla leader in Malaya, said today Korean events might cause Britain to revise her projected policy of recognizing the Chinese communist regime.

"Revision of that policy should have a very beneficial effect in Malaya," he added.

He said he had no information concerning mobilization in Malaya or diversion to Japan of royal navy units now engaged in Malayan coastal operations.

4,000 Volts Pass Thru Boy's Body, He Will Recover

Hull, Que., June 30 (CP) — Richard Collard, nine, is alive after experiencing the worst shock in his young life.

The youngster climbed a power pole to reach a bird's nest last night. His arm touched a high tension line and 4,000 volts of electricity coursed through his body.

Richard toppled 20 feet to the ground after the high voltage charge entered his upper left arm muscle and burned a hole the size of a 10-cent piece in his flesh. It then travelled through his body and came out from his left hand, leaving a second hole the size of a large nail.

Rushed to hospital, young Richard was found to be suffering from deep shock and burns, but hospital authorities described his condition as good and said he will recover.

Ramsay Paints Score Upset By Defeating Plumbers 8-4

Carl "Buck" Young, a hurler, who has always had plenty of speed and not too much control had both working to perfection Thursday evening, as Ramsay Paints unhinged Howe and Hagerman's redoubtable plumbers 8-4 in a Commercial Softball League A game at the Alemite Field. It was the plumbers first loss in four starts this season.

The Painters, greatly strengthened by the addition of Carl Marsh as catcher, were at full value for the win. Except for a tendency for the fielders to respect the plumbers bludgeons too much in the early innings by playing so deep that normal outs went for extra base hits, the Painters threw up a solid defence. With Young using lots of stuff, and the fielders moved in closer, the plumbers managed to get just three safeties from the fourth inning on.

The first serious injury of the current campaign came in the sixth frame when Howe and Hagerman catcher Don Adams suffered a split forefinger. It is not known how long he will be sidelined by the injury.

Painters Open Scoring

The Painters opened the scoring in the top of the first frame counting twice. Charlie Peters led off with a walk and was sacrificed to second by Scanlon. F. Baldwin popped out to first, and then Lyle Wannamaker singled to right field to score Peters, taking second on the relay to the plate. Ross Empey tagged one to score Wannamaker and Moore flied out to right field to end the inning.

The Plumbers came back in their end of the first to count three of their four runs on doubles by Ed Donovan and Cliff Doyle and singles by Harry Wardaugh and Marty Fitzgibbon. A long blast by Spafford was misjudged by leftfielder Holland and went for three bases. Howe and Hagerman scored their final run in the third on a single by Ed Donovan and a double by Marty Fitzgibbon. With two away Bawden singled to centre field. Fitzgibbon was thrown out at the plate by a wide margin by Wannamaker who rifled a strike to the plate in the picture play of the game.

Put Game Away

After scoring once in the third frame, and once in the fifth, Ramsay's put the game away with a four run rally in the sixth.

Holland walked to start the inning and moved to second as Young singled to right field. Charlie Peters crossed up the Plumbers with a perfect bunt to load the bases. That was all for Howe and Hagerman, starter John Bawden and Bob Hunter came in to relieve. John Scanlon took first as Holland was forced at the plate. Frank Baldwin then teed off on the first pitch served to him for a triple to centre field to score three runs. Hunter wild pitched to let Baldwin score. Hunter bore down to retire the side on strikeouts.

"Buck" Young went all the way on the hill for the winners walking one, striking out two, and being nicked for 11 hits and four runs. Bawden started for the losers and in five innings walked three, struck out three and gave up nine hits for six runs and the loss. Bob Hunter went the rest of the way in relief, walking two, striking out four and giving up two hits for two runs.

Outstanding for the winners was centrefielder Lyle Wannamaker with a triple, a double, and two singles in five trips, and an airtight defensive performance in the outer gardens.

The Kibitzer

Of a gain, by his feat of some clever deceit, you can hear him recount by the hour. But you learn not a word from this garrulous bird, of the numerous ones that went sour.

Master players know well all the rules of leads. So, brilliant defenders can deduce when a standard lead may be futile. This is why some of their adroit false leads are comparatively sound.

Deceptive leads by others is a losing proposition. Their safest policy is to follow a set of sound rules known by their pair. This forms the basis of co-operation that is bound to gain them most.

Before deciding which suit and which card from it to lead, a player should know which suit or suits not to lead. There are two such don'ts. One of them is: Don't lead a suit bid by opponents.

If the declarer or his partner had bid spades the opening lead should not be a spade. If declarer or his partner had bid spades and hearts, opening leader should not lead a spade or a heart.

If the declarer or his partner had bid spades and hearts and diamonds, the opening leader should lead a club. Providing, of course, there is no objection to leading a club.

South is declarer at four hearts when north and south had bid hearts and spades. West should not lead a spade or a heart from the hand shown here:

♠Q 7 6
♦Q 9 6 3
♣Q 9 6 3

You hear players recommend the lead of a suit that dummy has bid if declarer has refused to assist it. This is as sound as shoving your fist in the mouth of a lion because you have not yet seen his teeth.

Such a lead is one of the first signs of bridge ignorance. By all means avoid leading any suit bid by either opponent, even by the dummy hand. It is one of the cardinal principles of bridge.

Fools gawk where angels fear to lead.

Playwright Pair Construct Plays From Newsy Items

By MARK BARRON

New York — (AP) — Bella Spewack and her husband, Samuel Spewack, are two former newspaper reporters who learned how to take inconsequential news items and pyramid them into a fortune.

The plots of their plays begin as items which they probably would have written into a compact single paragraph in the days when they were top flight reporters for the old "New York World." Now successful in show business, they have expanded those small personal stories they covered as reporters into such full-length show hits as their "Two Blind Mice," "Boy Meets Girl," and "Clear All Wires."

"Two Blind Mice," following its long run on Broadway, is playing in Chicago with Melvin Douglas still in the starring role. Their "Boy Meets Girl" and "Clear All Wires," both of which had long runs on Broadway, are now booked in stock and municipal theatres in several cities.

A pertinent point about a play the Spewacks write is that it is not confusing or complicated. Too, their plays do not have involved or expensive scenery and the cast of players is small.

"A stage setting can come between a play and an audience," Mrs. Spewack said. "You can get a tremendous amount of scenery on a stage, something like one of those luxurious Hollywood film productions. And, in doing this, you lose the whole point of the story you want to tell."

That explains why their current Broadway musical comedy hit, "Kiss Me, Kate," probably has less scenery and other trappings in it than any musical show that has been seen on the Rialto in years.

Backstage Setting

"Kiss Me, Kate" combines portions of Shakespearean scenes with a modern story about a theatrical company playing "The Taming of the Shrew." All the audience sees are a few inexpensive stage props and settings strewn about the stage.

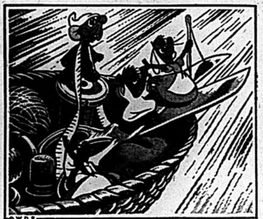
Mrs. Spewack explained that she and her husband are not the only ones who have used this interesting, if inexpensive, method of presenting a show. She recalled Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," which was played mostly on an almost bare stage when it was a Broadway hit back in 1939.

I long ago became convinced that the only way to confound a member of the feminine sex is to change the subject of conversation and ask a quick question. This method has never failed me —up to now.

I quickly broke into our conversation and asked which show she has written has given her most pride. I expected her to mention either "Two Blind Mice" or "Kiss Me, Kate."

Instead, she said she was most proud of a play she wrote called "Spring Song." A tragedy, it was a failure on Broadway because it ran only six weeks. But, she likes it best and that only proves "there is nothing like a dame."

AT THE CAPITOL — Richard Todd and Jane Wyman in a tense moment from "Stage Fright," new Warner Bros. thriller directed by Alfred Hitchcock. The film opens Monday, July 3rd., at the Capitol Theatre, for its first Belleville showing.



AT THE McCARTHY—Mouse Modistes. A diligent crew of tiny folk labors to fashion emergency party attire for Walt Disney's poorly clad heroine in "Cinderella," all-cartoon magical musical in color by Technicolor, which provides a challenge to his previous big hit, Snow White. Six hit tunes add melody to the show. "Cinderella" is now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 30 (AP) — Allied servicemen were disillusioned in the Second World War to discover that the South Pacific was not like Dorothy Lamour movies. Maybe that's because they didn't get to Tahiti.

Charles Mauu, a Tathitian chief, says the South Sea movies look like home to him.

"We have four movie theatres in Tahiti," said the husky 31-year-old prince. "The people like those pictures with Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland. They didn't seem exaggerated at all."

Mauu, son of a chief and descendant of the Bounty survivors of Pitcairn Island, described his 1,000 acres of ocean frontage at Tahiti:

"We grow everything and from the ocean we can get shrimp, crab and any other kind of fish. The weather is perfect the year around. It rains a little, but that makes everything green.'

But are there any girls to match Dottie Lamour?

And Girls Too

"Oh, yes," he replied. "There are many, many beautiful girls in the islands. And they are very friendly. They wear sarongs, or in the bigger towns, dresses made from sarongs. Not many of them go around without tops any more as they do in Bali."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

PRACTICALLY ALL DESSERT!

Jumping jackasses, socking soccerists, pile-driving pachyderms, blasting baseballers and moaning mushballers will form the sports bill of fare over the holiday weekend.

A variable menu, egad, one that should satisfy the Joes and Janes who will be city-confined, and keep the mill-thumping sports writers' metacarpal extensions in a fair-to-middling state of flexibility.

Let's see. Tomorrow evening this department will hitch up its collective britches, act as the key man in the weekly financial double play: from the boss to us to the little woman — (if you make an error, the hit-and-run is on), and start the weekend sports whirl.

MEET THE "SPANIARDS"

Saturday night in the Exhibition Grounds, behind the Parks Board palisades, the onrushing Batawa Shoemen clash with their enemies from "Spain", the Picton Athletics in a Central Ontario Baseball League fixture. Lootenant Colonel Ron Church's choir boys have not been doing so well of late in spite of the fact that their demon public relations bloke, one Ronald Algermon Bevin Sivel insists they can beat anything in the league providing they are at full strength. By that, we presume he means, with the addition of Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Yup, the Pictonians following a brief upsurge of three straight victories have dropped back into the dungeon depot while the Batawans by virtue of a virus of new life infiltrating their bludgeons, have won their last three starts and are now crowding the first division teams.

NAPANEE HERE TONIGHT

Tonight the Shoemen meet the Napanee Athletics who are slipping, it seems, into a bit of a slump. They have lost their last two games and the onrushing Smith's Falls Royals who have suddenly developed a yen for the right end of the score, are perched proudly on top of the loop heap.

'Twill be the Gibbardville crew's first visit to this village and they will be in no mood to be trifled with. As was mentioned before they have tasted the goblet of defeat in their last two appearances and are not altogether in the seventh heaven because of their dislodgement from the top slot. So- - - -, it should be a right nifty spot of diamond pastiming come moontime this evening.

SHOULD BE A RIPPER!

While all this is going on, Whipper Billy Watson and Ray Villmer, buzz-saws of the rassling mill will be at each other's figurative throats in what should be the fastest bout ever canvassed in Memorial Arena.

Two of the most outstanding stars in the sport today, Watson and Villmer stress speed, cleverness and all-out drive in their matches. There will be action aplenty when these two flying powerhouses collide in the ring.

* * *

Timothy Geohagen, the sensational Irish strong-man grappler, will be in the semi-final against Bob "Strangler" Wagner the Portland cement-mixer. If Geohagen can add to his impressive record by a win over the hardy, rugged Strangler, he'll have made a big step forward towards establishing himself as a topnotcher in this country as he is in his native country. In the opener, Toar Morgan will have a big order in trying to down huge Jim "Goon" Henry.

WHICH IS WHICH?

Tomorrow afternoon at Exhibition Grounds the Kiwanis Club is staging its donkey baseball game. A team of fire-eating stalwarts from the City Fire Department will match wits with a squadron of doughty Kiwanians and drop - kicking jackasses. This sports innovation is one of the funniest extant and a large crowd, no doubt, will take in the excruciatingly funny antics, of both the riders and the refugees from Death Valley prospectors' corrals. In addition, the game might definitely settle that age-old argument: Which has more brains, a man or a mule? No feminine comment is necessary. As one spouse remarked: "The only difference I can see is the length of the ears."

WELL PLAYED SIR!

Soccer lovers get a special spot of holiday fare too. On Saturday evening the starry Toronto Celtic team will be here for a match with the Bay of Quinte League All-Star selection. The Queen City squad is rated as one of the best in the province and there is no doubt soccer fandom will see a finished display of its favorite game. The kick-off is timed for 6:30 so if you want to see soccer "as she should be played" better take in this match.

* * *

And there's the sport menu for the weekend. There's a spot of everything for everybody, and if you are not satisfied, you can always go fishing, picnicking or sponge a meal or two off the in-laws.

Pleasant holiday, and all that, you know.

WANNA BET?

Charlie Murphy, Northern Electric hopper-outer from aircraft comes up, or goes out with a startling innovation at Crystal Beach on Sunday at 4 p. m. Blindfolded before he takes off, Murphy will leap from 3,000 feet, and pull the rip-cord at 500 feet. Yipe! Charlie does a lot of figuring during his descent but how he figures to pay that bet that he does not make it, is more than we can figure.

Williams Greatest Student Of Baseball in Major Loops

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston, June 30 — (AP)—Ted Williams, the highest paid player in baseball, probably is the greatest student of the game. The Boston Red Sox slugger works at it, plays it, thinks it, lives it.

When he's in a batting slump he practises for hours. He'll resume this after the game.

He'll stand for an hour in front of a mirror swinging a bat.

Ted knows more about opposing pitchers than any manager. He has become somewhat of a meteorologist. He studies the wind and air currents. He has made a study of the pitching mounds in every ball park.

During the eight years that Ted has worn the Red Sox uniform, prior to this season, he has never failed to finish at the top or close to the top in those all - important departments of batting—average, home runs, runs bated in and total bases.

He has been four times winner of the batting crown, is possessor of the third highest batting average in the history of the game, four times runs-batted-in leader, four times home - run champion, five times leader in runs and perhaps, most significant, six times leader in walks received.

Great Pair of Eyes

What makes Williams so great a hitter?

He has the keenest eyes (brownish green)) in baseball. United States Navy doctors said his eyes would occur only six times in 100,000 persons.

Williams has schooled himself not to swing if a ball is a fraction of an inch outside the plate.

He is deceptively fast afield. He has a true if not powerful arm. He is a good judge of a fly ball.

He is accused at times of not hustling and he resents that charge.

"I always hustle," he said. "I have no use for anybody who doesn't."

The men who play alongside Williams, and against him, admire and like him. This chorus of approval is significant when regarded against the background of his feuds with baseball writers and baseball fans.

Not a single Red Sox player had an unkind word for Ted.

Williams never has had an argument on the field either with an opposing player or an umpire. He's never been ejected from a ball game. Opposition players ride him but only good-naturedly.

Elmira Student First Winner Calder Trophy

Brantford, Ont., June 30 (CP)—Earle Weichel, 19-year-old high school student at Elmira near Kitchener, is the first winner of a trophy awarded by the Western Ontario Sports Writers' Association in memory of Jack Calder, a former member killed overseas in the Second World War.

Alan Rose, association president and sports editor of the Brantford Expositor, announced the selection today. Weichel was chosen as an outstanding athlete and student who best exemplified the qualities which Calder showed in his own career.

The trophy, to be awarded annually to a high school student in southwestern Ontario, will be presented to Weichel in the fall. He will receive a rose bowl as a permanent memento.

Calder was a member of the association when sports editor of the Chatham News. He was Ontario editor and sports writer with the Canadian Press at Toronto when he joined the RCAF early in the war. He was killed in 1944.

Weichel has been a member of the Elmira school's football and basketball teams for three seasons, being captain of the football squad in 1949. He played on the town's junior hockey team last season and captained the midget team which won the Ontario championship in 1947.

Outstanding Track Star

Weichel is an outstanding track and field performer, competing in the 100 and 200-yard dashes, the hop, step and jump and the running broad jump. He was intermediate interscholastic champion in 1947 and has been junior, intermediate and senior champion in his own school.

He was named the outstanding athlete in the Highland Games at Ripley, Ont., in 1948 and the same year set record in the intermediate broad jump at the Waterloo College Invitation Games. He was a member of the relay team which set a meet record at the college games. He also was on a relay team which ran the mile in record time at the Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association meet at London.

A good student, he had an 'A' average during the last year. He commands the high school cadet corps, is assistant conductor of the high school orchestra, heads the high school glee club, sings bass in the school's male quartet, plays a trombone in a town dance orchestra and is a member of the Elmira Veterans Bugle Band.

His father, O. W. (Mike) Weichel, Elmira postmaster, was an outstanding hockey and baseball player until wounds received in the First World War ended his athletic career.

4 Games Produce 17 Home Runs In International

By The Associated Press

International League pitchers wondered today if the circuit has purchased a carload of "rabbit balls" from their Major League brethren.

The hurlers were doing a pretty good job of curbing the home-run craze until last night.

Led by Garden Gillenwater and Syracuse Chiefs, four games produced 17 home runs to jack the total to date to 415. Last year 487 four-baggers were in the books at this stage.

Gillenwater belted three home runs—making five for the season—and drove in nine runs to lead the Chiefs to a 16-6 victory over Buffalo Bisons. One of Gillenwater's blows came with the bases loaded. Eddie Shokes, Elbie Flint and Gerry Burmeister also homered for the Chiefs and Gene Markland for the Bisons.

The last player to dive in nine runs in a game was Anse Moore against Syracuse, June 20.

Home runs by Russ Derry, Eon Bollweg and Del Wilber enabled the pace-setting Rochester Red Wings to subdue Springfield Cubs 8-3. The loss was Springfield's 10th straight and it dropped them into a fifth-place tie with Syracuse.

The victory enabled the Wings to stretch their lead to two games over the second-place Montreal Royals, who dropped a 7-3 decision to Baltimore Orioles.

Babe Barna paced the Orioles' nine-hit attack with a pair of home runs. Montreal's Turk Lown gave the Orioles a big lift by walking 11 batters before he was removed in the seventh inning. Lefty Bill Kennedy stopped the Royals on seven safeties to hang up his seventh victory.

Toronto edged Jersey City Giants 5-3 on a two-run, 10th inning homer by Bill Glynn. Glynn unloaded with two out to send rookie George Spencer down to his first defeat after seven triumphs. Ed Sanicki also homered for the Leafs and Pete Pavelick and Chet Laabs for the Giants.

Batting—Ted Williams, Red Sox: Drove in six runs with homer and double in Boston's 22-14 victory over Philadelphia, boosting season R.B.I. total to 80.

Pitching—Bob Rush, Cubs: Pitched 10th complete game of season for ninth victory 6-1, limiting St. Louis to five hits.

Williams Socks Apple in Three Games With A's

Philadelphia, June 30 (AP)—Ted Williams supplied the answer today to the question:: What makes a baseball player worth $125,000 a year?

In a three-game series against Philadelphia Athletics, here is what he did: :

Hit three home runs and two doubles, scored four runs and batted in 10.

By going six for 14, Williams boosted his batting average to .324.

Williams' three homers gave him 24 for the season, in 62 games. Babe Ruth, in his 60-homer year, hit his 24th in his 60th game.

By batting in 10 runs, Williams hoisted his American League-leading total to 80. Lou Gehrig holds the league record of 184, set in 1931. Stan Hack of Chicago Cubs owns the major league mark, 190, in 1930.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, June 30 (AP)—The starneepaups for the 1950 major league all-star game are pretty well settled, though late ballots could make a few changes by tomorrow. And it is gratifying to see the number of new names on the list. . Not that we have anything against the veterans, especially if their names happen to be Stan Musial, Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams and Country Slaughter, but the voting setup favors the guys with long-established reputations.

MOTH-PROOFING

Up to 1945, more than 1,000 patents for moth-proofing agents were issued in the United States and Canada.

Boston Red Sox Making Mark as Up-and-Coming Team of 1950 Campaign

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Nobody ever will forget the 1950 Boston Red Sox.

How Ted Williams and company ground the record book to bits. How the Sox raced up and down the scale from heroes to bums and back in the glorious month of June, losing a manager and wound up on the last day of the month struggling in fourth place in the American League, seven games off the pace.

Take yesterday's 22-14 wrestle with Philadelphia A's. Never before in the American League had two clubs run up 36 runs in a nine-inning game.

But even with a seven-game streak going, the Sox are fourth behind Detroit, New York and Cleveland. And they trail the Tigers by 10 games on the all-important losing side.

In the weird adventure at Shibe Park yesterday Boston scored six runs in the first inning, the A's four. At the end of two innings it was 14-7. And no home runs until the seventh when Williams hit his 24th with a man on. That was the only homer of the day.

Williams made the most of the afternoon, driving in six runs with his double and homer. Now his R.B.I. total is 80 in 2 games. When Lou Gehrig set the league record in 1931 he drove in 184 for the season.

Break Another Record

Al Papai, second of four Red Sox pitchers, was the winner over Bob Hooper, first of five Philadelphia throwers. The clubs raked the nine pitchers for a total of 34 hits and drew 21 walks. They scored at least once in 13 of the 18 half innings, also breaking a record.

Williams' double in the ninth drove in two runs to smash the record. The old high for the American of 35 runs also was set by the Red Sox and A's in 1901. It had been tied three times.

Detroit maintained its 4½-game lead over New York, as both lost. Young Bob Cain of Chicago White Sox survived a shaky first inning to trim the Tigers 7-3. Sid Hudson also weathered a first-inning blast to give Washington a 12-7 verdict over the Yanks.

Steve Gromek set down St. Louis with six hits while Cleveland raped Duane Pillette for a 4-1 night-game victory. It was the tribe's 13th win in their last 16 starts.

Brooklyn retained its half-game lead in the National while losing to New York 11-5. Vern Bickford helped the Dodgers by pitching Boston to a 3-2 night decision over the Phillies.

Chicago hung another loss on St. Louis Cardinals 6-1, behind Bob Rush's five-hitter. Hank Sauer's 14th homer was the big gun in the nine-hit attack on losers Al Brazle and Fred Martin.

U.S. Defeats England 1-0 For Soccer Title

(By The Canadian Press)

The United States defeated England 1-0 Tuesday to add the latest and biggest upset in the world soccer championships at Belo Horizonte, Brazil.

The favored British team and the spectators were stunned by the result. The lone tally of the match was scored by Ed Souza of Fall River, Mass., at 39 minutes of the first half.

Brazilian fans swarmed onto the field after the United States victory and took the Americans on their shoulders while the losers were given an ovation.

The British forwards were uncertain in aiming for goals, but their general play appeared superior to that of the winners except on the scoreboard.

Walt (Lefty) Wilson star southpaw of the St. Thomas Legion Intercounty baseball team was operated upon for an acute appendix Thursday.

Wilson, one of the mainstays of the team's hurling staff was reported by hospital authorities Thursday night as resting comfortably.

Shooting a one over par 69, Lyle Compeau of Tillsonburg topped the fourth annual Stedelbauer Trophy Day program at the Tillsonburg Golf and Country Club Tuesday. About 135 Western Ontario golfers took part.

In second spot and winner of the Calvert Trophy was Jack Pullen of St. Thomas with a 72.

Internationally and nationally known speedboat drivers have signified intention in the Valleyfield, Quebec annual regatta July 1 and 2.

Entries so far received in the outboard class include Chester Olcott of Dover, N.H., who last year set the best average speed of 54 miles an hour, and in the inboard class, Sid Street of Kansas City, Mo., who set a Canadian record of 75.4 miles an hour last year, will be back. Others include Ed. Pine of Belleville, Ont., and John Haineault, Cornwall, Ont.

Gus Murray, General Manager of the Galt Terriers of the Ontario Intercouty Baseball League, has been signed as Ontario scout for the New York Giants of the National League.

Murray will attend Giants' spring training camp at Sandford, Fla., next March and will take along any talent he may have scouted.

Donald Campbell, son of the late speed king, Sir Malcolm Campbell, said Tuesday in England he has completed secret modifications to his speedboat Bluebird II and now is ready for an assault on the world's speedboat record.

DAVIS CUPPER

George Robinson, Montreal doubles star, has been named a member of Canada's Davis Cup team to oppose Australia in the first-round American zone tie in Montreal July 14-16. "Ride, Him, Donkey Boy". Tomorrow afternoon the Kiwanis Club is staging its Donkey Baseball Game at Exhibition Grounds where the Firemen take on the Clubmen. Both clubs will be aboard individual four-legged battle wagons of the burro class, and what will happen when battle is joined should not be missed. The jacks are nobody's fools when it comes to baseball and although they kick a lot about decisions none is ever thrown out of the game. Donkey Baseball is sure-fire laugh material and it will be well worth the price of admission to see the local fire-eating Gene Autreys and Kiwanis Hopalongs mount their lop-eared steeds and go into baseball action. Game starts at 2:30.

Fox Hunt Will Be Feature Of Toronto Show

Toronto, June 29 — (CP) — Folks browsing around the east-end Woodbine track Saturday night needn't be startled if they hear strange noises. It will just be a massed chorus of baying hounds.

Yes, they're bringing the hunt into Toronto, a closing ceremony feature of the three-day 50th annual horse show, the oldest annual show of its kind on the North American continent. The thing will be done up in the traditional old-English style.

The Master of the Hounds and his fellow huntsmen in pinks and 14 couple of hounds (this means 28 dogs, but hunt-wise citizens simply say "14 couple") will range all over Woodbine's infield. The only thing lacking is the fox. The dogs get a hunk of meat after the "chase."

The whole show, which opens today, will have a rural setting. Some of it comes natural with the grass infield and Lake Ontario lapping up close to the southern section of the 1-2 mile-long park. The remainder of the landscape has been carted into the park by truck.

There will be such things as the hog's back, French Oxer and Double Oxer, railway gate, birch rails with a two-inch brush and, of course, a picket fence. These are the various jumps, ranging from 3 1-2 to four feet in height and from three to seven feet in width.

The show has an all-time high entry list of 156 horses from various points of Ontario and Quebec and also from Buffalo, N.Y., and Beverley Hills, Calif.

Spectators will see some of the best riders in Canada—the men who have banded together to give the country its first Olympic equestrian team. They hope to go to the Helsinki Olympics in 1952.

A highlight of the show will be the "Prix Caprili" test, similar to Olympic equestrain regulations. Trained horses will go through intricate steps and manoeuvres without apparent urging from the riders.

This entails walking (not running) to specified points on the course, totting and cantering to other marked spots, jumping, turning and coming to a dead halt. It is the most exacting routine of any horse event and requires at least three years' steady practice by both rider and horse.

HOLIDAYS AT AN END

Britain Attempts To Win Track Meet Over U.S.

London, June 29 — (AP) — Britain is throwing its best miler and an atom scientist into an attempt to win an international track meet over United States athletes here Saturday.

The contest sends the Oxford-Cambridge athletes against a combined Cornell-Princeton team at White City Stadium.

It will be their 11th meeting since the series started in Princeton in 1921. Cornell-Princeton won last year's contest in the United States, 9 to 4. The 13 event meeting is scored by events only.

A win by Oxford-Cambridge Saturday would tie the series at five apiece, with one draw.

Oxford's Roger G. Bannister won the mile last year, and the British fans think he will do it again.

Bannister fans believe he is Britain's outstanding prospect for the next (1952) Olympic games.

The Oxford-Cambridge atom scientist entry is Louis W. Davies of Oxford, the British team's No. 2 high jumper. He has been doing research work on atoms while collecting his degree.

Britain also expects John C. M. Wilkinson of Oxford to rack up a point or two. Wilkinson is ranked as the No. 1 European sprinter, being maybe a shade better at 220 yards than over the 100.

On a curved track, he has been clocked at 21.5 seconds for the 220.

Waterloo Tigers Lose to London By 5 to 3 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

The league-leading Waterloo Tigers of the Intercounty Baseball League lost 5-3 last night to London Majors while the tail-end Guelph Maple Leafs beat Galt Terriers 8-2.

At London Bob Albertson right hand from Dearborn, Mich., gave up nine scattered hits for the Majors but was in control all the way. Al Doumouchelle started for the Tigers but was replaced in the seventh by Pat Boehmer who held the Majors hitless for the last two frames. Doumouchelle gave up six hits.

Majors took an early lead in the second when Tim Burgess knocked his third homer of the season with one on base. A single in the fourth and two in the fifth sewed up the game. Tigers scored twice in the seventh and once in the eighth.

At Galt George Patte went all the way for his second win of the season. Bill Leader started for Galt but was replaced by Jim Bagby in the third.

Everybody on the Guelph team at least had one hit including Oscar Judd who was honored before the game with a presentation from old-time fans. Judd hit a triple and a single in four times at bat.

The loss was the eighth straight for the Terriers.

Tigers' Joe Yosurak continues to lead the league pitchers with eight wins and no losses according to league statistics issued today to cover games up to and including Monday night. Alex Kvasnak of Waterloo faces his first threat to leadership of the league batting race. With 40 hits in 89 times at bat his average is .449. Joe Beckard of London has a .467 count but has been at bat only 30 times.

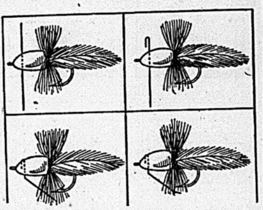
Times of Main Fly Hatches



By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables.)

Last spring, mid-April and early May, the weather was cold, windy and thoroughly miserable. Water temperatures and air temperatures both were below normal.

The fishermen who were hardy enough to brave icy waters and chilly winds found the fishing on a par with the weather—very bad indeed. Some of the die-hards were out from time to time but they had few trout to show for their trouble.

But the fishermen weren't the only ones who were affected by adverse temperatures. The little stream-bottom insects were the real sufferers.

On our brown-trout waters hereabouts I have kept a rather careful check on emergence dates for the past eleven years, jotting down the times of the main fly hatches.

Show Up At Same Time

Unless some natural catastrophe comes along, such as floods or freezing temperatures, these insect hatches show up on our streams on approximately the same day, year after year.

For instance, the Gray Quill can be expected from April 16th to April 18th. Then comes the Quill Gordon, any time from April 18th to April 22nd.

Immediately thereafter comes the whirling Dun or Dark Cahill. Then, usually on May 4th., comes the little yellow Caddis with the green egg sac, known on the Beaverkill as the Shad Fly, goodness knows why. Maybe it's because that is about the time that the first heavy shad runs used to show up in the Beaverkill and upper Delaware.

Hard on the heels of the Caddis comes the Red Quill and then the Hendrickson. And so it goes, on down through the early season until we hit mid-May doldrums around May 12th to May 25th when no important hatches are scheduled.

Perfect This Season

Our water levels were perfect this season. Given a little sunshine and some favorable temperatures and we should have had some wonderful fishing. But, as I say, the days were cold, windy and sunless.

The result was that the hatching schedule was knocked galley-west. The Gray Quills had no established hatch and they showed up, a few of them at a time, every day for the first month.

Such Quill Gordons as managed to survive mid-forty temperatures and hatch out anyway were scattered over four or five days so that the hatch was no benefit either to the fish or the fishermen.

The Hendricksons, for reasons best known to themselves, appeared during late April, as did a few of the Red Quills. The strangest mix-up, however, ocurred with the Caddis hatch.

These little fellows are nocturnal hatchers. Under cover of darkness they leave the stream bottom, and crawl out on the banks. The next day you will find them fluttering around in the bushes along shore.

The little males, which are about size 16 and dark buff in overall color tone, usually hatch out first. Then come the females, usually the following day, about size 14 or 13, with light buff wings and translucent, greenish body.

Thousands Appear

This year the males showed up all right, exactly on schedule — May 3rd. But search as I would for two days, I could not find one female in the crowd. During the major Solunar Periods the little fellows flew upstream, filling the air like a snow storm. Naturally I wondered what would happen to the Caddis hatches of future years after a stag party like that.

There followed two sunny but very windy days. Then on May 7th the females put in their appearance, thousands of them. Four of us searched the air and the bushes along the shore but not one male could we discover. I'm still wondering about the Caddis hatches of future years.

Unlike most fishermen, it is my job to be on the stream just about every day of the season, weather to the contrary notwithsanding. During normal seasons I know what to expect but last spring was more or less unpredictable.

Wanted To Be Sure

Evidently the flies were having a tough time of it. Only the hardy minority managed to hatch out at all. I was curious to find out exactly when the maximum hatching activity took place. I had an idea, but I wanted to be sure.

Fortunately, the major Solunar Periods during late April and early may came through during the middle of the day. Sure enough, the main hatches arrived right on schedule during the early stages of the major Solunar Periods.

On Thursday, May 4th., I drove up to a favorite stretch of trout water to see what would happen. The main "riffle" or "dry-fly run" is about two hundred yards long and it is a famous place for big trout.

I found a friend of mine busily dredging this stretch with a cast of wet flies. An hour of this had produced no trout for him, so I suggested he should come ashore and stop disturbing the water.

"What's the difference?" he replied. "There is no sign of a hatch on the water and the fish aren't moving. I want a trout or two to take home."

Party Soon Over

I told him that there would be a hatch when the Solunar period came in and no doubt the trout would rise to it if he'd stop scaring them to death with those wet flies.

We stood our rods in a handy bush and sat on a log to smoke and watch the water. Our position was too far from the stream to see any hatching insects but promptly at three fifteen I saw the first fish break the surface. The major period was scheduled for three twenty.

By the time we had picked up our rods, walked over to the water changed flies and taken our positions, the trout were rising actively.

For perhaps thirty or forty minutes the activity continued. Then, gradually the insects disappeared from the water and the fish returned to their resting stations. The party was over.

For a while, however, we had had fine fishing. I managed to land six trout, two of them very respectable fish which I took home. The other four were returned to the water.

My friend is not a stranger to the Solunar Tables. In fact, he has used them for years. This was the first time, however, that he had known about the concurrence of insect hatches and Solunar Periods.

From now on, he assures me, he will profit accordingly. He knows that in more ways than one it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

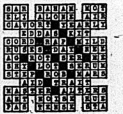
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself with a sattisfied expression and ma was looking at the ads in the paper, saying, Here's something that will appeal to you, William. It's got the place of honor in Hookbinder's page of week end specials. It's a regular 12 doller ash receiver, one of those tall ones that stand on the floor at your elbow and make your ashes dissappeer like magic through a trap door, only 7 dollers and 50 cents. Just imagine, a living room with no visible traces of ashes or cigar stumps, she said.

You better get me one, pop said. It would make smoking a delightful game instead of just an unalloyed pleasure, he said. and, ma said, there's only one drawback in the ointment. I mean I can't fit it into my budget of household expenses, because my money will go just so far and sometimes not even that far. So why dont you fit into your cigar budget, William? I mean if you just cut your cigar allowance in half for enough weeks, you'll automatically save enough to pay for the ash receever, and meanwhile you may get so accustomed to smoking less and less that you'll practically cure yourself of the entire habit, she said.

By gollies I think it would be werth the temporary sacrifice, pop said. After I get it all paid for and can afford to stop counting my cigars again, I'll never see any more reminders of how mutch I've been smoking, so I can just go ahead and puff the hours away with a cleer conscience and let the ashes dissappeer like the gentle summer rain, he said. and ma said, Goodness what a gassly thawt. Maybe we better just keep on letting your gilty ashes stare you accussingly in the face, she said.

Being the end of the subject.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop didn't go to his office today on account of being Satturday, and he was the last one down to breakfist for the same reason, and ma said, William, look at your face.

I wish I could, my dear, but that's where other people have the advantage of me, pop said. I often envy them, he said, and ma said, You dont need to envy them at the present moment. You can congradulate yourself on being spared the site, she said.

Oh, now I understand your sly allusion, pop said. You meen I didn't shave this morning. My dear, I'm not to be trusted with a razor. I'm not even to be trusted with shaving creem. I'll tell you what happened this morning, and I only hope this stubble on my face will hide my blushes. Well my dear, I squeezed a generous helping of creem into my brush and trustingly whirled it over my face with the expectation of seeing it blossom into a spirited lather. But it didn't. It just stayed put with goozy indifference, and the reason was, it was tooth paste. So you can easily understand that I lost all confidence in myself and didn't dare pursue the operation any ferther. I may never have the courage to shave again, he said.

Jimminies, pop, are you going to raise a beard?? I said, and ma said, He certainly is not, not even a Satturday beard. He's just looking for a transparent excuse to loll around the house all day like a tramp and a hobo, at the constant risk of unexpected visitors, she said.

My dear, if you dont believe my story, take a sniff at my face,

STIRLING

Stirling—At a special meeting of Stirling Village council held last Thursday morning the necessary action was taken to apply to the Ontario Municipal Board for permission to issue debentures for $130,000 to pay for the construction of the new public school.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker of St. Andrew's church and Mr. Victor Taylor of Burnbrae attended a meeting of Kingston Presbytery held at Amherst Island on last Tuesday. Mrs. Rowan Walker and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker accompanied Rev. Walker and enjoyed a family picnic sponsored by the ladies of the Amherst Island Church.

Mr. Murray Telford of the C.I.L. Co., was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club last Tuesday evening. Mr. Telford was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Phillips.

St. Paul's W. M. S.

The June meeting of St. Paul's Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society was held in the church parlors last Tuesday afternoon and followed the service prepared for Auxiliary in observance of the 25th anniversary of union.

Mrs. C. Macklin presided for the opening and business periods. The treasurer reported $88.85 in the treasury and $48.25 cleared at the silver jubilee tea and home baking sale.

Mrs. A. Armstrong, secretary of Christian Stewardships and Finance department, gave a short reading on "Money Given to the Church, where it goes and what it can do." Mrs. A. E. Wood, Community Friendship secretary, reported 14 calls made during the past month, Mrs. H. David,, Christian Citizenship and Temperance secretary, read an article from the June issue of the "Reader's Digest" on the responsibility of parents to their children.

Life Membership Certificates

Mrs. Macklin presented Life membership certificates to Mrs. H. C. Martin, who was made a life member by Mr. Martin and to Mrs. W. C. Pitman, who was thus honored by her daughters, Mrs. H. Wells, and Miss Grace Pitman.

Mrs. J. B. Thompson was in charge of the program. Mrs. George Pollard was called on to review the first five years of union of the work, at home and abroad from 1925 to 1930 years of re-adjustment, Mrs. R. Patterson told of the draught in the west, the 15 per cent reduction in salaries and maintenance although no missionary was recalled and the work in Newfoundland.

Mrs. Pollard told of the inauguration of the schools for leaders in each Presbyterial throughout the Dominion during the years between 1935 and 1940 and Mrs. Macklin gave a brief account of the critical but thrilling years from 1940 to 1945. Readjustment and re-building in the overseas fields from 1945 to 1950 were pictured for us by Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Macklin closed the review by a few remarks regarding the future of the work.

Commenting on this splendid review as outlined by the different members, Mrs. Thompson said. "In reviewing the work of the Society as a whole, ministering to the many and varied needs has been effective. It has carried forward essential work of long standing and it has initiated new undertakings when the situation demanded it at many points, in spite of tremendous difficulties inadequately faced, our fellowship of women, youth and children has brought a great contribution to the life and work of the United Church of Canada. St. Paul's Missionary Society was organized on August 3rd 1893.

Membership Growth

Mrs. H. C. Martin speaking on "Membership" pointed out the growth in membership of Auxiliary, Mission and Baby Bands, but regretted the lack of leadership for Mission Circle and affiliated C. G. I. T..

Mrs. Hageman gave a two minute talk on "Study and Reading." and Mrs. C. Wright told of the visiting of the sick and the shut-ins, the strangers and the new-comers of other nationalities, supply and relief work.

Mrs. W. Baker told of the advance made in the junior groups but left a question with her listeners, "Are we satisfied?"

Mrs. Martin spoke of the young people who have gone into full time church service since Union and expressed the wish that the needs and opportunities may be presented in such a way as to challenge the young people who may yet give themselves to the service.

Mrs. Macklin took the chair and led in the Litany of dedication to "Advance," the members of the Auxiliary making the responses.

After the meeting closed, the refreshment committee served birthday cake and a cup of tea.

Stirling—On Sunday morning last a number of members of the Belleville and Minerva chapter of the Eastern Star attended Divine service in St. Paul's United church, Stirling. Several members of the Masonic order were also in attendance and all sat in a body.

The pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker brought an appropriate message on this special occasion.

The Stirling Royal junior choir sat in a body and rendered a number, and Master Tommy Wells sang his initial solo. The senior choir also contributed an anthem.

Guests were in attendance from Toronto, Bethel, Wellmans, River Valley, Belleville and other points.

A beautiful star in variegated colors was arranged by Mesdames Duffin, Elliot and Hatton while flowers for the pedstal vases were the gift of Mrs. Beatty.

A rose in a silver vase adorned the pulpit.

As usual there was a capacity audience.

THURLOW TOWNSHIP GARBAGE COLLECTION

Due to the fact that a great number of families in the Suburban Sections of Thurlow Township have been receiving garbage collection service for some time, it was felt that the service should be made available to all the persons living in the districts surrounding the City of Belleville. Accordingly a Garbage Collection Area has been formed consisting of the following sections:

1. All the lots fronting on Herchimer Ave., also No. 2 Highway from the City boundary to and including the Smith Transport property; also East Bridge Street from the City boundary to Herchimer Ave.
2. The area bounded by the Moira River on the west, College St. on the south the C.N.R. track to Corbyville on the east and approximately the site of the proposed new Provincial No. 2 Highway on the north. This, of course, includes Hillcrest and Cannifton Road.
3. The Area known as College Hill, being bounded on the east by the Moira River, on the south by College St., on the west by Sidney St. and approximately the site of the proposed new Provincial No. 2 Highway on the north. This includes the areas known as the V.L.A., Gilbert St., Madoc Rd., Donald, North Park, North James streets, Orchard Drive, North Park Gdns., Valleyview Crescent, East Moira and the north side of College St.

Garbage Collection will be made once weekly on the following days:

MONDAY — Sections 1 and 2, including Herchimer, Hillcrest and Cannifton Rd.

TUESDAY — Section 3, including College Hill, V.L.A., etc.

Garbage should be placed in either metal or substantial wooden containers the total weight of which will not exceed 60 lbs. when filled, and should be placed on the roadside by 7.30 a.m. on the day collection is to be made in your area. This service is available to all owners and tenants of properties within the area as defined above and the cost of providing the service will be levied against the assessment of the area on a mill rate basis. Collections will begin under this arrangement on July 3rd, 1950.

Persons living outside the above Collection Area, including residents of CANNIFTON, who have been receiving the service may continue to do so. After July 3rd next, however, the monthly fee should be paid to Mr. Albert Bannister, Corbyville, Ont., Garbage Collector. All accounts owing for Garbage Collection up to June 30th, 1950, are to be paid directly to the Thurlow Township Office at Cannifton. Others living outside the Collection Area may also make arrangements to have their garbage collected either by contacting Mr. Bannister or the Township Office.

E. M. DAFOE,
Clerk.

Transport Tug Dragging Lake For Two Bodies

Smiths Falls, June 30 — (CP) — Crew of the Departmental Transport tug, Agnes Phillips, dragged Rideau Lake Thursday for the bodies of John R. Drew of Smiths Falls and William Lake of Portland, Ont.

Both men are believed to have drowned May 18 when their launch apparently exploded and burned near Horseshoe Bay on the lake, a few miles from the village of Portland, 70 miles southwest of Ottawa. The body of Dr. John Lewis of Youngstown, Ohio, was recovered two days later.

The tug Agnes Phillips is equipped with special weighted grappling hooks and 300 feet of heavy cable. The crew has been instructed to conduct a four-day search for the bodies.

Previous attempts have been foiled because of the great depth of the water, believed to be 600 feet in places.

Picton District Will be Used For TV Tests

Toronto, June 30 — (CP) — Sources of interference to television reception will be studied in Southern Ontario next month by Transport Department engineers, assisted by a group from the CBC's engineering division.

Two rural areas normally free of interference have been chosen for the survey. The party will start its study in the Wallaceburg area of Southwestern Ontario, where it has access to television programs from Detroit, and then move on to the Picton area of Southeastern Ontario, where programs from Rochester and Syracuse can be picked up.

After mobile receiving equipment is set up in a given spot, an undistorted image will be studied. Then interference from such electrical sources as commutator motors, razors, warming pads, fluorescent lights, automobiles and power lines will be introduced and the effect, if any, on the screen will be studied.

South Cemetery Mt. Pleasant Receives Spring Clean-Up

Rawdon, June 30.—On Wednesday evening last a bee was held at the South Cemetery Mount Pleasant with eleven in attendance. The grass had been mowed that afternoon by Mr. Clarence Scott, and at night the group were busy giving the grounds a presentable appearance for the summer. Each family gave a money donation to assist with the caretaking. Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mount Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bateman, Springbrook; Mr. Clifford Hubble and sons, Glen Ross; Messrs. Clarence Chard and Jack Chard, River Valley; Messrs. Chas. Hoard and Bob Hoard of Hoard's Station.

Mr. and Mrs. MacMullen have been in charge of the cemetery for the past three years and anyone interested in this sacred ground can send their donations to help along the work. Money donations were also received from Mr. Edward Montgomery of Foxboro and Mr. Percy Hubble of Stockdale.

The cemetery has no owner as it was a gift many years ago and a large number of the old Rawdon pioneers are laid to rest there. At present there are only a few families interested in its appearance.

THE CAMEO

By Virginia Teale

"I have heard from many people about this wonderful warm coast where one could work congenially among fellow artists." His narrow mustache curved genially, "like you and your husband. You were of the ballet, were you not?"

"Not exactly. I did a kind of interpretive dancing. American you know."

"But your mother? She was a Russian ballerina?"

"How did you know that?"

"Did you not tell me? Or our good Tom, perhaps?"

"Oh, I guess it was Tom."

Her mother's talents were the one thing she'd been able to throw back at him when he jeered at Nell's dancing years. He'd said, of course, that he didn't believe her story, but evidently that hadn't prevented him from raving to Yakov about it. Perversely, now, Nell felt cheated. She had looked forward to making quite a fabulous tale out of it.

Andrey interrupted her thought "that is the place just ahead, is it not? The Three Wishes Shop of Hagar Blair?".

Nell leaned forward, "yes."

As Yakov negotiated the turn into the driveway, Nell glanced through the big windows of the store.

"There's Hagar Blair," she said "and Miss Smith, the girl who works for her. And there's Arnold Pfieffer—that little worm Tom tried to speak to when we started out."

Yakov consulted his watch: "We are just in time. It is not quite 30 minutes past 5 o'clock."

Nell O'Neill preceded Andrey Yakov into the shop of Hagar Blair. The trio clustering around the cameo collection cabinet looked up with varying attitudes none of they cordial.

"Hello Hagar." Nell nodded to the other two: "Miss Smith, Arold." Reaching back she tugged Yakov forward by his sleeve. "This is Andrey Yakov, the distinguished Russian artist. He asked to meet you, Hagar, he's heard about your cameo collection and he wants to see it. He's a collector himself."

Arnold Pfieffer hastily transferred a glittering object from the glass top of the case to the dark velvet interior of a silver box.

Yakov was at his side instantly. "Ah! Another cameo!"

With a frantic gesture, Arnold snatched up the box. He fumbled and it fell to the floor, the cameo dropped out and slithered into a pool of light against the iron leg of an Italian torchiere.

There was a moment's awed silence then a general surge forward. Arnold reached the spot first, he dropped to his knees, gingerly picked up the pin and inspected it worriedly.

Nell, Hagar, Yakov and Stephanie peered over his shoulder.

From his crouching position, Arnold glanced up at their faces: "Nothing's broken," he announced and retrieved the box.

Hagar moved backward, stoop-

"May I look now, if you please?" Yakov extended his hand.

Arnold looked confused. With an almost mechanical gesture. Arnold placed the pin in And.cy Yakov's palm.

Stephanie stepped forward with a gesture of protest. Yakov's eyes challenged her, she paused, and he deliberately turned his back on her and bent over the jewel he held.

Nell grasped his elbow and whispered urgently: That's my cameo!"

Arnold scrambled to his feet. "I heard you, Nell O'Neill. You're lying—that cameo belongs to Martin Falter."

She whirled on him with a venomous glance: "It belongs to me!"

"But I am going to buy it," Hagar interrupted. "So, it's as good as mine."

When Yakov gave Nell an encouraging nod she drew herself up to her full height and said. "It's my cameo, I may sell it, or I may not. And, if I sell it, there are several interested buyers."

Arnold Pfieffer, with catlike swiftness, snatched the cameo out of Yakov's open hand. His eyes flashed defiance above his trembling chin and he darted over to stand behind Hagar.

She reached around and gave him the box.

Yakov's first movement was an involuntary one of pursuit, but he seemed to change his find and now stood quietly.

"We must decide who is the owner before we decide who will be the buyer. I am speaking frankly Miss Blair, when I say that I intend to be the buyer!"

"No!" The word came explosively from Stephanie.

Yakov turned to her with an attitude of polite interest: "The young lady says 'no?'

Hagar gave him a triumphant smirk. "The young lady says no. And the old lady says no. The cameo has been offered to me at a price. I have an option on it, you might say."

Andrey Yakov stared obliquely at Hagar Blair. "It appears, then, that we have three prospective buyers? You, myself and the young lady, Miss—" he paused, giving Stephanie a look of inquiry.

Stephanie's eyes locked with his as she supplied her name, "Smith."

He bowed. Hagar glanced at Stephanie significantly then back to Yakov. "You can narrow it to only two prospective buyers Stephanie and I are partners."

Arnold Pfieffer had been wrapping the silver box in the small square of tapestry. He slipped it into his pocket and was beginning to edge out from behind Hagar, one eye on the front door.

"Just a minute, Arnold!" Nell O'Neill challenged. "Where did you get my cameo?"

Arnold, his hand on the doorknob, stood glaring at her: "Don't yell at me! As far as I know, this is Martin Falter's property. If you must know, he's commissioned me to take it up to San Francisco for him."

"You'll do no such thing. That cameo's mine and I intend to have it." Nell took a step toward Arnold who shrank back against the door. "Give it to me now, and save yourself a lot of trouble."

Hagar walked over and confronted Nell. "Look here, how can you expect him to turn over the piece to you after Falter has told him he owns it? The thing to do is get hold of Falter and settle the right of owenrship—then we can start bargaining."

When Nell transferred her attention to Hagar, Arnold yanked open the front door. With escape assured, he turned on the rest:

"I'm sick and tired of this whole mess and I'm not going to get further involved in it. I'm going out right now and hand Martin back his wretched old pin. And then the pack of you can start playing hare-and-hounds with him. I'm through with the whole thing!" He closed the door behind him.

Hagar grinned at Yakov and Nell. "Arnold is the intense high-strung type."

Nell clinched her fists "that little rabbit! He probably stole my cameo from Martin."

Yakov assumed an expressed of pleased surprised. "Aha! But think how fortunate we are, Nellya! This suddenly brings to your mind where you have left your wonderful cameo—in the safe hands of your good friend, Mr. Falter. I shall buy it from you for a generous price."

"What do you call a generous price?" Hagar asked.

Yakov fingered his mustache. "Let us simply say I am prepared to better any offer you can make Miss Blair."

Noting that Stephanie had moved over to the window, Hagar whirled on Nell: Mrs. O'Neill, it looks like you've got yourself a golden goose, doesn't it? And it also looks like Mr. Yakov here has got a tight grip on the pinfeathers. But just for the heck of it, I'll make you an offer."

"How much?"

"First things first. Right now you haven't got the cameo. Little Arnold may have had a temperamental fit and chucked it in the ocean."

Stephanie hurried to Hagar and grasped her arm. "Don't say things like that! Please!"

Hagar gave Stephanie a slow wink.

Yakov's eyes flicked to Nell as he made a show of consulting his watch. "Nellya," he said carelessly, "is it not time to go to the place where Tom and his friend wait for us? Perhaps we can arrange for the four of us to have dinner at my studio."

After they had gone, Hagar walked to the window.

"It doesn't add up," she mumbled against her cupped fingers. "If Yakov wants that cameo bad enough to top any offer I'd make he must own a remarkable collection. And, if he has a collection of that class, why haven't I heard about it? It might be in Russia, of course. But I still ought to have seen some report of it. The only one I know of in that Godforsaken country is the one in the St. Petersburg Hermitage Museum. There is a possibility he might be buying for someone else, but I have a funny hunch that's not it."

She shifted around absentmindedly, crossed her feet in a fantastic way and leaned precariously on one elbow.

"No, Stephanie," she continued "I'm convinced he wasn't acting for someone else. Did you notice how excited he was when he first saw the cameo? That sort of, 'Hallelujah! The lost is found!' expression? And right after that, away from him, his eyes turned when Arnold snatched the cameo the color of steel and practically skewered the poor little guy."

Stephanie grasped Hagar's arm "Hagar please, let's not just talk and talk about it. Let's do some thing before Yakov gets the cameo! He must not get it, he must not.

Hagar stared interestedly at the fireworks provided by Stephanie's blue eyes. Today was the first time she'd seen Stephanie's reserve melt away, the first time the girl appeared to have any fire.

"It's important to me, Hagar. Terribly important."

Hagar leaned back against the cabinet. "Suppose you tell me why?"

Arrested Man Identifies Self As George Walker

Simcoe, June 30 — (CP) —The man charged with murder in the June 21 sten-gun slaying of two Norfolk county farmers and the robbery of a bank at Langton. Ont., appeared in magistrate's court Thursday and was remanded for one week. He was not asked to plead.

In reply to questions by magistrate H. P. Innes, the suspect identified himself as George Walker. When arested, after a four-day man-hunt, he gave his name as Frank West.

Walker, wearing grey trousers and a faded blue shirt open at the neck, appeared composed as he heard the charges read. He is charged with the murder of Arthur Lierman, 31, and William Goddyn, 24, and the $22,575 armed robbery of the Imperial Bank of Canada branch at Langton.

Earlier, police said that all but $800 of the stolen money was recovered.

W. E Ross, appearing on behalf of Walker, objected to 'prejudical' publicity which had appeared in "one of our large Ontario dailies."

He cited as prejudicial a story which said Walker had been picked out of a police line-up last Monday by nine of 10 witnesses to the bank robbery.

Toronto— An old-model car believed used by two acquaintances of murder suspect George Walker was found in a private garage in Windsor Thursday.

Provincial police said they are seeking to identify the two men. They were reported to have been seen with Walker in Windsor few days before the June 21 robbery of a bank in Langton and the murder of two men who tried to capture the bandit.

Police declined to identify the owner of the garage.
